La Grèce a voté pour son roi

(SUITE DE LA PREMIERE PAGE)

Ce que l'on dit à Londres dans l'entourage du roi

(De notre correspondant particulier.)
Londres, 4 Novembre (Téléph.)

Si Athènes enthousiaste réclame à grande voix son nouveau roi, Londres semble la vouloir laisser parler qu'à sa guise et le gardera probablement encore quelques jours.

Rien n'est en effet définitivement réglé pour le départ du bateau souverain.

Son entourage se maintient en effet dans l'attente. Ainsi, on ne s'ennuie pas à l'édification de membres du cabinet grec viendront chercher George II jusqu'à Londres où se rencontreront chez eux les ambassadeurs grecs qui le soleil rendra en avion jusqu'à Brindisi ou un autre port de la Méditerranée et de là par bateau jusqu'à la Grèce. Le Hellé escorté de plusieurs autres unités de la flotte grecque.

Au calme et aristocratique Brown's Hotel, on laisse deviner la présence d'une majesté.

Les valises de pied en haut et la franc-comte sont dans l'air. D'après ce qu'on discrètement les aînées et venues des personnes soupçonnées d'appartenir à la race paléolithique, redoutée en ce quartier des journalistes.

Trompant leur vigilance, j'ai réussi cependant à approcher la dévouée famille du prince George. Le prince Léopold, encore sous le coup de la joie d'avoir été le premier à annoncer au roi le résultat triomphal du plébiscite.

La joie du roi

— Sa Majesté était en train de dîner avec M. Petalas, directeur de l'Office du tourisme grec, lorsque l'on m'appaix la au téléphone pour me communiquer la nouvelle. Il a immédiatement raccroché dans le salon où il se trouvait et lorsque je lui annonçai l'éclatante victoire des royalistes, George II ne put contenir son émotion et se ria.

A la lecture de Grèce règne une animation extraordinaire. Tout d'abord, les journaux ont été « envoisés » à Sa Majesté ont été « aiguillés » sur la nouvelle légation « royale ». Les salles sont encombrées de bouquets de fleurs et des piles de télégrammes s'amoncellent sur toutes les tables. Sur les murs des portraits du roi et de la reine sont fixés, en habits, etc... s'installent partout à la place d'honneur.

Le ministre et les secrétaires qui se rendent à la tente interview n'ont qu'une déclaration commune à nous faire : « Nous sommes heureux, très heureux pour la Grèce ! et surtout pour le roi ! »

Quelques incidents ont eu lieu dans l'île de Crète

(De notre correspondant particulier.)

Grâce aux mesures préparées, prises par les autorités locales, les opérations du plébiscite, dans l'île de Crète, se sont déroulées dans un calme presque parfait. Cependant, quelques incidents sanglants, notamment à Retimo (3 blessés), à Galat, à La Canée (4 blessés). Dans ces différentes îles, les deux camps ont été, les officiers ont été contraints de voter.

Malgré l'abstention des républicains, les deux camps ont obtenu un succès net. A La Canée, 8.376 à Retimo ; 26.492 à Candie ; 2.246 à Lasithi.

Il faut noter que dans des élections normales, le nombre des électeurs s'élève habituellement à 70.000.

GREECE VOTES FOR A KING

How Monarch Heard News in London

98 p.c. MAJORITY

KING GEORGE OF GREECE sank back happily in his chair in a London hotel last night as a telegram was handed to him announcing that the people of Greece had voted solidly for his restoration. Many years of exile were over.

It is learned that the King will leave England about November 15. A special delegation of experts from Athens bringing the details of the voting early this morning, the majority in the King's favour was put as 98 per cent.

The King had just finished dinner with Major Dimitri Levdis, his equerry, and M. Petalakis, the Greek politician, when he received the news.

It was an anxious day for the King. He went for a long walk by himself after lunch. He was with a few friends in London streets alone, and then returned to his West End hotel.

KISSING BALLOT PAPERS

One after the other telephone messages and cablegrams were received from the Greek capital showing a solid vote for the restoration. As each message came the royalist delegation eagerly read the cablegram. His equerry was in continuous touch by telephone with Athens.

The latest figures given are by M. Schinas, Minister of the Interior. For Monarchy—799,151; For Republic—12,562.

The Venizelist press, it is stated, largely abstained from voting.

Reports reaching Alexandria, says Renter, state that the King has been passed making all criticism of the Royalists responsible.

In London yesterday M. Petalakis said: "The people are making their votes openly and kissing the Royalist ballot papers. Each Royalist vote is greeted with a cheer."

Greek King To Return

95% PLEBISCITE
MAJORITY

FOR MONARCHY..... 799,151
FOR REPUBLIC..... 12,562

As a result of the Greek plebiscite yesterday on the question of the monarchy, latest figures for which (cabled by Central News early to-day) are given above, King George is likely to leave London about November 15 for Athens.

The Government has sent a telegram to the King that the Hellenic people had voted freely and without constraint by a 95 per cent. majority in favour of his restoration.

From Our Own Correspondent
ATHENS, Nov. 3.

Plebiscite results include:

Nineteen sections of Achaea—Monarchs, 8,411; Republicans, 151.
Euboea—Monarchs, 10,105; Republicans, 158.

Zante—Monarchs, 3,642; Republicans, 6.

Ten sections of Arcadia—Monarchs, 2,484; Republicans, 24.

Contested quiet prevailed during the plebiscite.

General Kondylis' powers as Regent, which would have expired to-day, have been prolonged by decree till the King's arrival, when he intends to submit his resignation as Premier pro forma.

LONDON GREEKS PLEASED

Greek Royalists in London expressed general satisfaction yesterday with the progress of the referendum. Pending the official announcement of the result, King George declined to make any statement, but was obviously pleased as the figures were made known to him.

"Understand," writes our Diplomatic Correspondent, "that a Government delegation will arrive in London on Friday to extend a formal invitation to His Majesty to return to Greece and re-ascend the Throne. It will probably be composed of the following members: M. Baltsas, Vice-Governor Papagos, Minister of War; and M. Mavromichalis, Minister of Communications.

KING HEARS HIS FATE

Calm as People
Vote for His Return

By A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

HOUR after hour through the night a telephone bell rang incessantly in a room at the top of a West End hotel.

Each time it shrilled it brought good news to a guest at the hotel—a king waiting to know the wishes of his people.

For each telephone call told of the sweeping Royalist success in the Greek poll yesterday, and each call brought the while his people were deciding his future, the King remained outwardly calm. But his closest companion, his personal side-woman, was aware that beneath his master's composure there was a deep emotion.

Early to-day these plebiscite figures were telegraphed from Athens:—

For Monarchy..... 799,151
For Republic..... 12,562

The Government (according to Central News) sent a telegram to the King that the Hellenic people had voted freely and without constraint in favour of his restoration by a 95 per cent. majority.

But the expression of gratitude at the result of the voting the King made no comment.

Dines with Friends

Yesterday morning King George went for his usual walk, returning to his hotel for luncheon. Last night he dined with English friends.

Hour by hour two men in the office at the hotel jubilantly noted down each fresh result that came on the telephone.

They were the King's friends, the King's A.D.C., who has been faithful to his sovereign through all his troubles, and M. T. N. Petalakis, Greek Ambassador.

King George is expected to leave England on November 15. He will probably go to his father, King Constantine, now in exile in Sofia, and his grandmother, Queen Olga, are buried. A warship will take him from Italy to Greece.

LEADER FIGHTS

Issue is to be contested again. Mr. Gerald Laird, Liberal candidate for the County Council, who made a lion as Liberal candidate at the strength of Petersfield on the 11th Nov. 1934, has come as an eleven-hour truce to electors, who anticipated that Lord Wolmer (Cons.) would be elected unopposed. Lord Wolmer and all other parties in the constituency are expected to support Mr. Laird.

VOTES HER KING TO HIS THRONE

ROUND-UP ON EVE OF THE POLL

Crete, once the stronghold of Venizelos, the Liberal Republican who fled into exile when the Greek revolt was crushed, is declar to have returned. 70 per cent majority for the King.

On Saturday night—eve of the plebiscite, the police rounded-up both Venizelists and Communists throughout the country.

Many of those arrested are to be deported (declares the Central News) on the ground that they were attempting to circulate "revolutionary manifestoes."

REGENT SPEAKS OF TRIUMPH

General Kondylis, the man who more than any other was responsible for crushing the Venizelist rebellion, made this statement (quoted by Reuter) on the plebiscite last night:

"The declaration of the popular will in favour of restoration was foreseen, but the results have exceeded all expectations."

The General is now Premier of Greece and also Regent.

The King of the Hellenes is a great-grandson of Queen Victoria, and he married a great-grand-daughter of the same Queen, Princess Helene of Rumaria.

He is a great-nephew of Queen Alexandra, who became the Queen Constantine and Prince Nicolas were brothers, so King George is a first cousin of Princess Marina, the Duchess of Kent.

KING OF THE HELLENES
THE MAN AND HIS TASK

From a Correspondent

With the departure of the King of the Hellenes this week to resume his reign in Greece after an exile of 12 years, the world has been given a familiar figure. Since 1924 he had spent the better part of every year in this country, and had been in England in constant residence except for brief journeys abroad, and a long visit to India last summer. He is the son of King George V, Queen Mary, and grandson of Queen Victoria. His brother, King George of Greece, as his Majesty was officially described during his exile, was effectively King of Greece from 1924 to 1935, when he abdicated in favour of his son, the Royal Box at Ascot.

During the whole of his residence in this country he was careful never to embarrass his hosts by appearing in uniform and only on the occasion of the wedding of his son in 1934 did he wear King's Royal War uniform in this country. That his title was "King" was officially given as a Greek General at the Duke of York's birthday, but his break was only appropriate, as by then he had been King of Greece again, and again! and was once more a reigning Sovereign. In 1934, when he returned to the members of the Greek colony in London, where he had been a frequent visitor, many Republicans markedly wavered in their allegiance to him. This was particularly so on his return journey from India in April of this year, when manifestations of affection of a very large number of Greeks from Egypt and from Greece caused many to wonder whether this was an early indication of the coming restoration.

MILITARY SERVICE.

The King was born a Major and is a soldier. For a short time in 1909 he was attached to the 1st Battalion of the Prussian Guards in Berlin. When the First Balkan War broke out he joined the 1st Dragoon Guards, serving in the 1st Greek Infantry Battalion, which was entirely given to his father; then the Diadochos (General of Sparta), during the attacks on Vardar Macedonia, and in 1912, when his father, King Constantine I, was assassinated in Thessaloniki, he became a Major in the 1st Dragoon Guards. In 1913 he joined the 1st Dragoon Guards, and in 1915, held the rank of major of an armoured regiment in the Greek National Navy. In that year the Allies deposed King Constantine and, as the French maintained that he was still King, the Diadoch George again saw service as a colonel. He had been a member of the Committee formed by his father when defeat at the hands of the Allies and the French was imminent. A Revolutionary Committee insisted on the deposition of King Constantine, and the Diadoch became King on September 28, 1922, under the shadow of disaster.

A YEAR AS KING.

King George soon found that he was to be King in name only. He was treated and handled like a child by the Revolutionary Committee, which carried its own policy into effect without in any way consulting him. He was compelled to witness a blunder of shooting his political opponents, and was compelled to witness the coup d'etat which took a decade to subdue. In October, 1923, he was compelled by his Prime Minister, M. Krokidas, a former Civil servant, who was the one person in Greece who could be relied upon by the Revolutionary Committee to know what was happening in the country, to accept the aid of M. Krokidas and put General Gennatas, the King's brother, in command. The King had no choice in the matter, whereas Gennatas was ignorant of the progress of affairs and was controlled mainly by his Ministers. It was, moreover, those Ministers who were compelled to step up to protect themselves but allowed the King to remain a virtual prisoner of Monarchs. The abortive revolution of General Metaxas in October, 1923, against the Revolutionary Committee, was used as a weapon by the Republicans against the King, and he was compelled to leave the country after it had started. At last, after further negotiations by Revolutionary officers, General Gennatas, Prime Minister, advised his Sovereign to leave Greece, and the King, who had been in the country during his second journey into exile, left for M.

King George soon found an advantage of living for some years past in a country where the political situation was such that the democratic Constitution had been undisturbed; but it should be remembered that the King, as King of the Hellenes, a Sovereign may be the alone cannot exercise the functions of State, and must depend on him. It is, therefore, not uninteresting to observe that the signing of the Constitution of 1924 in Greece, which had not been far from snatched.

During the 19th century that King George I, the King's grandfather, was on the throne there were four Prime Ministers: King Constantine, in four different reigns, and his son, King Alexander, that followed. Monarch's first and second depositions, rather more than five years, there were only two Prime Ministers, and both had two Prime Ministers, but can hardly be called Prime Ministers, as they were appointed. Between December, 1923, and August, 1924, there were 100 Administrations, as well as 1000 Dictatorships, one of which lasted for 14 months under General Plastiras, and another for 12 hours under General Plastiras.

With the departure of the King of the Hellenes this week to resume his reign in Greece after an exile of 12 years London society loses a familiar figure. Since 1924 he had spent the better part of every year in this country, and from 1929 onwards has been in constant residence except for brief journeys abroad and a long visit to India last winter. As a great-great-grandson of Queen Victoria and grandson of Queen Alexandra's favourite brother, King George of Greece, as his Majesty was officially described during his exile, was often at Cunard's guest at Balmoral or in the Royal Box at Ascot.

During this period the exiled King, who is devoted to sport, made many friends in this country—he has been described as "very gregarious"—and took pleasure in meeting people, in dining out, and in attending learned and other gatherings—he once spoke in a debate at the Oxford Union.

During the whole of his residence here the King was born in 1880 and was brought up both as a sailor and as a soldier. For a short time in 1909 he was attached to the 1st Regiment of his uncle's Prussian Guard in Berlin. When the First Balkan War broke out in 1912 King George was serving as colonel-in-chief to his Infantry and acted as chief of staff to his father, then the Archduch Constantine, Duke of Sparta, during the attacks on Yannina and at Salonika. When his grandfather, King George I, was assassinated in March, 1913, he became Diadoch and in

CONDITIONS.

1.—The Company or any Telegraph Company or Government Telegraph Administration, by whom this telegram is or would in the ordinary course of the telegraphic service be forwarded, may decline to forward such telegram although it has been received for that purpose; but in such case the amount paid for transmission shall be paid to the sender at his request.

2.—Neither the Company nor any Telegraph Company or Government Telegraph Administration, by whom this telegram is or would in the ordinary course of the telegraphic service be forwarded, nor any of their respective officers or servants shall be liable or responsible for any loss or damage arising or resulting from non-transmission or non-delivery of the telegram, or delay, error, or omission in the transmission or delivery thereof, through whatever cause such non-transmission, non-delivery, delay, error, or omission shall have occurred even though occasioned by the neglect or default of such Company or Administration or any officer or servant in their employ.

3.—The Company only receives this telegram for transmission in accordance with the provisions of the Regulations made pursuant to the Post Office Acts, and the provisions of such Regulations shall be deemed to be binding not only between the sender and the Company, but between the sender and any Telegraph Company or Government Telegraph Administration by whom this telegram is or would in the ordinary course of the telegraphic service be forwarded.

4.—The Company operates to various countries both cable and wireless services at equal rates of charge, and in these cases the Company reserves the right to route the message to the best advantage, either the cable or the wireless service, unless the sender has marked the telegram "via cable" or "via wireless" or with the name of a particular route denoting transmission specifically by cable or by wireless.

NOTE: If numbers written in figures, commercial marks or abbreviated expressions are used in the text of reduced rate plain language telegrams, the number of such words or groups, reckoned in accordance with the rules for charging, must not exceed one third of the number of chargeable words in the text, including the signatures.

Reduced rate plain language telegrams are subject to special Regulations regarding delay in transmission and delivery. Full information respecting deferred and letter telegrams may be obtained at any of the Company's Branches. As these telegrams are subject to special arrangements they cannot be accepted for all destinations.

LC = Deferred telegram.

DLT = Daily Letter telegram.

NLT = Night Letter telegram.

ELT = European Letter telegram.

CONDITIONS.

1.—The Company or any Telegraph Company or Government Telegraph Administration, by whom this telegram is or would in the ordinary course of the telegraphic service be forwarded, may decline to forward such telegram although it has been received for that purpose; but in such case the amount paid therefor will be refunded to the sender at his request.

2.—Neither the Company nor any Telegraph Company or Government Telegraph Administration, by whom this telegram is or would in the ordinary course of the telegraphic service be forwarded, nor any other party concerned shall be liable to make compensation for any loss, injury or damage arising or resulting from non-transmission or non-delivery of the telegram, or for error or omission, or delay in the transmission or delivery thereof, through whatever cause such non-transmission, non-delivery, delay, error, or omission shall have occurred even though occasioned by the neglect or default of such Company or Administration or any officer or servant in their employ.

3.—The Company only receives this telegram for transmission in accordance with the provisions of the Regulations made pursuant to the Telegraph Acts, and the provisions of such Regulations shall be deemed to be binding not only between the sender and the Company, but between the sender and any Telegraph Company or Government Telegraph Administration by whom this telegram is or would in the ordinary course of the telegraphic service be forwarded.

4.—The Company operates to various countries both cable and wireless services at equal rates of charge, and in these cases the Company reserves the right to use at its discretion, to the best advantage, either the cable or the wireless route under which the Company has marked the original message "via cable" or "via wireless," or with the name of a particular route denoting transmission specifically by cable or by wireless.

NOTE.—If numbers written in figures, commercial marks or abbreviated expressions are used in the text of reduced rate plain language telegrams, the number of such words or groups, reckoned in accordance with the rules for charging, must not exceed one third of the number of chargeable words in the text, including the signature.

Reduced rate plain language telegrams are subject to special Regulations regarding delay in transmission and delivery. Full information respecting deferred and other charges will be obtainable at any of the Company's Branches. CONDITIONS.

1.—The Company or any Telegraph Company or Government Telegraph Administration, by whom this telegram is or would in the ordinary course of the telegraphic service be forwarded, may decline to forward such telegram although it has been received for that purpose, but in such case the amount paid for transmission will be refunded to the sender at the rate of

2.—Neither the Company nor any Telegraph Company, or Government Telegraph Administration, by whom this telegram is or would in the ordinary course of the telegraphic service be forwarded, nor any of their respective officers or servants shall be liable to make compensation for any loss, injury or damage sustained by reason of non-transmission or non-delivery of the telegram, or delay, or error, or omission in transmission or delivery thereof, through whatever cause such non-transmission, non-delivery, delay, error, or omission shall have occurred even though occasioned by the neglect or default of such Company or Administration or any officer or servant in their employ.

3.—The Company only receives this telegram for transmission in accordance with the provisions of the Regulations made pursuant to the Telegraph Acts, and the provisions of such Regulations shall be deemed to be binding not only between the sender and the Company, but between the sender and any Telegraph Company or Government Telegraph Administration by whom this telegram is or would in the ordinary course of the telegraphic service be forwarded.

4.—The Company operates to various countries both cable and wireless services at equal rates of charge, and in these cases the Company reserves the right to use at its discretion, to the best advantage, either the cable or the wireless service, unless the sender has marked the original message "via cable" or "via wireless," or with the name of a particular route denoting transmission specifically by cable or by wireless.

NOTE.—If numbers written in figures, commercial marks or abbreviated expressions are used in the text of reduced rate plain language telegrams, the number of such words or groups, reckoned in accordance with the rules for charging, must not exceed one third of the number of the words in the text, including the signature.

Reduced rate plain language telegrams are subject to special Regulations regarding delay in transmission and delivery. Full information respecting deferred and letter telegrams may be obtained at any of the Company's Branches. As these telegrams are subject to special arrangements they cannot be accepted for all destinations.

LDL = Deferred telegram.

CABLE AND WIRELESS LIMITED.

CONDITIONS.

1.—The Company or any Telegraph Company or Government Telegraph Administration, by whom this telegram is or would in the ordinary course of the telegraphic service be forwarded, may decline to forward such telegram although it has been received for that purpose, but in such case the amount paid for transmission will be refunded to the sender at his request.

2.—Neither the Company nor any Telegraph Company, or Government Telegraph Administration, by whom this telegram is or would in the ordinary course of the telegraphic service be forwarded, nor any of their respective officers or servants shall be liable to make compensation for any loss, injury or damage arising or resulting from non-transmission or non-delivery of the telegram, or delay, or error, or omission in the transmission or delivery thereof, through whatever cause such non-transmission, non-delivery, delay, error, or omission shall have occurred even though occasioned by the neglect or default of such Company or Administration or any officer or servant in their employ.

3.—The Company only receives this telegram for transmission in accordance with the provisions of the Regulations made pursuant to the Telegraph Act, and the provisions of such Regulations shall be deemed to be binding not only between the sender and the Company, but between the Company and the Government Telegraph Administration by whom this telegram is or would in the ordinary course of the telegraphic service be forwarded.

4.—The Company operates to various countries both cable and wireless services at equal rates of charge, and in these cases the Company reserves the right to use, at its discretion, the best advantage, either the cable or the wireless service, unless the sender has marked the original message "via cable" or "via wireless," or with the name of a particular route denoting transmission specifically by cable or by wireless.

NOTE.—If numbers written in figures, commercial marks or abbreviated expressions are used in the text of reduced rate plain language telegrams, the number of such words or groups reckoned in accordance with the rules for charging, must not exceed one third of the number of words in the message preceding the signature.

Reduced rate plain language telegrams are subject to special Regulations regarding delay in transmission and delivery. Full information respecting deferred and letter telegrams may be obtained at any of the Company's Branches. As these telegrams are subject to special arrangements they cannot be accepted for all destinations.

George Of Greece Goes Home Alone

REFUSES ESCORT OF KONDYLIS ENVOYS

"Daily Express" Special Representative.

KING OF GREECE stood on the deck of a Channel steamer yesterday and looked back at his last on England, his sanctuary in exile. He was returning to his throne.

As he gazed, two bitterly disappointed men were travelling across Europe.

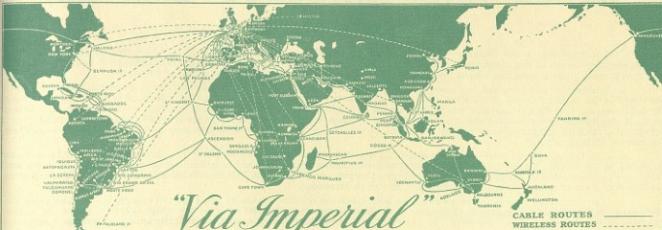

General Kondylis, the Regent, had sent them—M. Balanos, Vice-President of the Assembly, and General Papagos, representative of the army—to meet the King.

King George refused their escort. In effect, he said: "I return, alone, to answer the call of the people of Greece, who have invited me, not to a party, but to a nation."

The party which saw the King off at Victoria Station included the Prince of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of York, the Duke of Kent and a host of English friends.

1.—The Company or any Telegraph Company or Government Telegraph Administration, by whom this telegram is or would in the ordinary course of the telegraphic service be forwarded, may decline to forward such telegram although it has been received for that purpose ; but in such case the amount paid for transmission will be refunded to the sender at his request.

2.—Neither the Company nor any Telegraph Company, or Government Telegraph Administration, by whom this telegram is or would in the ordinary course of the telegraphic service be forwarded, nor any of their respective officers or servants shall be liable to make compensation for any loss, injury or damage arising or resulting from non-transmission or non-delivery of the telegram, or delay, or error, or omission in the transmission or delivery thereof, though whatever cause the non-transmission, non-delivery, delay, error, or omission shall have arisen even though occasioned by the neglect or default of such Company or Administration or any officer or servant in their employ.

3.—The Company only receives this telegram for transmission in accordance with the provisions of the Regulations made pursuant to the Telegraph Acts, and the provisions of such Regulation shall be deemed to be binding not only between the sender and the Company but also between the Company and the Telegraph Company or Government Telegraph Administration by whom this telegram is or would in the ordinary course of the telegraphic service be forwarded.

4.—The Company operates to various countries both cable and wireless services at equal rates of charge, and in these cases the Company reserves the right to use at its discretion, to the best advantage, either the cable or the wireless service, unless the sender has marked the original message "via cable" or "via wireless," or with the name of a particular route denoting transmission specifically by cable or by wireless.

NOTE.— numbers written in figures, commercial marks or abbreviations are used in the text of reduced rate plain language telegrams, the number of such words or groups, reckoned in accordance with the rules for charging, must not exceed one third of the number of chargeable words in the text, including the signature.

Reduced rate plain language telegrams are subject to special Regulations regarding delay in transmission and delivery. Full information respecting deferred and letter telegrams may be obtained at any of the Company's Branches. As these telegrams are subject to special arrangements they cannot be accepted for all destinations.

CABLE AND WIRELESS LIMITED.

CONDITIONS.

1.—The Company or any Telegraph Company or Government Telegraph Administration, by whom this telegram is or would in the ordinary course of the telegraphic service be forwarded, may decline to forward such telegram although it has been received for that purpose; but in such case the amount paid for transmission will be refunded to the sender at his request.

2.—Neither the Company nor any Telegraph Company, or Government Telegraph Administration, by whom this telegram is or would in the ordinary course of the telegraphic service be forwarded, nor any of their respective officers or servants shall be liable to make compensation for any loss, injury or damage arising from any negligence or carelessness in the delivery of the telegram or delay, or error, or omission, or otherwise than through whatever cause such non-transmission, non-delivery, delay, error, or omission shall have occurred even though occasioned by the neglect or default of such Company or Administration or any officer or servant in their employ.

3.—The Company only receives this telegram for transmission in accordance with the provisions of the Regulations made pursuant to the Telegraph Acts and the provisions of such Regulations shall be deemed to be binding not only between the sender and the Company, but between the sender and any Telegraph Company or Government Telegraph Administration by whom this telegram is or would in the ordinary course of the telegraphic service be forwarded.

4.—The Company operates to various countries both cable and wireless services at equal rates of charge, and in these cases the Company reserves the right to use at its discretion, to the best advantage, either the cable or the wireless service, unless the sender has specified the original message "via cable" or "via wireless," or with the name of a particular route denoting transmission specifically by cable, or by wireless.

NOTE:—If numbers written in figures, commercial marks or abbreviated expressions are used in the text of reduced rate plain language telegrams, the number of such words or groups, reckoned in accordance with the rules for charging, must not exceed one third of the number of chargeable words in the text, including the signature.

Reduced rate plain language telegrams are subject to special Regulations regarding delay in transmission and delivery. Full information respecting deferred and letter telegrams may be obtained at any of the Company's Branches. As these telegrams are subject to special arrangements they cannot be accepted for all destinations.

DLT = Deferred telegram.
