TO THE AMERICAN PUBLIC

. . . whose generosity made possible the successful ventures of our teams in the Games at Chicago, Squaw Valley, and Rome, and . . .

TO THE AMERICAN ATHLETES

. . . in whose competitive achievements and excellent conduct as representative citizens, our nation takes great pride . . .

. . . this Olympic Book is respectfully dedicated.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The United States Olympic Association gratefully expresses its thanks to Sports Illustrated for contributing to this volume photographs by John G. Zimmerman, Marvin Newman, and Jerry Cooke.

Special thanks also are due for photographs contributed by the Associated Press, United Press International, the American Dairy Association, the United States Information Agency, the Chicago Tribune, the Chicago Daily News, the Chicago Sun-Times, and the Chicago American.

Acknowledgment also is due Murray Rose and Don Schiffer of New York City for their editorial assistance and counselling, to Robert H. Heller of New Haven, Conn., for his art direction, and to Walter J. Meives, University of Wisconsin, who served as the official photographer for the U. S. Pan American and Olympic Teams.

THE UNITED STATES OLYMPIC ASSOCIATION

IT IS THE United States Olympic Association, operative since 1921 and incorporated by act of Congress in 1950, that carries out the original purpose of developing creditable and sportsmanlike participation and representation of the United States in the Olympic Games and the Pan American Games. More specifically, the objects and purposes are:

(1) to arouse and maintain the interest of the people of the United States in, and to obtain their support of, creditable and sportsmanlike participation and representation of the United States in the Olympic Games and the Pan American Games;

(2) to stimulate the interest of the people, particularly of the youth, of the United States, in healthful, physical, moral and cultural education through sportsmanlike participation in competitions in accordance with amateur rules;

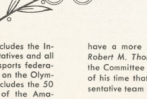

(3) to exercise exclusive jurisdiction, either directly or through its constituent members or committees, over all matters pertaining to the participation of the United States in the Olympic Games and in the Pan American Games, including the representation of the United States in such Games, and over the organization of the Olympic Games and the Pan American Games when celebrated in the United States;

(4) to select and obtain for the United States the most competent amateur representation possible in the competitions and events of the Olympic Games and of the Pan American Games;

(5) to maintain the highest ideals of amateurism and to promote general interest therein, particularly in connection with the Olympic Games and the Pan American Games;

(6) to instill and develop in the youth of America the qualities of courage, self-reliance, honesty, tolerance, and like virtues; and

(7) to promote and encourage the physical, moral, and cultural education of the youth of the United States to the end that their health, patriotism, character, and good citizenship may be fully developed.

WHAT IS THE MEMBERSHIP OF THE USOA ?

THE MEMBERSHIP of the USOA today includes the International Olympic Committee representatives and all United States members of the international sports federations whose sports are on the Olympic program. It also includes the 50 regional associations of the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU); the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) representing the great majority of the nation's colleges and conferences; and scores of other national organizations of a patriotic, sport, educational, cultural, civic, or benevolent character.

WHAT IS THE BACKGROUND OF THE USOA ?

WHEN THE OLYMPIC GAMES were revived in 1896, the task of arousing American interest and developing the participation of American athletes at the Games in Athens was accepted by that great champion of amateur athletes, James E. Sullivan. With the encouragement and approval of the IOC, Sullivan organized an American Olympic Committee. He invited to become members those who were prominent as advocates, governors, or financial supporters of amateur sports in the U. S. A. He appointed a president, a vice-president, and a treasurer; he himself continuing as secretary of the Committee until his death in 1914. With this type of organization, the American Olympic Committee functioned until 1921, having neither constitution, by-laws, or rules of procedure.

In 1912, after the Games of the Vth Olympiad had been awarded to Stockholm, it was deemed necessary to have a more substantial committee financially and Col. Robert M. Thompson accepted the presidency, giving to the Committee so largely of his fortune and so generously of his time that he made possible the sending of a representative team to Stockholm.

During the next six years, Olympic activities were forced into the background because of World War I. However, efforts were made to have at least some of the members of the American Olympic Committee represent those national organizations which, like the AAU, govern the participation in sports upon the Olympic program.

This thinking led the American Olympic Committee, meeting in December after the 1920 Games at Antwerp, to appoint a Committee on Reorganization, thus laying the foundation for a more democratic form of organization which would embrace all national bodies devoted to amateur sport.

Consequently on November 28, 1921, the American Olympic Association came into being. A constitution, and by-laws, were adopted and Col. Thompson named as Association president. Succeeding presidents were William C. Prout (1926-1928), Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur (1928-1932), Avery Brundage (1932-1952) and the present incumbent, Kenneth L. "Tug" Wilson who first was elected in 1952.

In 1940, the title of the Association was changed to that of United States of America Sports Federation. In 1945 it had been changed again to United States Olympic Association. The USOA was incorporated on September 21, 1950 when the 81st Congress passed Public Law 805.

U. S. OLYMPIC ASSOCIATION

WHAT IS THE WORKING ARM OF THE USOA ?

THE OFFICIAL working arm of the USOA is the United States Olympic Committee, charged with the responsibility of American participation in the Olympic and Pan American Games.

THE U. S. OLYMPIC COMMITTEE is organized at the Quadrennial meeting of the Association and it serves for the next forthcoming Pan American Games and Olympic Games. It consists of the individual members of the Association and the representatives of the member organizations to the Olympic Association. It is supplemented by ten (10) members-at-large and by one representative elected from each Games Committee plus any members of the Executive Board not otherwise included. The U. S. Olympic Committee as thus constituted is the governing body with full power and responsibility in all matters connected with the organization, operation, administration, and representation of the United States in the Pan American Games and the Olympic Games. The Olympic Committee appoints the Games Committees.

PURPOSE AND POWERS OF THE USOC

After the Games are completed and the United States representatives and teams have disbanded, the Committee prepares a detailed report of the United States participation in the Games, and shortly thereafter the Committee is dissolved. The four officers of the Association hold corresponding offices on the Committee. President Dwight D. Eisenhower is honorary president of the 1960 Committee, and Secretaries John Foster Dulles and Neil H. McElroy are honorary vice presidents.

THE UNITED STATES Olympic Committee, formed as described above by the United States Olympic Association, is the official organization in charge of American participation in the Olympic Games and is recognized as such by the International Olympic Committee.

OFFICIAL AND RECOGNIZED STATUS OF THE USOC

Without the U. S. Olympic Committee, this country could not participate in the Games, as this Committee is the only agency authorized to receive and forward entries and accept the invitation for this country to participate in the Games.

THE EXECUTIVE BOARD of the Olympic Committee consists of twenty-five (25) members—the four officers of the U. S. Olympic Committee; the Secretary-Treasurer of the AAU; the Executive Director of the NCAA, and nineteen (19) others elected by the members of the U. S. Olympic Committee. Seven of these nineteen represent the AAU, seven represent the NCAA, and five represent the other member organizations of the Olympic Association; at least one of the latter must represent a winter sport, and one must represent the Armed Forces.

EXECUTIVE BOARD OF THE USOC

The Executive Board conducts the business of the Olympic Committee during the intervals between its meetings. It appoints all special committees of the Olympic Committee and designates the number of athletes, managers, coaches, etc., to be selected by each Games Committee. It is responsible for the proper supervision of U. S. teams during the periods of the Olympic and Pan American Games and during the trips to and from the Games.

AT THE TIME the United States Olympic Committee is organized, a committee for each game or competition on the forthcoming Olympic Games and/or Pan American Games program is likewise appointed. These individual games committees are charged with the responsibility of arranging for the selection of the Olympic athletes in their respective sports, as well as coaching and managerial personnel. The committees also are responsible, insofar as possible, for raising the funds to send their teams to the Games. (For more details on games committees, turn to page 17 under heading, "How Are The U. S. Olympic Teams Chosen?")

ORGANIZATION OF GAMES COMMITTEES FOR THE USOC

MANY OTHER subcommittees of the United States Olympic Committee are also established to supervise its various activities, such as its finance committee and a large number of local finance subcommittees, transportation, housing, food, administration, supplies and equipment, medical and training services, etc.

OTHER SUB-COMMITTEES

NEITHER THE Association nor the Committee disseminates any partisan propaganda, engages in any lobbying, or in any other way attempts to influence legislation. Likewise, the Association and Committee are completely non-profit organizations, no part of the earnings (if any) of which inures to the private benefit of the members or of any other persons. This fact is undisputed and has been specifically recognized.

ABSENCE OF PROPAGANDA AND PROFITS

VIRTUALLY ALL THE WORK for the U. S. Olympic Association and Committee is done purely on a voluntary basis. All of the officers and executives serve without remuneration. Only the small staff at the national headquarters in New York is paid.

OFFICERS AND PARTICIPANTS ARE UNPAID

The heads of all committees, the coaches, the participants, the officials, the team managers, the trainers, and all persons having any connection with the Games, all serve without pay.

THE ASSOCIATION AND COMMITTEE are financed from the following sources:

Dues paid to the Association by its members constitute a small portion of the total receipts. These dues are used primarily for covering the overhead and administration expenses of the Association, which are annually recurring charges even when no Games are in progress or preparation.

FINANCING OF USOA AND USOC: RECEIPTS

Most of the receipts to finance the work of the Association and Committee come from conducting tryouts for the Olympic teams, from admissions, from special sporting activities and benefits put on in whole or in part to raise money for the Committee and from contributions from colleges and physical education and athletic organizations. A substantial sum is also raised by voluntary contributions in connection with the purchase of admission tickets at various athletic or theatrical events, where a small amount, represented often by a stub attached to the admission ticket, may be paid as a contribution to the Olympic fund at the time of purchasing the admission ticket.

The Association and Committee have no endowments whatever. The majority of the receipts are earmarked for the use of a particular games committee conducting a particular competition, such as track and field, weight lifting, wrestling, or whatever. A large portion of the receipts (and virtually all those obtained other than from direct contributions) comes from organizations rather than individuals. Other sums are contributed by colleges, college alumni and alumni associations, athletic associations and federations, collegiate and intercollegiate athletic associations, and Army and Navy posts.

THE MONEY thus taken in is expended entirely in financing this country's participation in the Olympic (and Pan American) Games. This covers all items of expense, of transportation to and from the Games by all participants, coaches, managers, trainers, and official party personnel; housing and feeding of all these individuals at the site of the Games, purchase of all uniforms and sporting equipment, laundry, baggage, express, etc.

FINANCING OF USOA AND USOC: DISBURSEMENTS

A figure of $1,500,000 was established by the USOC executive board as the amount needed to finance U. S. participation in the 1959 Pan American Games at Chicago, the 1960 Winter Olympic Games at Squaw Valley, and the 1960 Olympic Games at Rome. The figure also included the estimated expense of a pre-games training period for U. S. Olympic Teams following their selection.

For the 1959 Pan American Games, the United States Olympic Committee sent 507 persons, including contestants, team managers, team coaches, trainers, doctors, nurses, and administrative personnel to Chicago. To Squaw Valley for the 1960 Olympic Winter Games, the USOC sent 127 persons. The official contingent for the 1960 Olympic Games at Rome was 405.

Just as most of the receipts are earmarked, so also the disbursements are classified on committees. Thus, there is a separate financial statement published covering receipts and disbursements in connection with each group of competitions on the program. All the expenses in connection with United States participation in the Olympic Games, is borne by the United States Olympic Association and Committee.

The USOC does not employ professional fund raisers nor does it pay commission to anyone on funds raised.

AT EACH QUADRENNIAL meeting of the U. S. Olympic Association, a Games Committee is elected for each sport on the Olympic and/or Pan American programs. The membership of these committees varies from seven to 22 in number and is composed as follows: (a) Representatives of the United States members of the International Federations whose sports are on the Olympic and/or Pan American programs. These are: The Amateur Athletic Union of the United States (the U. S. member of the International Federations governing basketball, bobsledding, boxing, gymnastics, swimming, diving, and water polo, track and field, weightlifting, and wrestling), Amateur Bicycle League of America, Amateur Fencers League of America, Amateur Skating Union of the United States (speed skating), Amateur Hockey Association of the United States (ice hockey), American Canoe Association, American Horse Shows Association (equestrian), Field Hockey Association of America, National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, National Rifle Association, National Ski Association of America, Inc., North American Yacht Racing Union, United States Figure Skating Association, United States Modern Pentathlon Association (modern pentathlon and biathlon), United States Revolver Association, United States Soccer Football Association, Inc., and the United States Volleyball Association. (b) Representatives of the National Collegiate Athletic Association for the sports in which the NCAA holds nationwide competition, and (c) representatives of the Armed Forces. There are 33 such committees with a total personnel of 404.

HOW ARE THE U. S. OLYMPIC TEAMS CHOSEN ?

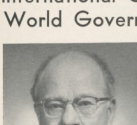

Members of these committees must be United States citizens. They serve without pay and defray their own expenses to all meetings. For this reason they do not always attend meetings, so each member is given an opportunity to vote on every question, resorting to a mail vote if necessary. No proxies are permitted, although members may have observers at meetings.

Each games committee determines the time, place and method of holding tryouts in the sport it represents. From these tryouts, solely on the basis of performance, the members of the teams are selected. No athlete shall be selected for membership on a team unless he has won that right in a tryout or a series of tryouts. A team member must be a United States citizen, be certified as an amateur by the governing body of his sport, and pass the required medical examination.

Tryouts must be completed at least seven days in advance of the team's departure for the Games. No gifts or prizes may be awarded at tryouts for either athletes or officials unless an established event is designated as a tryout, in which case the traditional prizes for that event may be given.

Games Committees also nominate coaches and managers for final appointment by the Olympic Committee. Each committee is required to submit to the Executive Board of the Olympic Committee a list of names from which coaches and managers will be selected. Any other personnel shall in any case be elected without this approval having been received. Coaches and managers must be chosen not earlier than six months, nor later than three months before the final tryouts in the sport involved is obtained from the Executive Board to do so.

International Olympic Committee . . .
World Governing Body For The Olympic Games

AVERY BRUNDAGE

JOHN JEWETT GARLAND
United States

THE INTERNATIONAL OLYMPIC COMMITTEE is the world's governing body for the Olympic Games. It drafts the general program and determines the standards of amateurism and other qualifications for the amateur athletes chosen to take part; it selects the place where each Olympiad is to be celebrated; and its Executive Committee constitutes the Jury of Honor or appeal during the Games.

There is a National Olympic Committee in each country. Together with the sports associations of that country it certifies the competitors for the Games. These Committees enforce the decisions of the Jury of Honor and organize the financing, transport, housing, and general management of their teams. The National Olympic Committee of a country also has the responsibility, when the Games are awarded to its country, of providing the facilities for organizing and managing the Games (except for technical administration), or it may delegate its duties and authorities to a special Organizing Committee which thereupon assumes these responsibilities.

Every sport on the Olympic program is governed by an International Federation. These Federations have as members the recognized sports-governing bodies in the various countries. The International Federations establish the rules for their respective sports, decide upon the program of events jointly with the Executive Committee of the International Olympic Committee, control all sports equipment, and appoint the officials for the Games.

These three groups—the International Olympic Committee, the National Olympic Committees, and the International Sports Federations—constitute the self-perpetuating structure of world control of the Olympic movement. These groups meet together occasionally in what is known as the Olympic Congress.

The Olympic Games are celebrated every four years. They assemble the amateurs of all nations on an equal footing and under conditions as nearly perfect as possible.

An Olympiad need not be celebrated, but neither the order nor the intervals can be altered. The International Olympiads are counted as beginning from the 1st Olympiad of the modern era, celebrated in 1896 at Athens.

There is also a series of Olympic Winter Games which are celebrated the same year as the other Games. Starting from the First Olympic Winter Games in 1924, these events are numbered only when actually held.

The International Olympic Committee has the sole right to choose the place for the celebration of each Olympiad.

The Olympic Games program must include the following categories of sport: Athletic Sports—individual (track and field, cycling). Athletic Sports—team (soccer football, basketball, field hockey, volleyball, and field handball). Combative Sports—(fencing, boxing, judo, wrestling, shooting, and archery). Aquatic Sports—(swimming and diving, canoeing, rowing, water polo, and yachting). Equestrian Sports. Modern Pentathlon. Arts exhibition (architecture, literature, sculpture, painting, music, photography, and philately). A minimum of 15 and a maximum of 18 of the events enumerated above must figure in the program. In each category, at least one sport is compulsory. In the category of the athletic team sports, three sports only can be included on the program.

The program for the Olympic Winter Games includes the sport of luge (small sled), bobsledding, skiing, speed skating, ice hockey, and figure skating.

Generally speaking, only those who are natives or naturalized subjects of a country are qualified to compete in the Olympic Games under the colors of that country.

CITIUS - ALTIUS - FORTIUS

The Meaning of the Rings

The rings or circles which form the Olympic symbol originally represented the five major continents, namely Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia, and America (both North and South). However, the true concept is that the rings are linked together to denote the sporting friendship of the peoples of the earth, whatever their creed or color. The colors are chosen because at least one of them (blue, yellow, black, green, and red) appears in the flag of every nation of the world.

The Olympic Motto

The words, "Citius, Altius, Fortius", which frequently appear under the circles, mean "swifter, higher, stronger" (indicative of the competing athlete's endeavor to run faster, jump higher, and throw more strongly).

The Olympic Flag

The Olympic flag, which appeared at Olympic competition for the first time at Antwerp in 1920, has a white background with no border. In the center, it has five interlaced rings or circles (three above, two below) whose colors are blue, yellow, black, green, and red. The blue ring is high on the left.

The Olympic Creed

"The important thing in the Olympic Games is not winning but taking part. The essential thing in life is not conquering but fighting well." — Baron Pierre de Coubertin, founder of the Modern Olympic Games.

The Olympic Oath

In the name of all competitors I swear that we will take part in these Olympic Games, respecting and abiding by the rules which govern them, in the true spirit of sportsmanship, for the glory of sport and the honor of our country.

LOOKING AHEAD

IV Pan American Games—at Sao Paulo, Brazil. (Dates not yet officially set, probably in July of 1963).

IX Olympic Winter Games—at Innsbruck, Austria. (Dates not yet officially set, probably in late January or early February, 1964).

Games of the XVIII Olympiad—at Tokyo, Japan. (Dates not yet officially set for 1964 although Japan prefers early June. The IOC is to determine these in June, 1961).

The Olympic Games . . . Their Origin, History, And Principles

WHILE THEIR ORIGIN is unknown, the Ancient Olympic Games were held in a sacred valley at Olympia in Elis near the western coast of Greece and the earliest recorded Olympic competition was in 776 B.C. So important were these contests that time was measured by the four year interval between the Games; the term "Olympiad" describing this period.

HISTORY OF THE ANCIENT OLYMPIC GAMES 776 BC – 393 AD

It is a well established fact that religious festivals in honor of Olympian Zeus had been observed in the sacred valley for several centuries previous to that remote date. The Greek Games were celebrated in the belief that the spirits of the dead were gratified by such spectacles as delighted them during their earthly life.

During the Homeric age, these festivals were simply sacrifices followed by games at the tomb or before the funeral pyre. Gradually they grew into religious festivals observed by an entire community and celebrated near the shrine of the god in whose honor they were instituted. The idea then developed that the gods themselves were present but invisible and delighted in the services and the contests.

Later these festivals lost their local character and became Pan-Hellenic. Four of these festivals, Olympian, Pythian, Nemean, and Isthmian, had attracted world wide attention but the one held at Olympia was by far the most important consecrated to the Olympian Zeus.

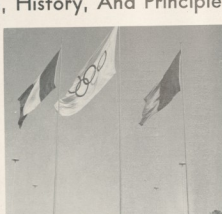

The Olympic Games became the greatest festival of a mighty nation. Once every four years trading was suspended, the continuously warring states and the fighting tribes laid down their arms, and all of the people went forth in peace to pay tribute to the manhood of its nation.

The immediate site of the Games, the Stadium of Olympia, lay towards the northeast of the Altis beyond Mount Kronion. It was an oblong area of about 643 feet in length and about 97 feet wide. It consisted of four sloping heights, two at the sides and two at the ends. The one at the north had been cut into a hill, while the other had been artificially formed by earth that had been taken from the arena. The spectators sat on the grassy slopes which accommodated more than 40,000.

For the first 13 Olympiads, the competition consisted of a single race of 200 yards, approximately the length of the stadium. The race was called the "Stade" from which our word "stadium" was derived.

The first recorded victor in 776 B.C. was Coroebus of Elis, a cook. The athletes of Elis maintained an unbroken string of victories until the 14th Olympiad at which time a second race of two lengths of the stadium was added. In the 15th Olympiad, an endurance event was added in which the athletes went 12 times around the stadium, about 4½ kilometers. The athletes competed in groups of four, which were determined by drawing lots with the winners meeting the other winners until a final race was run. The track was composed of shifting sand which gave way under the athletes' feet.

In 708 B.C., the Pentathlon and Wrestling events were introduced. In 688 B.C., Boxing; in 680 the Four Horse Chariot Race; in 648 the Pancratian (a fierce combination of boxing and wrestling), and in 580 the Armed Race where the men traversed the stadium twice while heavily armed. In the pentathlon, those who jumped a certain distance qualified for the spear throwing; the four best then sprinted the length of the stadium, the three best then threw the discus, and the two best then engaged in a wrestling match to the finish.

The early rewards were simple crowns of wild olive, but, by the 61st Olympiad, it was permitted in Olympia to erect statues in honor of the victors. However, the athletes had to win three times before the statues could be made in their likeness. Later, it was often the practice to make a breach in the walls of the city through which the victorious athletes returned.

During the fifth century before Christ, the Games reached their climax; in fact, they were already showing the first sign of decay. Trying for records and specialization claimed the interest of the crowd. From there on to professional sport was only a step and it was quickly taken.

The invasion of the Macedonians put an end to the Greek city-states and, relieved of the political controversies, they devoted themselves entirely to the Olympic Games. Instead of training their growing youth, they merely hired athletes and nationalized them.

During the middle of the second century before Christ, Greece came under the domination of the Romans, who permitted the Games to continue but they had little interest in them.

Centuries passed. The Games still continued but the high Olympic ideals were entirely discarded and profit alone provided the incentive. In 393 A.D., the Emperor Theodosius forbade the Games altogether but they had survived a period of nearly 300 Olympiads or approximately 1200 years.

FULL CREDIT for the revival of the Olympic Games in the modern era must go to Baron Pierre de Coubertin, who was born in Paris, January 1, 1863 and who died at Geneva, September 2, 1937. Very early in life he showed a taste for the study of literature, history, and the problems of education and sociology. At the age of 17, he began to scrutinize the weaknesses of his people who were trying to recover hope and self-respect following the Franco - Prussian War. He concluded that three monarchies, two empires, and three republics during a single century were not indicative of stability in the French character. The solution, he believed rested in the development of the individual.

THE ORIGIN OF THE MODERN OLYMPIC GAMES IN 1896

Coubertin had sufficient means to travel. He visited England and America where he studied organized athletics conducted by the students. He observed that competing for a place on an athletic team developed qualities of character whereas the attitude in French schools was that games destroyed study. He was convinced that he should devote his entire time and energy to securing a pedagogical reform in his own country. He decided to start at the bottom because, as he expressed it, "the foundation of real human morality lies in mutual respect—and to respect one another it is necessary to know one another."

Coubertin was not an athlete but he chose athletics as his field. The first major sport with which he associated himself was rowing, but when he attempted to bring the British oarsmen to France or send the French oarsmen to compete at Henley, he found the British and French conceptions of amateurism were not the same. This gave him the idea of bringing together educators, diplomats, and sports leaders for the purpose of developing a universal understanding of amateurism so that the athletes of all nations might meet on an equal basis.

Coubertin realized that to capture the attention of disinterested persons he would have to originate something spectacular. He began to dream of a revival of the Olympic Games. At a meeting of the Athletic Sports Union at Sorbonne in Paris, November 25, 1892, he first publicly announced the Olympic Games idea. Speaking at the conference, Coubertin said, "Let us export oarsmen, runners, fencers; there is the free trade of the future—and on the day when it shall take its place among the customs of Europe the cause of peace will have received a new and powerful support".

However, his proposal to revive the Olympic Games went for naught as his auditors failed to grasp the significance of the idea.

His next opportunity came in the spring of 1894 at an international congress which he had assembled for the purpose of studying the questions of amateurism. At this meeting, official delegates from France, England, the United States, Greece, Russia, Sweden, Belgium, Italy, and Spain, were in attendance. Hungary, Germany, Bohemia, Holland and Australia sent proxies or letters.

Seven questions concerning the problem of amateurism were on the agenda and Coubertin took the liberty of adding an eighth, "Regarding the possibility of the revival of the Olympic Games". Coubertin imparted his enthusiasm so well that it was unanimously agreed on June 23, 1894 to revive the Games and an International Committee was formed to look after their development and well-being.

Two years later, in 1896, Greece celebrated in the rebuilt stadium of Athens, the first Olympic Games of the present cycle and from this beginning, the world's greatest athletic spectacle was established.

Only the ceaseless labour, the tenacity and the perseverance of Baron de Coubertin accomplished and perfected this great work. Its main organization benefited from his methodical and precise mind and from his wide understanding of the aspirations and needs of youth.

In fact, Coubertin was the sole director of the Games as regards their form and character; the Olympic Charter and Protocol and the athlete's oath were his creation, as well as the opening and closing ceremonies of the Games. In addition, until 1925, he personally presided over the IOC, assuming single-handed all the administrative and financial duties.

The work of Coubertin was, above all, a work of peace but there is one basic fact, almost universally misunderstood—Peace is not the major aim of the Olympic Games.

"Peace", Coubertin hoped and believed, "would be furthered by the Olympic Games . . . but peace could be the product only of a better world; a better world could be brought about only by better individuals, and better individuals could be developed only by the give and take, the buffeting and battering, the stress and strain of fierce competition.

OLYMPIC RULE DEFINING AN "AMATEUR"

AN AMATEUR is one who participates and always has participated in sport solely for pleasure and for the physical, mental, or social benefits he derives therefrom, and to whom participation in sport is nothing more than recreation without material gain of any kind, direct or indirect. Furthermore, he must comply with the rules of the International Federation concerned.

To make it easier to understand and enforce this Olympic amateur rule, six classifications of ineligibles are listed as follows:

Not eligible for Olympic competitions are:

ONE—those who have participated for money, for merchandise prizes easily converted into money, or for prizes exceeding $40 in value, without permission of their National Federation.

TWO—those who have been paid for training or coaching others for organized competition.

THREE—those who have capitalized on their athletic fame in any way by profiting comercially therefrom, or by accepting special inducements to participate.

FOUR—those who have accepted reimbursement for expenses in excess of the actual expenditure.

FIVE—those who have decided to become professional athletes and are participating as amateurs to enhance their commercial value.

SIX—those who have neglected, whether at home or abroad, their usual vocation or employment for sport competition.

WHAT SPORTS ARE INCLUDED ON THE PROGRAM?

THERE ARE 21 sports on the list recognized by the International Olympic Committee, at least 15 of which must be on the program of the Olympic Games. (See page 23 for complete listings).

Only sports widely practiced in at least 25 countries (12 of which must enter) may be included on the program.

For team sports (soccer football, field hockey, basketball, and water polo), only 16 teams may take part in the Games. It is the responsibility of the International Sports Federation concerned to arrange, if necessary, for preliminary contests to properly reduce the number of countries applying for entrance. The result of which must be notified to the Organizing Committee well in advance of entry to the Games. These preliminary contests will not be a part of the Olympic Games.

In order to have individual or team competitions in the optional sports, there must be not less than 12 entries for individual events and not less than 6 for team events.

The Organizing Committee of the Games must submit the final program to the IOC at least two years before the opening of the Games and no alteration may be made within one year prior to the Games without agreement.

The Organizing Committee may add two demonstrations to the program, one a national sport and the other a sport foreign to the organizing country. However, no awards can be made in these sports.

The program for the Winter Games may include bobsledding, figure skating, ice hockey, skiing, speed skating, biathlon (skiing and shooting), curling and luge (small sled). Winter sports not governed by an international federation can only be included on the program as "demonstrations".

Past Four Years Produced The Greatest Period Of World Wide Olympic Activities

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Kenneth L. "Tug" Wilson has been president of the U. S. Olympic Association and Committee since his election at the quadrennial meetings held in December, 1953. Prior to that, he served as USOC vice-president, 1946-1952. Currently, he is commissioner of the Western Intercollegiate Conference (Big Ten), having been appointed in 1945. He is a past president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association. He was also a member of the 1920 U. S. Olympic Track and Field team.

THERE is no question but that the past four years (1956-1960) which culminated in Rome with the celebration of the XVII Olympiad will go down in history as the greatest period of Olympic activity the world over. There was special significance in staging the 1959 Pan American Games at Chicago and the 1960 Olympic Winter Games at Squaw Valley for these events held here in America helped immeasurably to foster greater public recognition and acceptance of Olympic activities. The splendor of Rome's ancient settings were excellent backdrops as thousands of the world's leading athletes virtually rewrote the record book in every sport.

Yet few realize the tremendous preparation that is needed to bring these great international events into fulfillment, to say nothing of the task that confronts a national Olympic committee such as ours in making participation of our athletes possible.

At the conclusion of our quadrennial meetings at Washington, D. C., in December, 1957, the enormity of the assignment loomed large.

On April 15, 1957, the City of Cleveland was forced to relinquish the honor of holding the III Pan American Games; it was thought that Guatemala City, which had been second choice in the voting, would be chosen, but Guatemala City withdrew. For a time it appeared that the Games might be abandoned. However, the City of Chicago felt that even at this late date it would be capable of staging them. On August 3, 1957, the Games were awarded to that city following a special congress of the Pan American Sports Organization.

This meant that there were less than two years in which to prepare for suitable facilities. However, the results are history and will be fully treated by other accounts in this book.

I have only praise for Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago and his many committeemen who worked so hard and diligently in order that this set of Games could be held. It called for a great deal of sacrifice and dedication by many people, and though perhaps there were some things that could have been done better had there been more time for preparation, the III Pan American Games still will be marked as a successful venture. They did much to preserve and better our relationships with our fine neighbors to the South. Also deserving of commendation is the great contribution made by the University of Chicago which furnished the housing for the athletes and many amenities areas. The City of Waukegan also gave full cooperation in providing a modern shooting range for certain events.

Other highlights which must be mentioned include the beautiful Olympic pool built by the City of Chicago at Portage Park; the holding of the marathon race on one of the busiest thoroughfares in the world, Lake Shore Drive; the lovely setting for the equestrian events out at Oak Brook; and, above all, the caliber of competition which broke nearly every existing Pan American record.

Now all attention was directed toward the staging of the VIII Olympic Winter Games at Squaw Valley, California. There had been much skepticism throughout the world as to whether Squaw Valley would be able to stage the Games and have the facilities essential for great winter sports competition. What was not realized was the fact that the State of California put its best talent to work on the problem. As a result of direction by Charles Blythe, Chairman of the California Olympic Association, and by Prentis C. Hale, Jr., the Chairman of the Organizing Committee, the Games were magnificent.

In picturesque Squaw Valley, which nestled high in the Sierra Madre Mountains of California, there was opportunity to start from the ground up in the construction of facilities. The outstanding experts of the world were called to the United States for consultation. In 1957 the North American Alpine Skiing Championships were held there, which provided a tremendous opportunity to test the various courses. The problems that they faced in building ski lifts up Squaw Peak, Papoose and KT-22 were met with great ingenuity. Helicopters were used to transport the heavy machinery to the top of the peaks, affording probably the finest ski facilities the world had seen.

The State of California cooperated in every way. Highways were constructed, making Squaw Valley easily accessible. Permanence was assured when the California State Legislature appropriated a total of nearly eight million dollars for the Games and decreed that these facilities should become a part of the California State Park System for the enjoyment of the general public.

A most unusual roofed stadium was constructed for hockey and figure skating which also gave an unparalleled view of the finish of the ski jumping events, the speed skating, and the Victory and Opening and Closing Ceremonies.

Athletes were afforded a fine Olympic Village which had been built for them, including an Athletes' Center and Dining Hall in which a program of entertainment arranged by Walt Disney was staged every night. It is not likely that these shows will be forgotten by those who witnessed them as they had the opportunity to see the great names [illegible] entertainment world.

One of the unusual [illegible] was the vast parking area [illegible] of snow, and thoroughfares [illegible] by machinery.

PRESIDENT REPORT

The Opening Day was one of the most dramatic occasions of the entire Games. The night before, a heavy snowfall turned Squaw Valley into a veritable fairyland, but as the storm continued it looked as if it might cause a tragic opening. However, just as the trumpeters were announcing the start of the Parade of Athletes, the weather miraculously cleared and the sun beamed down on the great throng in attendance—only to disappear into another blizzard at the close of the Ceremonies.

The Games were marked by an especially high degree of competition. The television programs which chronicled each day's events over the CBS network created tremendous enthusiasm for the Olympics and winter sports. It gave the sports-loving public a better idea of what the Olympic Games structure was and of the skilled competition that our athletes faced from other nations of the world. Millions saw the wonderful performance of the U. S. Hockey team as it won the Olympic Championship, a team which had not been highly rated but which exhibited great courage and desire; they saw the grace and beauty of the figure skating culminating in the brilliant victories of Carol Heiss and David Jenkins; the thrilling ski jumping—all which served to provide drama and excitement.

Experts from the world over marked this set of Winter Games as the best held and were loud in their praise of the magnificent job done by the Organizing Committee. Winter sports in the United States received the greatest impetus possible from these Games.

The success of the Games at Squaw Valley aroused extraordinary interest in Olympic affairs, and all eyes now turned to Rome and the 1960 Games. Planning had started in 1928 with tremendous building and dedication to sports events. The Games originally had been awarded to Rome for 1940, but the outbreak of the War prevented their realization. As early as 1950 an Olympic Stadium had been built on the ruins of the Stadio dei Cipressi. One of the largest in the world, it covers an area of 190,000 square meters and affords seating and standing capacities for nearly 100,000 people; ample space was set aside for the tremendous coverage to be done by the press, which was composed of more than 1,000 representatives from all over the world.

STADIO OLIMPICO WAS JAMMED with 80,000 persons for the opening ceremonies of the Games of the XVII Olympiad in Rome. Here is a view at one end of the main stadium. On the track just rounding the curve is the United States Team as the athletes of all nations parade before massing in the infield.

At the side of this great stadium was the Stadio dei Marmi, or the Marble Stadium, which served as an assembly spot for the athletes at the start of the Parade, a beautiful, small stadium with a picturesque garland of 60 marble statues of athletes.

The Palazzo della Sport, and its smaller prototype, the Palazetto, were beautiful buildings. The Palazzo, air-conditioned, seated 16,000 without any pillars to obstruct one's view and contained reception halls, smaller gymnasiums. The Palazetto was used for boxing, weightlifting and early-round basketball games.

The Velodrome, which was in the same area as the Palazzo, had a 400-meter track, and not only was used for cycling but for field hockey and soccer football. There were beautiful accommodations for rowing on Lake Albano and at the equestrian center in Rome's enchanting Piazza dei Siena inside the Villa Borghese.

The Organizing Committee made full use of the ancient and historical ruins; anyone who witnessed the Marathon can never forget the course which led over the Appian Way and finished at the Arch of Constantine.

The Olympic Village afforded the athletes fine accommodations. The Village itself was complete in every detail with a bank, post office, stores, entertainment facilities and fine dining halls. The meals for the athletes were planned by the Food and Housing Chairman, Charles Ornstein, and our executive chef, Hermann Rusch and others of his capable staff. If there was any criticism to be given, it was that the meals were too good and too tempting for athletes who were on a training diet.

The Italian Olympic Organizing Committee; Giulio Onesti, President of the Italian Olympic Committee; Marcello Garroni, General Secretary of the Organizing Committee, and its President, Giulio Andreotti, all were eager to help solve any difficulties that came up, and they proved wonderful hosts.

Our team was ably assisted by our very capable attache, Ed Hill, executive director of the "Rome Daily American," who guided us through many difficulties. We also are indebted to the Honorable James D. and Mrs. Zellerbach, who gave a lovely reception at the beautiful United States Embassy for the United States Party.

Thanks also are due Mayor Wagner of New York City and the New York Olympic Committee for the wonderful reception and send-off given to the athletes. It was an inspiring event.

To Dan Ferris and the Transportation Committee we owe a tremendous debt of gratitude for so capably arranging the many details that were necessary to get the team to Rome.

The Supplies and Equipment Committee, headed by Marion Miller, in doing a magnificent job deserves our thanks for obtaining the finest equipment a U. S. Olympic Team ever was afforded.

The members of all Olympic Games committees, the hundreds of people who gave so liberally of their time and money to make our participation a success deserve special mention. Without their grand devotion to the Olympic cause it would be impossible to achieve the success we have enjoyed.

The Olympic Games competition long will be remembered as the best ever seen. The results will be carefully chronicled in other parts of this book, and needless to say, they reflect the tremendous progress the athletes of the world have made during the past four years. Many world records were broken, and it was a dull day when several Olympic records were not smashed.

Several Olympic champions from various countries were not even able to make the finals, and it was interesting to note that many of the fine performances were made by young competitors who the sporting world knew little about.

The terrific showing made by Germany, along with the vast improvement by the Italian team, served notice that these nations will be heard from in the future.

Our Olympic Team was a truly dedicated group of athletes, running in age from 13 to 47. Competing in the toughest competition the world has ever seen, they gave a superb performance. The American public apparently did not realize the tremendous progress that had been made throughout the world in sport competition. Certainly, there is no dishonor in our competitors losing to someone who brake a world or Olympic record in winning.

The Games of the XVII Olympiad now are history and it is time to turn our thoughts toward the Pan American Games in Sao Paulo, Brazil in 1963, and in 1964 the IX Olympic Winter Games at Innsbruck, Austria, and the Games of the XVIII Olympiad in Tokyo, Japan.

ATHLETES FROM THIRTY NATIONS stand at attention in the Blyth Arena while the Olympic oath is given by USA's Carol Heiss during opening ceremonies of the VIII Olympic Winter Games at Squaw Valley.

In view of the increasing degree of competition among the athletes of the world and of the vast progress being made by many countries, it is important to take stock of the situation and to see how the USA can improve its chances in future competition. The officers and the executive board of the USOC have realized for several years that their responsibility to the youth of America no longer is just confined to money-raising, holding tryouts, and getting the Team to the Games. We now face the task of developing in the sports in which we have not excelled, and to bring the Olympic ideals to the very grass roots of the nation so that our athletically-minded youth will be inspired to start down the long, hard road of training and competition so that someday they may be suitable candidates for our Team.

The Olympic Development Committee, headed by Tom Hamilton, has made a fine start in this direction. Ably directed by Willis O. Hunter, it did yeoman service in coordinating the plans for participation in the Pan American Games and the Winter Games. In preparation for the competition at Rome, each Games Committee was contacted and sites for the permissible training were carefully chosen. The various squads of men and women chosen for the Team were given every possible means of getting into the best possible condition before their departure. Following the completion of the Games, this Committee did not disband but continued working with the various sport groups attempting to analyze what should be done between Games and how to coordinate the efforts of the fine organizations of the AAU, the NCAA and the kindred sport groups in order to furnish the best training and competitive opportunities for our athletes.

The importance of the Olympic Games is vital in our American way of life and unless we redouble our efforts in extending the Olympic sphere of competition and broaden the base of our competitive efforts in regard to the Games, we will find our nation falling behind in international athletics.

The importance of the Olympic Games throughout the world as a factor in promoting world peace can hardly be estimated. Our athletes traveling to all parts of the world have proven themselves to be marvelous ambassadors of good will, and we always have enjoyed the many competitors from foreign nations who have competed here. Anyone who witnessed the dramatic closing of the XVII Olympic Games in Rome and who saw the fine respect and good feeling between these wonderful young men and women can realize the value of this type of competition.

The task we face is a tremendous one and it will call for money, time, and, again, the dedication of thousands of loyal workers. The fact that the 1964 Games may be held late in May and early June in Japan will provide many obstacles in the way of selection of teams and their training. These will not be insurmountable, however. With the tremendous Olympic interest and spirit which is apparent in the United States at this time, we should forge rapidly ahead.

One of the significant happenings of this Olympiad was the attainment of a permanent residence in our Olympic House to which we moved May 20, 1960, after the place had been completely redecorated and rehabilitated following its purchase June 15, 1959. The fact that we now have a permanent address and own our own building has added stature to the U. S. Olympic movement. It is a wonderful place to entertain our foreign guests, to hold meetings, and it gives our organization a sense of permanency that it has never enjoyed before.

The Building Committee, headed by Clifford Goes, did an excellent job in attending to the [illegible] details that confronted them. [illegible] home will grow when it [illegible] it will be a most suitable place to assemble the Olympic [illegible] and the history of our Olympic [illegible]

Chicago Proved Efficient Host In Staging Pan American Games Despite Time Handicap

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Mr. Douglas F. Roby, vice president of the U. S. Olympic Committee and one of three American members of the International Olympic Committee, served as president of the Pan American Sports Organization (PASO) from 1955 through 1959, his term of office ending with the close of the Games at Chicago. He then was named a member of the Permanent Commission of PASO after General Jose D. J. Clark of Mexico succeeded him as president. Mr. Roby not only attended many PASO meetings during the past Quadrennial but participated in the IOC meetings in Tokyo, Munich, San Francisco, and Rome. He also served as the chairman of the Amateur Athletic Union Olympic Finance Committee for the same period.

In this report, Mr. Roby reviews the events which led to the staging of the III Pan American Games in Chicago, Aug. 27-Sept. 7, 1959.)

AT the Congress of the Pan American Sports Organization held prior to the Games in Mexico City (1955), the city of Cleveland, Ohio was awarded the 1959 competitions and an Organizing Committee was set up to plan for this great event. Major attention, of course, was placed upon facilities and, after months of work, existing venues for the various sports on the program were selected and recommendations made for the building of a large stadium for track and field seating 40,000 and a swimming stadium seating 10,000 as the major new facilities.

The cost of all new facilities planned was estimated at approximately $11,000,000 and it was proposed to finance this project by obtaining $2,000,000 from the city of Cleveland, $3,000,000 from Cuyahoga County, $1,000,000 from the state of Ohio, and the balance, $5,000,000 from the Federal Government. This latter item was approved by both Houses of Congress in their 1956 session and placed in the budget for final approval in early 1957. The federal moneys were principally for roads leading to the new facilities. Meanwhile, the appeals for city, county, and state funds were successful.

However, in 1957, there developed strong opposition in Congress towards the proposed federal grant and it became apparent that Cleveland was not likely to obtain this assistance. A special session of PASO was called at Caracas, Venezuela, March 15, to review the situation and April 15 was set as a deadline when the city of Cleveland would have to show positive arrangement of finances sufficient to properly stage the Games.

Report by
DOUGLAS F. ROBY
Vice President

At this same meeting, the Congress approved Guatemala City and Rio de Janeiro, both of whom had been applicants for the Games, as first and second alternates respectively should Cleveland be forced to default. Early in April, the Cleveland committee was told that federal aid was not forthcoming and it was forced to ask PASO to be relieved of its commitment.

On May 1, Guatemala withdrew its bid for the Games and shortly afterwards Rio de Janeiro also withdrew, leaving no applicants and fostering speculation that the Games would have to be cancelled. However, Chicago and Philadelphia immediately evinced interest as did Sao Paulo, Brazil.

In an effort to avoid any further complications, the U. S. Olympic Committee was requested to survey the USA bids and determine which was most qualified for consideration at the time. On July 29, the city of Chicago was approved as a candidate and on Aug. 3 in another special session of the PASO at San Jose, Costa Rica, the final selection was made. Chicago was awarded the Games, defeating Sao Paulo 13-6 in the balloting by 19 nations attending the conference.

During the ensuing months, numerous meetings were held with the Chicago Organizing Committee and the officers of the USOC to formulate the program for the Games. By August, 1958, the PASO executive committee met in Chicago and after extended consideration and study agreed upon the program proposed by Chicago. All of the sites or proposed site of the various sports venues were inspected.

Work then began in earnest for the Chicago Organizing Committee. Several new permanent facilities were built, the principal one being the swimming and diving pools constructed to Olympic specifications at Portage Park at a cost in excess of $500,000. Another major new facility was a cycling velodrome.

With the opening of the III Pan American Games, a total of 24 nations and 2,161 athletes entered competition. The Chicago Games generally were considered a fine success with real growth in PASO manifested, and were conducted in the best Olympic tradition. The Chicago Organizing Committee operated most efficiently under the able direction of Chairman Michael J. McDermott and a remarkable job was done in providing fine facilities for the 20 sports on the program in a relatively short period of two years. Everything ran smoothly during the competitions even though Chicago experienced the hottest weather recorded in 30 years during the Games.

At the Congress of PASO held prior to the opening of the Games in Chicago, the city of Sao Paulo, Brazil, was designated as the host for the IV Pan American Games. Although no dates have yet been set, it is likely that the Games will be held during the month of July, 1963. Winnipeg, Canada, was named as alternate city.

Other important action by the PASO Congress included the limitation of entries in the individual events of track and field, as well as those of swimming and diving, to two per nation, with no substitutions allowed. It was also ruled that in the forthcoming Games at Sao Paulo, three nations entered in a given event would constitute official competition. Team entries in both men's and women's basketball were reduced from 14 to 12 players while club swinging and rope climbing events were dropped from the gymnastic program. However, individual, duet, and team events in synchronized swimming were restored to the competitive program.

A Long-Sought Goal—Permanent National Headquarters—Realized In Olympic House

(Editor's Note—Asa S. Bushnell has served as secretary of the U. S. Olympic Association and Committee since 1945. Formerly graduate manager of athletics (1927-1937) and acting director of athletics (1942-1944) at Princeton University, he entered upon his present position as Commissioner of the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) on January 1, 1938.)

FROM the administrative point of view, there were a number of events taking place during the past four years which held special significance for all those vitally interested in the welfare of the United States Olympic Association and Committee and in the success of their endeavors.

In particular, there was the final realization of a long-sought end—establishment of a permanent and independent headquarters for the U. S. Olympic Association, the parent organization.

Since May 20, 1960, the USOA has conducted its affairs in its own building, Olympic House, 57 Park Avenue, New York City. Erected in 1909 expressly as a town house for the late J. Pierpont Morgan, the handsome six-story building was purchased by the U. S. Olympic Association on June 15, 1959, and remodeled to suit the requirements of a national headquarters. Excellent judgment on the part of Clifford "Tip" Goes and the Building Committee which he headed made it possible for the conversion to produce a completely modern and tastefully furnished office building which still retains the original charm and character of a beautiful structure.

ASA S. BUSHNELL
Secretary

Besides providing offices for the members of the USOA headquarters staff, Olympic House offers ample space for board and committee meetings, not only to those groups directly controlled by the USOC but to allied organizations as well. Because an Olympic museum and an Olympic library are now in process of development, it should not be too long before Olympic House becomes a true national landmark.

Over a long period of time the U. S. Olympic headquarters had been maintained in conjunction with, and subsidiary to, the offices of other athletic organizations. For many years prior to 1946, the tie-up was with the Amateur Athletic Union in the Woolworth Building, New York City. From 1946 to 1956, a similar association existed with the Eastern College Athletic Conference at the Biltmore Hotel, also in New York City. Subsequently the USOA rented its own four-room suite at the Biltmore until Olympic House became a reality.

Olympic House is more than an office and a headquarters; it is the focal point of ever-mounting Olympic interest in this country. Furthermore, it stands as tangible evidence of attainment of a goal set for the organization in 1928 by General Douglas MacArthur, who was then its president. The General, painfully aware of the vicissitudes of the hand-to-mouth existence then being followed by the Olympic administrative group, strongly urged in his official report that his successors strive mightily to acquire endowment sufficient to finance the Association's operating overhead, thus reducing the sums needed in quadrennial fund campaigns to those required to meet the costs of team participation in Games competition. Thanks to generous support from the Olympic-minded American public, this objective was finally reached in 1956, 28 years and seven Olympiads after it was first envisioned.

Another sizeable plus was developed during these past four years. This was the creation of closer liaison between the U. S. Olympic Committee and the numerous sub-committees which are the very fibre of its being. Both Executive Director Bingham and Assistant Executive Director Lentz had frequent contact with all of those cooperatively functioning sub-units, and their members were furnished information at regular intervals through

Public Response To U. S. Olympic Fund Drive Financed Full Scale Participation In Games

Editor's Note—R. Max Ritter, treasurer of the United States Olympic Association since 1953, has a record of long association with the sport of amateur swimming. German-born, he was one of the founders of Hellas swimming club which produced a number of Olympic champions. Later, he went to London, England, but competed for Germany in the 1908 Olympic Games, backstroke event, and also in the 1912 Games, swimming in the 100 and 400 meter free style events and as anchor man for the 800 meter relay team, the latter placing fourth. That same year, he helped organize the International Federation of Amateur Swimming (FINA) of which he is now the president, after having served on the executive board since 1936 as well as holding the positions of secretary and vice-president in succeeding terms.

He came to the United States in 1910, won a number of national and Canadian championships, and became affiliated with the Amateur Athletic Union, serving in many executive capacities. He is a retired manufacturer but devotes much of his time to AAU and USOC activities.

AS provided in the constitution of the U. S. Olympic Association, it is the duty of the USOA, acting through its Committee, to finance not only the U. S. participation in the Olympic Games, but also the Olympic Winter Games and the Pan American Games.

As treasurer of the USOA and USOC, I am pleased to report that the monies collected through contributions, tryouts, etc., during the quadrennial period extending from 1957 to 1961 were more than sufficient to pay all expenses involved in carrying out the participation program.

The sum realized during this past quadrennial was $2,102,355.29 and once again proving the theory that the American public through voluntary contributions can and does support the Olympic movement in the United States and the U. S. Teams, the regular day-by-day functions of the national organization. Some of the present surplus already has been appropriated to finance the current programs of the Olympic Development Committee while the remainder is held for payment of expenses still awaiting final audit.

Of the expenditures listed to date, the cost of United States participation, including overhead, in the 1960 Olympic Games at Rome, of course, represented the largest item, $923,689.21. Expenditures for the Winter Games at Squaw Valley totalled $169,217.68 and for the Pan American Games in Chicago, $262,945.09. The cost of the Olympic Development program, begun late in the quadrennial period, was $152,695.71, while other costs, such as administrative, fund-raising, committee activities, supplies and equipment, reached a total of $75,198.99.

The continued success in raising funds ample enough to finance U. S. participation in the Games as well as to slowly but surely build up a solid financial foundation for the USOA is a credit to the many volunteers who have worked unselfishly to stimulate public interest in the U. S. Olympic movement.

The expenditures for the past quadrennial period have reached a total of $1,583,746.68 as of March 1, 1961, and, of course, will be somewhat greater by the time the final accounting is made prior to the forthcoming Quadrennial meeting in Washington, D. C., this December.

As a result, through March 1, a very welcome surplus of $518,608.61 exists, most of which will eventually be placed in the reserves of the USOA to further insure the solid financial foundation required to carry on

United States Olympic Participation Financed Completely Through Popular Subscriptions

(EDITOR'S NOTE—J. Lyman Bingham was appointed executive director of the U.S. Olympic Association in 1950. Prior to that he served as assistant to the President of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States (AAU) from 1930 to 1950. During that same period he also served, on a voluntary basis, as assistant to the President of the U. S. Olympic Committee, Avery Brundage. Mr. Bingham was athletic director of Denver University from 1919-1930.)

UNDER the direction of the officers, the Board of Directors of the Association and the Executive Board of the Committee, the Executive Director, as one of his duties, is required to organize and coordinate fund raising programs. For the recent Pan American and Olympic Games the number of athletes, coaches, managers, doctors, nurses, trainers and administrators required to properly represent the United States totalled 1,039 so financing such participation is a major activity. Contrary to a rather prevalent assumption the USOC neither requests nor receives any financial support from the Government. We believe that the Olympic movement should be kept completely free from politics.

Not since 1932 have any Games been held in the United States but during the last four years both the Pan American Games and the Olympic Winter Games were held in our country. Although our organization (USOC) had no financial responsibility in the preparation of these games, by international regulations, our Committee was entrusted with the responsibility of organizing them. Fortunately regulations permitted delegating these duties and responsibilities to special organizing committees appointed from the areas in which the games were held. However, this did not release the USOC from its obligation to see that these committees properly organized the games and provided the necessary facilities.

Having the games in the United States placed the U. S. Olympic Committee in an awkward position in so far as fund raising was concerned. It required several million dollars to prepare for each of them so both Chicago and Squaw Valley solicited funds and program advertising on a national basis. The USOC was in no position to object so its campaign was seriously affected by the confusion which resulted. It became quite common for individuals and corporations in replying to USOC appeals to claim they had already contributed when actually they had contributed to either the Chicago or the Squaw Valley funds.

The USOC campaign was also seriously affected because both Chicago and Squaw Valley also obtained financial help from the government. Whenever announcements to that effect were made people took it for granted that the U. S. Olympic Committee was receiving the money and that contributions were no longer needed. About the time that the USOC became reconciled to the fund raising activities of Chicago and Squaw Valley, lightning struck in the form of what came to be known as the "Chinese Problem."

At the meeting of the International Olympic Committee in May, 1959 at Munich, the following resolution was adopted, "The Chinese National Committee having its seat at Taipei (Taiwan) will be notified by the IOC Chancellor that it cannot continue to be recognized under that name since it does not control sport in the country of China and its name will be removed from the official list. If an application for recognition under a different name is made it will be considered by the IOC."

Immediately the press reported that Free Nationalist China had been "kicked out" of the Olympic Games. The effect of this announcement on the USOC fund campaign was catastrophic. It became a topic of discussion in Congress and the State Department and in the press. Not to be outdone, the National Commander of the American Legion, without obtaining the facts and in a widely publicized announcement called upon all legion posts to withdraw their support from the Olympic Fund drive.

Most of the publicity on the "Chinese Problem" was either exaggerated or untrue but it had a disastrous effect on USOC fund raising efforts. The misunderstanding mainly was in the belief that Free China [illegible] had been ousted [illegible] of the Democratic Republic [illegible] king). Actually the [illegible] voluntarily withdrawn from the Olympic [illegible]

ADMINISTRATIVE DETAILS WERE MANY in the overall management of the U. S. Teams. movement and stated that it would return the day that "Avery Brundage, a tool of Imperialist State Department of the United States will resign his IOC Presidency."

After Free China was invited by the Organizing Committee to compete in the Winter Olympic Games at Squaw Valley the tension lessened somewhat. The November, 1960 bulletin of the International Olympic Committee states that the Olympic Committee of Taiwan territory altered its name and is to be known in the future under the name of "Olympic Committee of the Republic of China."

Still another event seriously affected the fund campaign. The personnel of the armed forces, who make up about one third of our teams and win a proportionate share of the Olympic and Pan American medals, have always contributed liberally to the Olympic Fund. However, at the beginning of our recent campaign, their hands were tied by a government directive.

In October, 1956, the Director of the Bureau of Personnel in the White House issued a directive which prohibited fund raising among government employees except for certain designated causes such as the Red Cross, Heart Fund, Cancer Fund, Muscular Dystrophy and a few others. The Olympic Fund inadvertently was not listed, and, in effect, the armed forces personnel, who are government employees, could not even contribute to help finance their own athletes on the Olympic and Pan American teams. Efforts to have the Olympic Fund placed on the approved list got nowhere, until, on March 13, 1959, K. L. Wilson, President of the U. S. Olympic Committee, and I met with President Eisenhower and had an opportunity to call his attention to our difficulty. The President immediately arranged for the Department of Defense to remove the restriction against raising Olympic funds among the armed forces. Although much valuable time had been lost, the armed services, in the short period remaining, raised the very fine total of $90,000 not including credit they received for their share of the tryout receipts from events in which they anticipated.

Since the Olympic Games were revived in 1896 the United States teams have had a long history of successes but the competition is becoming so keen that no longer can victory be taken for granted. To meet this situation a Development Committee was appointed prior to the Pan American Games with Thomas J. Hamilton as chairman and Willis O. Hunter as coordinator. The results obtained in cooperation with the various games committees were most gratifying. Several of the medals won by the USA at Rome are traceable to the development plans worked out by this committee. The program cost about $152,000 and it is planned to intensify it between now and the 1964 Games. In today's Olympic competition previous champions are often unable to qualify for the finals and former records are being broken by athletes who fail to win even a bronze medal.

The United States has an enviable record in Olympic competition, since 1896 having won 469 gold, 328 silver and 281 bronze medals for a grand total of 1,078. Great Britain is in second place with 130 gold, 172 silver and 143 bronze medals for a total of 445. In the 1952, 1956 and 1960 Games, Russian athletes have won 102 gold, 92 silver and 83 bronze medals for a total of 277. Their success is the result of a well planned program which began about 37 years ago. The Soviet News of June 6, 1946 carried an article entitled "Soviet Scientists Tackle Sport Problems." It said in part "Since 1924 in the Soviet Union those responsible for the physical welfare of the nation and for assisting the specialist athletes towards attaining their peak performances in whatever sport they choose to participate have been seeking to reduce each athletic event to an exact science." It was not until 1952 that Russia was willing to enter a full team in the games. Taking second to the United States was a bitter disappointment but it served as the incentive to step up their program to develop better teams.

The American way of life will not permit the type of training program which is bringing such good results in Russia but the USOC believes that it can put into effect a program which will enable the USA to hold its own with any nation in the world. The USA has maintained supremacy in certain sports but it must improve teams in those sports in which it has had little success. Such a program will be expensive so the USOC plans to increase the budget accordingly.

For the last USOC campaign, a budget of $1,500,000 was adopted to cover the cost of sending teams to all three games and to finance a development program. To reach that amount the Executive Board of the Olympic Committee assigned quotas which were accepted by the members of the Olympic Association. Based on past experience the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Association each accepted quotas of $350,000 with the understanding that credit for funds derived from tryouts would not be included. No quota was assigned to the armed forces because at that time they were prevented from raising funds among military personnel as explained previously. The returns from official team tryouts and special activities of games committees was estimated at $565,000 while from the Business Men's Committee and the activities of the Olympic Club the return was estimated at $250,000, making a total fund raising goal of slightly in excess of $1,500,000.

For the Business Men's Committee the USOC was fortunate in having General of the Army Douglas MacArthur as Chairman. General MacArthur was President of the U. S. Olympic Association in 1928 when the Games were held in Amsterdam and always has been a strong believer in the Olympic movement. The USOC is greatly indebted to him and to the following outstanding business leaders who served with him:

Due to the complexity of the USOC organization there is considerable overlapping in the solicitation of funds. Because of this duplicate credit is often made making it difficult to arrive at accurate totals for the various groups. After eliminating such duplications as much as possible and without giving credit for team tryouts, the Amateur Athletic Union accounted for approximately $515,000, considerably more than its quota. Douglas Raby, Chairman of the Board of the Aeronautical Metal Products Company of Detroit, Vice President of the U. S. Olympic Association, was National Chairman of the AAU Committee.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association accounted for $276,499 at the time of this report and its drive was to continue through the 1960 football season. Willis O. Hunter of Los Angeles was Chairman of the NCAA Committee.

Receipts from tryouts and from the activities of the other sports governing bodies accounted for approximately $902,000, considerably in excess of their quotas. The Business Men's Committee and the Olympic office accounted for $300,000.

In spotlighting the activities of some of our fund raising groups there is danger of offending others but it is a risk that should be taken in fairness to those whose results were so outstanding.

Under our regulations each sport is represented by a games committee composed of a specified number of representatives from (a) the US members of the respective International Federations, (b) the NCAA for sports in which the colleges participate and (c) the armed forces. These games committees are charged with the duty of determining the time, place and method of holding tryouts for the selection of the members of the various teams. Receipts from these tryouts constitute a large part of the funds needed to finance participation of our teams in the games.

The Men's Track and Field Committee awarded its tryouts to Stanford University where under the direction of Alfred R. Masters, Director of Athletics, and Payton Jordan, Director of Track, the event drew more than 108,000 spectators and the net receipts amounted to a record total of $190,768.21. Funds from other sources gave the Track and Field Committee a grand total of $254,046.

The Basketball Committee awarded its tryouts to Denver, Colorado, where under the direction of Willard N. Greim the net receipts amounted to $46,202.76. After the team was chosen and as part of its training program exhibition games were played in four cities. At Cincinnati, under the direction of Carl Stavasky an exhibition game netted $12,000. At Canton, Ohio under the direction of Richard Seiple the game also netted $12,000. At the University of West Virginia at Morgantown, West Virginia under the direction of Athletic Director Robert N. Brown, the net receipts were $19,092.37 and far exceeded the guarantee of $12,000. Finally at New York, a game sponsored by the Technical Tape Corporation, Paul D. Cohen, President, accounted for $15,000. Thus, from all sources the Basketball Committee accounted for $124,273.83.

The Men's and Women's Swimming held their tryouts jointly at Detroit, Michigan, where under the direction of Charles Mayne the amount of $44,100 was obtained for the fund.

Public Interest In Olympic Games Stimulated By Great Press, Radio And Television News Coverage

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Arthur G. Lentz joined the U. S. Olympic Association and Committee national headquarters staff as public relations director in 1956 and in 1959 was appointed assistant executive director. Previous to 1956, he was a sports writer and radio announcer in Madison, Wis., later serving as athletic publicity director at the University of Wisconsin.)

PUBLIC knowledge and acceptance of Olympic activities reached their highest levels throughout the United States during the past four year period, an encouraging sign to those who are devoted to the Olympic movement here in this country.

Biggest factor in developing this strong interest, of course, was the staging of the 1959 Pan American Games and the 1960 Olympic Winter Games in American settings. The resulting coverage by the nation's press, radio, and television was widespread and did more in four years to focus attention upon Olympic affairs than had been accomplished in the previous sixty.

With the Games of the XVII Olympiad held in the ancient splendor of Rome following as the greatest attraction of all, the exposure to the public was stupendous. Never before had the Olympic story been presented so completely and so well.

Particularly through the medium of television were the many facets of Olympic activities vividly portrayed to an eager audience of millions, placing national importance to sports events heretofore little known or lightly thought of.

There were other important factors in making the United States Olympic conscious. One was the splendid contribution made by the American Dairy Association on behalf of the U. S. Olympic Committee. Representing the dairy farmers throughout the nation, this fine organization underwrote the expense of producing films, booklets, and other material for national distribution.

The American Dairy Association sponsored the U. S. Olympic team informational brochures, thousands of which were given to the press, radio, and television representatives of many countries at each of the three Games. It published and distributed more than a million copies of "The Olympic Story", a color cartoon-styled booklet designed to acquaint school children with the Olympic ideals. It sponsored a series of 13 five-minute Olympic films for television use, more than 250 stations throughout the USA using these regularly in the two year period prior to the Olympic Games.

At the Pan American Games in Chicago and at the Olympic Winter Games in Squaw Valley, the American Dairy maintained dairy bars, providing athletes, press representatives, and other guests with free milk, ice cream, and other dairy foods in connection with the official hospitality and recreational centers operated by the respective Organizing Committees.

The American Dairy Association also sponsored the production of "Hold High the Torch", a 28 minute, 16 mm. color and sound motion picture, which tells the story of the U. S. Olympic Committee activities and responsibilities. Containing scenes filmed at all three Games during the past four years, the motion picture was released in March, 1961, and is now being distributed throughout the nation's schools. The film was produced by Stark Films, Inc., Burbank, from footage taken at all three Games by Milton Stark and the official USOC photographer, Walter J. Meives.

There were many other organizations, radio and television stations, newspapers, and publications, who through special programs and projects aided in making the nation Olympics-conscious. A number of special informational booklets were brought out by individuals after approval had been obtained from the USOC. These were distributed in the thousands by business firms who agreed to sponsor them and the USOC also benefited financially through royalties.

The Hammond Map Publishing Company produced an Olympic World map with many beautiful illustrations (the original drawings of which now are to be seen in Olympic House). Thousands of these maps were sold and the Hammond organization also published a book and a loose-leaf notebook binder using the Olympic World map illustrations. From the sale of these items, the USOC also benefited.

In the past four years, the U. S. Olympic Committee has developed a sports film library from which hundreds of bookings were made for Olympic Games films of the past. The library, now being expanded greatly, contains Olympic films as far back as 1928 but, because of fragility, those earlier than 1956 are no longer released for public showing. However, the later films are in great demand and many additional films will be added as soon as possible.

During the past four years, the U. S. Olympic Committee published and distributed 25,000 copies of a 16 page general information pamphlet which met with great acceptance by schools, clubs, and other organizations. The booklet contained the most essential information on Olympic lore and legend, the details of U. S. Olympic Committee organization, and the major official regulations governing the Olympic Games. A greatly condensed version of this pamphlet was published in the form of "Quick Facts About the Olympics" and more than 100,000 of these were distributed.

U. S. A. Teams Equipped Through Donations By Apparel Industry And Sports Supply Firms

(Editor's note—The sports teams that represented the United States in the 1959 Pan American Games at Chicago, the 1960 Olympic Winter Games at Squaw Valley, and the Games of the XVIIth Olympiad at Rome were well equipped and outfitted, thanks to the generosity of leading apparel manufacturers and athletic supplies concerns.

Not only were the athletes attractively attired for parade appearances but provided with complete wardrobes for travel and leisure wear, in addition to the best of athletic equipment. All told, nearly one-quarter of a million dollars' worth of clothing, accessories, and footwear was contributed by the nation's industry and business.

To stimulate such interest in U. S. Olympic activities and to best service the requirements of the hundreds of individuals involved required great organization, salesmanship, and administration. How the U. S. Olympic Supplies and Equipment Committee so ably carried out this responsibility is revealed in the following report by its chairman, Marion H. Miller.

Marion H. Miller has been a member of the USOC Supplies and Equipment Committee since 1946, serving as chairman this past quadrennial period. He attended the Olympic Games of 1948, 1952, 1956, and 1960 as well as the Pan American Games of 1951, 1955, and 1959 in official capacity. For many years, he was a leader in the Missouri Valley Association of the AAU at Kansas City and now is public relations director for Wilson Sporting Goods in Chicago.)

WORK on the procurement of apparel for the Pan American Games Team began in April, 1958. The apparel committee considered the outfits which should be worn by members of the official party (consisting of men and women athletes, coaches, managers, trainers, medical staff, administrators, etc.) for both parade and formal occasions, as well as leisure wear.

Following the precedent established beginning with the Pan American Games of 1955, and successfully accomplished since, all clothing was sought as a donation by the mills and manufacturers of America. The work of the committee was broken down into two segments, wearing apparel to be procured by Max J. Lovell, as chairman of an apparel sub-committee, and competitive equipment and supplies by Marion H. Miller, Chairman.

Production time in the apparel industry is such that commitments for textiles and clothing must be made from 1 to 1½ years in advance of the date actually needed. Thus, the timetable required shipment of raw materials to manufacturers by December 1, 1958, and finished garments to be in our hands no later than May 1, 1959.

All items of apparel were donated by American textile mills and manufacturers and the extent of this generosity perhaps best can be obtained by citing some statistics—

There were in excess of 400 men's and 100 women's complete outfits, consisting of 21 separate items for the men, and 21 for the women (not adding for those which came in pairs or threes, such as hosiery). Those 11,000 items had to be individually and separately handled for packing and shipping. Warehousing space in New York for the accumulation and packing of this merchandise was also donated—approximately 2500 square feet, for a period of 5 months. Distributing space in Chicago, over 7000 feet, was likewise contributed.

Each outfit had a retail value of approximately $175, for a total of $87,500. Constant insurance coverage against fire and theft was carried in the sum of $50,000 from the first day of the receipt of goods, while in transit, and until delivered to each athlete. Together with the value of donated inventory, shipping and distributing space, garment alterations, etc., the all-over value of industry's contribution to the U. S. Pan American Team was over $90,000.

To transport all the apparel from New York City to Chicago required an entire 40 foot trailer truck for our exclusive use. The cargo consisted of

Deni Lovell

611 cartons (both individual made-up outfits and merchandise in bulk for outfits still to be made-up). The total weight was 13,000 pounds (including some super cargo carried for the track team).

Late trial dates of many of the sports caused much concern and extra work for the Supplies Committee. Because of time requirements, we had to cease all packing of individual outfits by August 1st, since all merchandise had to be packed for transshipment to Chicago, for arrival there August 10th, only one week before team arrivals. This gave us but a scant week to set up and equip ourselves there. Those sports whose trial dates came after August first (or late July) —could not be taken care of in advance. As a result only 60% of the men's outfits were prepared prior to departure for Chicago; 176 outfits were prepared in Chicago, almost all requiring some alteration for trouser and sleeve length, etc., some even being issued on the day of the opening ceremonies parade. The women's outfits offered a comparable situation.

A number of Latin American teams in Chicago sought the aid of our committee in procuring various items of athletic equipment needed for competition. Upon recommendation of members of the USOC Executive Committee, this assistance was extended in every instance, sometimes at considerable inconvenience. Many expressions of appreciation were received as much of the equipment received from various companies was on a donated basis.

The work of preparation for the 1960 Winter Olympic Games was in process even during the hot months of the Pan American Games period of the previous year. An apparel operation of the magnitude required to outfit a U. S. Olympic Team takes at least 1-1½ years to plan, negotiate, enter into all the necessary contracts, and then to administer to final issuance. Thus, with the Pan American Games, Winter Olympics and Summer Olympics taking place within one year, the Supplies Committee had the most difficult task of handling three enormous projects practically all at the same time.

Again all of the items worn by the U. S. Winter Olympic Team were donated by American mills and manufacturers, as were collateral services and supplies such as warehousing space and shipping cartons. The value to the Olympic Committee, if these outfits, etc. had to be purchased, was $42,175. This figure does not include the value of accessories and special equipment donated to individual sports teams such as ski and skating, variously estimated at several thousand dollars more.

The competitive athletic equipment required by the winter sports teams is highly specialized and also limited in amount as compared with that used by the summer games teams. For this reason some of the winter sports committees were given authority by the supplies committee to negotiate for their own equipment, most of which was donated by suppliers, but subject to approval of the supplies committee chairman.

Shown above is the informal lounge wear provided for members of the United States Men's Olympic Team while in Rome, Italy, for the 1960 Games.

The operations for the 1960 Summer Games at Rome followed the Pan American Games and Winter Games so closely that some of the activities actually overlapped. Planning meetings of the committee were held over a year before and during the Pan American Games at Chicago. It was here that the committee decided on the use of summer or tropical weight material for the dress and parade uniforms.

The Rome apparel operation was by far the largest in history. Although the "official party," consisting of athletes, coaches, managers, medical staff, trainers, etc., administrative personnel and executive board was listed at 420 men and women, the actual number of apparel procurement was in excess of that figure, including some surplus of sizes. The value of these outfits (including services) is estimated at $106,300., all donated by American mills and manufacturers. After distribution, the overage was donated to Italian charity, the American School for Boys and Boys Town and Girls Town of Italy.

The total evaluation of donations for the three sets of Games is $235,475—all, as previously indicated, donated to the U. S. Olympic Committee with literally hundreds of suppliers participating.

Procurement of the athletic equipment for the Rome Games was also complicated by the closeness of trial dates to the time of departure as well as the number of teams that required additional gear for the training development period after the trials. Squads that used a large amount of equipment for training in this country included basketball at West Point, wrestling at Norman, Okla., track and field at Eugene, Ore., boxing at Ft. Dix, N. J., and others to a lesser degree. All had to be outfitted immediately after their trials for practice and exhibitions, in addition to the uniforms to be worn during the competition at Rome.

Competitive uniforms and equipment for the Games were made up and shipped direct to Rome on the chartered planes with the teams and was issued to team managers at the Olympic Village. This ensured new, clean suits for the actual competition. Bulkier items such as towels, cigarettes, cycling tandems, rowing shells, whirlpools, etc. were shipped by boat to Naples, thence to Rome by train.

A departure in the material used for warm-up suits for all teams was made from the past. Bright American Blue Orlon Fleece material, donated by suppliers through the E. I. duPont deNemours & Co., was trimmed in scarlet and white with the standard USA lettering on the front of the jackets by the Wilson Sporting Goods Co. Also royal blue shirts with scarlet and white trim and lettering USA on the front was issued to the men's and women's track teams instead of the white shirts with red and blue sash stripes previously worn by US teams. The experiment met with general approval for better visibility at the finish line.

It was only by the close control of factory production that the tailor-made competitive uniforms of several teams could be made up and delivered in time after late trial dates. Some uniforms were made and delivered in less than one and two weeks. Full Wilson factory facilities were at our disposal for this purpose.

All of our surplus donated training supplies were given to teams from other countries as a good will gesture. There were no surplus competitive supplies.

LIGHTWEIGHT SUITCASES and duffle-bags, packed full with clothing and other items, were furnished all members of the Olympic Team headed for Rome. Marion H. Miller (left) presents case to Steve Witkowski, head trainer.

Transportation Of U. S. Athletes Complicated By Unavoidable Change In Assembly Procedures

Editor's Note—Daniel J. Ferris, honorary secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, has been affiliated with the U. S. Olympic Association in various capacities since 1928. Currently, he is a member of the USOA board of directors, member of the USOC executive board, and chairman of the USOC transportation committee. He was assistant secretary of the AAU from 1914 to 1926, then was named secretary-treasurer of that national organization in 1928, a position he held until 1958 when he retired and accepted the responsibility of handling foreign sports relations for the AAU on a part-time basis as honorary secretary.

TRANSPORTING the United States Teams to the 1960 Olympic Games at Rome, the 1960 Winter Olympic Games at Squaw Valley, California and to the 1959 Pan American Games held at Chicago, Ill., presented more burdensome tasks for the Olympic Transportation Committee than is the case when all three events are held outside the United States. This is because most of the team members in the Winter Olympics and the Pan American Games made the trip to their training centers or to the Games as individuals with the result that each required special handling.

Transportation of the various units of the U. S. team to the Pan American Games in Chicago required close coordination with the Food and Housing Committee as well as with the committee handling bus and automobile transportation from the Chicago airports to the men's housing on the University of Chicago campus and the Shoreland Hotel on Lake Shore Drive which housed women. Individual round trip air tickets were either mailed to team members or issued-wired to the airport nearest them.

In many cases, members of the team preferred to travel to Chicago by automobile, necessitating the cancellation of air tickets and obtaining refunds.

Arrangements were made for the homeward journey the day following the completion of the various sports. These dates ranged from September 1st to September 7th and included the Labor Day weekend which made more difficult the problem of obtaining reservations on airplanes for those who failed to follow our instructions. However, with the cooperation of the representatives of the American Airlines, Trans World Airlines, United Airlines and Capitol Airlines, all members of the team were on their way home by September 8th.

For the Winter Olympics the members of the Hockey Team assembled at West Point for training, following which they played a series of practice games across the country before reporting to Squaw Valley. They not only arranged for their transportation, but also paid the bills.

Through special permission, the manager of the Ski Team made all transportation arrangements for the skiers to the cities where they completed their training following the tryouts, and then on to the Games at Squaw Valley.

This left only the speed and figure skaters, and the Biathlon Team to be transported by our Committee to their training quarters and then to the scene of the Games and back to their respective homes following the Games.

For the Summer Olympics air transportation was agreed upon for the trip to Rome following a vote by the various games committees. Pan American World Airways was selected as the carrier for the team numbering approximately 425 athletes. The Committee chartered five DC-7C planes for this air-lift. The first flight left New York on August 13th; another on the 14th, two on the 15th and one on the 18th. On the return trip one chartered plane left Rome on September 8 and 9, and two on September 12. The fifth left from London where the track team engaged in a match against the British Empire. The basketball team which played a series of games in Paris, joined the track team in London.

A comprehensive directive was prepared and distributed by the Transportation Committee to all members of the Olympic family. It set forth the schedule of departures from New York for the eastbound trip and from Rome for the homeward journey; also requirements for passports, vaccination certificates, baggage information and assembly of the squad.

All team members were called upon to report in New York City for processing 48 hours prior to departure. By stressing the importance of having a valid passport in order to be eligible to make the trip, few reported without this important document.

The Track Team was assembled at the University of Oregon at Eugene, Oregon for training before competing in warm-up meets in Eugene, In Long Beach and Mt. San Antonio in California, and then was brought by jet flights to New York for departure to Rome. The trip between Eugene and Los Angeles was made by chartered plane.

The Basketball Team played in three training games after being assembled at West Point, N. Y. The Boxing Team, two men in each class, were brought to Camp Dix, New Jersey, for two weeks training. The Weightlifting Team prepared at York, Pa., the Wrestling Team at Tulsa, Oklahoma, the Men's Swimming Team at Michigan State College, East Lansing, Mich., the Women's Swimming Team at Indianapolis. It was the responsibility of our committee to transport the individual members of these groups to their training camps and then to New York for the trip to Rome.

Each team manager was briefed regarding the duties and schedule in Rome, and every effort was made to comply. The men's track and field team and the basketball team were the last to depart for Rome. Competitions for them had been arranged in Switzerland. The Track Team participated in an International two-day meet in Zurich and the Basketball Team played a game in Geneva and one in Lugano. Both teams made the trip from Switzerland to Rome by train to take advantage of the scenic trip through the Alps.

One of the Committee's most difficult problems was in trying to satisfy members of the team who wanted to remain abroad for travel and sightseeing.

We are particularly indebted to the Pan American World Airways and the American Airlines, which companies made available James McGuinness and Frank Burtis, respectively, to assist the Transportation Committee. Both made the trip to Rome and rendered valuable assistance in coordinating the overseas and domestic transportation.

Feeding And Housing Athletes Huge Task But Committee 'Know-How' Gets Job Done

(EDITOR'S NOTE—Charles L. Ornstein has been chairman of this important USOC Food and Housing Committee since 1928 and, in that capacity, has attended the Olympic Games, the Winter Games, and the Pan American Games held during the resulting period. He also has been a member of the USOC Executive Board and a national leader in AAU activities for a similar span of years. Currently he is vice-president and general manager of the Willard Hotel in Washington, D. C.)

THE task of housing and feeding the United States contingents at the Pan American Games, the Olympic Winter Games, and the Olympic Summer Games, although a familiar one to those of us charged with that responsibility, offered new challenges during the 1959 and 1960 operations. But, whatever the problems encountered, application of basic management principles learned in many previous Olympic ventures, plus excellent assistance from experienced personnel and whole hearted cooperation of all the respective team managers, brought prompt and satisfactory solution.

Entrusted with carrying out the many details of food and housing management were a number of veterans, wise in the ways of handling Olympic operations. Herman G. Rusch, executive food director of the Greenbrier at White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia, who was with the 1956 team in Melbourne, Australia, was appointed executive chef for the Games at Chicago, Squaw Valley, and Rome. Catherine D. Meyer, who served in administrative capacities at the Olympic Games of 1948, 1952, and 1956 and the 1955 Pan American Games, was named stewardess for both the Pan American and Rome Games. Irwin W. Weiss, who gained experience in the 1955 Pan American Games, was selected to be men's steward at the Rome Games. Ado Taylor Sackett, on the administrative staff at the 1936 and 1948 Olympics, was picked to be stewardess at the Winter Games in Squaw Valley.

Other appointments included Fred Maggiora as steward at the Winter Games and Mrs. Ethel M. Fisher as stewardess in charge of women's quarters at the Summer Games in Rome.

Operation Chicago (Pan American Games): With the largest USA participation ever in Pan American competition, the various sports teams were quartered in four separate housing units. The shooting and modern pentathlon teams were located at Ferry Hall, a private school in Lake Forest, Ill. The rowing and equestrian teams were housed in dormitories at North Central College, Naperville, Ill. All other men's teams were placed in Burton Judson Court on the campus of the University of Chicago. The women's teams stayed at the Shoreland Hotel on Chicago's South Side, not too distant from Burton Judson Court which also provided offices for the USA administrative staff.

The extreme heat and high humidity encountered in Chicago, the distance to practice sites and competitions, the very early and very late hours of competitive events, all were factors which affected the important task of feeding the USA athletes. Executive Chef Rusch, after inspecting the catering facilities of the University where about 1400 of the 2400 competitors from 21 nations were served, found the menus were calculated for proper calory-count but mostly in form of carbohydrates instead of protein. An immediate change was necessary and this soon was accomplished with the help of Pan American Village Manager, Col. Theodore J. Isaacs and Executive Assistant Richard Thorne.

The menus then were planned on a three-day basis of high protein with a balanced diet averaging an intake of about 3000 to 4000 calories, 25,000 units of vitamins, high minerals, especially calcium, iron, iodine, and phosphorus. Dietary rules required the athlete to drink at least one quart of milk and three glasses of citrus fruit juices daily.

The records of the arrivals and departures of the teams were maintained by Catherine Meyer and proved to be a somewhat different operation than experienced before. Only a few teams arrived as a unit, or even on the same date. In some instances, athletes reported the day before and left the day after their event was completed. This not only affected the bookkeeping of our committee but was reflected in the workload of the Transportation committee as well as that of the Treasurer and assistant Treasurer. Of course, this was dictated by individual circumstances which did not allow the U. S.

CHARLES ORNSTEIN
Chairman, Food and Housing

Olympic Committee to conduct its assembly in the usual manner. Nevertheless, the work was accomplished, thanks to the wonderful cooperation of the various team managers.

A total of 368 men and 93 women were housed at the four centers, Burton Judson Court caring for 286 men as the biggest unit.

The Food and Housing Committee is deeply appreciative of the cooperation received from Col. Isaacs, Village manager for the Chicago Organizing Committee, and his assistants, Richard Thorne and Richard Staveley. Special thanks also must go to Miss Kay, Jim Dalton, Jim Newman, and all of those who served the USA team at Burton Judson Court; to Mrs. Ladd and Jim Kenney at Ferry Hall; to Mrs. Ella Dute, Mr. Arias, and Mr. Thornton at North Central College; to Elizabeth Felbianer and her staff at the Shoreland Hotel, and to Lucille Wilson of the Chicago Organizing Committee.

Operation Squaw Valley (Winter Games)—A perfectly organized catering system for athletes functioned at Squaw Valley and the Organizing Committee for these Winter Games deserves full praise. Athletes from all competing nations had their meals in the same dining hall and Peter Rasmussen, the executive chef for culinary operation at Squaw Valley, added two continental dishes to breakfast and dinner to give meals [illegible] for Europeans. The best [illegible] was served, drawing raves [illegible] gastic comment.

cerned over the way our athletes were attracted to the food but, after interviewing coaches who pointed out that, for the winter competitions, athletes did not have to worry too much about overeating because of the strenuous performances, cold weather, and high altitude, he was greatly relieved. An average of 1,500 persons were served each meal and approximately 140,000 meals were served during the month of February. In addition, about 300 to 400 box lunches were provided to those whose schedules did not allow them to return to the dining hall at the proper hours.

Meanwhile, the ice cream and milk bar operated by the American Dairy Association along with the hot dog stand conducted by the California Meat Packers group were real attractions at the recreation center and added great prestige to American hospitality.

All athletes and team officials were literally housed together under one collective roof. Four dormitories, three men's and one women's, connected by walkways, were situated in the southeast corner of the Valley. They were within five minutes' walk of all competitive areas, except the cross country course. Each dormitory was a three-story, 150-room building. Each floor contained 25 bedrooms, one toilet and shower room, one tub-room, one storeroom, and one service room. Additionally, there were two drinking fountains, three fire extinguishers, two fire hoses, and two fire alarms on each floor.

The bedrooms were 15' 5" by 11', each housing four persons with surprising comfort. The USA team used 32 rooms for 109 persons in all.

Deserving compliments for excellent accommodations and service are Village Manager Robert Minerich; Mrs. Anne Chapman, reception center manager; Edward Lansdale, Richard Dunham, and Mrs. Leona Garrett, executive housekeeper.

Operation Rome (Summer Games) —Advance planning, aided by the Chairman's preliminary inspection of Olympic housing and athletic facilities in Rome, resulted in highly satisfactory accomodations for the U. S. Olympic Team. The committee staff went to Rome several days in advance of the official contingent and had everything in readiness for the arrival of the various teams from the USA.

The Olympic Village, especially constructed for the Games in urban Rome, was planned as a permanent modern housing facility later to be used for Italian government workers. Two centrally located buildings in the area were allotted to the US men's contingent. Here, the 50 apartments available were assigned to 15 teams and their officials, numbering 312 persons in all. Some of the space was turned over to the medical and training units, supplies and equipment, and administrative offices. All of the 63 women on the U.S. Team were housed in a special fenced-in section of the village, occupying six apartments in a building assigned to English speaking nations. Here, as in the men's section, all of the apartments proved to be light and airy, with rooms comfortably furnished to accomodate, for the most part, two persons.

The USA dining room was located a short and approximately equal distance from both the men's and women's quarters. All menus were made up as had been agreed upon in previous conferences. Beef was served on every meal, steaks or roast, boiled or potted, plus roast chicken or scallopini of veal. Roast baby lamb, turkey, and fresh calf's liver appeared on the menu every three days and was served to competitors before their events. There was also fresh fish served on every meal, poached, in butter, or steamed. Scampi or cannaberoni was the favorite among the US athletes.

Included in the fresh green vegetables served were tiny string beans, leaf spinach, zucchini, swiss chard, carrots and beets. Boiled rice, baked or chipped potatoes plus an Italian pasta was a constant choice of the daily meals. Clear consomme or chicken broth soup, and a vegetable soup, also was available. For dessert, there was ice cream, cookies, and fresh fruit such as grapes, peaches, and pears. The beverages were milk, coffee, tea, ovaltine, and hot chocolate.

The US dining unit was managed by Cicolella Vittorio, the chef was Galuzzi Mario, and the inspector, H. Gattoni. In the unit, there were 76 employees consisting of cooks, waiters, pantry men, cleaners, and helpers.

Originally the meal hours were posted for breakfast from 7 to 9 a.m. lunch from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., and dinner from 7 to 9 p.m. However, these hours did not work out because of the competition but negotiation with Col. Giuseppe Fabre, commanding officer of the Olympic Village, soon resulted in the satisfactory arrangement of keeping the dining unit open from 5 a.m. through to 3 a.m. daily. Many competitors otherwise might not have been able to get their proper meals since their competitive schedules often did not end before midnight or later.

After some testing, only the homogenized (1.8 fat content) milk proved palatable for our athletes and by serving only this kind the diet was not upset. Originally there had been six different forms of milk provided. The Rome water was quite satisfactory and although the USA had five different types of mineral water available, the latter were not approved. The Italian bread, made of unbleached flour and water, was compact, not spongy, and very tasty.

Prior to the arrival of the first chartered plane, the food and housing staff visited Lake Albano where the rowing and canoeing events were to be held. During the Chairman's earlier inspection trip to Rome, it was anticipated that the hour long bus ride to and from the Olympic Village to the lake would prove wearisome and it was arranged that our athletes in those events could have their noonday meal at the Centro Internazionale Pio XII per un Mundo Migliore, the papal summer retreat. Arrangements also were made to provide cots and space in which to rest before a second workout in the afternoon. Later, because of the extreme heat and crowded traffic conditions, this setup proved a blessing.

When the first chartered airliner arrived from the United States on Aug. 12 the athletes aboard were met and escorted by bus to the Village where they were assigned to their quarters. Luggage followed by truck and was distributed in short order. The next three charter flights were met and handled in the same manner so by Aug. 16, most of the U. S. Olympic team was in the Village. The fifth and final plane, carrying the men's track and field team, plus the basketball squad, arrived on Aug. 23.

With the exception of the Yachting group which was housed in Naples, close to the site of their competition, the entire US Team was now assembled in the Village. This also included the Equestrian team which had arrived after several months competition throughout Europe.

Every effort was made by our Committee to meet the requirements of each of the teams and provide for their well being. Herman Rusch efficiently supervised all meals in the dining room and arranged for box lunches for those requesting them. Irwin Weiss was untiring in his efforts to foresee the needs of the several hundred men residing in the US building and all of the women living in the women's compound were cognizant of the thoughtfulness of Ethel Fisher and her attention to small details which made for a comfortable and pleasant stay. Catherine Meyer carefully kept the records of arrivals and departures of USA personnel and prepared detailed daily reports for the Village Accounting Department.

The Organizing Committee, under Village Director Fabre, did everything possible to make the United States contingent comfortable and content. Major S. Vasante and Captain Manlio Angelino who were in charge of the buildings housing the USA men, were most helpful and worked closely with our staff. The buildings in the women's compound were staffed by a group of volunteer professors on summer vacation from their teaching duties in schools and universities. These women, after a training and orientation session during July, were on hand to greet the women athletes from all over the world. Professor A. Gotta in charge of this group and, in particular, her assistant, E. C. Nardi, as well as Professor E. Gismondi who supervised the building which housed the USA girls, were most efficient and cooperative.

Work also is progressing on building up informational files on all persons who through the years have participated in the Olympic Games as US representatives, coaches, managers, trainers, etc. Scrapbooks containing press clippings and photographs of Olympic personalities and events also are being completed for the official library files.

During the past four years, an "Olympic News Letter" was published periodically with a mailing list of approximately 4,500. Twelve issues were published during the period of 1957-1960 inclusive, many of the issues running 16 or 20 pages in content.

For the trip to the Rome Games a team dispatching station was set up at the Vanderbilt Hotel in New York City. Here each successive plane-load of athletes checked in for two days of processing—a procedure which involved the examination of passports and other documents, the conduct of medical examinations, the making of official individual photo portraits, and the issuance of wardrobes supplied to team members. Direction of this entire operation was the responsibility of Charles E. J. Kunz of the U. S. Olympic headquarters staff; he carried out the prodigious task involved with his characteristic efficiency and unfailing attention to detail.

Similar processing was done prior to the Pan American Games and Winter Games, but on a greatly reduced scale.

Thomas F. Lennon, whose principal and invaluable Olympic service in recent years has been rendered as chairman of the Association's finance committee, once again filled a second position in 1959 and 1960, that of Assistant Secretary. His performance in this role was of great help to the organization as a whole, and particularly to its Secretary.

Readers of this 1960 U. S. Olympic Book will quickly note that its overall makeup differs essentially from that of previous issues. Earlier volumes were in effect reports of the USOA's and USOC's internal operations as well as reviews of United States participation in the three great international sports competitions. In this instance the stress has been placed on athletics rather than administration, in the hope that a more complete and more interesting record book would result. The 1960 U. S. Olympic Book presents an exhaustive account of the performances of the various teams and their members, but the detailed reports from the Games Committee chairmen, the team coaches, and the managers — documents of vital importance, but of principal interest intramurally—have been diverted to a new publication, Quadrennial Report, which will be distributed to U. S. Olympic Association and Committee members in December.

The Olympic program for these past four years was grievously marred by the death on May 27, 1960, of John "Terry" McGovern, long-time legal advisor of the USOA and its officers, and of a succession of Olympic Committees. His loss was severe, and keenly felt in many circles. Terry McGovern possessed wit and charm, intellectual brilliance, and powers of incisive analysis and clear presentation which were not dulled as his years advanced through the seventies and into the eighties. He was dedicated to many and varied outside interests, Olympism in this country holding a major place among them. He gave unstintingly of his time, energy, and self to the USOA. Significantly, the last day which he spent in his law office was devoted almost exclusively to Olympic business. Your Secretary shares heavily in the poignant sense of loss felt by all of Terry's associates; to him Terry was for 25 years an ever-ready guide, a sage counselor, and a good friend in need and out.

Best Of Medical And Training Services Were Provided For All U. S. A. Teams At Games

(Editor's Note—T. Nelson Metcalf, chairman of the USOC Medical and training services committee, has been with the U. S. Olympic Association since 1929 and served in many administrative capacities at the 1936, 1948, 1952, 1956, and 1960 Olympic Games. He retired as director of athletics at the University of Chicago in 1956 but continued his association with the USOC. He was retained by the Olympic Winter Games Organizing Committee to serve as administrative consultant during the competition at Squaw Valley in 1960. Currently he is a member of the USOC executive board.

ONE of the great responsibilities accepted by the United States Olympic Committee concerns that of providing the very best of medical and training services for the members of its sports teams during the three sets of Games. This assignment was entrusted to the U. S. Olympic Medical and Training Services Committee of which T. Nelson Metcalf was chairman.

This group and its sub-committee on trainers thoroughly screened the applications of 27 physicians, 20 nurses, and 42 athletic trainers, all of whom had volunteered their services without remuneration. Final appointments of committee members was made in March, 1959 and the committee based its selections on several principles which past Olympic experience had proved sound.

In choosing team physicians, the committee found it desirable to consider only those who had experience both as athletic team doctors and as internists or general practitioners. The very limited quotas established by the International Olympic Committee virtually precluded the selection of specialists.

The committee also sought to place in each official team delegation at least one doctor who was experienced in the supervision of athletic trainers.

Nurses who had gained experience in student infirmaries or large general hospitals were preferred while trainers were best qualified in having one or two degrees in physical education, or certificates in physical therapy, besides long experience as team trainers under competent medical supervision.

Those chosen deserve the thanks not only of the U. S. Olympic Committee but of all members of the official Games delegations. All of them donated their time and effort, often at personal sacrifice. They made themselves available not only for the trip which covered several weeks but for the weeks of pre-departure training periods. At the Games, their work was such that they rarely saw the competitions.

The approved selections for the three sets of Games were as follows:

1959 PAN AMERICAN GAMES

Team physicians—Dr. Willis L. Jacobus, Los Angeles, Calif., and Dr. Loyal W. Combs, Purdue University student health service, Lafayette, Ind.

Nurses—Mrs. Anne M. Mitchell, N. J., and Miss Joann Wojciechowicz, Bronx, N. Y.

Trainers—James C. Emmerich (head trainer), South Dakota State College, Brookings, S. D.; Marshall Cook, Montana State College, Bozeman, Mont.; Robert H. Gunn, Goose Creek Consolidated Independent School District, Baytown, Tex.; M. Sgt Fred Lenn, U.S. Marine Corps, Washington, D.C.; William F. X. Linskey, Cambridge, Mass.; Mrs. Irene L. Pohl, Wayne, N. J.; Allen Sawdy, Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio; George F. Sullivan, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Nebraska; Richard A. Wargo, University of Connecticut, Storrs, Conn.; and Mrs. Frank J. Wiechec, Plymouth Meeting, Pa. At the outset of the Games two more men were added, Isadore Wasserman, Newark Public Schools, Newark, N.J.; and Georges L. Cointe, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.

A review of the activities by the respective staffs is best given by official reports made by each of the head physicians. Dr. Willis L. Jacobus, who headed the staff at the Pan American Games, revealed that the first duty was to organize and set up provisions for first aid medical care and to assist the various team coaches in preparing the athletes for the events.

"However, while the primary interest was the condition and health of United States athletes, advice and treatment was given athletes of visiting nations as well," Dr. Jacobus said.

"To assist the doctors in their care of the athletes," the report continued, "the trainers were given assignments to the various teams and, as far as possible, the trainers stayed with those groups for the entire period. In addition, the two nurses lived in the Shoreland Hotel quarters with the women athletes. Training quarters and a first aid station were established in the Burton-Judson Court at the University of Chicago (Pan American Village for the athletes), while a similar center was maintained at the Shoreland.

"Equipment and supplies included all necessary medicines, first aid materials, tape and bandages, hypodermic syringes, whirlpool bath, ultrasonic radiation machine, heat lights, moist packs, and a diathermy machine.

"Practically all the care for the athletes could be accomplished in this manner but provisions were made for admission to the Billing Memorial Hospital located close by to the housing quarters, should any serious illness or injury occur. In addition, the City of Chicago Health Department maintained and staffed facilities at the various athletic areas so that 24-hour service was in effect.

There were some problems encountered by Dr. Jacobus and the staff. Many athletes came to Chicago without first having taken the physical examination qualifying them for competition but the staff cleared this without difficulty. Other problems peculiar to the sport involved also were handled in satisfactory manner.

The swimmers had the usual ear difficulties but no serious infections resulted to keep the athlete from competition. The track and field athletes had the usual pulled muscles and sprains but only one of the 57 members of that team had to withdraw from the Games. The cyclists were victims of spills which took place in the cross-country racing and at the velodrome. One fractured small bone of the wrist was treated by rigid casting and the cyclist was able to participate in his event.

A moderately severe heel infection hospitalized one of the US pole vaulters but treatment was so successful that he was released in time to compete, winning the gold medal. The wrestlers encountered the usual pyodermic skin conditions, were treated accordingly, and none were kept from taking part in the Games.

Holding of the Olympic Winter Games in Squaw Valley, a new area not presenting medical facilities before the Games, offered some complications for Dr. Avery E. Sturm who headed the US medical staff, inadvertently, medical and training supplies for the US team were delivered to the unit responsible for overall medical and hospital service at the Games. In addition, there was some confusion with respect as to who was responsible for the care of athletes in any specific condition. The problem was further complicated by the arrangement of having a multitude of doctors on the Games medical staff, each holding clinic for a few hours every several days so that each patient was seen by a different doctor on each visit.

However, as Dr. Sturm reported, these problems were all satisfactorily ironed out within a few days after the teams arrived at Squaw Valley.

As would be expected in an area of winter sports, with rapid temperature changes and extreme exposures, the majority of the team members seen by Dr. Sturm and his staff were for either mild respiratory infections or cases of influenza that was moderately prevalent at that time.

"Linda Meyers sustained a fractured clavicle in the women's giant slalom and Beverly Buhr, a speed skater who elected to go skiing after her competition had ended, sustained a fractured ankle in a rope tow fall. Only two athletes were unable to finish competition because of injury; the first was Miss Meyers and the second was Lawrence Palmer, reserve goalie on the US hockey team who sustained an internal derangement of his right knee on Feb. 16 and was unable to play until the final game," Dr. Sturm said.

"The number of muscle and ligament injuries was far below that anticipated for such a long period of practice and competition, thus testifying to a remarkably fine conditioning period for these athletes before the Games started," Dr. Sturm concluded.

The Race Committee for the Winter Games in its care of the courses and its scheduling of events helped promote the best possible competition with the least possible probability of injury to the contestants. In addition, the National Ski Patrol very adequately provided for the patrol of the areas and effected removal of any injured athlete with alacrity.

Prime object of the medical and training staff for the Olympic Games at Rome was to give 24-hour coverage to the health needs of the US athletes. Dr. Harry M. McPhee, head physician for the 1960 team, in his report, revealed that as the various teams assembled in the USA, the trainer or trainers assigned to them would join the squad and remain at its service throughout the pre-departure training period and the Games at Rome.

"This was regarded as the primary responsibility of each trainer," Dr. McPhee, who also headed the medical staffs at the 1952 Olympic Games and the 1955 Pan American Games, pointed out. "However, he was called upon for secondary duties such as covering the general training rooms in the evenings on a scheduled basis. The women athletes were covered in similar fashion by the women trainers."

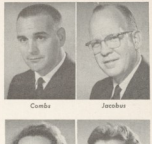

The training staff turned in a splendid job and it was not always easy. There was delay in delivery of supplies; in some instances, material was never located. There was considerable difficulty experienced in getting the electrical voltage reduced to a level which was safe for certain appliances brought with the team from the States. Ingenuity came to the fore in this unnecessarily prolonged crisis and an Italian electrical washing machine was converted into a whirlpool bath which operated satisfactorily for the ankle, leg, elbow, and wrist. This, plus hot towels and experienced hands turned what might have been a lost week into a successful program of therapy.

The nurses and Dr. Daniel F. Hanley set up quarters in the Hotel Vanderbilt, New York City, during the processing of all athletes prior to departure for Rome. Besides giving 13 physical examinations and two vaccinations to those who neglected to have it done by their family physicians, this staff administered to 25 cases of injury and illness which had occurred to team members. Meanwhile Dr. McPhee had proceeded to Rome in advance of the team, setting up a clinic to receive the athletes upon arrival.

The physical set-up at the Olympic Village was convenient in that the medical quarters and the men's training area were adjacent to each other. In the apartment housing the training unit, three rooms were set aside as living quarters for the men trainers. The kitchen served as a massage, supply and storage room while the fifth room was used as an hydrotherapy and bathroom. One room in the medical apartment was the doctors' living quarters, one was a clinic room, another was a three-bed ward, while the kitchen was given to the trainers for electrotherapy. The modalities available included a whirlpool, hydrocolator, ultrasonic unit, and several infra-red lamps. The women trainers and nurses resided at the women's quarters in the Village and maintained a small infirmary and therapy room.

During the four weeks in Rome, the trainers gave more than 350 treatments and massages to athletes not only from the USA but from many foreign countries. The medical staff handled 291 cases of injury and illness among the men for a total of 596 visits. Five of these were severe enough to warrant one or two days in the infirmary. A total of 107 cases among the women were handled for a total of 184 visits of which none was held overnight.

No cases could be considered of a serious nature. The major problem was gastroenteritis which accounted for 84 cases among the males and 24 among the women athletes. They were associated with the extreme heat and indisgressions in the food and liquid consumption following exercise. These cases faded with the advent of cool weather during the last week.

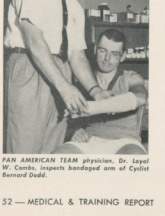

Upper respiratory disease was second in importance and 52 cases were seen among the men; 26 among the women. All cases were mild. As for injuries, there were 59 recorded to men with mild sprains and contusions the most frequent. The 26 cases of injury to women athletes were varied.

Championship Performance In All Olympic Sports Goal Of U. S. Development Program

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The Olympic competitions at Melbourne in 1956 and at Rome in 1960 clearly demonstrate that the United States no longer can rely upon its superiority in a few sports to achieve international prestige in the field of amateur athletics. The purposeful drive of Soviet Russia to excel in all sports on the Olympic Games program, along with the emergence of Germany, Poland, Italy, Australia, Hungary, Great Britain, and Japan as top flight contenders, each with the same objective, has brought about a new perspective.

Prior to World War II, the United States preparation for the Olympic Games was rather casual. Our interest and superior coaching—at least, in those particular sports we preferred — were in most instances good enough to take care of the opposition. But since World War II, the Olympic competitive picture has changed. The sports that Americans felt were their own and in which they excelled (basketball, track and field, and swimming are examples) are no longer the exclusive province of the USA.

A better international exchange of coaching methods and the far-flung positioning of U. S. armed forces brought the hitherto "American" sports to countries the world over. Furthermore, the extreme nationalistic approach to Olympic competition, best exemplified by the USSR, and the political overtones in the ideological conflict between East and West have changed the emphasis in the Games to a comparison of the total performance of nations, rather than individual achievements.

Recovery of national economy and health status in those nations ravaged by World War II also is a contributing factor.

In this current world of tensions and suspicions, a show of strength in all sports by the United States is needed to further our relationships with the many other nations in the world to whom USA prowess in Olympic competition is a measuring standard of national character.

To this end, the U. S. Olympic Committee has moved to build up its athletic potential through an Olympic Development program whose activities are outlined by Chairman Thomas J. Hamilton in the following report.

Hamilton, a member of the USOC executive board, is executive officer of the Athletic Association of Western Universities, taking that position in 1959 after a 10-year term as athletic director at the University of Pittsburgh. He was head football coach at his alma mater, the U.S. Naval Academy, from 1934-1937, then took up naval service. He was in charge of the Navy pre-flight training program in 1942 and 1943, later rose to the rank of admiral. He returned to the Naval Academy in 1946 for another term as football coach.)

THE Development Committee was formed by the USOC Executive Board at its meeting on September 5, 1958 following the recommendations of a Survey committee. The Committee consists of the following members of the USOC Executive Board: Walter Byers, James S. Simms, Willard N. Greim, Willis O. Hunter, General Emmett O'Donnell, Jr., Albert F. Whettle, and Thomas J. Hamilton, Chairman.

The Committee purpose is to assist the many committees to initiate and carry out planning and preparations to insure our U. S. Olympic teams attaining top international standards.

Willis Hunter, who was appointed as coordinator, has been outstanding in his work. His dedication and devotion to the Olympic cause have accomplished much of the results in this development area, and the U. S. Olympic Committee has been very fortunate to have a man of his long experience in athletics and multitudinous contacts in the field to hold this post.

It was recognized that in the past, the USA efforts have been too spasmodic and concentrated merely in the year of the Olympiad. It also was evident that a constant program for improvement of our Olympic program must be carried out throughout each of the years. This is an aim of the Development Committee. Ways and means not now utilized, and expansion and improvement of our present programs must be constantly sought.

The following aims became the working code of the Committee:

1. Continued coordinated programs for Olympic development in all sports should be instituted.

2. Respective Olympic Games Committees should prepare plans for clinics and the improvement of teachers, instructors, coaches, and top contestants.

3. Clinics and development programs should be established for age groups beginning from 10 to 14 years.

Report by
THOMAS J. HAMILTON
Chairman, Olympic Development

4. Expansion of these programs should be sought in all parts of the country.

5. Encouraging the provision of more and better facilities.

6. Striving for uniformity of our rules with international rules where possible.

7. Encouraging and seeking more international competition.

8. Supporting research, tests, and studies of training methods and equipment.

9. Encouraging early appointment of US coaches, and providing opportunities for them to study foreign competition and methods.

10. Establishing a broad incentive award system to build up the Olympic ideal and the honor of making Olympic teams.

The development program, authorized in December, 1958, was implemented in preparation for the Pan American Games, the Winter Olympic Games, and the Olympic Games in Rome. The USOC Games Committees were informed of the plans for the development and clinical programs, and were requested to submit their plans, recommendations and budgets to better prepare for the Pan American Games competition, and to enlarge the number of participants and alternates in order to fully utilize these activities to improve our top competitors for the Olympic Games. While all the games committees did not avail themselves of the opportunity of a development program, the majority did. The results of our competition in the Pan American games, demonstrated the merits of the program when the United States teams made the best record in the history of Pan American competition. Especially successful were the development training periods of swimming, wrestling, boxing, gymnastics and women's track and field.

DEVELOPMENT

The Winter games committees are to be congratulated for their splendid initiative and action in conducting development operations throughout the year for the top contenders of our teams. Their resourcefulness in using, in many instances, preliminary international competition and other well planned events was conducive to the improved results that the United States team had in the Winter games at Squaw Valley. Here again the showing of the United States team was the best of any of the Olympic Winter Games held, and demonstrated the necessity of clinical and development programs and the effectiveness of international competition in giving the experience to teams and individuals which is so essential.

In preparation for the Olympic Games in Rome, almost every games committee through their coaches and managers, planned a development and clinical program. Again, in appraising the results of the achievement of our teams in Rome, it is significant that our teams in almost every instance made better records in the face of the keenest competition of all the Olympic games. This was particularly true of the sports in which heretofore our records were not so successful. This can be credited to the conscientious effort on the part of the Games committees and coaches and managers, who conducted their respective development programs. (NOTE—The activities of the various Games committees relating to development are chronicled in the reviews of each sport.)

The development committee is now engaged in receiving the evaluations and recommendations of all the Games Committees following their experiences. These thoughtful observations should prove to be very valuable for our future Olympic activities. An attempt will be made to produce a comprehensive plan based on these recommendations.

Some successful features are already evident. The use of trials to select a large Olympic squad where competitors were notified that place winners and alternates would compete and train together until final selection was made by coaches after the development period. This procedure was successful for wrestling, boxing, and gymnastics. Earlier selection of coaches is desirable, and greater delegation of responsibility and authority to them is indicated.

The work of the Development Committee has shown results. It is evident from the vast improvement of the athletes of other nations that the partial awakening of our US officials toward development must change into full scale alarm and concern. There must be no complacency nor even delay in changing our attitudes toward accomplishing improvements, and toward the taking of large pioneering steps in the establishing of many relatively new sports to us as important national activities.

If the United States competes in a sport on the Olympic calendar, we will be doing our country a great disservice if the USOC and its responsible committees do not produce teams worthy of our nation in contending for gold medals. Much has to be done. A great Olympic incentive must be instilled, and superimposed on all other athletic ambitions in our country, and hard, solid work must be accomplished to broaden the base of participation in all directions. Then intelligent direction and guidance are necessary to produce a system of progressive competition and the athletes who will be world and Olympic champions.

APPOINTMENT OF ATTACHE AND ACTIVITIES DIRECTOR AIDED U.S. ROME OPERATION

ADMINISTRATION of U. S. Olympic Team affairs was helped considerably during the Games at Rome by delegating special duties to two individuals who were experienced in the customs and ways of the host nation.

Serving as team attache was George "Ed" Hill, executive editor of the Rome Daily American. A resident of Rome since September, 1951, Hill was appointed team attache by the USOC early in 1959 and he devoted a great deal of his time to effect such arrangements as needed to make the stay in Rome a pleasant one for the members of the official party. Hill, who is an American citizen and who had 28 years of newspaper experience in the United States in addition to being editor of the Stars and Stripes in the Mediterranean during World War II, met frequently with Italian Olympic officials to facilitate planning. On many occasions, he acted as liaison officer for the U. S. Olympic Committee particularly during the period prior to the Games and proved a decided asset to the administrative staff.

Hill

Helser

For the first time, an activities director was appointed by the USOC to coordinate the many requests for sight-seeing tours and entertainment by athletes whose competition had concluded, as well as to screen the many offers by Roman citizenry to entertain team members.

Selected for this position was a former gold medal winner for the United States . . . Countess Brenda Helser de Morelos of Meudon, France.

In 1948, as Miss Helser, she won a gold medal as a member of the United States women's 400 meter free style swimming relay team. She also competed in the 100 meter free style, being eliminated in the semi-finals, and finished fifth in the 400 meter individual event.

The activities director concentrated mainly on arranging tours for the athletes, channeling information on shopping suggestions, church services, and entertainments. She also organized several official tours, financed by the USOC.

As might be expected, she was swamped with requests of all kinds, the most unique being one from a young man on the team whose father had commissioned him to close a $40,000 sweater importing deal. He needed a contact in Rome and one was provided!

Both the attache and activities director served on a voluntary basis and the USOC is extremely grateful to these two hard working individuals who devoted many hours to making the Team's visit to Rome a memorable one.

Armed Forces Play Important Role In U. S. Olympic Committee Preparations For Games

Editor's Note—The Armed Forces have played an important role in U.S. Olympic Committee activities, not only in developing athletic talent for the teams, but raising considerable sums of money for the Olympic Fund and serving on all Games committees. Here are the reports by the respective services.

REPORT OF U. S. ARMY ACTIVITIES
By Col. Donald F. Hull

THE United States Army is proud of its traditional part in the National Olympic effort. In addition to supporting the traditionally military events of shooting (all rifle and pistol positions), biathlon (skiing and rifle shooting), and modern pentathlon (riding, fencing, pistol shooting, swimming and running), outstanding athletes of every sport were provided an opportunity to try for U. S. Pan American and Olympic Teams, and if successful, arrangements were made for them to participate. The record shows that the Army members of the various teams contributed their share of US victories.

A prodigious amount of planning and administration was performed by the Adjutant General's Office, Department of the Army, to be sure that equal opportunity was provided soldier athletes wherever they might be stationed throughout the world. Difficulty was experienced in determining the capabilities of Olympic candidates in comparisons of previous periods for this time no all-army championships were held.

In former years Army athletes progressed through the normal Army Sports program from post to major command competition, then to all-army championships in at least those sports that were particularly popular with the American youth serving in the Army. Usually boxing, basketball, shooting, swimming, tennis, track and triathlon (to find modern pentathlon competitors) all-army competitions were conducted in previous years.

This time only shooting was conducted on a progressive worldwide basis that culminated in an all-army competition. In all other sports a selection system was used. After coordinating an Army athlete's application for an Olympic tryout with the US Olympic Sport Committee involved, the Army Sports Branch in the Special Services Division of the Adjutant General's Office made the decision as to whether or not the Olympic applicant's record merited a training opportunity. When the decision was affirmative the Army athlete was normally notified that he was qualified to compete in preliminary Olympic Trials and he was authorized to devote two hours a day to physical training. If he progressed through preliminary competitions, he was assigned to duty at a station where he could be assured of maximum training opportunity for at least 60 days before the final Olympic Trials in his particular sport.

Inter-Service competition between the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Marines was conducted in basketball, boxing, tennis and track so that in these sports the Army Olympic candidates were those selected to represent the Army against the other Armed Forces. In all other sports, the Army athletes were assigned to duty at a station nearest the civilian facility where he would have an opportunity to train and prepare for the Pan American and Olympic Trials.

Special conditions influenced the Army action in a few sports. The West Point ice hockey and gymnastic coaches were named Olympic coaches of their respective sports. The outgoing Superintendent at West Point, Lieutenant General Garrison H. Davidson, permitted them to train their Olympic teams at West Point. Therefore the Army ice hockey and gymnastic aspirants were sent to West Point so they could train under the supervision of their future Olympic coaches, Jack Riley and Tom Maloney. The Army wrestlers also trained at West Point. The Olympic biathlon team trained at Camp Hale, Colorado but facilities there are no longer adequate and Army biathlon competitors now train at Ft. Richardson, Alaska.

The 1959 Pan American Games in Chicago gave those Army members selected for the various US teams their opportunity to show what they could do as representatives of their country on the field of sport. The result is a brilliant record of Army sports achievement. Counting each place that an Army athlete gained whether an individual winner or a team member, the Army athletes accounted for 57 gold, seven silver, and seven bronze medals! A large proportion of this staggering total was amassed in the shooting events which the US Army members completely dominated. Army-trained athletes also won the other traditionally military event as the Modern Pentathlon team finished first in the team ratings and Sgt Leslie Bleamaster won an individual third-place medal.

The Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley saw eleven members of the Army on the US winter sports teams. In biathlon (cross country skiing and rifle shooting) Army athletes placed higher in Olympic cross country skiing than ever before but their shooting was not up to standard. Three members of the Army, including a former West Point Ice Hockey team player, were on the champion US ice hockey team. One was Private First Class Jack McCartan, the goalie. Pfc McCartan of Fort Carson, Colorado also was the third baseman of the US baseball team in the 1956 [illegible] Games.

The Department of the Army provided a tremendous amount of logistical support in the operation of the Winter Games at Squaw Valley. They included the [illegible] ed the use of much heavy equipment and special engineering and signal units in addition to the manpower for snow packing, trail breaking, forerunning during the competition, etc. It is believed that the units that engineered and constructed skiing courses and the signal units that handled many communications undoubtedly received much valuable technical and field training from this service.

When the teams were all selected for the Summer Games in Rome, the Army had an athlete or athletes on every US team except in two sports.

In addition, the Army provided brief training camps for two teams. The new superintendent at West Point, Major General William C. Westmoreland, immediately advised the USOC that the excellent athletic facilities at West Point were available to any team wishing to do its final training there. The basketball team accepted this generous offer and assembled at West Point for its final stateside training. Fort Dix, New Jersey provided the final boxing training for the the US Olympic boxing team. The tremendous improvement of the US team under the able coaching of Julio Menendez and Ben Becker attest to the satisfaction of this arrangement.

Meanwhile, San Jose State College boxing coach, had been sent to Europe earlier by the Army to handle the Armed Forces boxing champions in the International Military championships. This gave him valuable international experience to prepare our Olympic boxing team. Menendez and Becker were ably assisted by Army's Major Bob Surkein, Jim Wood, and M/Sgt Pat Nappi.

The total Army personnel in the official US Olympic Team party that journeyed to Rome included 32 athletes and eight on the coaching, managing or administrative staff. The athletes included women's canoeist Gloria Perrier from the Pentagon and the administrative group included Captain Celeste Hayden, AMSC, from Brooke Army Hospital.

Army gold medal winners were: Don Bragg, pole vault; Doug Blubaugh, wrestling; Eddie Crook, boxing; Ted Nash, rowing; Bill Nieder, shot put; and Adrian Smith, basketball. A silver medal was won by Irwin Roberson in the broad jump, and bronze medals by Jack Daniels and George Lambert in the Modern Pentathlon. Probably the toughest luck of any Army Olympic aspirant was experienced by Lieutenant Alan Jackson of the Fourth US Army when a balky horse that refused to move eliminated him during the trials for the Olympic Modern Pentathlon team.

REPORT OF
U. S. AIR FORCE ACTIVITIES
By Colonel Carl C. Hinkle, Jr.

THE 84th Congress enacted Public Law 11, which authorized the secretaries of each service to provide an opportunity for Armed Forces personnel who volunteer, to train for and compete in authorized international sports competitions, including the Pan American and Olympic Games. Further, the law authorized the expenditure of public funds for this purpose.

The responsibility for carrying out this program of selection and training was assigned to the Headquarters USAF Special Services Branch. To assure that every officer and airman, wherever stationed, was informed of the Air Force plans for preparing its qualified athletes for both the Pan American and Olympic competitions, letters concerning the program and information and standards of performance were disseminated throughout the Air Force. This same information was released through the Air Force Times and the Armed Services News Service. High standards of performance were purposely established to provide the local commanders with a realistic tool for screening applications for specialized training.

The approach proved both effective and efficient in that a very high percentage of the applications received by Headquarters USAF were selected and placed in training. Ninety-six (96) members of the Air Force were selected for specialized sports training in preparation for the 1959 Pan American Games. For the Winter Olympic Games, few qualified applications were received with only six (6) athletes being selected for training. The Summer Olympics found 178 applications submitted to Headquarters USAF and 78 being selected for training. Because of the importance of the selective process, applications which were questionable were submitted to the Olympic Games Committee concerned for further evaluation. As a further means of liaison, members of the Air Force participated on 18 AAU committees and 15 Olympic committees during this period.

To assure maximum opportunities for each athlete, both military and civilian coaches and facilities were utilized. Typical examples were exemplified by Coach Clair Bee, New York Military Academy, obtaining a leave of absence to coach and train the USAF basketball team, which was entered in the National AAU Championships, the Armed Forces and Olympic trials; and Mr. William Hargiss, former track coach at the University of Kansas, taking leave of absence from his duties as Secretary of the Kansas State Athletic Commission to coach the USAF Olympic track and field athletes. Additionally, several civilian coaches from leading colleges and universities including the Air Force Academy, volunteered their services.

Whenever a sport had sufficient candidates to justify separate training, the Air Force conducted its own program. Track and field, boxing, wrestling, basketball, rifle and pistol, swimming, volleyball and yachting were conducted in this manner.

When the number was sufficient to justify separate training, the Armed Forces cooperated by training members of their fellow services. Certain other sports required the Air Force to seek help from civilian athletic clubs, schools, etc., namely, rowing—Potomac Boat Club and Lake Washington Boat Club; fencing—New York Athletic Club; water polo—El Segundo and the Nu Pike Swim Clubs; ice hockey—Olympic Committee; and diving—Ohio State University.

Forty-one of the 96 Air Force trainees competed in the Pan American trials and the following members of the Air Force were selected on the teams indicated: Basketball—1st Lt. Robert Jeangerard; Boxing—A/3C Bobby W. Foster, A/3C Dean E. Harrison, (Alternate) A/2C Howard Smith, Jr.; Soccer—(Alternate) 1st Lt. Ronald T. Coder; Volleyball—A/2C Niel Eldredge, A/1C Jacob A. Highland, 1st Lt. Charles T. Nelson, (Alternate) M/Sgt. John Gay; Track & Field—1st Lt. William S. Dellinger, 2d Lt. Max E. Truex, 2d Lt. Clifton E. Cushman; Fencing—A/1C Henry Kolowrat; Rowing—2d Lt. Clayton W. Chapman; Yachting—2d Lt. Richard L. Tillman, 1st Lt. John B. Tillman.

In addition to the competitors, Colonel Carl C. Hinkle and Lt. Colonel Charles E. Allard were official representatives at the Pan American Games and Mr. Charles H. Swift served as manager of the US boxing team.

In preparation for the Olympic Winter Games, few members of the Air Force were qualified for specialized training and only A/2C Weldon H. Olson qualified for an Olympic team. He was a regular on the US ice hockey team which won a gold medal for the United States. Colonel Carl C. Hinkle was again the official Air Force representative at the Winter Games. In addition, the Air Force supported the Winter Games through helicopter lift of personnel, buildings and cable to the peaks and rescue service during the Games. Five officers and 145 enlisted personnel were detailed to Squaw Valley to assist the military group, administrative and maintenance, which totaled 935 personnel. The Army served as coordinating agent for this project with the other services contributing personnel and services as requested.

Of the 78 athletes placed in training for the XVII Olympic Games, 44 qualified to enter the Olympic Trials and the following personnel were selected for the teams indicated: Track & Field—Captain Rudolph J. Haluza, 2d Lt. Tommy Fletcher, 1st Lt. Max E. Truex, (Alternate) 2d Lt. Silas E. Southern; Wrestling—1st Lt. Russell A. Camilleri; Boxing—(Alternate) A/2C Bobby W. Foster; Water Polo—(Alternate) A/2C Anton L. Van Dorp; Yachting—(Alternate) 2d Lt. Richard L. Tillman.

In addition to the above athletes, Lt. General Emmett O'Donnell, Jr., member of the US Olympic Executive Committee, Colonel Carl C. Hinkle, Jr., Air Force Liaison Officer and Lt. Colonel Charles E. Allard, Assistant Manager, US Track and Field Team, represented the Air Force at the Olympic Summer Games.

REPORT OF U. S. NAVY ACTIVITIES
By F. R. Whitby, Jr., Captain, USN

THE U. S. Navy began gearing its sports program for the 1959 Pan American Games, the VIII Winter Olympic Games, and the Games of the XVII Olympiad, in the summer of 1958. By October of 1958, twenty (20) Navy athletes had been assigned to specific duty stations, where training and coaching facilities were available, in order to prepare themselves for the coming Trials in 19 different sports. By January of 1959 this group had increased to a total of 29 and by June of 1959 the group had increased to 60. Of this group in training, 57 individuals actually competed in Pan American Games Trials and 14 were selected to the US Pan American Team. This group won seven gold medals and two bronze medals.

In addition to the above, the facilities of the Great Lakes Naval Station and the US Naval Air Station, Glenview, Illinois, were utilized by the US Pan American Boxing and Basketball Teams respectively just prior to the Games for final training. A Wrestling Clinic sponsored by the US Olympic Wrestling Committee, was also staged just prior to the Games at the Great Lakes Naval Station.

The Fencing and Shooting events of the Pan American Modern Pentathlon competition also took place aboard the Great Lakes Naval Station. In addition, a few US Navy vessels were used to assist in conducting the Pan American Yachting Competition held on Lake Michigan off Chicago's Lake Front.

Captain Frank R. Whitby, Jr., USN, Assistant Chief of Naval Personnel for Morale Services, attended the III Pan American Games as the Navy representative on the US Olympic Committee.

Upon completion of the Pan American Games, the majority of the Navy athletes remained in training. Eight Navy individuals participated in the Winter Olympic Games Trials but none were selected to the US Olympic Team. However, the Navy made a significant contribution to the success of the Winter Games by transforming, at Squaw Valley, an ordinary meadow into an extraordinary parking lot. In fact, it was probably the first such parking lot in the history of the Olympics or of any other event, for that matter, for the lot was paved with snow.

The snow was compacted from between 22 and 24 inches to 1.5 or 16 inches before the automobiles arrived at Squaw Valley. Compacting snow is a technique which the engineers at the Naval Civil Engineering Laboratory in Port Hueneme, California have spent several years studying and developing as part of their Polar Program. Snow compaction was originally intended as a method for constructing landing field in polar areas.

Credit for the job goes to the US Naval Mobile Construction Battalion TEN, Detachment ALFA which was deployed at Squaw Valley from November 1959 to March 1960. In addition to constructing and maintaining the 125-acre compacted snow parking lot, the Battalion constructed and maintained seven (7) compacted snow cross-overs which bridged Squaw Creek. The entire operation was on outstanding success and it is estimated that over 12,000 vehicles per day utilized the parking lot and cross-overs.

Early in 1960, the Navy stepped up its efforts to prepare for the summer Games in Rome, Italy. By May 131 had applied for Olympic training and a total of 82 had been selected for formal training. All those selected were screened and evaluated by the various Olympic Sports Committees as definitely meriting consideration for such training. It should be noted that all Naval personnel assigned to Olympic Training sites were still responsible for performing their routine military duties.

As a result of the various Olympic Trials, 20 individuals made the group of 82 were selected for the US Olympic Team, including four alternates. Sixteen actually competed in the Games at Rome, winning two gold medals and two bronze medals. Lt. (jg) Jeff Farrell, USNR, won gold medals in the 400 and 800 freestyle relays and [illegible] Robert Beck won two bronze medals in the Modern Pentathlon competition.

THIS HUGE ROLLER was used by Navy specialists to pack the heavy snow into a hard surface strong enough to be used as parking areas for automobiles at the Winter Games in Squaw Valley.

Effectiveness Of Development Plan Supported By Overall Good Showing In Games At Rome

United States' overall accomplishments in the 1960 Olympic Games compare favorably with what was considered a great showing at Melbourne in 1956, and, in view of the unparalled competitive challenge at Rome, the USA performance in 1960 augurs well for the future.

Admittedly, the unofficial point systems used by the press rated the United States second to Russia in 'national" standings as was the case in 1956, but there was evidence that a return to the top spot is forthcoming if the present U. S. Olympic Development program, put into motion just three short years ago, continues its rapid growth and effectiveness.

In 1956, the USA led all nations in men's track and field, basketball, rowing, weightlifting, and women's swimming, on a basis of overall placings. It also ranked second in yachting and men's swimming, third in women's track and field and boxing, fourth in modern pentathlon, fifth in water polo, fencing, and free style wrestling, seventh in men's gymnastics, ninth in women's gymnastics, 10th in shooting, 11th in field hockey, tied for 10th in equestrian, and 12th in Greco-Roman wrestling. It failed to place in canoeing, cycling, soccer football.

Against this, Russia posted "firsts" in nine sports (women's track and field, boxing, canoeing, men's gymnastics, women's gymnastics, modern pentathlon (tie), shooting, soccer football, and Greco-Roman wrestling). The Soviet athletes also were second in five more sports, third in two others, and no lower than 10th in any of the remaining sports with the exception of yachting where they failed to score.

At Rome, the United States retained its supremacy in men's track and field, basketball, and women's swimming, adding men's swimming this time but relinquishing rowing and weightlifting laurels. However, the USA could point to runner-up positions in modern pentathlon, shooting, weightlifting, and free style wrestling plus thirds in women's track and field, boxing, rowing, and yachting.

The USA also was seventh in equestrian, fencing, men's gymnastics, and water polo, plus a ninth in women's gymnastics. It failed to score placement points in canoeing, cycling, and Greco-Roman wrestling; had no team entries in field hockey and soccer football.

Figured on the system for scoring cross country (1 point for first, 2 for second ,etc., with the low total deciding the winner) the USA scored 82 points in 1956 but improved that to 61 in 1960 (comparing only those sports in which the USA had entries both times).

At Rome, Russia retained first honors in overall ratings for five sports (women's track and field, canoeing, women's gymnastics, shooting, and Greco-Roman wrestling), adding fencing and weightlifting crowns, while relinquishing boxing, men's gymnastics, modern pentathlon, and soccer. Russia also was second in seven sports, third in two more, and no lower than ninth in any of the remaining.

Like the USA it did not have a team entered in field hockey or soccer because of pre-game elimination.

On the same cross country scoring system then, Russia had 57 points in 1956, lowered it to 50 in 1960.

From a standpoint of the number of actual medals won (for instance, four athletes on a winning relay team actually received a gold medal), the United States harvested 68 "golds" in 1960 as opposed to 60 in 1956. On the same basis, Russia picked up 56 gold medals in 1960; it garnered 61 in 1956.

This represents a gain for the USA; a decrease for Russia.

* In official placings, only one medal is credited to a country where team classification exists. For example, the USA won the gold medal in basketball; however there were 12 players on the team, each of whom did receive a gold medal. Relay teams in track, canoeing, swimming; crews in canoeing and rowing; equestrian and cycling teams, are other similar examples, thus leading to a compilation of "actual" medals given.

Impressive Ceremonies Thrilled Thousands At Opening Of Games In Stadio Olimpico

(EDITOR'S NOTE—The following account of the opening ceremonies at the Stadio Olimpico on Thursday, August 25, 1960, was published in official bulletin No. 21 by the Italian Olympic Organizing Committee).

The Opening Ceremony of the Games of the XVII Olympiad was solemnly celebrated on the afternoon of August 25. The Greek ideal of physical strength, the songs of Pindar and Virgil, the blue sky of Athens echoing to the athletes' shouts of joy evoked once again, during a delightful Roman summer, their imperishable legend.

The proclamation of Opening pronounced by the President of the Italian Republic, the arrival of the Torch and the pure white five-ringed flag flying on the flagstaff of the Olympic Stadium offered the certainty to the immense public present at the Ceremony that an Olympiad signified not only the sweat and tears of a marathonaite or the race of a sprinter, but the sign of understanding and the confirmation that man has neither forgotten himself nor his fellow-men.

The Ceremony was initiated in an air of extreme spiritual tension, whilst the bands of the Carabinieri, the Italian Air Force, the Guardie di Finanza and the Pubblica Sicurezza played in turn a select musical programme. At 4:30 p.m., received by political and sports authorities, the President of the Italian Republic, the Hon. Giovanni Gronchi, entered the President's stand accompanied by the Presidents of the I.O.C. and the Organizing Committee. The "Olympic fanfares," immediately followed by the Italian National Anthem, greeted the Head of the Italian State.

Next came the parade of athletes, divided up into nations in accordance with Italian alphabetical order.

A large brotherhood of sportsmen, united in the spirit of chivalry, paraded in the stadium heralded by a fanfare played by ten trumpeters who preceded the column at the head of which was to be seen Greece, an honour which is hers in each Olympiad. Behind the Greek athletes followed the representatives of the 83 countries, each preceded by a nameboard bearer and a standard-bearer carrying the national flag. This impressive parade finished up with the Italian athletes who were greeted with resounding applause. As soon as the Italian athletes entered the Stadium, the historical words of De Coubertin appeared on the electric sign-board: "The most important thing in the Olympic Games is not to win but to take part, just as the most important thing in life is not the triumph but the struggle to have fought well".

THE UNITED STATES Olympic Team rounds the track before parading to the infield of Stadio Olimpico for the opening ceremonies of the 1960 Olympic Games.

THE ITALIAN honor guard carries the Olympic Flag while the athletes from 85 nations mass in the center of Stadio Olimpico for the opening ceremonies.

At this stage of the Ceremony, the Hon. Giulio Andreotti, President of the Organizing Committee, made his way to the rostrum accompanied by the President of the I.O.C., and then made his address of "welcome." Mr. Avery Brundage then addressed the following invitation to the Head of the Italian State: "I have the honour to invite the President of the Italian Republic to proclaim open the Games of the XVII Olympiad of the Modern Era, initiated by the Baron Pierre de Coubertin in 1896".

The crowd thronging the Olympic Stadium was moved by the solemnity and importance of the occasion to the heights of spiritual tension.

The Head of the State then pronounced the traditional formula: "I declare open the Olympic Games of Rome, celebrating the XVII Olympiad of the Modern Era".

Immediately after this, the military bands, by playing the Olympic Hymn, announced the entrance into the Stadium of the white flag with the five interlaced rings, blue, yellow, black, green and red in colour. Four sailors slowly hoisted the flag on the highest flagpole whilst, to complete the unforgettable suggestiveness of the scene, the choir of the Santa Cecelia Academy sang the Olympic hymn.

Whilst the last notes of the song faded away into the sky of Rome, the Mayor of the City, followed by two valets in dress uniform, approached the rostrum to receive from both the Mayor of Melbourne and the President of the I.O.C. the Olympic flag (in embroidered satin, donated in 1920 by the Belgian Olympic Committee) which will be kept in the Town Hall until the next Olympiad in Tokyo.

Then followed the symbolic release of pigeons and a salvo of cannon-fire. Immediately after this, the flame coming from Olympia, after having travelled 1,532 Kms. (approximately 950 miles), reached the Stadium carried by the provincial champion of the Rome secondary schools. Whilst the athlete was lighting the Olympic Flame, the "blue" Adolfo Consolini accompanied by the standard-bearer with the Italian flag, made his way towards the rostrum to take the oath. The flags of all the nations participating then formed a semi-circle around the rostrum and Adolfo Consolini, after having raised with his left hand a corner of the flag, lifted his right hand and pronounced the following oath: "In the name of all competitors I swear that we will take part in these Olympic Games, respecting and abiding by the rules which govern them, in the true spirit of sportsmanship, for the glory of sport and honour of our country."

The Italian National Anthem, sung by the choir of Santa Cecelia to the accompaniment of the Carabinieri band, ended a ceremony which will remain engraved in the history of Sport.

THE PROVINCIAL champion of the Roman secondary schools, last runner in the torch relay, lights the Olympic Flame high in the Stadio Olimpico.

The Lighting Of The Olympic Torch

(EDITOR'S NOTE—The following account was published in the official bulletin (No. 21) by the Italian Olympic Organizing Committee).

The ceremony of the lighting of the Olympic Torch took place at 9.30 a.m. on August 12, at Olympia. Present at the ceremony was the Official Italian Delegation, composed of the President of the Olympic Torch Committee, Aldo Mairano, the Secretary, Alfredo Langellotti, and General Tommaso Calise, Commandant of the Olympic Military Detachment.

Immediately after the lighting of the Flame by means of burning glasses, the Olympic relay immediately began its journey along the following route: Olympia, Pyrgos, Patras, Corinth, Megara, Eleusis and Athens. Arriving at Athens at 9.00 p.m. on August 13 at the Panathinoikon Stadium, the Torch was received by Greek political authorities and sport officials. The Olympic Flame continued its journey in direction of the port of Zea near Piraeus where H. R. H. Prince Constantine of Greece handed over the Torch to the Vice-President of the Organizing Committee, Mr. Piero Oneglio. The Flame was then handed over to an Italian naval cadet who carried it to the training ship "Amerigo Vespucci." The "Amerigo Vespucci" left Syracuse at 11.00 p.m., and on August 18 the symbolic flame was brought to Italian soil; beside the Arethusa Spring the first tripod was lit at 8:30 p.m. From here the spectacular race of torch bearers was "off" en route for Rome. At 9.00 p.m. on August 24 the Olympic Flame was triumphantly received in the Campidoglio, having covered a total distance of 1,532.800 kms. in 1,187 laps (approx mately 950 miles).

The next day at 5:00 p.m. the Olympic Torch left the Capitol [illegible] the following route: Campidoglio, Piazza Venezia, Piazza Colonna, Piazza del Popolo, Via Flaminia, Piazza Apolloduro, Ponte Milvio, Lungotevere [illegible] Delle Central Headquarters of the Organizing Committee, Athletes' Village and passage to Stadio dei Marmi and the Olympic Stadium at 5:40 p.m.

OLYMPIC CEREMONIES

AN UNFORGETTABLE MOMENT in the closing ceremonies for the 1960 Olympic Games in Stadio Olimpico. The Olympic Flag, held by its bearer by eight students from the Institute of Physical Education (lower left), is paraded slowly while the notes of stirring march music fade and a five salvoes of cannon fire resound through the air from the slopes of Monte Mario.

Parade Of Flags Highlighted Closing Ceremonies

(From Official Bulletin No. 22)

The Closing Ceremony of the Games of the XVII Olympiad was held on September 11 in the Olympic Stadium, starting at 6:30 p.m., immediately after the termination of the team Jumping Grand Prix, the last of the Olympic events.

The long file of flag-bearers of the various Delegations, preceded by the placard-bearers, having paraded in the Stadium, took up positions in a horizontal line in the same way as they did for the Opening Ceremony. The parade of the flags took place to music played by the bands of the Carabinieri, the Italian Air Force, the Guardia di Finanza and the Police.

Upon termination of the parade, which was headed by the Greek flag and brought to a close by the Italian flag carried by the gold-medallist Mangiarotti, the flags of Greece, Italy and Japan (this latter nation to act as host to the Games of the XVIII Olympiad) were hoisted on the three flag-poles: Greece on the right, an honour reserved to it in each Olympiad, Italy in the centre and Japan on the left. The National Anthem of each of these countries was played as each flag was hoisted. Immediately afterwards, the "Fedeli di Vitorchiano" sounded a fanfare on the Capitoline trumpets.

The President of the I.O.C., Mr. Avery Brundage, then mounted the rostrum and pronounced the formula of the Closing of the Games with the following words:

"In the name of the International Olympic Committee, I offer to the President of the Republic, the Hon. Giovanni Gronchi, and to the people of Italy, to the Authorities of the City of Rome and to the Organizing Committee of the Games, our deepest gratitude. I declare the Games of the XVII Olympiad closed and, in accordance with tradition, I call upon the youth of all countries to assemble four years from now at Tokyo, there to celebrate with us the Games of the XVIII Olympiad. May they display cheerfulness and concord so that the Olympic Torch will be carried on with ever greater eagerness, courage and honour for the good of humanity throughout the ages".

The words of the President of the I.O.C. were followed by a triple fanfare of trumpets. The Choir of the National Academy of Santa Cecelia, accompanied by the band of the Carabinieri, then sang the Olympic Anthem whilst the Olympic Flame, which had inspired the hopes and victories of thousands of athletes for eighteen days, was slowly extinguished and the Flag, which had been hoisted during the opening of the Games in the top right hand corner of the field, was lowered by sailors. The flag was ceremoniously carried in a horizontal position by eight students from the Institute of Physical Education to the strains of the "Hymn of the Sun." Meanwhile, a salute of five guns was fired from the slopes of Monte Mario whilst five searchlights lit up the sky of Rome immediately behind the tripod.

On the electric indicator boards, flashed by innumerable bulbs, appeared the words: "See you in Tokyo in 1964" which signifies that the end of an Olympiad does not close an epoch but lights the way to another even more glorious one.

Olympic Records Smashed In All But Four Track And Field Events; U. S. A. Team Leader

"Citius, Altius, Fortius," is the Olympic motto and the athletic greats of the world lived up to it in the 1960 Olympics by going faster, soaring higher and demonstrating more strength than ever before.

As if inspired by the splendor of historic Rome, the track and field stars smashed four world records, tied two others and posted a world's best time in the marathon. Many Olympic standards were shattered and one equalled in the magnificent marble Stadio Olimpico and on the storied streets of the Eternal City.

Only the standards for the 110-meter hurdles, the 5,000-meter run, the 20,000-meter walk and the javelin throw withstood the onslaughts on the fast, reddish-brown clay track and the emerald green infield of the flag-rimmed stadium, nestled below the lush verdant slopes of Mount Mario.

Two of the world marks and nine of the Olympic records were set by the United States, which once again dominated this portion of the Games. The Americans collected the most medals, getting nine golds for first, eight silvers for second and five bronzes for third.

Soviet Russia was next with five golds, four silvers and four bronzes. Germany, New Zealand and Poland each won two gold medals while Italy Britain, Australia and Ethiopia—with the surprising marathon king in Abebe Bikila—earned one each.

In four of the events—the 110 (Lee Calhoun) and 400-meter hurdles (Glenn Davis), the shot put (Bill Nieder) and the discus throw (Al Oerter) —the USA swept all three medals. No other nation was able to accomplish this grand slam in any event.

The other US winners were Otis Davis, 400 meters; the 1,600-meter relay team (Jack Yerman, Earl Young, Glenn Davis and Otis Davis); Ralph Boston, broad jump; Don Bragg, pole vault; and Rafer Johnson, decathlon.

Outstanding as were the USA performances, they last lustre when matched against the harvest of 15 gold medals at Melbourne in 1956 and the 14 at Helsinki in 1952. But times have changed. The rest of the world is catching up quickly on the athletic fields. The chances are slim that any one nation ever will be able to dominate Olympic track and field the way the US did in Australia and Finland.

In the wake of the triumphs and defeats, Larry Snyder of Ohio State, the head coach of the US track and field forces, summed up the New Order thusly:

"We were ready, confident, not cocky, for whatever the rest of the world had in store for us. We soon found out that they also were ready —no longer war-ravaged or hungry. They were set to do battle. For the first time in recent Olympic history we were faced with the same tough, unrelenting competition that the rest of the world had faced in meeting the USA teams in each Olympiad. We very quickly learned that nothing but the very best on our part would bring victory."

The new facts of life were demonstrated quickly. For the first time since Canada's Percy Williams swept the 100 and 200-meter dashes in 1928, the Americans failed to capture both sprints. And, for the first time in 48 years, the USA lost the 400-meter relay. At Rome the Americans were disqualified in the relay, after finishing first ahead of Germany, because Ray Norton, the second runner, took the baton from Frank Budd past the legal exchange zone. Ironically the USA quartet was disqualified in a heat in 1912.

The sprint gold medals went to non-English speaking nations for the first time. Germany's rocket-starting Armin Hary, co-holder of the new world record of 10 seconds flat, nipped America's fast-closing Dave Sime in Olympic record time of :10.2 for the 100. He then led a German quartet to a gold strike in the 400-meter relay in :39.5, tying the world and Olympic mark set by the USA in 1956. Italy's Livio Berutti captured the 200 in :20.5, equalling the world and Olympic standard and igniting a torch-burning ceremony by the jubilant Italians.

The American failures in the sprints and the 800-meter run, where the US was shut out of the final, were atoned for somewhat by Otis Davis' razor-thin victory over Germany's Carl Kaufman in the 400 in the world record time of :44.9, and the triumph by the 1,600-meter relay team (anchored by Davis) in world record clocking of 3:02.2.

Australia's Herb Elliott pounded to a smashing triumph in the 1,500 in the astounding world record time of 3:35.6 (equal to about a 3:53.4 mile). The fourth world record was made by Poland's Jozef Schmidt in the hop, step and jump, who travelled 55 feet 1⅜ inches. However, he had a better mark of 55 feet 10½ inches pending.

In addition, a world's best time and Olympic record of 2 hours, 15 minutes, 16.2 seconds was posted in the moonlight by barefooted Abebe Bikila, a 28-year-old, 128-pound Ethiopian and a member of Emperor Haile Selassie's Imperial Body Guard.

With surprises like Bikila and a deep and talented field right down the line, it was no great surprise that no athlete was able to win two individual gold medals. The Davis boys, Otis and Glenn, and Germany's Hary were the only ones to earn two gold medals —on individual and relay victories.

Glenn Davis, in the 400-meter hurdles, Lee Calhoun in the 110-meter hurdles, and Al Oerter, in the discus, were the only 1956 US champions able to retain their crowns. Davis and Calhoun made history by winning their specialties twice, Davis in Olympic record time of :49.3. Oerter (194 feet 1½ inches) also surpassed his own Olympic mark.

Seven 1956 titleholders failed to repeat. They included Parry O'Brien, second in the shot put, Hal Connolly in the hammer throw, Charlie Dumas in the high jump, France's Alain Mimoun in the marathon, Brazil's Adhemar da Silva in the hop, step and jump, Norway's Egil Danielsen in the javelin, and New Zealand's Norman Read in the 50,000-meter walk.

The four other US record-making Olympic champions were Ralph Boston, who wiped out Jesse Owens' mark with a leap of 26 feet 7¾ inches; Rafer Johnson (8,392) in the decathlon; shot putter Bill Nieder, the world-record holding reserve who replaced injured Dave Davis, [illegible] 6⅝ inches, and pole vaulter Don Bragg (15 feet 5⅛ inches).

Three other US champions—high jumper John Thomas, [illegible] es), hammer thrower Harold Connolly (230 feet 9 inches) and javelin tosser Bill Alley (283 feet 8 inches)—all with new world marks, were beaten.

Thomas cleared 7 feet ¼ inch but bowed to Russia's Robert Shavlakadze and Valeriy Brumel, each with 7 feet 1 inch. Connolly tossed the hammer 208 feet 7⅛ inches, surpassing his 1956 Olympic record, but finished eighth behind Russia's victorious Vasiliy Rudenkov (220 feet 1⅝ inches). Alley, with 225 feet 2⅛ inches, didn't qualify for the final, won by Russia's Viktor Cybulenko at 277 feet 8⅜ inches.

The disappointment over some of the American defeats was heightened because of the tremendous performances in the qualifying competitions at the training camp at Eugene, Ore., and the pre-Olympic meets in California and Berne, Switzerland.

The tryouts included the Inter-Service Championships at Camp LeJeune, N. C., June 10-11, the NCAA Championships at Berkeley, Calif., June 17-18, the National AAU Championships at Bakersfield, Calif., June 24-25, and the Final Tryouts at Stanford, Palo Alto, Calif., July 1-2.

Olympic competition was uniformly better than before because of the rigid qualifying standards imposed by the International Amateur Athletic Federation. For example, Max Truex, who gave a spectacular performance in finishing sixth in the 10,000 in the excellent time of 28:50.2, was the only American to meet the qualifying time of either 29:40.0 for 10,000 meters or 28:50.0 for six miles.

Larry Snyder, the head coach, was ably assisted by George Eastment of Manhattan College, Ralph Higgins of Oklahoma State University, and Lloyd (Bud) Winter of San Jose State College. Pincus (Pinky) Sober of New York, chairman of both the US Olympic and National AAU track and field committees, was the head manager. He was aided by Lt. Col. Charles B. Allard, USAF, Washington, D. C., Michael Portanova, Torzana, Calif., and Albert R. Post, Bloomfield, N. J.

The nine-day program got under way on Aug. 31. Weather conditions varied for the program. Some days still were hot but the thermometer started dropping around 5 P.M., when the sun dipped behind the stadium.

The wind switched. Some days there were strong headwinds and some days the wind blew in the opposite direction. A cloudburst delayed the decathlon for more than an hour on Sept. 5, forcing the contestants in the 10-event competition to continue until midnight. Then they had to resume at 9 A.M. the following day.

Here's how the competition went:

100 METERS — Germany's Armin Hary shaded Dave Sime of the USA in Olympic record time of :10.2. Sime also was clocked in :10.2, one-tenth of a second faster than the mark first set by Eddie Tolan in 1932 and last equalled by Bobby Morrow in 1956. Morrow, triple gold medalist in 1956, didn't qualify for a starting berth.

Hary, co-holder with Canada's

ATHLETICS—MEN

Harry Jerome of the world record of :10.0, got off the mark as if he was shot out of a cannon and led by a yard in the first few strides. Sime, off last, made up three or four yards in the last half of the race and almost caught the flying German with a desperate lunge that sent him sprawling. But Hary still had about two feet on Sime when it was over.

Britain's Peter Radford also closed brilliantly to capture the bronze medal by a whisker from Cuba's Enrique Figuerola with American Frank Budd close behind in fifth place and the third American, Dave Sime, fourth. Ray Norton, last, Radford, Figuerola and Budd all were timed in :10.3, tying the old record. Norton, admittedly "tense and tied up in a knot," was timed in :10.4.

Jerome pulled up lame in the first semi-final and didn't finish. He had to withdraw from the 200.

200 METERS—Hary, complaining of a pain in his right thigh, withdrew to concentrate on the 400-meter relay. But another Italian player who had —ended the USA's string of five straight by twice equalling the world record of :20.5 and breaking American Bobby Morrow's 1956 Olympic standard of :20.6. After posting a :20.5 to Ray Norton's :20.7 in the second semi-final, the 21-year-old Italian tied that time in a front-running race in the final. He won by a yard over American Les Carney (:20.6) with Adolph Seye of Senegal (:20.7) third, Poland's Marian Foik (:20.8) fourth, American Stone Johnson (:20.8) fifth, and Norton sixth (:20.9) last. Norton was second with about 90 yards to go but he faded as Carney came up fast to the finish line.

400-METER RELAY — The USA's string of eight straight was snapped in the Olympics by Germany's qualification as Germany won in :39.5, equalling the world and Olympic record set by the champion Americans in 1956. Ray Norton, the second American runner, took the baton from Frank Budd about three yards beyond the legal passing zone, resulting in the disqualification. Norton almost came to a complete stop when Budd yelled at him, Norton, however, ran a tremendous leg as did Stone Johnson, the third man. Dave Sime, the anchor man, started the final century about three yards behind Germany's Martin Lauer and overhauled him to score by about two feet. But it was all in vain when the red flag, denoting a foul, was raised.

Germany's record-breaking quartet included, in order, Bernd Cullman, Armin Hary, Walter Mahlendorf and Lauer. Russia, for the second straight time, surprised by taking second with Britain third, Italy fourth and Venezuela fifth.

400 METERS—Otis Davis, a reformed basketball player who had been running two years, made it two straight for the US by taking one of the great races of all time. The lean, 28-year-old Californian scored by a shade over sporting Carl Kaufmann of Germany in the world and Olympic record time of :44.9.

Mal Spence of South Africa led at the halfway mark of the six-man final but Davis opened up and pulled in front in the turn. Going into the straight Davis had a sizeable lead of better than four yards over the fourth-running Kaufmann. The German cut down the margin with every stride but Davis held on to win by inches as both were timed in a remarkable :44.9.

Spence (:45.5) managed to hold on to third followed by India's Milkha Singh (:45.6), Germany's Manfred Kinder (:45.9) and Californian Earl Young (:45.9). All six bettered or tied the old Olympic mark of :45.9, set in 1952. American Lou Jones held the former world record of :45.2 established in 1956.

Jack Yerman, the third American, was eliminated in the semi-finals, finishing sixth and last in :48.9.

1,600-METER RELAY—This was another US vs Germany thriller with the American quartet of Jack Yerman (:46.2), Earl Young (:45.6), Glenn Davis (:44.2 and Otis Davis (:43.0) winning by about five yards in the world and Olympic record time of 3:02.2. Germany (Hans Reske :47.0, Manfred Kinder :44.9, Johannes Kaiser :45.9, and Carl Kaufmann :44.9) also eclipsed the record of 3:03.9 set by Jamaica in 1952 with a time of 3:02.7. The West Indies, pre-race favorite, was third in 3:04.0 followed by South Africa, Great Britain and Switzerland.

Yerman, who had been handicapped by illness in the 400, got a seven-yard lead over the fourth-place German, Reske. Kinder ran a fantastic :44.9 leg to Young's :45.6 and pulled within a yard of the American. It was now or never race.

Glenn Davis, the 400-meter hurdle king, ran a clever third leg. He tricked Kaiser into passing his stronger on an attempt to pass on the backstretch and then raced away in the stretch to defend Otis Davis's five-yard lead over Carl Kaufmann. The Brooklyn-born German pulled within a yard of Otis going into the last turn. Midway in the curve Otis burst into a four-yard lead. That was it. Kaufmann blazed down the stretch but he couldn't cut down the margin. Otis finally had learned the art of pacing in the very moment it counted.

"I just learned how to run in the last couple of races," said the novice with the perfect stride.

800-METER RUN—For the first time since 1896, the US failed to place a man in the finals when Canada's New Zealand's Peter Snell won Olympic record time of 1:46.3 as he won this event five times straight since 1932.

Tom Murphy of Brooklyn, who took

STANDARDS FOR ENTRY IN 1960 OLYMPIC GAMES TRACK AND FIELD EVENTS FOR MEN

According to International Amateur Athletic Federation (IAAF) rulings, each nation was allowed one entry per individual event by right but, in order to enter two or the maximum three, the following standards had to be met by all entries each nation submitted. The period set for meeting these standards extended from October 1, 1959 to August 16, 1960.

ARMIN HARY'S EXTREMELY FAST START enabled the German sprint ace to win the 100 meter dash final. Shown at the left are the runners in the very instant of starting. Hary is closest to the camera in lane six while partially hidden are Peter Radford, Great Britain (lane five), and Enrique Figuerola, Cuba (lane four). One of three USA finalists, Ray Norton (lane three) blocks out view of teammate Francis Budd (lane two) but David Sime (lane one) can be seen. The center view shows Hary lunging forward to a slight advantage while at the right, the runners are about to take their second stride, with Hary clearly ahead.

in 1:48.2 in the first semi-final captured by West Indian George Kerr in 1:47.1. This bettered the old Olympic standard of 1:47.7 set by American Tom Courtney in 1956. Then Jerry Siebert (1:48.0) of California finished fourth and Ernie Cunliffe (1:50.8) of Stanford wound up sixth in the second semi-final won by Snell in 1:47.2.

In the six-man final, the 21-year-old Snell won by a yard. He was boxed on the outside, but cut through on the inside to pass the favored, world record-holding Rogen Moens of Belgium in the final 20 meters.

Moens, whose world record was 1:45.7, had looked to the right several times to see if he had West Indian George Kerr beaten. That's when the New Zealander came through on the rail. Moens (1:46.5), Kerr (1:47.1) in third, and Germany's Paul Schmidt (1:47.6), fourth, all bettered Courtney's record.

Switzerland's Christian Waegli, the first half pace-setter, was fifth (1:48.) and Germany's Manfred Matuschewski (1:52.0) sixth.

1,500-METER RUN—Within an hour after Otis Davis' great victory in the 400, Australia's Herb Elliott won in 3:35.6, breaking his own world record of 3:36.0 and smashing Ron Delany's 1956 Olympic standard of 3:41.2. So fast was Elliott's pace that the first six finishers all bettered Delany's record.

The stoop-shouldered, 22-year-old Elliott laid back and allowed France's Michel Bernard to lead the nine-man field through the 800 meters in 1:57.7. Seconds later Elliott steamed past the Frenchman. Before the field knew what had happened, the Aussie was 10 yards in front and flying. Hungary's Istvan Rozsavolgyi was second and 24-year-old Michel Jazy of France was a surprising third at this point.

When Elliott piled it on again in the final turn to spread his lead to more than 20 yards, Jazy passed Rozy in the turn and held on to finish second, some 20 yards back, in 3:38.4.

Rozsavolgyi was third in 3:39.2, followed by Sweden's Dan Waern (3:40.0), Romania's Zoltan Vamos (3:40.8), America's Dyrol Burleson (3:40.9), Bernard (3:41.5), Jim Grelle, Burleson's Oregon teammate (3:45.0), and Norway's Arne Hamarsland (3:45.0).

Burleson, the 20-year-old Pan American and NCAA champion, was sixth or seventh most of the way although his final kick almost nipped Vamos. Dyrol's time was the fastest ever posted by an American.

America's third man, Pete Close of St. John's U. and the Marine Corps, finished ninth in his heat in 3:50.2 and failed to qualify.

5,000-METER RUN — Murray Halberg, a 27-year-old, with a withered left arm, brought New Zealand its second gold medal with a beautifully planned race.

In fifth position just before the 4,000-meter mark, the 5-foot-11, 136-pounder bolted in front by 30 yards and blazed a 61.1 lap. Germany's Hans Grodotzki and Poland's Kazimierz Zimny labored to chop down the leader but it was too late as Halberg held on to win by about 10 yards in 13:43.4. Grodotzki held off the Pole to earn the silver medal in 13:44.6 with Zimny third in 13:44.8.

The American trio of Bill Dellinger (fourth in 14.08.6), Bob Soth (seventh in 14:40.8) and Jim Beatty (ninth in 14:43.8) was eliminated in separate qualifying heats. Halberg is the first non-European to cop the 5,000.

10,000-METER RUN—Petr Bolotnikov, a 30-year-old Russian who had finished 16th in the 1956 Olympics, spurted in the last 700 meters, closing with a sensational :57.8 last lap in winning the 10,000-meter run in Olympic record time of 28:32.2.

No one expected the 5-foot-8, 139-pounder would even come close to Vladimir Kuts' record of 28:45.6 after doing the 5,000 in 14:22.2. That was more than 15 seconds behind the great Kuts' pace in 1956. But turn it on he did with a fantastic 14:10 for the second half, winning by 4.8 seconds as the first four broke Kuts' standard.

Germany's Hans Grodotzki, second in the 5,000, earned another silver medal with his time of 28:37.0. Then came Australia's David Power (28:38.2), Russia's Alexey Desiatchirov (28:39.6), New Zealand's Murray Halberg (28:48.8), and Max Truex of the US Air Force in a remarkable 28:50.2 for sixth. It was the 24-year-old American's best time ever by 45 seconds.

MARATHON — Abebe Bikila ran barefooted over the cobblestones of the historic Appian Way and conquered Rome with the fastest marathon ever.

The Ethiopian won by about 200 yards as he completed the 26-mile, 385-yard run under the spotlighted Arch of Constantine in 2 hours, 15 minutes, 16.2 seconds. This eclipsed the Olympic record of 2:23:03.2 set by Czech Emil Zatopek in 1952 and was eight-tenths of a second better than the fastest marathon ever recorded—the 2:15:17 performance of Russia's Sergey Popov in the European championships at Stockholm in 1958.

Bikila and another African, Abdesiem Rhadi of Morocco, set a sizzling pace for most of the race which started beneath the Capitoline Hill, center of the ancient Roman Empire. From there the course wound over the Via Cristoforo Colombo, one of Rome's main thoroughfares, and then drifted into the Appian Way, built 212 years B. C.

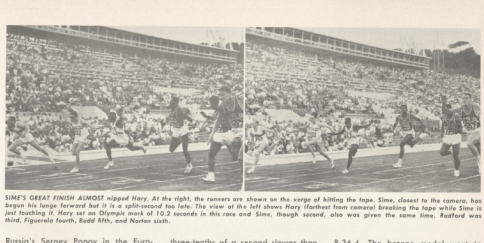

Bikila and Rhadi had company for about 10 miles. Then they started to pull away from the pack. They ran as one until they passed the 25-mile mark. Then the Ethiopian surged in front by 50 yards and gradually extended it to 200 yards. Both Bikila and Rhadi, who was timed in 2:15: 41.6, showed no signs of fatigue at the finish. Only seven of the 69 starters failed to complete the journey and the first 15 all broke Zatopek's Olympic record. New Zealand's Barry Mc-Gee finished strong to take the bronze medal in 2:17:18.2. Russia's Konstantin Vorobiev and Sergey Popov were fourth and fifth.

The three Americans all finished. John Kelley of Groton, Conn. was 19th in 2:24.58.0; Alex Breckinridge of Bellvila and the US Marines was 30th in 2:29.38.0, and Gordon Mc-Kenzie of New York was 48th in 2:36:16.2.

110-METER HURDLES — Lee Calhoun made Olympic history in leading the USA to a fourth straight 1-2-3 sweep. The 27-year-old, 6-foot-1, 165-pounder, in shading teammate Willie May, became the first to win this event twice in the Olympics. Hayes Jones of Pontiac, Mich., was third in 14.0 seconds.

Both Calhoun and May of Chicago were timed in :13.8 against the wind, three-tenths of a second slower than Calhoun's Olympic record time of 1956. May, trailing by about two feet after the first hurdle, made up ground in the last few strides to force a photo-finish.

400-METER HURDLES—Glenn Davis, the 1956 champion and world record holder, paced another USA grand slam in the 400-meter hurdles. The 25-year-old Ohio State graduate, off stride a good part of the way, rallied to win by about two yards over Cliff Cushman of Kansas U. with Dick Howard of New Mexico U. third, and Germany's Helmut Janz fourth. Davis was clocked in :49.3 as the first four bettered Glenn's 1956 Olympic record of :50.1. The times were Cushman, :49.6, Howard, :49.7, and Janz, :49.9.

Davis became the first repeat champion in this event and was the fifth straight USA runner to win it.

Davis admitted he "ran scared" when he went off stride after the first hurdle. It wasn't until the seventh hurdle that he got back in stride. Then he started to move up, passing Janz at the ninth hurdle and Howard on the 10th. He pulled away in the sprint to win handily as Cushman also came up fast to take second from Howard in the last 10 yards.

3,000-METER STEEPLECHASE — Zdzislaw Krzyszowiak of Poland, holder of the world record of 8:31.4 for the event, blistered Chris Brasher's four-year-old Olympic record in winning by 15 yards in 8:34.2.

Biding his time while two Russians —Alexey Kanov and Nikolay Sokolov —jockeyed for the lead with Belgium's Gaston Roelants, the 31-year-old Krzyz opened up with 250 yards left and easily steamed to victory. Sokolov was also under the old record of 8:41.2 in taking second in 8:36.4. The bronze medal went to another Russian, Semen Rzhistchin, in 8:42.2. Charlie (Deacon) Jones, the only American finalist, finished seventh with 9:18.2 after running a fine 8:49.2 in taking second in his qualifying heat. The soldier from Iowa City was ninth in 9:01.4 at Melbourne.

George Young of Silver City, N.M., fell with three laps to go and just missed qualifying with a fourth-place finish and a time of 8:50.8 in his heat. Veteran Phil Coleman of Champaign, Ill., was fifth in his heat in 8:56.6.

20,000-METER WALK — Vladimir Golubnichy, a former world record holder, moved in front at the halfway mark (12½ miles) and won easily in 1:34:07.2. This was the Soviet's second consecutive triumph in the event. L. Spirin won the inaugural in 1956.

Australia's 21-year-old Noel Freeman made his challenge too late and took second in 1:34:16.2. Britain's Stanley Vickers was third. Norman Read of New Zealand, winner of the 50,000 in 1956, was fifth.

The American placings in the field of 35 starters were: 19, Ronald Zinn of the Army and Cornell, 1:42:47.0; 23, Robert Mimm of Levittown, Pa., 1:45:09.0, and 24, Rudy Haluza, an Air Force Captain from Camarillo, Calif., 1:45:11.0.

50,000-METER WALK — Donald Thompson, an insurance clerk, brought Britain her first track gold medal by defeating 40-year-old John Ljungren of Sweden, the 1948 champion. The 27-year-old Briton finished the 31 miles 17 seconds in front of the record time of 4:25:[illegible] Ljungren, competing in his fourth Olympics, and Italy's Abdon Pamich, [illegible] old mark of 4:28:0[illegible] by 16 Giuseppe Dordoni in 19[illegible] Ljungren.

was timed in 4:25:47.0, and Pamich, the third-placer, in 4:27:55.4. Dordani was seventh and New Zealand's Norman Read, the 1956 champion, failed to finish.

Three Americans were among the 29 finishers in the starting field of 39. Ron Laird was 19th in 4:53:21.6, Bruce MacDonald was 23rd in 5:00:47.6, and John Allen was 24th in 5:03:15.2.

HIGH JUMP—This produced the biggest upset. John Thomas, the world record holder at 7 feet 3⅞ inches and the teen-ager who had cleared 7 feet more than any jumper, bowed to a triple Russian threat.

Robert Shavlakadze, a balding, 27-year-old Soviet veteran, cleared 7 feet 1 inch on his first attempt, to win out in a tense, all-day struggle that ended under the lights. For the first time in Olympic history 7 feet was cleared—and by four competitors. Valeriy Brumel, at 18 and a year younger than Thomas, was second, also at 7 feet 1 inch. Thomas was third at 7 feet ¼ inch and Russia's 21-year-old Viktor Bolshov was fourth at the same height. The least number of misses determined the placings.

Almost overlooked in the four-way battle was California's Charlie Dumas, the 1956 Olympic champion with a record 6 feet 11½ inches and the first man ever to clear 7 feet. Hampered by a knee injury, Dumas failed at 6 feet 10¼ inches and took sixth at 6 feet 7⅞ inches.

Joe Faust, the youngest American at 16 and another member of the 7-foot set, was hampered with a painful ankle injury and finished 17th with 6 feet 4¾ inches.

The field of 32 started the competition at 9 A.M., Sept. 1.

Seventeen men cleared 6 feet 6⅝ inches to gain the finals at 3:15 P.M. The field was whittled to Thomas and the three Russians after Sweden's Stig Pettersson failed to clear 6 feet 11⅝ inches.

The three red-shirted Russians had cleared the height, Shavlakadze and Bolshov on the first attempt and Brumel on his third. The 6-foot-5 Thomas apparently had tried to apply psychological pressure on his rivals by passing at 6 feet 11½ inches. It may have been costly for he had had only three jumps in three hours when his turn came at 7 feet ¼ inch. Bolshov and Brumel had missed first tries at the Olympic record height but Shavlakadze had gone over it easily.

Now the pressure was on Thomas. To the surprise of the crowd, he missed. It was now up to him to clear the height and the next at 7 feet 1 inch to stand a chance of winning. Brumel and Bolshov went over on their second tries and Thomas, overcoming nervousness, made it too.

It was almost dark as Brumel and Bolshov missed at 7 feet 1 inch. The lights were turned on in the still stadium.

Shavlakadze, who seemed the most poised of all, hadn't missed once since his lone failure at 6 feet 6⅝ inches. He rolled over 7 feet 1 inch on first crack. Brumel made it on his second attempt but Bolshov and Thomas failed twice more and were through. The Russians had won an event captured 11 of 14 times by the USA.

BROAD JUMP—The oldest Olympic record in the books— Jesse Owens' 24-year-old mark of 26 feet 5⅜ inches—went into the discard against the assaults of the finest field of leapers ever.

Ralph Boston, the 21-year-old Tennessee State marvel who had wiped out Owens' long-standing world record with a spring of 26 feet 11¼ inches only the month before, won with a third-attempt leap of 26 feet 7⅜ inches. It was the eighth consecutive victory for the USA.

Irvin (Bo) Roberson, 25, of the Army and Cornell, registered an excellent 26 feet 7¼ inches on his first try to also shatter Owens' record and grab the silver medal from Russia's Igor Ter-Ovanesyan. The Russian had moved past Roberson's earlier leading jump of 26 feet 3⅛ inches on his final try with a 26 feet 4½ inch effort.

Germany's Manfred Steinbach, the fourth-placer, cleared 26 feet 3⅛ inches on his last chance. Roberson, his left thigh heavily taped, then got off his mighty jump. The crowd roared and then let out a collective gasp when the scoreboard flashed Roberson's jump at 26 feet 7¼ inches—a shade under Boston's winning figure.

It was the first time four men had done better than 26 feet or more in one meet. Thirteen of the field of 49 qualified for the final with leaps of 24 feet 3⅜ inches or better. One of the failures was 19-year-old Tony Watson of Oklahoma City, Okla., who barely missed with a jump of 24 feet ¼ inch.

POLE VAULT — Don Bragg, the world record holder, came through as expected with an Olympic record vault of 15 feet 5⅛ inches. It was no surprise that Ron Morris won the silver medal for the USA but it took a "break" to get him into the finals.

The 25-year-old Californian, a consistent 15-footer, failed to clear the qualifying height of 14 feet 5½ inches. But since only 10 of the 30 competitors qualified—and the rules call for 12 finalists—Ron squeezed in.

The 5-foot-10, 155-pound teacher took advantage of the opportunity. He and Bragg were the only ones to clear 15 feet 1⅛ inches, becoming Bob Richards' Olympic standard of 14 feet 11½ inches. The 25-year-old, 6-foot-3, 200-pound Bragg, who had smashed the world record with a vault of 15 feet 9½ inches in the Olympic final trials, cleared 15 feet 5⅛ inches easily on his first attempt. Morris couldn't make it. Bragg then failed at 15 feet 9½ inches in an attempt to break his own world record.

Texan Dave Clark, who had vaulted 15 feet 3 inches in the Olympic Final Trials, was injured in the practice pit and couldn't get over 14 feet 1½ inches. It was the first time since 1900 that the US didn't have three finalists.

Finland's Eeles Landstrom gained the bronze medal by clearing 14 feet 11⅛ inches on his first attempt. It took Puerto Rico's Rolando Cruz two tries to get over and he had to settle for fourth place.

HOP, STEP AND JUMP—Form held as Poland's consistent Jozef Schmidt broke the listed world record and the Olympic mark with a third-round effort of 55 feet 1¾ inches. He had a mark of 55 feet 10½ inches pending, however.

Russia's Vladimir Goriaev (54 feet 6⅛ inches) and Vitold Kreyer (53 feet 10⅜ inches) took the silver and bronze medals. It looked like the US might have a surprise medalist on Ira Davis' 53 feet 10 inches, but Kreyer topped the Philadelphian by three-fourths of an inch on his last attempt.

Davis did have the satisfaction of being one of the few to better Adhemar da Silva's Olympic record of 53 feet 7¾ inches. The Brazilian, a two-time champion, could only do 49 feet 5¾ inches, finishing 14th.

The other Americans, Bill Sharpe (50 feet 7⅞ inches) and Herman Stokes (48 feet 4¼ inches) were unable to meet the qualifying distance of 50 feet 10½ inches.

HAMMER THROW—The first nine finishers broke Harold Connolly's 1956 Olympic record of 207 feet 3½ inches and the 235-pound American school teacher was one of them. But Connolly's best throw of 208 feet 7⅜ inches was only the eighth best. Only three weeks before in California the 29-year-old defender made a world record of 230 feet 9 inches.

MODERN MARATHON HISTORY was made in ancient setting when barefooted Abebe Bikila of Ethiopia (shown at lower right center) won the long footrace with the fastest time ever recorded—2:15:16.2. Arms outstretched in victory, Bikila crosses the finish line in front of the Arch of Constantine. In the background, a portion of the famed Coliseum can be seen.

For the first time a Russian, Vasily Rudenkov, won the event, with 220 feet 1⅛ inches. The 29-year-old, 211-pound metal worker had a couple of other tosses that would have been enough to win. Hungary's Gyula Zsivotzky was second on 215 feet 10⅜ inches and Poland's Tadeusz Rut third on 215 feet 4½ inches.

Al Hall, the Pan American champion, was 14th with 196 feet ¾ inch. Ed Bagdonas of West Point threw 195 feet 1¾ inches failing to meet the qualifying mark of 196 feet 10¼ inches.

SHOT PUT — The US swept the boards on the Olympic record-breaking of Bill Nieder, Parry O'Brien and Dallas Long.

There was an element of suspense in the shot put before the iron ball was even tossed. Nieder, the world record-holder, had failed to make a regular's berth on the team because of an injured right knee. Placed on the squad as an alternate, he smashed the world record with a toss of 65 feet 10 inches in California, Aug. 12, and earned a starting role at Rome through an injury to Dave Davis and the latter's loss of form.

His troublesome right knee encased in a special elastic brace, Nieder vindicated the selection by reaching 64 feet 6¾ inches on his fifth attempt to win. This surpassed two-time champion Parry O'Brien's second-round heave of 62 feet 8½ inches, which stood up for second. Thus the two arch rivals reversed their positions of the 1956 Olympics when O'Brien won with 60 feet 11 inches.

The 20-year-old Dallas Long earned the bronze medal with 62 feet 4½ inches.

JAVELIN THROW— Russia's Viktor Cybulenko was a surprise victor with a toss of only 277 feet 8⅛ inches. This was the only field event in which the Olympic record was not surpassed. Rain and fluctuating winds were a major factor in holding down the throws.

Walter Kruger of Germany took second on 260 feet 4⅝ inches and Hungary's Gergely Kulcsar was third on 257 feet 9⅜ inches.

The non-qualifiers of 242 feet 9½ inches included Norway's defending champion, Egil Danielsen; American Bill Alley, who had broken teammate

FOR THE SECOND STRAIGHT TIME, a desperate lunge at the finish brought an Olympic championship to Lee Calhoun, USA (center). In winning the 110 meter hurdles he became the first man ever to win this event twice (he won in 1956 in a similar close finish with a teammate, Jack Davis). At the right is Willie May who was second while Hayes Jones, whose third place completed an American sweep, was in the outside lane to the extreme left and was missed by the camera. Other runners were left to right, Valentin Chistiarov, Russia; Keith Gardner, West Indies; and Martin Lauer, Germany.

Cantello had to settle for 10th with 245 feet 1 inch.

There was disappointment for Poland's Janusz Sidlo, the silver medalist at Melbourne. The Pole had made 279 feet 4 inches in the qualifying round.When it counted, he could only make 250 feet 10 inches and eighth place.

DISCUS THROW—Al Oerter, the defending champion, paced an American grand slam for the second straight time.

The 24-year-old, 235-pounder from West Babylon, N. Y., hit the jackpot on his fifth throw—reaching an Olympic record of 194 feet 2 inches. This beat Rink Babka's first toss of 190 feet 4½ inches. Dick Cochran followed Oerter with his own fifth-rounder of 187 feet 6⅝ inches to gain the bronze medal. All three eclipsed Oerter's 1956 standard of 184 feet 10⅜ inches.

Edmund Piatkowski, holder of the world record of 196 feet 6½ inches which Babka had tied before coming to Rome, was fifth with 180 feet 10⅛ inches.

DECATHLON—Rafer Johnson completed his career by taking a bitter duel from Chuan Kwang Yang, his UCLA schoolmate who was born in Taiwan. This went right down to the wire, and the Chinese showed victories over Johnson in six of the nine completed events of the 10-event decathlon; however, he still trailed the 26-year-old Californian by 67 points with only the 1,500-meter run left. Big point margins in the shot put and discus had moved Johnson ahead in the see-saw, two-day struggle.

Their second-day battle had started at 9 A.M. after ending at midnight the day before. It was 9:00 P.M. when Johnson and Yang were called for the final heat of the 1,500. If Yang could beat Johnson by 10 seconds, the big prize would be his. It was a possibility since Yang was better at the distance. He had a best of 4.36.9 while Johnson's was the 4.54.2 he registered in Melbourne when he took the silver medal behind Milt Campbell.

Yang broke first in the six-man run. Rafer, running second, dogged his footsteps and remained there for the entire distance. Yang was first in 4.48.5 and Johnson very close with 4.49.7—his best ever.

Yang reduced the margin by only nine points and Johnson was the winner with a new Olympic record, 8,392 points to Yang's 8,334. That also bettered Campbell's 1956 record of 7,937. Russia's subsequent Vasily Kuznetsov, third in 1956, was third again with 7,809.

The other two Americans, David Edstrom of Oregon and Phil Mulkey of Memphis State, both suffered groin injuries and couldn't continue in the competition.

MEN'S TRACK & FIELD

Triple Gold Medal Triumph By U. S. A.'s Wilma Rudolph Rated Best Ever In Women's Track

IT was the "Wondrous Wilma" (Wilma Rudolph) as the heroine of the 1960 Olympics at Rome in place of "Beaut Betty" (Betty Cuthbert) of Melbourne fame in 1956.

In a series of spectacular performances, Wilma Rudolph, a tall, Tennessee State University co-ed, established herself as the fastest woman ever by winning three gold medals in record fashion.

The 20-year-old flash from Clarksville, Tenn., dominated the women's track and field program and shared the record-breaking honors with the Russian squad as every Olympic mark was wiped out.

The 5-foot-11, 135-pound Wilma gained supremacy in the 100, 200 and 400-meter relay. She tied the world record of 11.3 seconds in the 100 semi-finals, and then jetted the final in :11.0 flat, although helped by a 2.75-meter-per-second wind which barred a world record.

In the 200, she shattered the Olympic standard with :23.2 in the heat and romped to victory against the wind in the final in :24.0. And in the relay, she brilliantly anchored her Tennessee State team to a :44.4 world record in the heat and a :44.5 triumph in the final. Her teammates were Martha Hudson, Lucinda Williams and Barbara Jones.

As a 16-year-old at Melbourne, Wilma earned a bronze medal in the 400 relay and was eliminated in the heats of the 200 on her :24.6 clocking. The bright star at Melbourne's Cricket Ground was "Beaut Betty"—18-year-old Betty Cuthbert of Australia, who won three gold medals in the same events as Wilma.

At Rome, Betty's star faded. She pulled up lame in the second round of the 100 and was forced to withdraw from the 200.

Wilma's sweep ended Australia's eight-year hold on the sprint championships.

Jolly Earlene Brown of Los Angeles earned the USA a fourth medal when she gained the bronze in the shot put on a final heave of 53 feet 10⅝ inches. The 25-year-old, 230-pound housewife also finished sixth in the discus.

Otherwise the US girls failed to keep pace with Russia, which swept six of the titles, and Romania's Iolanda Balas, who captured the high jump on a prodigious leap of 6 feet ¾ inch.

Although all Olympic marks were repeatedly smashed, there was only one other world-record performance. Russia's Ludmila Shevcova-Lisenko tied her world mark of 2:04.3 in winning the 800-meter run, held for the first time since 1928.

In addition to Betty Cuthbert, there were two other defending champions who failed to retain their titles. Poland's Elzbieta Krzeskinska, winner of the 1956 broad jump, was second with 20 feet 6½ inches. The winner was Russia's Vyera Krepkina with 20 feet 10¾ inches.

The 1956 discus throw, won by Mrs. Olga Fikotova Connolly for Czechoslovakia, was taken by Russia's Nina Ponomareva (the 1952 champion) with 180 feet 8⅛ inches. Mrs. Connolly, the wife of the American Olympic hammer thrower, was not competing for the USA, was seventh.

Despite stringent qualifying standards imposed by the International Amateur Athletic Federation, the USA still managed to send 18 girls to Rome. Eight of them were from Tennessee State University, which also supplied the head coach, Ed Temple. The field coach was Francis Welch of Kansas State Teachers College, Emporia, Kansas. The head manager was former Olympian Mrs. Frances T. Kaszubski of Cleveland.

The team was picked on the basis of Final Trials at Abilene Christian College Stadium, Texas, July 15-16. From Texas the team was taken for pre-Olympic training and a development clinic at Kansas State Teachers College.

Here's a review of each event:

100 METERS — Wilma Rudolph topped the field of 31 in every race. She won her first and second heats in :11.5, and then equalled the world and Olympic record with :11.3 in the semi-finals.

In the six-girl final, Russia's Maria Itkina was off the blocks first but after the first 25 meters it was all Wilma. She won by three yards over Britain's Dorothy Hyman in 11 seconds flat—the fastest ever by a woman and excellent time for men. Because of a following wind of 2.75 meters per second (.75 over the allowable limit), it was disallowed as a world record but recognized as an Olympic record.

Miss Hyman and third-placer Giuseppina Leone of Italy each was credited with an :11.3 clocking.

Barbara Jones, Wilma's teammate, was second in her first two heats in :11.7 and :11.9 but was eliminated in the semi-final won by Miss Hyman in :11.5. Barbara was a very close fourth in :11.7, same time as the second and third-placers, Maria Itkina and Mlle. Coppieville.

Martha Hudson, the third American, was eliminated in the second round of heats, finishing fourth in :12.2.

200 METERS — This was another romp for Wilma Rudolph, who won her heat in :23.2, bettering the Olympic record by two-tenths of a second; her semi-final in :23.7, and the final against a strong wind, in :24.0. She was in front all the way and won by four yards over Germany's Jutta Heine (:24.4). Britain's Dorothy Hyman finished third by a shade margin over Maria Itkina of Russia, each in :24.7.

Wilma became the first American woman to win the 200. Only Fanny Blankers-Koen of Holland in 1948, Marjorie Jackson of Australia in 1952, and Betty Cuthbert of Australia in 1956, preceded her in the double slam department.

Lucinda Williams of Tennessee State was eliminated in the semi-finals on :25.0, and Ernestine Pollards of Chicago lost out in the qualifying trials despite a good :24.5.

400-METER RELAY — With Wilma Rudolph running sensational anchor legs, the USA quartet from Tennessee State broke the world record of :44.5 by one-tenth of a second in the heats, and then sped to a three-yard triumph over Germany in the final in :44.5. This was the fourth victory for the USA in this event.

The running order was Martha Hudson, Lucinda Williams, Barbara Jones and Wilma Rudolph. The first three managed to gain a two-yard lead. But this was quickly lost as a result of a poor baton exchange between Miss Jones and Miss Rudolph. But it didn't take long for Wilma to overhaul and pass Jutta Heine, Germany's anchor runner. At the finish she was three yards in front and flying.

Germany's silver medalists were clocked in :44.8, Poland took bronze medals in :45.0 with Russia fourth, Italy fifth and Britain disqualified.

800 METERS — Russia's Ljudmila Shevcova-Lisenko won this event—once again on the Olympic program after a lapse of 32 years—by a tiny fraction over Australia's Brenda Jones. The Russian had to equal her world record of 2:04.3 in staving off the late challenge of the Australian who was timed in 2:04.4. Germany's Ursula Donath took the bronze medal in 2:05.6.

Australia's Dixie Willis led for the first lap in 62 seconds and was in front heading into the final straight when she suddenly staggered off the track and collapsed.

The lone American entry, Billie Pat Daniels, 17, of Milbrae, Calif., was disqualified for running off course.

80-METER HURDLES—Russia's Irina Press, an all-around athlete, won as expected in :10.8, after lowering the Olympic record from :10.7 to :10.6 in the semi-finals. The 21-year-old Russian led from the gun in the final, winning by a yard over Britain's Carole Quinton (:10.9). Germany's Gisela Birkemeyer was third in 11 flat.

The three American entries were eliminated in the qualifying. They were Irene Robertson of Inglewood, Calif. (:11.6); JoAnn Terry of Indianapolis (:11.4), and Shirley Crowder of Tennessee State (:12.3).

BROAD JUMP—The first seven all cleared 20 feet compared to only one —champion Elzbieta Krzeskinska of Poland—in 1956. It looked like the Polish woman was going to repeat on her fourth-round leap of 20 feet 6⅝ inches but in the fifth round Vyera Krepkina, a 27-year-old Russian, broke the Olympic mark of 20 feet 9⅜ inches with a winning leap of 20 feet, 10¾ inches.

Germany's Hildrun Claus, the world record holder at 20 feet 11⅜ inches, was third with 20 feet 4½ inches.

Willye B. White of Tennessee, who took second in 1956 with 19 feet 11⅜ inches, and who cleared 20 feet 4⅛ inches in the Trials, could only do 18 feet 11¼ inches for 16th place. Anna L. Smith, another Tennessee Stater, fouled out in the qualifying.

JAVELIN THROW—Elvira Ozolina of Russia won with a toss of 183 feet 8 inches, which was well below her world record of 195 feet 4½ inches. The 20-year-old Russian girl's best throw was her last and it bettered the Olympic record of 176 feet 8 inches set in 1956 by another Soviet spear-thrower, Inessa Janzeme.

Dana Zatopkova (Mrs. Emil Zatopek) of Czechoslovakia, the 1952 champion, was second with 176 feet 5¼ inches and another Russian, Birute Kalediene, third on 175 feet 4½ inches.

Karen Anderson Oldham of San Diego, Calif., who was eighth in 1956, finished 13th with 152 feet 7½ inches. She had qualified with 166 feet 1 inch, but qualifying marks don't count in the finals.

SHOT PUT—A final throw of 53 feet 10⅜ inches earned Earlene Brown of Los Angeles the bronze medal. The champion, Tamara Tyshkevich, won

The incomparable Wilma Rudolph, great woman sprinter, shows typical form in one of her decisive victories in Stadio Olimpico.

HIGH JUMP — Romania's Iolanda Balas jumped three-quarters of an inch over her height—an Olympic record leap of 6 feet ¾ inch with. This broke the Olympic standard of 5 feet 9¼ inches set by America's Mildred McDaniel in 1956.

Poland's Jaroslaw Jozwiakowska, Britain's Dorothy Shirley and Russia's Galina Dalia were tied at 5 feet 7⅝ inches. The medals went to the first two on least misses.

Naomia Rogers of Roba, Ala., was 14th with 5 feet 5 inches, Barbara Brown of Rome, Ga. and Jean Gaerner of Los Angeles failed to qualify at 4 feet 11 inches each.

DISCUS THROW—Nina Ponomareva, who won in 1952 as Nina Romashkova, regained the title for Russia with an Olympic record of 180 feet 8½ inches. The Soviet and Russian broke the mark of 176 feet 6½ inches set by Olga Fikotova of Czechoslovakia in 1956.

Olga, who was married after the Melbourne Games to American Olympic hammer throw champion Harold Connolly, competed for the USA at Rome. She could only reach 167 feet 1⅛ inches and seventh place.

Tamara Press, the shot put winner,

U. S. A. Supremacy In Basketball Maintained By Greatest Olympic Team Ever Assembled

THE greatest basketball team in Olympic history swept through eight games by margins of 24 points or more to maintain the USA's perfect record in the American-originated sport.

Ever since the game was placed on the official Olympic program in 1936, the USA has not lost a game.

"I can say without contradiction that this was the strongest team to represent the US in any Olympic Games," said Arthur C. Lonborg, the team manager and chairman of the US Olympic Basketball Committee.

Although the 12-man squad coached by Pete Newell of California was top-heavy in centers—three men at 6 feet 8 inches and two at 6 feet 11—the team won its games by margins of 24 to 62 points and averaged 101.9 points a game to 59.5 for the opposition.

In the three final key games, the US whipped Russia, 81-57, Italy, 112-81, and Brazil, 90-63.

The Russians, who split their games with Brazil, finished second. They had an overall record of 6-2; Brazil in third place, also had an overall 6-2 record.

But in the complicated final standings, which matched the four top teams, the USA finished with a 3-0 record, Russia 2-1, Brazil 1-2, and Italy 0-3. Under the international rules, the American's 81-57 victory over Russia and Brazil's 78-75 triumph over Italy, both in the semi-finals, counted in the final standings. Thus, in the last pool, the US only played two games, beating Italy, 112-81, and Brazil, 90-63.

The 16 nations were divided into four pools with the first two in each advancing to the semi-finals after a single round robin. The US routed Italy, 88-54; Japan, 125-66, and Hungary, 107-63, and moved into the semi-finals along with Italy (2-1), Czechoslovakia (2-1), Jugoslavia (2-1), Brazil (3-0), Russia (2-1, after losing to Brazil, 58-54), Uruguay (2-1) and Poland (2-1).

The eight teams were split again into two four-team groups with the top two in each advancing to the finals. The US routed Jugoslavia, 104-42; Uruguay, 108-50, and Russia, 81-57, and moved into the final round with Russia (2-1), Brazil (3-0) and Italy (2-1).

In the final round, the US blitzed Italy, 112-81, and Brazil, 90-63. Russia beat Italy, 78-70, and Brazil, 64-62, to capture second with Brazil third and Italy fourth.

Similar tournaments were held right down the line to determine the placings to 16th place.

Outstanding stars were Jerry Lucas, the 6-foot-8 giant from Ohio State, and Oscar Robertson, the "Big O" from Cincinnati. Each scored 136 points for an average of 17 per game. But every member of the squad had a vital part in the conquests.

The players actually had their toughest times in the battle for team berths in the eight-team Olympic trials at Denver, March 31, April 1-2. The Selection Committee had a look at 96 players in the elimination tournament although each team played three games.

The NCAA University All-Stars, coached by Newell, won the tournament, defeating Warren Womble's Peoria Caterpillars, 124-97, as all-America Jerry West of West Virginia scored 39 points. Womble, head coach of the Olympic team in 1952, was chosen to assist Newell.

The eight teams picked to compete in the tournament included three from the Amateur Athletic Union—Peoria, Phillips 66'rs, and the Akron Goodyear Wingfooters; three from the NCAA—Ohio State's NCAA champions, the NCAA University All-Stars, and the NCAA All-Stars of Colleges and Universities; the Armed Forces All-Stars and the NAIA All-Stars.

In these eliminations, the first-round results were: Akron 82, Armed Forces 76; NAIA 76, Ohio State 69; NCAA University All-Stars 96, Phillips 79; Peoria 89, NCAA College All-Stars 68. In the semi-finals, the NCAA University All-Stars beat Akron, 103-88, and Peoria defeated NAIA, 89-68. Newell's NCAA University All-Stars won the big one over Peoria, 124-97, and Akron beat NAIA, 82-76, for third place.

The Committee then picked the following:

From the NCAA All-Stars, Jay Arnette, 6-feet-2, of Texas; Walter Bellamy, 6-feet-11, of Indiana; Terry Dischinger, 6-feet-6, of Purdue; Darrall Imhoff, 6-feet-11, of California; Oscar Robertson, 6-feet-5, of Cincinnati, and Jerry West, 6-feet-3, of West Virginia.

From Peoria, Bob Boozer, 6-feet-8, formerly of Kansas State, and Allen Kelley, 6 feet, formerly of Kansas.

From Phillips, Burdette Haldorson, 6-feet-8, formerly of Colorado, and the only member of the 1956 team.

From Wichita, Lester Lane, 5-feet-10, formerly of Oklahoma who played with Phillips in the Olympic Trials.

From Ohio State, Jerry Lucas, 6-feet-8.

From the Armed Forces, Adrian Smith, 6-feet-1, of the U. S. Army at Fort Lee, Va., and formerly of Kentucky.

After the selections, the team went into training at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y.

Exhibition fund-raising games were played with the Cleveland Pipers at Canton, Ohio, and Morgantown, W. Va., Aug. 6 and 10; against the Denver Truckers at Cincinnati, Aug. 13 and with the New York Tapers at New York, Aug. 16.

In Europe, the team played the Swiss All-Star team at Geneva, Switzerland, Aug. 20, and the Spanish Olympic team at Lugano, Switzerland. Following the Olympics, the team played three games in a post-Olympics tourney in Paris, winning all.

In all the team won 16 of 17 games. The only defeat was to the Pipers in the first exhibition game, Aug. 6, after only five days of practice.

The Olympic tournament got under way on Aug. 26 in the small Palazzetto della Sport. It wasn't until late in the tournament that the games were played in the magnificent Palazzetto della Sport, with its 15,000 seating capacity.

Here's how the US games went:

Aug. 26: USA 88, Italy 54.

Although playing somewhat raggedly, the US had little difficulty and led 47-17 at halftime. The winners had five men in double figures: Smith 17, Robertson 16, West 11, Bellamy 10, Dischinger 10.

Aug. 27: USA 125, Japan 66.

The US took a 65-36 halftime lead over the smaller Japanese. Five men again hit double figures, led by Lucas with 28. The others were Robertson 19, Smith 16, and West and Dischinger, 14 each.

Aug. 29: USA 107, Hungary 63.

The US was off form in the first half and only led 48-34. But in the second half the Americans started rolling up the points with Robertson hitting for a total of 22 and Lucas 21. Again five men were in the 10-plus bracket. The others were West 17, Dischinger 14 and Bellamy 10.

Sept. 1: USA 104, Jugoslavia 63.

The Americans struck quickly, piling up a 63-14 margin at the intermission. The top scorers were Robertson and Dischinger 16 each, Boozer 15, West 14 and Lucas 10.

Sept. 2: USA 108, Uruguay 50.

Another first-half blitz, the US gaining a 65-19 advantage. The five double-figure men were Smith 15, Robertson and Bellamy 13 each, Dischinger 12 and Haldorson 10.

Sept. 3: USA 81, Russia 57.

This was the big one and the USA's closest call—for a half anyway. Robertson was held to one field goal in the first half. At the intermission the US led, 35-28. But in the second half with Robertson, Lucas and West leading the way, the US went on a 20-point splurge in the first five minutes and broke the game wide open.

West had 19 points, Robertson 16 and Lucas 12.

Sept. 7: USA 112, Italy 81.

Cheered on by a capacity crowd of 15,000, the Italians scrapped valiantly in the first half. Shooting sensationally—paced by Gianfranco Lombardi —they kept up with the Americans until late in the first half. Lombardi got 16 of his 25 points in the half and the Americans only led, 56-48. Lucas kept the US in the running by dunking 20 of his 26 points.

In the second half the Italians ran out of gas as Robertson, Dischinger, Lane, West and Smith took up the scoring burden. Shortly after the half, the US was off and winging. Robertson finished with 22 points, West 18, Dischinger 15, Lane 11 and Smith 10. In one seven-minute span, the US outscored the Italians, 17-4.

Sept. 10: USA 90, Brazil 63.

This was the clincher and the USA didn't waste any time. With Lucas scoring on one tip-in after another, the US rolled up a 16-2 lead in five minutes and a 41-14 margin in 14 minutes. Lucas, who left with 10 minutes to play, had 23 points. Robertson had 12, Smith 11 and Dischinger 11. Walmir Marques, who played against the US at Melbourne in 1956 and at Chicago in the 1959 Pan American Games, had 19 for Brazil.

"This was the greatest team I have ever seen," said Marques, a fine all-around player.

"This was the most explosive team I have ever seen," said coach Newell. "They could hit for 20 points before the opposition knew what had struck them."

The final game was Newell's last as a coach. He left the bench to concentrate on his duties as Director of Athletics at the University of California.

"It was a grand way to bow out," he said. "The last was our finest game."

Boxing Honors Shared By United States And Italy; Crook, McClure, Clay Are Champions

BOXING honors were shared by Italy and the USA, each of which led in championships with three gold medalists. The other four of the 10 titles were shared by as many nations. Hungary, Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia had one champion each.

The bouts were held in the ultra-modern Palazzetto Dello Sport, a circular stadium with a high dome and not a pole in the place to obstruct anyone's view.

There were more than 15,000 highly vocal fans in the arena—and there might have been 100,000 more if room had been available—on the night of the finals, Sept. 5.

The Italians, with six finalists in the 10 events, came through with three champions and three silver medal winners. In addition, they had one bronze medal winner for a total of seven medalists.

The United States made its best showing since 1952 when Floyd Patterson was one of five USA champions. All told, the USA won 26 of 33 bouts.

Gold medals were won by light middleweight Wilbur McClure of Toledo, Ohio; middleweight Eddie Crook, an Army Sergeant from Ft. Campbell, Ky., and light heavyweight Cassius Clay, an 18-year-old schoolboy from Louisville, Ky.

Quincy Daniels, a 19-year-old from Seattle, Wash., won a bronze medal in the light welterweight class, losing in the semi-finals to the eventual winner, Banhumil Nemecek of Czechoslavakia.

Five other Americans went to the quarter-finals of their respective divisions while only one lost in the first round. The medal harvest might have been greater for at least three quarter-final US boxers who bowed out in decisions which could have gone either way.

The quarter-finalists were lightweight Harry Campbell of Detroit, Phil Baldwin of Muskegon Heights, Mich.; flyweight Humberto Barrera of Robstown, Texas; bantamweight Jerry Armstrong of Pocatello, Idaho, and heavyweight Percy Price of Philadelphia and the Marine Corps.

Featherweight Nick Spanakos of Brooklyn lost on a decision in the first round to Russia's Boris Nikanorov.

The Italians won with featherweight Francesco Musso, welterweight Giovanni Benvenuti and heavyweight Francesco De Piccoli. Benvenuti also won the Val Barker trophy for best typifying the classic Olympic boxing style.

The other champions were flyweight Gyula Torak of Hungary; bantamweight Oleg Grigoryev of Russia; lightweight Kazimierz Pazdzior of Poland and Banhumil Nemecek of Czechoslavakia.

Poland matched Italy in the number of medals with seven—one gold, three silver and three bronze. Russia had five—one gold, two silver and two bronze. Britain had three bronze medalists.

There were the usual protests over the officiating. Following a British protest of the decision which favored bantamweight Oleg Grigoryev of Russia, the eventual champion, over Britain's Francis Taylor, some 15 of the referees and judges were relieved of their duties.

The 1956 champions were unable to pick up additional gold medals. The three were light welterweight Vladimir Engulbanton of Russia, lightweight Dick McTaggart of Britain and middleweight Gennadiy Shatkov of Russia. Shatkov, a stiff puncher, elected to fight in the light heavyweight class and was one of Clay's victims.

Clay, the outstanding favorite of the US team, delivered handsomely in the toughest division of the field.

The 6-foot-2-inch boxer-puncher and the rest of the team benefitted from the pre-Games training and coaching they received at Fort Dix, N. J. Manager Ben Becker of Albany, N. Y., and coach Julius Menendez of San Jose State, set up a program to indoctrinate the boxers in the Olympic rules and the preferred Olympic style of boxing.

During the team's stay at Fort Dix, from July 18 to Aug. 12, Becker and Menendez were assisted by Maj. Robert Surkein, Maj. Surkein, an experienced international boxing official, refereed the daily workouts, lectured on the Olympic rules and pointed out the infractions common to international boxing. As a result of this drilling, none of the Americans were penalized at Rome for an infraction of the rules.

A squad of 22 worked out at Fort Dix. It included the 10 winners of the Olympic Final Tryouts at San Francisco's Cow Palace, May 18-20, plus other topnotchers.

The field for the Final Tryouts was made up of the winners of the following eight regional tournaments. The National AAU championships, the National Collegiate championships, Eastern Regionals at Louisville, Western Regionals at Pocatello, Idaho, and the US Army, Navy, Marine and Air Force championships.

Becker Menendez

In order to keep the athletes in top condition, every boxer who joined the final squad at Fort Dix had to agree to the following conditions under which an alternate might qualify for the 10-man Olympic team:

1. If the champion became ill, injured, or otherwise incapacitated.

2. If the champion had a weight problem which might disqualify him from Olympic competition.

3. If the champion failed to conform to the training rules.

4. If the champion was clearly outclassed by an alternate.

This resulted in just one change—an important one. Sgt. Crook, an alternate in the 156-pound class, could not outclass champion Wilbur McClure. But he did prove superior to 165-pound champion Ray Phillips and was substituted in that class. Crook went on to win the gold medal.

The boxers also were helped by the hot weather conditions at Fort Dix. The weather turned out to be similar to the sweltering heat they encountered at Rome and so it came as no shock to them.

The Olympic rundown:

FLYWEIGHT (112 pounds, 33 entries)—Gyula Torak, a 22-year-old Hungarian, defeated Russia's Sergey Sivko, 20, by 3-2 split decision in the title bout. Abdelmonei Elguinidi of the United Arab Republic and Japan's Kiyoshi Tanabe shared third place.

Humberto Barrera of the US outpointed Villy Andersen, Denmark, and Nyunt Hla of Burma, and then lost on a decision to Elguinidi in the quarter-finals.

BANTAMWEIGHT (119 pounds, 33 entries)—Oleg Grigoryev, 22, Russia, defeated Italy's Primo Zamparini, 3-2 split decision for the championship. Poland's Brunon Bending and Australia's Oliver Taylor shared third place.

Jerry Armstrong of Pocatello, Idaho, won the tournament's first bout, a decision over Bulgaria's Stoyan Petkov. Armstrong also outpointed Choon Kang of Korea and Patrick Kenny of Ireland. He lost on a decision to Zamparini in the quarter-finals.

FEATHERWEIGHT (125 pounds, 31 entries)—Francesco Musso, 22, Italy, defeated Jerzy Adamski, 23, Poland, on a 4-1 decision. Finland's Jorma Limmonen and South Africa's William Meyers shared third place.

Nick Spanakos of Brooklyn was outpointed in the first round by Boris Nikanorov of Russia. Nikanorov lost to Musso in the quarter-finals.

LIGHTWEIGHT (132 pounds, 34 entries)—Kazimierz Pazdzior, 25, Poland, outpointed Sandro Lopopolo, 20, Italy, by a 4-1 vote. Dick McTaggart, defending champion from Britain, beaten by Pazdzior in the semi-finals, and Argentina's Abel Laudonio shared third place.

Harry Campbell of Detroit drew a bye, then outpointed M. Romero of Venezuela, knocked out Kwang Lee of Korea in the second round, and was outpointed in the quarter-finals by Lopopolo.

LIGHT WELTERWEIGHTS (139 pounds, 34 entries)—Banhumil Nemecek, 22, Czechoslovakia, outpointed Clement Quartey, 22, Ghana, on a 5-0 decision in the title bout. Quincey Daniels, USA, and Poland's Marian Kasprzyk shared third place.

Daniels drew a first-round bye, then outpointed Alexandre Mitzev, Bulgaria, Bobby Kelsey of Britain, and Sayed Enahss of United Arab Republic, before losing on a decision to Nemecek in the semi-finals.

WELTERWEIGHT (148 pounds, 33 entries) — Giovanni Benvenuti, 22, Italy, outpointed Yuriy Radonyak, 24, Russia, on a 4-1 decision, for the title. Benvenuti dropped the Russian in the first round for the first knockdown of the final bouts. Benvenuti, the European light middleweight champion, moved down in weight.

Britain's Jim Lloyd and Poland's Leszek Drogosz shared third place.

Phil Baldwin of Muskegon Heights, Mich., who knocked out Luxemberg's Rene Grun in the first round and outpointed Max Meier of Sweden, lost a decision to Lloyd in the quarter-finals.

LIGHT MIDDLEWEIGHT (156 pounds, 33 entries)—Wilbert McClure, 21, 6 feet, from Toledo, U., gave the US its first boxing title by outpointing Carmelo Bossi, 20, Italy, on a 4-1 vote. McClure finished strong, winning on a last-round rally. It was the first championship for the US in this class. Hungary's Laszlo Papp won it in 1952 and 1956 in completing his triple, the first in Olympic boxing.

Russia's Boris Lagutin and Britain's Bill Fisher shared third place.

MIDDLEWEIGHT (165 pounds, 25 entries)—Sgt. Eddie Crook, 31, of Ft. Campbell, Ky., made it two straight for the US by gaining a narrow, unpopular 3-2 decision over Poland's Tadeusz Walasek, a 24-year-old veteran of 292 fights.

Crook worked over his opponent inside, scored with a good jab, and blocked many of the Pole's long range punches. From a distance it looked like the Pole was landing with his one-twos although Crook picked off many of the blows. When the verdict was announced the fans whistled and booed, holding up the victory ceremony.

Crook scored three knockouts and won one other decision in advancing to the final.

Russia's Eugeniy Feofanov and Rumania's Ion Monea shared third place.

LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT (178 pounds, 19 entries)—This division had the best field and Cassius Clay, 18, of Louisville, Ky., waded through it in fine style. Clay decisively outpointed Poland's Zbigniew Pietrzykowski, 25, on a 5-0 verdict.

Australia's Tony Madigan and Italy's Giulio Saraudi shared third place.

Clay toyed with the experienced Pole, three-time European champion and veteran of 231 fights, for two rounds. Then he opened up in the final round and scored freely with both hands.

Enroute to the final, Cassius stopped Y. Becaus of Belgium in the second round, outpointed Russia's Gennadiy Shatkov, the 1956 middleweight champion, and narrowly outpointed Tony Madigan, the American-trained Australian.

HEAVYWEIGHT (17 entries)—Francesco DePiccoli, 23, a 6-foot-2, 211-pound Italian soldier, stopped Dan Bekker, 28, a South African policeman, in 90 seconds of the first round to bring Italy the heavyweight title for the first time. This was a battle of left-handers.

Punching hard and fast to the body, the Italian scored two quick knockdowns over the 1956 bronze medalist and had the 196-pound Bekker in trouble when the referee halted the one-sided fight.

Czchoslovakia's Josef Nemec and Germany's Gunter Siegmund shared third place.

Percy Price, the 23-year-old Marine from Philadelphia, was outpointed in the quarter-finals by Nemec. Percy, 6-feet-3 and 210 pounds, drew a first-round bye and knocked out Australia's Ronald Taylor in the second round before meeting Nemec.

All Canoeing Records Broken; U. S. A. Entries Unplaced But Improved Over 1956 Showing

EVERY Olympic record was shattered in the Canoeing regatta on Lake Albano. The United States' entries failed to win a medal but at least had the satisfaction of improving substantially over the times posted in most events by the USA team at Melbourne in 1956.

Russia, with three gold medals—two in the women's events—and one silver medal, and Hungary, with one gold, three silvers and two bronzes, captured major honors in the seven events which drew entries from 24 countries.

Denmark, Sweden and Germany each won a championship.

The US did reach the semi-finals, thanks to repechages, in the Kayak Singles of 1,000 meters with Paul Beachem of Washington, D. C., and the Kayak Pairs, 1,000 meters, with Kenneth Wilson and John Wolters of New York.

Frank Havens, competing in his fourth Olympics, was eliminated in the Canadian Singles of 1,000 meters. The 36-year-old insurance appraiser from Vienna, Va., won a gold medal in 1952 and a silver medal in 1948 in the 10,000-meter Canadian Singles.

The 10,000-meter races for Canadian Pairs and Singles and Kayak Pairs were eliminated by the International Olympic Committee. There were two new events, however, the 4 x 500 Kayak Singles Relay and the 500-meter Kayak Pairs for women. This gave the women two events, including the 500-meter Kayak Singles, first introduced in 1948.

The US, with a total squad of 13, entered women for the first time. Gloriane Perrier of Washington, D.C., competed in the Kayak Singles and Mary Ann DuChai of Stow, Ohio, and the Turkeyfoot Kayak Club, in the Kayak Pairs. Lacking international experience, the girls were eliminated early in both races, won by Russia.

The winners, all in record time, were:

MEN

Kayak Singles, 1,000 meters—Erik Hansen, Denmark, 3:53.00.

Kayak Pairs, 1,000 meters—Gert Fredriksson and Sven Sjodelius, Sweden, 3:34.73.

Kayak Singles Relay, 4 x 500 meters—Germany Dieter Krause, Gunther Perleberg, Paul Lange, Friedhelm Wentzke, 7:39.43.

Canadian Singles, 1,000 meters—Janos Parti, Hungary, 4:33.93.

Canadian Pairs, 1,000 meters—Leonid Geyshter and Sergey Makarenko, Russia, 4:17.94.

WOMEN

Kayak Singles, 500 meters—Antonina Seredina, Russia, 2:08.08.

Kayak Pairs, 500 meters—Maria Shubina and Antonina Seredina, Russia, 1:54.76.

Sweden's Gert Fredriksson, the winner of the Kayak Singles 1,000 in 1948, 1952 and 1956, and winner of the 10,000 in 1956, had his reign ended in the 1,000 by Denmark's Erik Hansen.

CANOEING

Repechage heats (second chances for losers) were held just as in rowing. And the regatta was held over the same course as the rowers.

Competition was over a six-lane course on Lake Albano's currentless body of water lying in the crater of an extinct volcano.

The lanes, with plastic multi-colored buoys as markers, were set up by a grid work of cables stretched across the surface and then anchored to five feet below the top.

The US team was selected on the basis of Olympic Trials on Lake Sabago, Bear Mountain, N. Y., July 17-18.

Making up the rest of the US team were the Canadian Pairs tandem of Arnold Menus of Walpole, Mass., and Richard Moran of Boston, and the Kayak relay foursome of Russell Dermond, Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., Charles Lundmark, Washington, D.C., Robert O'Brien, New York, and John-ny Pagkos, Yonkers, N. Y. Both teams were eliminated in repechages.

The Olympic competition was run off on Aug. 26, 27 and 29, with all finals on the last day.

Here is a brief review of the finals:

MEN'S KAYAK SINGLES, 1,000 meters—Denmark's Erik Hansen, a 20-year-old soldier, set a terrific pace. At the 500-meter mark he and Hungary's Imre Szollos, the 1959 European champion, began to pull away. Hansen maintained his lead and won by a second with Sweden's Gert Fredriksson, the three-time winner and defender, nearly two seconds more behind. Hansen's time of 3:53.00 smashed the record of 4:07.9 set by Fredriksson in 1952. All nine finalists bettered the old mark. Paul Beachem of the US was seventh and last in his heat but finished third in the repechage to qualify for the semi-finals. He finished fifth in the semi-final heat in 4:15.0 and was eliminated.

MEN'S KAYAK PAIRS, 1,000 meters—Sweden's Gert Fredriksson and Sven Sjodelius nosed out Hungary's pair of Andras Szente and Gyorgy Meszaros by inches. Poland was third as all nine finalists again eclipsed the Olympic mark of 3:49.6 set by Germany in 1956. The victors were timed in 3:34.73.

The US pair of Wilson and Wolters was sixth in its heat, second in the repechage, and sixth and last in its semi-final heat in 4:01.46.

MEN'S CANADIAN SINGLES, 1,000 meters—In another tingling finish, Hungary's Janos Parti edged Russia's Alexander Silaev by about a half-second with Romania's Leon Rotman a close third. All nine finalists beat the Olympic record of 4:56.3 set by Czech Josef Holocek. Parti's time was 4:33.93. It was the first victory for Hungary in this event. Frank Havens was seventh in his heat and fourth and last in the repechage in 5:13.34.

MEN'S CANADIAN PAIRS, 1,000 meters—Russia's Geyshter and Maksarenko won this handily in 4:17.94 with Italy second and Hungary third. Eight of the first nine finalists surpassed the Olympic record of 4:38.3 set in 1952 by Denmark. This was Russia's first victory in this event.

The US team of Demus and Moran was fifth and last in its heat in 4:59.15 and disqualified in the repechage.

MEN'S KAYAK SINGLES HEATS, 4 x 500 meters—Germany's quartet captured this new Olympic event by 4½ seconds over Hungary with Denmark third, in the excellent time of 7:39.43. This automatically becomes a record.

The US team of Dermond, Lundmark, O'Brien and Pagkos was fifth in its heat and third in the repechage in 18:18.51. Only the first two gained the semi-finals.

WOMEN'S KAYAK SINGLES, 500 meters—Russia's powerful Antonina Seredina rallied in the last 50 yards to overhaul Germany's Therese Zenz and win by inches in the Olympic record time of 2:08.08. This bettered the record of 2:18.4 set in 1952 by Finland's Sylvi Saimo. All nine finalists eclipsed the mark. This was Russia's second straight triumph.

Gloriane Perrier of the US was seventh in her heat and fourth in her repechage in 2:21.9.

WOMEN'S KAYAK PAIRS, 500 meters—This was almost a repeat of the singles with Russia's Miss Seredina and Maria Shubina winning by nearly 2 seconds over Germany's Rudolpin Zenz and Ingrid Hartman in 1:54.76. Hungary was third.

The US DuChai-Jerome team was fifth in its heat in 2:15.51 and fifth in the repechage in 2:21.3.

COMPETITION WAS CLOSE during the third semi-final heat of the men's 4x500 meter kayak singles relay at Lake Albano. Although the contestants are not precisely identified, the boat marking gives the clue to the nation they represented. No. 1 was the Australian entry; No. 22, Hungary; No. 11, Great Britain; and No. 18, Romania.

ONE OF FOUR medal "sweeps" accomplished by the United States men's track and field team came in the finals of the 400 meter relay as gold was proclaimed by the unfurling of USA flags from the victory standards atop the Stadio Olimpico. Inset—(left to right)—Team Captain Mal Whitfield, Lou Cushman, 2nd; Glenn Davis, champion; and Richard Howard, 3rd.

GREATEST COMPETITIVE performance at the 1960 Games was that of USA's Rafer Johnson in the decathlon. When the eighth event, the pole vault, had been completed, Johnson led Formosa's Chuan Kwang Yang in points, 7076 to 7052. He increased his lead to 8036 to 7989 by battering Yang in the javelin throw but the point margin of 47 appeared too slim to withstand Yang's challenge in the final event, the 1500 meter run, in which Johnson ordinarily did not excel. Knowing that he must finish with a time within 10 seconds of that posted by Yang in order to win the overall championship, Johnson was determined to stay on Yang's heels all through the race (top center). So great was his determination that he finished only yards behind the Formosan with a time (best of his career) of 4:49.7, one second slower than Yang's. The points earned with this extraordinary effort gave Johnson the Olympic gold medal and new record total of 8392 points while Yang finished with 8334. The last two events took place late at night and it was not until the next day that Johnson received the gold medal. Johnson and Yang both trained at the University of California at Los Angeles and are the best of friends.

ACTION DURING 1500 meter event of decathlon competition (above) shows how close Johnson kept on the heels of Yang as the championship bids of both hung upon the outcome of the race. Below, the two competitors, exhausted from the gruelling test, aid each other from the track. Right, Johnson receives his gold medal the next day.

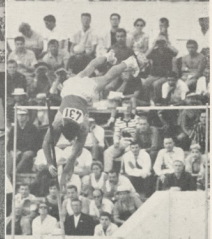

OLYMPIC THRILLS: (upper left) Dyrol Burleson, USA, leads in third lap of qualifying heat for the 1500 meters. Directly behind him is Istvan Rozsavolgyi, Hungary, while Herb Elliott, the eventual champion and record breaker, drives outside to take over the lead, with Barry Sullivan (No. 58), Rhodesia, also challenging. (Left center) Don Bragg, USA pole vaulter, starts his run for an Olympic record jump. (Lower left) The start of the 100 meter final, left to right, Armin Hary, Germany, the champion; Peter Radford, Great Britain; Enrique Figuerola, Cuba; Ray Norton, Francis Budd, and David Sime, all of the USA. (Upper right) Charles Jones, USA, leads Alexey Kanev, Russia, over water jump in 3000 meter steeplechase final.

ITALIAN OLYMPIC official calls athletes from shelter to competition during downpour of rain.

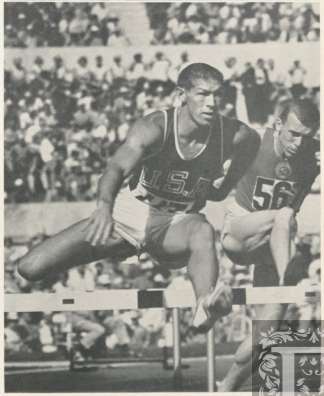

THE DIFFERENCE between champion and contender often was a matter of inches as close was the Olympic competition at Rome. (Upper left) USA's John Thomas in final attempt at 7' 1" in the high jump but has to settle for third place when two Russians succeed where he missed. (Lower left) on the victory stand, Russian Valeriy Brumel (left) looks admiringly at the gold medal won by teammate, Robert Shavlakadze (center) while Thomas looks on. (Above right) Lee Calhoun, USA, is first in Olympic history to successfully defend a championship in the 110 meter hurdles. His headlong lunge at the tape beats out teammate Willie May. (Lower right) Glenn Davis, USA, who performed like wise in winning the 400 meter hurdles crown for the second time, shows good form as he heads into the home stretch of his qualifying trial. Challenging him is Russia's Georgiy Chevychalov.

Italian Cyclists Barely Missed Sweep Of All Gold Medals: U. S. A. Showing Is Creditable

ITALY'S renowned all-around team, led by freshly crowned world champion Sante Gaiardoni, came within a fraction of a second of completing an unprecedented sweep of the entire Olympic cycling championships.

Heading into the final race of the six-event, four-day championships, the Italians had won five titles, and 11 of their 12 riders had earned gold medals.

But in the final event—the individual road race of 109 miles—Russia's Viktor Kapitonov shaded Italy's Livio Trape by inches as both were clocked in identical times of 4 hours, 20 minutes, 37 seconds.

The Soviet's triumph not only halted the Italian parade but brought Russia its first cycling gold medal ever.

Italy finished with a grand harvest of five championships, one second and one third. The only man on the team of 12 to fail to win a gold medal was former world amateur sprint champion Valentino Gasparella, who was third in the 1,000-meter match sprint.

Gaiardoni, 21, a 5-foot-6, 149-pounder, who won the 1,000-meter time trial in Olympic and world outdoor record time of 1:07.27, swept eight straight races to capture the 1,000-meter match sprint title and become the first ever to win both of those championships in the Olympics.

Italy's other victories were in the 2,000-meter Tandem, the 4,000-meter Team Pursuit—in Olympic record time for the team race—and the Road Team Time Trial.

Russia also took four bronze medals in addition to one gold. Germany was second in four events and Belgium picked up the other silver and bronze.

Here's how the champions were crowned:

1,000-METER TIME TRIAL—Italy's Sante Gaiardoni, the last man in the field of 26 to race against the clock, turned in the fastest outdoor 1,000 ever, by amateur or pro. He was clocked in 1:07.27 for the 2½ turns around the banked, 400-meter track. Germany's Dieter Gieseler was second and Russia's Rostislav Vargashkin was third. Allen Bell of the USA was 13th in 1:11.33.

1,000-METER MATCH SPRINT — Gaiardoni swept through this event in eight straight races. This is man-against-man competition in sprints over the final 200 meters.

There was only one race in the first two rounds. After that the quarter-finals, semi-finals and finals called for best two-out-of-three. Gaiardoni never required three. In the finals, he whipped Belgium's Leo Sterchx—as he did in the world championships—in :11.1 and :11.5.

Jack Simes of the USA was beaten in his heat and in the repechages. Herbert Francis of the US lost his heat, won his first repechage and then bowed in the repechage finals to P. Van Der Touw of the Netherlands.

2,000-METER TANDEM — Italy's team of Sergio Bianchetta and Giuseppe Beghetto won this by sweeping seven straight races. They beat the USA team of Jack Hartman and David Sharp in the quarter-finals, the Netherlands in the semi-finals, and Germany in two straight races in the finals, in :10.7 and :10.8.

Hartman and Sharp had beaten Switzerland's pair of Peter Vogel and Peter Hirzel in one heat in :11.3.

4,000-METER TEAM PURSUIT — Italy's team posted the best time of the eight qualifiers in the field of 19, then beat Argentina, Russia and finally Germany by 5 seconds in the championship match race in 4:30.90. Russia topped France for third.

The US quartet of Richard Cortright, Charles Hewett, Robert Pfarr and James Rossi finished 15th in 4:49.92 in the qualifying round and was eliminated.

INDIVIDUAL ROAD RACE (109 miles)—Russia's Viktor Kapitonov and Italy's Livio Trape staged a thrilling duel all the way. At about the 85-mile mark the Russian bolted from the front pack of 17. Trape followed.

By the time they hit the 100-mile mark they had pulled about 150 seconds in front. At the finish their margin had been cut to 20 seconds as the Russian won by inches over Trape in 4:20.37. Belgium's Willy Vanden Berghen was awarded third in 4:20.57, the same time as the other contenders right down to 33rd place. Michael Hilmer was among this pack.

Lars Zebroski was 53rd in 4:28:42, Wesley Chowen 57th in 4:31:30 and Robert Tetzlaff 64th in 4:36:16.

TEAM ROAD RACE (62.14 miles)—Italy put on the pressure in the eighth lap and pulled away from Germany's early pace-setters to win comfortably in 2 hours, 14.33.53. Germany's time was 2:16.56.31. Russia was third in 2:18.41.67. The USA quartet of Freund, Hilmer, Chowen and Tetzlaff was a good 11th in 2:24.00.97.

The USA did not win a medal but the team showed to good advantage. The road race team placed 11th, its best ever, the 4,000-meter pursuit team improved 13 seconds over its 1956 performance, and Michael Hilmer, in lying for 12th with a time just 20 seconds behind the champion, provided the USA with its best showing ever in the individual road race.

Allen Bell of Somerville, N. J., posted a time of 1:11.33 for 13th place in the 1,000-meter time trial as compared to his 10th-place finish in the slower time of 1:12.8 in 1956 at Melbourne.

The USA was not expected to break into the first three in any race against the competition-seasoned internationalists. The major upsets were the blanking of such powers as France, the Netherlands and Australia.

The honor of winning the first championship of the entire Games went to Italy's four-man team in the Road Time Trial. The foursome of Antonio Bailletti, Ottavio Cogliati, Giancomo Fornoni and Livio Trape won the 100 kilometers (62.14 miles) in the oppressive, 93-plus heat in 2 hours, 14.33.53.

Tragedy struck the Olympics in this race. Two Danish riders, Knut Jensen and Jorgen Jorgensen, collapsed seven miles from the finish of the gruelling contest, raced under a broiling sun. Jensen died in a hospital. Hospital attendants first attributed the death to sunstroke. But an official Italian police report later said the 23-year-old Dane died of "an overdose of a stimulating drug."

Danish officials said the team trainer, under a doctor's order, had given four Danish riders tablets of Ronicol. The drug, described by doctors as comparatively mild, is used to stimulate blood circulation. It can be purchased without prescription.

As a result of Jensen's death, the Danish team withdrew from the remainder of the cycling program which was held in the midst of a torrid Roman heat wave.

CYCLING

Italy's champions also included the 2,000-meter Tandem of Sergio Bianchetto and Giuseppe Beghetto, and the 4,000-meter Pursuit team of Luigi Arienti, Franco Testa, Mario Vallotto and Marino Vigna. The pursuit team's time of 4:30.90 smashed the Olympic record of 4:37.4 set by another Italian quartet in 1956. The 1960 team had even better times in the heats, including one of 4:28.88.

In the individual road race, Hiltner, a 19-year-old UCLA student from Pacific Palisades, Calif., actually came close to a medal. There was a mad mob scene behind the first two finishers. Every rider from third place to 33rd was given the same time of 4:20.57.

Hiltner earned his place on the team by winning the 62.5 mile race in New York's Central Park on July 23. The Olympic Trials were held both in Central Park (July 23-24) and on a midget auto track, at Islip, N. Y., July 25-26, 28.

Other members of the 15-man team included:

ROAD RACE—Wesley Chowen, 21, Woodland Hills, Calif.; William Freund, 19, Detroit; George Koenig, 24, Los Altos, Calif.; Robert Tetzlaff, 24, Los Angeles, and Lars Zebroski, 19, Los Altos, Calif.

1,000-METER TIME TRIAL — Allen Bell, 26, Somerville, N. J., and David Sharp, 19, Pacific Palisades, Calif.

1,000-METER MATCH TEAM—Herbert Francis, 20, New York; Jack Harlman, 23, Los Gatos, Calif., and Jack Simes 3rd, 17, Closter, N. J.

4,000-METER PURSUIT TEAM — Richard Cortright, 30, Buffalo, N. Y.; Charles Hewett, 31, Libertyville, Ill.; Robert Pfarr, 40, Kenosha, Wis., and James Rossi, 24, Chicago.

After the Trials, the team remained in New York for training under coach Walter Bresnan, Syosset, Long Island, N. Y., and manager George L. Thorpe of San Francisco.

United States Jumping Team Placed Second In Its Event; Australia Led All Nations

AUSTRALIA, Italy, Russia and Germany won the gold medals and the United States made its best showing since 1948 in the equestrian championships.

Lawrence Morgan, a 45-year-old Australian rancher, captured the Three-Day Event individual gold medal and led his band of daring riders to the Three-Day team title—the first Olympic equestrian championships ever won by the Aussies.

Russia furnished one of the major surprises by coming up with the dressage champion in Sergey Filatov and a fifth-placer in Ivan Kalita. Dressage usually is associated with the aristocracy of high society and the almost outmoded cavalry. This was Soviet Russia's first Equestrian gold medal, too.

The Italian brothers, Raimondo and Piero D'Inzeo, drew "braves" from their enthusiastic countrymen with a one-two finish and superb display of riding in the individual jumping and a bronze medal in the team jumping.

The Grand Prix for jumping was won for the second straight time by Germany with the improved US team second. Hans Winkler, a former stable boy for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in Europe, once again led the Germans to victory. They were the only 1956 winners to retain their honors.

The US showed improvement by gaining the silver medal in jumping (the team of George Morris, Frank Chapot and William Steinkraus); a fourth place by Morris aboard Sinjon in the individual jumping, and a sixth place by Patricia (Trish) Galvin, on Bambalina, in the individual dressage. Jessica Newberry, the other US dressage entrant, was 12th on Forstrat.

In the individual jumping at Piazza di Siena in the Villa Borghese, world champion Raimondo D'Inzeo won with only 12 faults for the two rounds over a difficult course. He had a flawless ride in the first round and 12 faults in the afternoon aboard Posillipo.

His brother, Piero, put together two consistent rounds for second with 16 faults—eight in the morning and eight in the afternoon—on The Rock. Britain's David Broome was third on Sunsalve with 16-7—23. Morris, 22, of New Canaan, Conn., was fourth with 12-12—24 on Sinjon.

Hugh Wiley, 33, of Towson, Md., was seventh with 12-16—28 on Master William. Bill Steinkraus, 34, of Westport, Conn., tied for 15th with 24-13½—29—7½ on Riviera Wonder.

The Russian Filator, and his well-trained brown horse, Absinthe, went through their intricate maneuvers in masterful fashion, in the Dressage Event. Only the first five advanced to the second-day finals and the Russian scored highest on both days—1,074 and 1,070 for a winning total of 2,144 points. This ended the eight-year reign of Sweden's Major Henri St. Cyr, who finished fourth aboard L'Etoile with 1,036-1,028—2,064.

Gustav Fischer of Switzerland, on Wald, was second with 1,052-1,035 —2,087. Germany's Josef Neckerman, on Asbach, gained the bronze medal with 1,071-1,011—2,082. Russia's Ivan Kalita, on Korbey, was fifth with 1,010-997—2,007.

Miss Galvin, 21, the Pan American champion from Santa Barbara, Calif., was sixth with 995 points, on Rathpatrick. Miss Newberry, 21, of Australia Forks, N. Y., scored 927 with Forstrat for 12th in the field of 17.

Australia, led by Captain Lawrence Morgan, scored heavily in the cross country. Morgan had a clean ride on Salad Days, and [illegible] was equally perfect on [illegible] over a difficult course—scored only "faller course" by some [illegible]. Morgan gained 144.00 [illegible] points.

and Lavis 108.00 as the tough terrain claimed the lives of two horses, injuries to many others, and knocked half of the field out of competition.

When the day was over only six of the 18 nations with team entries were left and Australia had built up an almost unbeatable lead.

The USA was eliminated when David Lurie of Clayton, Mo., and Walter Staley of Mexico, Mo., didn't finish.

Lurie, on Sea Tiger, cleared 32 of the 35 obstacles but was eliminated when Sea Tiger refused four times to jump the 33rd hurdle.

Staley, on Fleet Captain, had his right shoulder pop out of joint when his mount fell. It was popped right back when Fleet Captain fell a second time. Then the 7-year-old chestnut gelding refused to continue.

A team must have at least three finishers to score in the team standings.

Australia, despite its huge lead, appeared to be in trouble, Bill Roycroft, on Our Solo, had suffered a concussion and a broken collarbone in a fall, and Brian Crago, who looked like he had second clinched, had to retire because his mount, Sabre, was unsound and unable to participate in the last day's jumping.

Roycroft, disregarding his doctor's orders, rode Our Solo to a fine ride in the jumping to clinch Australia's victory and 11th place for himself.

Morgan, with plus 7.15 points, was the individual winner on Salad Days. He was the only one with plus points. Teammate Neal Lavis, on Mirrabooka, was second with minus 16.50. Switzerland's Anton Buhler, on Gay Spark, gained the bronze medal with minus 31.21 points.

Michael Plumb, 20, of Syosset, N. Y., aboard Markham, was 15th with minus 153.46, and Michael Page, 21, of Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., on Grasshopper, was 17th with minus 172.30.

The Australian team had minus 128.18 points, Switzerland was second with minus 386.02 and France third with minus 515.71.

In the Grand Prix des Nations—the team jumping—Germany won with a low of 46½ faults. The team included Hans Winkler (Halla) 9¼—4—13¼, Fritz Thiedemann (Meteor) 8-8—16, and Alwin Schockemohle (Ferdl) 8½-8¾—17¼.

WILLIAM STEINKRAUS, UNITED STATES equestrian, and his mount, Riviera Wonder, successfully clear a hurdle during the Grand Prix for Jumping event for individuals at the Piazza di Siena.

FRANK D. CHAPOT, riding Trail Guide, hurdles a log barrier during the team competition for jumpers on the final day of the Games at Stadio Olimpico. Chapot and his teammates won the silver medal for the United States.

The USA was second with 66 and Italy third with 80½.

Bill Steinkraus, the last American rider, clinched the silver medal with an excellent ride aboard Ksar D'Esprit for only 9 faults. He had 12½ faults in the morning for a total of 21½. Frank Chapot of Wallpack, N. J., on Trail Guide, had 8-12—20, and George Morris, on Sinjon, 8½-16—24½.

The cheers of the partisan crowd were mainly for Raimondo D'Inzeo on Posillipo. He gave a brilliant exhibition and finished with the low score of the field (4-4—8) to earn Italy third place.

Albert Axelrod's Bronze Medal In Foils Best For U. S. A. Fencers; Sabre Team Was Fourth

RUSSIA, Italy, Hungary and Germany shared honors in the white marble Palace of Congresses.

While the four European nations in the record field of 43 countries divided the gold medals, the USA finally ended its medal drought in individual competition when Albert Axelrod, 39, a three-time Olympian, captured third place in the foils championship.

In addition, the American saber entrants placed fourth in the team competition, the best since they took third in 1948, and the foils team finished in the final eight.

Russia topped Italy in total medals, 7 to 6, and 4 gold medals, 3 to 2.

The Russians won the men's individual foils title and both the men's and women's team foils championships. In the men's foils, Viktor Zhdanovich, a 22-year-old teacher, succeeded two-time Olympic champion Christian D'Oriola of France, who finished eighth, and in the team tournament the Russians beat Italy, the defenders, in the finals. Team competition in women's foils was held for the first time.

Italy retained both titles in the epee and Hungary maintained tradition by taking the two saber championships. Giuseppe Delfino, a 38-year-old Italian, defeated Britain's Allan Jay 5-2 in a fence-off for the epee crown.

Delfino's victory made it three straight for Italy in individual competition and the team triumph was the Italian's sixth in a row in the Olympics.

Hungary's victory streaks in the saber are even longer. Rudolf Karpati, the defender, scored his second straight victory and Hungary's seventh consecutive in the individual saber. He led the team to Hungary's seventh successive team triumph. The Hungarians have swept the saber since 1924.

Heidi Schmid, a 21-year-old violinist, won the women's foils to give Germany its first fencing gold medal ever in the Olympics. The fraulein's father is her master and her mother and brother also fence.

In the men's foils, Zhdanovich won all seven of his matches in the eight-man final. His teammate, Yuriy Sisikin, was second with five victories. Axelrod, Poland's Witold Woyda (fourth) and Russia's Mark Midler (fifth) all had four victories. In the three barrages Axelrod beat both Woyda (5-4) and Midler (5-3) for the bronze medal. Woyda defeated Midler (5-2) for fourth.

D'Oriola apparently was unable to concentrate in the sweltering heat, and won only one bout in the final round.

Gene Glazer, 20, of New York University, and Joseph Paletta, 22, of the Naval Academy, were eliminated in the second round.

The injury to Axelrod proved costly in the foils team competition. The 6-foot, 190-pounder pulled a leg muscle in the first round of the direct eliminations against Luxemberg and was replaced by Harold Goldsmith, 30, of New York. The US defeated Luxemberg, 9-5, but was eliminated in the quarter-final round by Italy, one of the four seeded teams, 9-0.

The USA had to eliminate three teams to Italy's one and consequently the Italians were much fresher for the contest. Italy bowed to Russia in the final, 9-4.

The US team also included Glazer, Paletta and Dr. Daniel Bukantz, 42, New York, one of the four four-time Olympians on the men's and women's squads.

Delfino, a giant of a man with tremendous patience and unexpected speed, made the most of Jay's mistakes in their barrage for the epee rifle. Russia's Bruno Khabarov, the world champion, defeated Hungary's Jozsef Sakovits in a barrage (8-7) for third place after each had scored four victories in the finals to five for Delfino and Jay.

In the team contest, Italy defeated Britain, 9-5, as Delfino earned another gold medal and Jay took a second silver prize.

David Micahnik, 21, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., was eliminated in the second round of the epee while Ralph Spinello, 37, Waterbury, Conn., and James Margolis, 24, a Navy Lieutenant from New York, were knocked out in the first round.

In the team competition, the same three plus Henry Kolowrat, 27, New Haven, Conn., and Roland Wommack, 23, an Ensign from the Naval Academy, were eliminated in the first round of direct eliminations by Britain's silver medalists, 9-5. The Americans had defeated Portugal 10-6, and lost to Italy, 9-2.

Karpati took the saber final with five victories. There was a four-way tie for second on four victories. In the fence-offs, Hungary's Zoltan Horvard took second, Italy's Wladimiro Calarese third, France's Claude Arabo fourth, and Poland's Wojchiech Zabdocki fifth.

Michael Dasaro, 22, New York, Alfonso Morales, 23, Tucson, Ariz., and Allen Kwartler, 42, a three-time Olympian from Yonkers, N. Y., advanced to the quarter-finals before they were eliminated.

Hungary edged Poland, 9-7, for the saber championship and Italy downed the United States, 9-6, for third place. Hungary had beaten Italy, 9-6, and Poland had defeated the USA, 9-3, in the semi-finals.

The Americans previously had eliminated Russia, 8-8 (65 to 67 on hits), with Dr. Tibor Nyilas, 46, a four-time Olympian from New York, scoring four victories. The team also included Fraulein Schmid paced the women's field with six victories in the final. Russia's Valentina Rastvorova (5) was second and Romania's Maria Vicol (4) third.

The three Americans were eliminated in the first round. They included Harriet King, 25, New York; Janice-Lee Romary, 32, Tarzana, Calif., and Evelyn Terhune, 28, of Glen Rock, N. J. The same three plus Judy Goodrich, 21, Lapeer, Mich., and Mrs. Maxine Mitchell, 43, a three-time Olympic member from Los Angeles, were eliminated in the first-round pool of the team tournament.

Russia defeated Hungary, 9-3, for first and Italy tumbled Germany, 9-3, for third.

Dr. Bukantz doubled as the manager of the fencing squad. Goldstein of Yonkers, N. Y., was the team captain; Andre Lavigne of the Naval Academy was his coach and Carmine Nardiello [illegible]

India's Field Hockey Team Dethroned By Pakistan After Winning Six Straight Titles

INDIA, winners of six straight Olympic championships since 1928, finally yielded the title to Pakistan in a tense 1-0 final.

FIELD HOCKEY

Pakistan scored at the start on Ahmad Naser's goal into the corner. That was it as the Pakistan defense held firm against India's sorties.

Both teams had advanced to the final without defeat.

Pakistan defeated Australia, 3-0; Poland, 8-0, and Japan, 10-0, in the preliminary pool. There were four teams in each of the four pools with the first two in each advancing to the quarter-finals. India defeated Denmark, 10-0; The Netherlands, 4-1, and New Zealand, 3-0.

In four tight quarter-finals—all decided by one goal—Pakistan defeated Germany, 2-1; India eliminated Australia, 1-0; Spain edged New Zealand, 1-0, and Great Britain downed Kenya, 2-1.

Pakistan beat Spain, 1-0, and India defeated Great Britain, 1-0, in the semi-finals. In the battle for third place, Spain upset Britain, 2-1.

The United States was not entered. The International Field Hockey Federation selected the 16 teams permitted in the Olympic tournament.

OFFICIAL SUMMARIES—FIELD HOCKEY—1960 OLYMPIC GAMES

Procedure of Tournament

The 16 teams were divided by lot, into four groups. The two place teams in each of these groups were admitted to the quarter-finals while the third and fourth place teams in each group were admitted to a classification division (the third for 9th to 12th place; the fourths for 13th to 16th place in the final rankings). The championship quarter-finals opened a straight elimination plan while the classification groups operated on a round-robin basis.

Japanese First In Men's Gymnastics Team Event, U. S. A. Fifth; Russian Individuals Tops

JAPAN finally cracked Russia's eight-year domination of the men's competition by winning the team championship and collecting three other gold medals.

The four golds in gymnastics were the only ones Japan was able to win at Rome. Russia, although it lost the team title, earned five individual gold medals, four of them by world champion Boris Shakhlin. Finland was the only other nation to win a gold medal, Finland's Eugen Ekman tying Shakhlin for first in the long horse.

The USA's improved gymnasts turned in their best showing since gaining a second in 1932 and a fifth in 1924. The overall score of the Rome team was the best ever made by the USA.

The US team impressed foreign observers with the consistency of its performance in all events. In the team competition the USA scored 555.20, only 3.85 points behind Italy's bronze medalists.

Japan, placing six among the first nine, piled up 575.20 points. Russia had two men in the first six and six in the top 17, scoring 572.70. Italy had 559.05 and fourth-place Czechoslovakia 557.15.

Twenty nations entered full teams and 130 athletes from 28 nations competed for the seven individual championships—the all-around, horizontal bar, parallel bars, rings, pommelled (side) horse, long horse (vaults), and free standing exercise.

Only the first six in each event of the all-around qualified for the final of that particular specialty.

Thus only 16 in the field of 130 were able to participate in the finals. The finalists included six from Japan, four from Russia, two from Italy, and one each from Jugoslavia, Bulgaria, Finland, and Czechoslovakia.

Larry Banner, 24, of Van Nuys, Calif., finished eighth in the pommelled horse with 19.000 points to come closest of the Americans to qualifying for any final. Takashi Ono, the sixth-placer from Japan in this specialty, had 19.15 in qualifying although he only scored 18.525 in the final.

Banner, a UCLA student and newcomer to Olympic competition, led the Americans in the all-around with 111.05 points for 21st place. John Beckner, 30-year-old teacher competing in his third Olympics, was 25th with 110.85. Then came Lt. Don Tonry, 24, an Army officer from Brooklyn, 27th, 110.75; Abe Grossfeld, 36, another Olympic veteran from Urbana, Ill., 36th, 110.05; Fred Orlofsky, 23, North Bergen, N. J., the 1960 National AAU champion, 44th, 109.45, and Lt. Garland O'Quinn, 25, of the Military Academy, 53rd, 109.00.

Shakhlin won the all-around by a narrow margin, scoring 115.95 points to 115.90 for the 23-year-old Japanese. Another Soviet star, Yuriy Titov, was third with 115.60 points.

Shakhlin also won the parallel bars (19.400), tied for first in the pommelled horse (19.375) with Finland's Eugen Ekman, tied for first again in the long horse (19.50) with Ono, took second in the rings behind teammate Albert Asaryan (19.275), and third in the horizontal bar, won by Ono (19.600).

Ono also collected a gold medal in the team race, the tie for first in the long horse, a second in the all-around, a third in the parallel bars, and a tie for third in the rings.

Thus Shakhlin wound up with four golds, two silvers and a bronze. Ono returned home with three golds, one silver and two bronzes.

Ono's teammates were Masao Takemoto, Yukio Endo, Takashi Mitsukuri, Nobuyuki Aihara and Shuji Tsurumi. They scored in the following manner: horizontal bars, 97.05; parallel bars, 96.35; side horse, 94.95; rings, 96.40; long horse vault, 95.30 and free standing exercise, 95.15 for 575.20.

The American team of Banner, Beckner, Grossfeld, O'Quinn, Orlofsky, and Torry, scored the following points: horizontal bars, 93.10; parallel bars, 92.35; side horse, 93.55; rings, 92.90; long horse vault, 91.50, and free standing exercise, 91.80 for a total of 555.20.

Capacity crowds jammed the new 5,000-seat arena, built within the centuries-old arches, vaults, and columns of the historic Caracalla Baths.

The USA team was picked on the basis of the National AAU championships at the U. S. Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., April 29, 30, May 1.

The alternates included Geoffrey Cardinali, 21, Springfield, Mass.; John Culbertson, Wilmette, Ill.; Karl Schwenzfeier, 26, Highland Falls, N. Y.; Arthur Shurlock, 23, Berkeley, Calif.; Armando Vega, 24, Los Angeles and Gregory Weiss, 19, Ridgefield, N. J.

GYMNASTICS, MEN

Thomas Maloney, the West Point coach, was the coach-manager. Maloney was enthusiastic over the showing of his team.

"The competition was, without a question of doubt, the most difficult gymnastic competition than in any previous Olympic Games," he said. "To say our team performed well is an understatement—our performance was outstanding. In the opinion of many gymnastic experts present, it definitely deserved the title. The team made the highest score ever by an American team in this international competition in this event (Summer Olympics)."

All But One Of 16 Medals Awarded Russia In Women's Gymnastics; Improved U. S. A. Ninth

BY sweeping 15 of a possible 16 medals in an enthralling series of performances before capacity crowds, Russia was most dominant.

The American girls recorded the best average scores of any US team in the post-war era, finishing ninth in the team competition of 17 nations. The USA also took ninth place at Melbourne when only nine countries were entered.

The USA improvement in the four-year period was so marked that it was able to defeat such high calibre gymnastic countries as Sweden, Italy, France and Finland.

GYMNASTICS, WOMEN

The competition was staged in the historic Caracalla Baths, constructed in 217 A.D. by Antoninus Caracalla. An arena seating 5,000 was built within the centuries-old arches, vaults and columns of the huge monument in the heart of Rome.

Russia was led once again by the graceful, lovely Larisa Latynina. Winner of three individual crowns and pace-setter of the victorious team in 1956, she collected three gold medals, two silvers and one bronze this time.

In guiding the Soviets to their third straight team championship, Larisa repeated as all-around and free standing exercises queen, took second in the parallel bars and beam, and was third in the long horse vault.

The only outsider to break the Russian monopoly was Eva Bosakova of Czechoslovakia, who took first on the beam with 19.283 points to Latynina's 19.233. Otherwise the Russian girls swept the all-around (Latynina, 77.031), free standing exercises (Latynina 19.583), long horse (Margarita Nikolaeva, 19.316), and parallel bars (Polina Astakhova, 19.616).

Only 10 women qualified to compete in the finals of the four individual championships, five of them Russians, three Czechs, one Romanian and one Japanese.

The first six in each event of the all-around championship made the individual finals.

Russia had the first four in the all-around in Latynina, 77.031; Sofia Muratova, 76.696; Astakhova, 76.164 and Nikolaeva, 75.831. Romania's Sonia Iovan was fifth with 75.797 and Japan's Keiko Ikeda sixth with 75.696.

The USA placings in the individual field of 124 from 27 nations were: 28, Gail Sontgerath, 16, West Palm Beach, Fla., 73.097; 40, Doris Fuchs, 22, Rochester, N. Y., 72.498; 45, Sharon Richardson, 17, Jackson, Mich., 72.131; 52, Betty Maycock, 17, Parma, Ohio, 71.930, 58, Theresa Montefusco, 19, 71.363, and 70, Muriel Davis Grossfeld, 19, Urbana, Ill., 70.132.

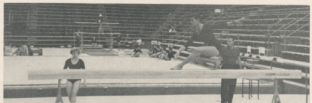

Doris Fuchs came close to qualifying in the parallel bars, finishing eighth with 19.000. Another near qualifier was Sharon Richardson in the long horse. At 16 the youngster of the team, the National AAU champion and leader in the Trials, was ninth with 18.533, just .199 behind the sixth placer.

Russia, piling up an advantage in the compulsory exercises, scored 382.320 points in winning the team title. In order came Czechoslovakia, 373.323; Romania, 372.053; Japan, 371.422; Poland, 368.620; Germany, 367.754; Hungary, 367.054; Bulgaria, 364.920, and the USA, 363.053. Behind the Americans came Italy, Sweden, France, Finland, Netherlands, Austria, Spain and Great Britain. Only 4.701 points separated the fifth to ninth teams.

In addition to the competing six, the USA team included as alternates Mary Callawn, 20, Naples, Fla.; Judith Krauser, 20, Milwaukee, Wis.; Carolyn Osborn, 21, Mt. Pleasant, Mich., and Sharon Phelps, 19, Indianapolis, Ind. None went to Rome.

Mrs. Janet Bachna of Canton, Ohio, was the coach-manager, positions she held with the victorious Pan American team at Chicago in 1959.

The team of 10 was picked on the basis of the National AAU Championships, designated as the Olympic Trials, at West Point, N. Y., April 29, 30, and May 1. Competition at the training center at West Chester (Pa.) Teachers College, determined the six competitors for the Games at Rome.

GAIL SONTGERATH (on balance beam) practices routine for Olympic Games competition in Rome while USA teammate Betty Maycock awaits her turn.

Stubborn Horse Prevented Successful Bid For Individual Gold Medal U. S. A.'s Robert Beck

A HORSE'S obstinate refusal to jump a log hurdle cost the United States the individual gold medal in the modern pentathlon.

Instead of first place, Navy Lt. (JG) Robert Beck of San Diego, Calif., finished third behind two Hungarians; the US team was also third in the team competition behind Hungary and Russia.

Hungary's Ferenc Nemeth (5,024 points) and Imre Nagy (4,988) actually passed the 23-year-old Beck in the last of the five events—the 4,000-meter cross country run. Beck took the bronze medal for third with 4,981 points.

Beck was in first place after the first four events—riding, epee fencing, pistol shooting and the 300-meter freestyle swim—of the gruelling, five-sport event. He led with 3,966 points followed by Russia's Antonio Almada, 3,875, Nemeth 3,856, and Nagy 3,823.

But in the run Beck finished 24th in 14:55 and received 1,015 points. Nemeth picked up 1,168 points on seventh place in 14:04; Nagy took eighth in 14:05 and earned 1,165 points. Almada dropped to 17th place on a poor swim. He was 52nd in 16:43 and gained only 691 points.

Russian Igor Novikov, the reigning and three-time world champion, led the runners with 13:38 and 1,246 points. He finished fifth with 4,962 points. Hungary's Andras Balczo also rallied in the running, taking second with 13:48. His 1,216 points gave him a fourth-place total of 4,973 and helped Hungary capture the team title.

Hungary had 13,865 points, Russia 13,746 and the US 13,216. There were 17 teams and 60 individual entries in the competition.

The other two Americans—both Army reserve officers who asked to be called back to active duty to compete in the Olympics—finished eighth and 15th. Lt. Jack Daniels, 27, of Missoula, Mont., had 4,717 points for eighth, and Lt. George Lambert, 31, of Sioux City, Iowa, was 15th with 4,540.

Lt. Beck maintained he lost the title in the very first event—the riding—because of a stubborn mount. He estimated his horse's single refusal cost him at least 90 points, 60 for penalty and about 30 more in time lost bringing the horse around for the successful second try. He lost only by 43 points. Beck was timed in 8:27 for the ride and received 1,039 points.

Lt. Beck was 20th in riding, third in fencing, third in shooting, fourth in swimming, and 24th in cross country running.

The other members of the top five and Daniels and Lambert had the following placings in order (riding, fencing, shooting, swimming and running): Nemeth, 31-2-10-6-7; Nagy, 19-1-23-18-8; Balczo, 21-6-36-1-2; Novikov, 33-8-15-2-1; Daniels, 27-12-6-3-26; Lambert, 2-29-37-9-27.

The four-man US team was picked on the basis of the Olympic Trials at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, July 20-24. Lambert (4,745), Beck (4,737), Daniels (4,683) and Cpl. Richard Stoll (4,604), 25, of Minneapolis, Minn., earned the trip to Rome.

Col. Dan Hull of the Army was manager and Officer in Charge of the team. Lt. Col. John W. Russell of the Army, was the team manager.

MODERN PENTATHLON

NATURE AND RULES OF OLYMPIC MODERN PENTATHLON COMPETITION

RIDING—A 4700 meter cross country test with 25 obstacles, held at Passo Corese. Horses assigned to contestants by drawing of lots. The rider who completes the course without faults in 9 minutes is awarded 1000 points. For each second above or below this time, 3 points will be deducted or added. Penalty points are assessed as follows: for the first refusal or swerve, 60 points; for the second, 80; and for the third, 100. Fall of rider or horse, 80 points.

FENCING—Held at the Palazzo dei Congressi (EUR), the competition consists of epee fencing in one-hit bouts on a round-robin basis. The duration of the bout must not exceed 3 minutes. Method of scoring—1000 points awarded to the competitor who wins 75% of his total number of bouts. For each win in excess or inferior to this, 13 points will be added or deducted. Note—in team classification, only the bouts won by the team members are counted.

SHOOTING—Held at Poligono Di Tiro, the competition consists of pistol or revolver shooting at targets 25 meters distant in four series of five shots each. A 1000 points is awarded for a target score of 195; for each point below or above that number, 20 points will be deducted or added.

SWIMMING—Held at the Stadio del Nuoto, the competition consisted of a 300 meter free style event. Competitors swam in heats to qual... a final and 1000 points were awarded to competitors who swam the distance in 4 minutes. For each second above or below 4 minutes, 3 points were deducted or added.

RUNNING—This was a cross country run over a ... meter course at Acqua Santa (Campo di Galli). A 1000 points was awarded to the... getter who ran the course in 15 minutes. For each second above or below this time, 3 points were deducted or added.

GERMANY'S vaunted oarsmen performed as expected on Lake Albano as strong European crews took over domination of Olympic rowing from the United States.

The Germans won three of the seven championships—the pairs with coxswain, fours with coxswain, and the blue ribbon eights—and took an unexpected second in the single sculls.

Russia took two gold medals—in the single sculls with defender Viacheslav Ivanov and in the pairs without coxswain—two silver medals and one bronze.

The United States, rallying after a poor start in the heats, managed to salvage a gold medal in the fours without coxswain, a bronze medal in the pairs with coxswain, and placed finalists in three other classes.

Czechoslovakia surprised Russia's defending champions by winning double sculls, and took a bronze medal in the eights.

For the first time, an American crew bowed in the finals of the eights, climax race of the regatta. The dyestery-plagued Naval Academy finished fifth in the field of six. Even if the Middies had been in perfect health it is doubtful that they would have beaten the high-straking German Kiel-Ratzeburg combination which won in Olympic record time without being pressed to the limit.

The Germans were timed in 5:57.18 for the 2,000 meters (mile, 427 yards), breaking the Olympic record of 6:02.6 set by a US Naval Academy crew in 1920.

An American crew from the University of California was timed in 5:56.7 in winning the 1948 championship at London but the course was a few feet short of the 2,000-meter distance.

The races in all seven classes are held over the same course and for the same distance. Olympic records fell in four other events on the six-lane course—in the two pairs and in the two four-oared finals.

The lanes were formed by colored plastic balloons, attached by lines to sunken steel cables strung under the surface of the currentless lake. The blue waters of the beautiful lake are rimmed by wooded slopes. The Pope's summer palace at Castel Gandolfo, overlooking the lake, was a fine vantage point to watch the regatta. The Italians did a supreme job in staging the regatta with its record field of 118 entries from 33 nations.

Conditions varied daily as the changing winds swirled into the crater of the extinct volcano in which Albano lies. There was a fairly strong tailwind for the first two days, a near calm on the third day, cross and head winds for the semi-finals, and a spanking tailwind again for the finals, which helped produce the five records.

Ivanov, who had no outstanding competition following the withdrawal of the ailing Stuart MacKenzie of Australia, was the only 1956 champion to retain his title.

Despite the known strength of the opposition, the USA had expected to do almost as well at Castel Gandolfo as it did in 1956 at Ballarat, Australia, when it won three gold medals, two silvers and a bronze.

ROWING

The US Olympic Trials, which drew a record entry of 347 oarsmen and 76 crews from 30 colleges and clubs to Syracuse, N. Y., July 7-8-9, indicated that the USA had fine representatives.

Over-all this probably was the strongest squad to represent the USA in Olympic rowing. But in spite of its excellence the Olympic competition has improved so greatly that it was evident that better and faster crews must be developed if the USA is to dominate this sport again in international competition.

Clifford (Tip) Goes, Chairman of the U. S. Olympic Committee, explained what happened in his report.

"The improvement among European countries, especially Germany and Russia, is phenomenal and in my opinion is not due so much to changes in technique and equipment (oars and rigging) but to a superb physical fitness program. This has produced the endurance, stamina and ability to row a high, effective stroke and otherwise excel. In considering future international competition, this part of the training and coaching program should be carefully evaluated."

Because of the wide course with its six lanes, the heat winners in all but the pairs without and four with cox gained the finals. It didn't help the US which saw everyone of its crews bow in the heats.

"It was the most disastrous start ever for the US in the Olympics," said Goes.

The squad, nevertheless, rallied to gain five finals through the repechages and there was the hope (unfulfilled) that the Navy crew would do what Yale accomplished in 1956. The Elis advanced through a repechage and went on to give the USA its eighth straight eight-oared championship.

The USA was represented in the four small boats by the Lake Washington Rowing Club of Seattle, Wash., coached by Stan Pocock who handled the small boats in the Olympics, the Vesper Boat Club of Philadelphia won the sculling berths with single Lt. Harry Parker, and the tandem of Jack Kelly, Jr., and Bill Knecht.

Kelly and Knecht finished fourth in their heat and last in the repechages. Parker won his opening heat handily but was a far trailing fifth in the finals.

The American winning four without coxswain included two gold medalists of 1956, Art Ayrault and Dick Wailes, plus Ted Nash and John Sayre.

In the fours with, the US finished a close second to Britain in its heat even though Nash's blade was split early in the race. The Seattle quartet won its repechage in the fastest time of its competition, 6:24.84. In the final the four overhauled Russia at the halfway mark and then went on to win by about a length over Italy's fast-closing foursome in record time of 6:26.26. Records are based on times in the finals.

fading Denmark to take third behind Germany and Russia. The German crew of Bernard Knubel, Heinz Renneberg and cox Klaus Zerta caught Russia at 1,500 meters and won by a quarter of a length in record time of 7:29.14. Russia's time was 7:30.17 and the USA's 7:34.58.

Ivanov, a rangy, 22-year-old Red Army Lieutenant, trailed Germany's Achim Hill for 500 meters in the single sculls final and then pulled in front. He won by three lengths in 7:13.96 with Hill second, Poland's Teodor Kacerka third, New Zealand's Jim Hill fourth, Parker fifth and Italy's Savino Rebek sixth.

In the double sculls, the surprise Czech tandem of Vaclav Kozak and Pavel Schmidt got off to a good lead and couldn't be caught by Russia's 1956 champions, Alexander Berkulov and Yuriy Tukalov. The Russians barely staved off Switzerland's rallying twosome of Ernst Huerlimann and Rolf Larcher. Kelly, 33, and Knecht, 30, finished 6.7 seconds behind France's winners in the heats, and 6.2 seconds astern of Belgium's victors in the repechages.

Russia's pair without cox of Valentin Boreiko and Oleg Golovanov just managed to beat Austria's Josef Kloimstein and Alfred Sageder and Finland's Veli Lehtela and Toimi Pitkanin in record time of 7.02.01. America's Ted Frost and Bob Rogers were fifth, timed in 7.17.08.

Germany's four with coxswain crew of Gerd Cinti, Horst Effertz, Jurgen Litz, Michael Obst and Klaus Reikemann displayed plenty of power in the last 1,000 meters to score by nearly a length over Russia in 6:39.12, a record. Lake Washington's young crew of Charles Alm, Al Stocker, Mike Yonker and Roy Rubin, coxed by Kurt Seiffert, took second to Czechoslovakia in its heat, won its repechage, and then was eliminated in the semi-finals. The Huskies finished fourth behind Germany and France (which took 1-2) and Russia.

Navy, stroked by Lyman Perry and coached by Lou Lindsey, trailed Canada all the way in losing its heat to the British Columbia eight by a length. The middies' hopes were raised when they beat Britain's Oxford crew and Sweden by a half length to gain the finals.

But in the climax of the regatta, Germany had everything while the Navy never could get going. The Germans, using their tulip-shaped blades, and with their No. 4 and No. 5 oars rowing on the starboard side, led virtually all the way in winning by a length over Canada in record time of 5:57.8. Canada was timed in 6:01.52 followed by Czechoslovakia, 6:04.84, France in 6:06.57, Navy in 6:08.06 and Italy in 6:12.73.

The Germans, employing a short stroke, hit from 38 to 47 strokes per minute.

Navy's crew included Mark Morse, Warren Sweetser, Gayle Thompson, Joe Baldwin, Pete Bos, Howard Winfree, Bob Wilson, Lyman Perry and coxswain Bill Long.

U. S. Marine Captain Victor In Rapid Fire Pistol; American Team Overall Showing Good

RUSSIA maintained overall superiority with the United States finishing second on a fine general showing on the three firing ranges.

The Russians captured two gold medals, two silvers and three bronzes in the six events—two pistols, three rifles and the trapshooting.

The USA won a gold medal—its first since 1952—in the Rapid Fire Pistol with Marine Captain William McMillan, a silver medal in the Small Bore Rifle; Prone, with Jim Hill, and a fourth place in the Clay Pigeon firing with Jim Clark.

It was a great improvement over 1956 especially since a record field of 60 nations participated. Eight of the 10 Americans were active members of the Armed Forces.

Carpenter

Three Olympic records were set —two automatic wins because of the use of more difficult targets in the Small Bore Rifle events—and one tied. The scores were outstanding considering the adverse conditions the marksmen encountered on the Umberto I range (for the Small Bore Rifles and Pistols), the 300-meter Free Rifle range at Cesano, 16 miles from Rome, and the Clay Pigeon range at Lazio. Both Umberto and Lazio were only a mile from the Olympic village.

Weather conditions during the three weeks of practice were generally ideal with occasional light winds coming up in the afternoon periods. During the week of match firing, the conditions, however, included turbulent dust storms, rain, high winds and varying light.

In addition to McMillan, the other victors were Russia's Alexey Gustchin in the Free Pistol with an Olympic record of 560 points; Austria's Hubert Hammerer in the 300-meter Free Rifle, 1,129; Russia's Viktor Shamburkin in the Small Bore Rifle, Three Positions, 1,149; Germany's 19-year-old Peter Kohnke in the Small Bore Rifle, Prone, 596 (one more than Hill), and Romania's Ion Dumitrescu in the Clay Pigeon, 192.

Six new champions were crowned and ten nations shared in the division of the 18 medals. Besides Russia and the USA, Germany was the only multiple medal winner, gaining a first and a third in rifle shooting.

The only genuine record to fall was Torsten Ullman's 24-year-old mark in the Free Pistol of 559. That was the only record to escape the shooters in 1956. Russia's Gustchin broke it with a score of 560 with the .22 calibre pistol at 50 meters. Ullman, competing in his fifth Olympics, took fourth with 552. Army Sgt. Nelson Lincoln, 46, of Flagstaff, Ariz., was ninth with 543 and John Hurst, 36, a Los Angeles policeman, 17th with 538.

McMillan, a 31-year-old 6-footer from Turtle Creek, Pa., took the three-way shoot-off in the Rapid Fire Pistol silhouette, firing at 25 meters after tying first with Finland's Pentti Linnosvuo and Russia's Alexandr Zabelin. Each had tied the Olympic record of 587 set in 1956 by Romania's Stefan Petrescu.

McMillan scored 48-50-49 for a 147 total to topping Linnosvuo, a 1956 champion, who had 139, and Zabelin with 135.

CAPT. WILLIAM McMILLAN, USA's Olympic champion in the rapid fire pistol event.

Army Sgt. Lawrence Mosely, 27, of Ft. Benning, Ga., was 16th with 577.

Hill, a 30-year-old Marine Sgt. from Oceanside, Calif., finished only one point behind Kohnke in the prone firing with the Small Bore Rifle at 50 meters. The marine lost out with a 93 score on his fourth series of 10 shots. His other scores were 100, 97, 100, 98, 100.

"I guess it was the wind—it was very strong there at the far left side of the range," he said of the 94. He had 589 to the German's 590.

Lt. Daniel Puckel, 27, Ft. Benning, the Pan American Games champion, was seventh with 585. He also was seventh in the three-position Small Bore with 585 points and 10th in the three-position Free Rifle with 1,114. Hill was 24th with 1,115 in the three-position Small Bore. Army Lt. John

SHOOTING

Foster, 23, of Springfield, Ohio, was seventh in the Free Rifle with 1,121 points.

Second Lt. Jim Clark, 24, of Bartlesville, Okla., hit 188 of 200 birds in finishing fourth in the Clay Pigeon event, the USA's first entry in this competition since 1924. Arnold Riegger, 40, of Castle Rock, Wash., was 30th with 168. Italy's Galliano Rossini, the 1956 champion with 195, could only do 191 for second place —one behind victor Dumitrescu.

The USA team was picked on the basis of preliminary tryouts at 14 localities and then the final tryouts at Ft. Benning, Ga., July 18-Aug. 5. The final field for the 10 berths included 21 civilians and 68 members of the Armed Forces. The team's 10th man was Corp. Gary Anderson of Axtell, Nebr., for the Free Rifle. He did not compete, however.

Col. Emmet O. Swe[illegible] USMCR, a former Olympian from [illegible] Minn., was the team coach. [illegible] Sidney C. Carpenter [illegible] Va., was the coach.

Olympic Soccer Crown Finally Gained By Jugoslavia, Runnerup In 1948, 1952, And 1956

JUGOSLAVIA, defeated in three straight Olympic Soccer Finals, finally took the title by defeating Denmark, 3-1, in the final at Rome's Olympiad. Yugoslavia had booed to Sweden in 1948, to Hungary in 1952 and to Russia in 1956.

Only 16 teams were permitted to play at Rome and the United States was among the missing. Mexico defeated the US twice, 2-0, at Mexico City and 3-1 at Los Angeles, in the regional eliminations.

The 16 at Rome were divided into four pools of four teams each with the winner of each pool advancing to the semi-finals. The semi-finalists were Jugoslavia, Italy, Denmark and Hungary.

Denmark defeated Hungary, 2-0, and Jugoslavia and Italy tied 1-1 in overtime. According to the rules, the winner then had to determined by drawing lots. Jugoslavia won, showing that this was its year. Hungary defeated Italy, 2-1, for third place.

In the championship final, Jugoslavia played with a man short after 39 minutes when captain Milan Galic was ejected from the game for protesting too vehemently over the disallowal of a Jugoslav goal.

The scorers were Galic, Zoljko Matus and Borivoje Kostic for Jugoslavia and Fleming Nielsen for Denmark.

Australia Overwhelmed By U. S. A. In Battle For Men's Swim Honors; All Olympic Marks Fall

THE USA swimmers and divers regained supremacy from Australia with a tremendous comeback at Rome's Stadio del Nuoto, a new $1,500,000 aquatic stadium.

Inspired by the stirring comeback of plucky Jeff Farrell, who left a hospital bed to make the 20-man squad, the USA won six of the 10 championships, four silver medals and three bronzes.

With the team entry for each of the eight individual events cut to two men, it was only possible for one nation to win 16 medals. The US won 13, including golds in the two relays.

At Melbourne in 1956, the US only captured two gold medals, three silvers and one bronze. Three men were allowed a nation for each individual event in 1956.

Australia, winner of five of the nine championships at Melbourne, won only four this time plus three silvers and two bronzes.

Japan, which had expected to give the two swimming powers a battle, failed to win a gold medal. The Japanese had to settle for three silvers and one bronze.

Every Olympic record was wiped out and three world records were smashed. The USA accounted for all of the new world standards, in the 200-meter butterfly with 17-year-old Mike Troy, in the 400-meter medley relay (a new event) and the 800-meter freestyle relay. Farrell anchored both of the relay teams. Troy's time was 2:12.8. The medley relay was cocked in 4:05.4 and the freestyle quartet in 8:10.2.

Other US winners were the surprising Bill Mulligan, in the 200-meter breaststroke in 2:37.4, Gary Tobian, in the springboard dive with 170.00 points, and Bob Webster in the platform dive with 165.56.

Australia's winners were John Devitt, in the controversial 100 meters in :52.2, Murray Rose, in the 400-meter freestyle in 4:18.3; John Konrads, in the 1,500-meter freestyle in 17:19.6, and David Theile in the 100-meter backstroke in 1:01.9. Devitt, Rose and Theile also won their events in 1956.

Devitt, the world record holder at :54.6, retained his title in a nerve-wracking finish that caused a furore and an American protest. Most observers at the finish line believed that the tall, blond Larson had capped a rally by touching first by inches. After a long delay Devitt was declared the winner in :55.2, although the electronic devices had Larson in :55.1.

The referee gave both Devitt and Larson the same :59.2 time, touching off another US protest. The jury and then the International Swimming Federation (FINA) rejected the protests.

Two of the three first-place judges had Devitt the winner and the other had Larson first. But it was just the reverse with the second-place judges. Devitt had Devitt second (which meant Larson was first) and one had Larson second. Thus the judges were deadlocked.

The chief judge then broke the deadlock by naming Devitt the winner. Max Ritter, the US representative of FINA's executive committee, protested that the FINA rule called for the use of the timing machines in the event the judges were unable to decide. Ritter further claimed that the chief judge was in no position to judge the finish and that FINA rules do not provide him with a vote.

The three machines in lane 3 (Devitt and the three in lane 4 (Larson) showed Larson the winner. Devitt was given three similar times of :59.2. Larson was clocked in :55.0, :55.1, and :55.1, making his time :55.1.

Jeff Farrell, a pre-Olympic favorite in the 100, was stricken by an inflamed appendix six days before the start of the US Olympic Trials. The 23-year-old ex-Naval Ensign underwent an emergency appendectomy in Detroit. It looked like the man who had the world's fastest time of the year for the 100—:54.8—was lost to the American side.

Farrell, a "free ride" until Aug. 9 —the deadline for Rome entries—when he could race the sixth man on the 800-meter relay squad for the last berth, Farrell declined and said he would try to make it on his own merit.

With his abdomen heavily taped, the courageous Kansan just barely failed by one-tenth of a second to make the 100. Just 25 meters from the finish he swerved into the ropes, losing precious time, and wound up third in :56.1, beaten by Larson (:55.0) and Bruce Hunter of Harvard (:56.0).

Still Farrell refused to be denied. Several days later he took fourth place in the 200-meter freestyle which provided berths on the 800-meter freestyle relay team for the first six. In the medley relay final at Rome, he swam the 100 anchor in :54.9.

With such a flaming inspiration, the US team was grimly determined to win at Rome. In the Trials, the youngsters demonstrated they were going to be the team to beat with a series of record-breaking performances. At the training camp at East Lansing, Mich., they were moulded into a dedicated team by coach Gus Stager of Michigan, manager Roy Daughters of Seattle and diving coach Phil Moriarty of Yale.

"We received the finest, most determined and hard working group of young men that we have ever had the pleasure of working and associating with. This team was dedicated to win for the United States," said Stager.

Here's the way the Olympic competition went:

100-METER FREESTYLE — This was the first swim final and provoked the great controversy. Larson (:55.5), Hunter (:55.7) and Devitt (:55.7) had posted the fastest times of the eight finalists. They were all in a bunch until Devitt (lane 3) took a slight lead over Larson (lane 4).

The Australian led by a meter with about 20 to go when the tall Californian unleashed a terrific sprint that put him shoulder to shoulder with Devitt. In the last two strokes it appeared Larson's left hand touched just an instant before Devitt's left hit the wall. But Devitt was declared the winner in :55.2. Larson was second in the same time, and Brazil's Manuel Dos Santos third in :55.4. Hunter was fourth in :55.6.

The first two broke Jon Henrick's Olympic record of :55.4 and Dos Santos tied it.

400-METER FREESTYLE — Murray Rose, Australia's triple gold medalist of 1956, retained his 400-meter crown with a beautifully paced race, beating Japan's Tsuyoshi Yamanaka again by five yards. [illegible] Australia's world [illegible] holder (4:15.9), was a very [illegible] third.

Rose was timed in [illegible] while his first six eclipsed his [illegible] mark of 4:27.3. Yamanaka's [illegible] was [illegible] time.

MEN'S SWIMMING & DIVING

4:12.4 and Konrads' 4:21.8. Ian Black of Britain also was clocked in 4:21.8 for fourth, Alan Somers of Indianapolis, who had paced the qualifiers with a record 4:19.2, was fifth in 4:22.0. Gene Lenz of Santa Maria, Calif., was seventh in 4:26.8.

1,500-METER FREESTYLE — John Konrads, the 18-year-old Latvian-born Australian, dethroned teammate Murray Rose in a thrilling finish with America's George Breen third. Japan's Tsuyoshi Yamanaka was fourth. Alan Somers was seventh.

The first six broke Breen's Olympic mark of 17:52.9, with Konrads (world record holder in 17:11) timed in 17:19.6, Rose in 17:21.7 and Breen in 17:30.6. Somers, winner of his heat in 17:54.1, did 18:02.8 in the final.

Breen, 25, and the oldest man on the US team, powered his way in front and led until 1,100 meters. Then Konrads churned ahead with Rose never more than a few strokes behind. The two Aussies virtually matched strokes the rest of the way but Rose couldn't cut down the margin.

200-METER BREASTSTROKE — Bill Mulliken of Miami U. of Oxford, Ohio, pulled the big upset in this one—a race the US supposedly didn't figure in. The 6-foot-3, 185-pound redhead who prefers to race against man instead of the clock, turned in his best time ever in winning his heat in 2:38.0. The 21-year-old then paced the semi-finalists in 2:37.2 and won the final with his usual stretch drive in Olympic record time of 2:37.4. It was the first US victory in this stroke since 1948. Japan's Yoshihiko Ohsaki was second in 2:38.0 and Germany's Wieger Mensonides third in 2:39.7. Paul Hait of San Jose, Calif., was eighth in 2:41.4.

200-METER BUTTERFLY—Mike Troy, who had been steadily chopping down the world record, tore another big chunk out of it in winning in 2:12.8. Neville Hayes, Australia's 16-year-old phenom, just nipped Dave Gillanders of Michigan in the last few strokes for second, Hayes was timed in 2:14.6 and Gillanders in 2:15.3.

100-METER BACKSTROKE — David Theile, Australia's 22-year-old medical student, came out of retirement to repeat his 1956 triumph. Bob Bennett, 17-year-old Californian, posted the best time in the prelims but in the final it was the pace-setting Thiele all the way with another Olympian, Frank McKinney of Indianapolis, second by about two feet. Thiele eclipsed his Olympic record by three-tenths of a second in 1:01.9. McKinney was second in 1:02.1, also under the record, and Bennett third in 1:02.3. Australia's world record holder, John Monckton (1:01.5), was seventh in 1:04.1.

800-METER (4 x 200) FREESTYLE RELAY — The US sent Bill Darnton, Tom Winters, Steve Clark and George Harrison out to qualify and they broke the listed world record with 8:18.0 after Japan had cracked it with 8:17.1.

In the final Harrison, Dick Blick, Troy and Farrell cut it down to 8:10.2 in capping the gold medal by about 6 meters over Japan (8:13.2) and defender Australia, third in 8:13.8.

It was the 6-foot-5 Blick who broke up this race. Harrison picked up about a meter on his man and then Blick streaked to a 7-meter lead on his leg. Troy, going for his double gold, held most of the margin against Japan's Yamanaka and Australia's Rose, and Farrell added to it.

400-METER (4 x 100) MEDLEY RELAY—Bob Bennett, backstroke, Paul Hait, breaststroke, Dave Gillanders, butterfly, and Steve Clark, freestyle, warmed up the pool with a world record 4:08.2 in the qualifying heat of this new Olympic event. Then Mc-Kinney (1:02.0), Paul Hait (1:10.5), Larson (:58.0) and Farrell (:54.9) brought it down to 4:05.4 in romping off with the final by about 15 meters. Australia was second in 4:12.0 and Japan third in 4:12.2.

Larson broke this one open with a scintillating :58-second leg which gave Farrell a 7-meter lead. Jeff, in his farewell, blazed the fastest 100 in the Games to stretch the margin. Some clockers caught him in :54.8, only two-tenths of a second off Devitt's world mark.

SPRINGBOARD DIVING — Gary Tobian came through with a series of spectacular, high-point performances on his last three plunges to capture the crown. The 25-year-old from Glendale, Calif., beat teammate Sam Hall

American Girls' Performance Sensational In Swimming Triumph; 3 Golds For von Saltza

AMERICAN teenagers, seasoned in competition despite their youth, stole the swimming show and the medals from Australia's defending champions.

Led by Chris von Saltza, winner of three gold medals and a silver, the USA took five of the nine titles and three seconds for its best accomplishment since 1932 when six gold medals were captured.

Every Olympic record was wiped out and world marks in four events were smashed, three by the precocious USA group, in the 10-lane pool of the new Stadio del Nuoto.

Australia's defending Dawn Fraser defeated Miss von Saltza in the 100 but the tall, 16-year-old California ace romped to victory in the 400 meters, giving the world's foremost female freestylers an even break in the long heralded duel. Miss Fraser's second straight triumph in the century —an unprecedented feat—was the only victory the Australians could manage in Rome.

At Melbourne in 1956, the Australians swept the boards in the free-style, winning the 100, 400 and 400-meter (4 x 100) freestyle relay. The last two went to the US at Rome, as well as the 100-meter butterfly (Carolyn Schuler), the 100-meter backstroke (Lynn Burke), and the 400-meter medley relay, a new Olympic event.

World records were made by Lynn Burke, of the Santa Clara Swim Club, in the 100-meter backstroke, 1:09.5 by the USA 400-meter (4 x 100) medley relay team, 4:41.1, by the USA 400-meter (7 x 100) freestyle relay team, 4:08.9, and by England's Anita Lonsbrough in the 200-meter breaststroke, 2:49.5.

Miss Burke, a 17-year-old New Yorker who had been living in Saratoga, Calif., won the 100-meter backstroke in 1:09.3 and eclipsed her own world mark of 1:09.2 on the lead-off leg of the medley relay final.

Miss von Saltza, a 5-foot-10, 140-pounder with an almost flawless style, also anchored both relay teams.

Carolyn Schuler, another 17-year-old Californian, won the 100 butterfly in 1:09.5 after 14-year-old Caralyn Wood of Portland, Ore., swallowed water on the turn and was unable to finish. But Carolyn showed her competitive class by coming back to lead the freestyle relay team to its record-smashing triumph.

The victories in five of the seven swimming events helped to console the Americans for their upset defeats in both diving competitions. Ingrid Kramer, 17 year old, of Dresden, Germany, edged three-time Olympian Paula Jean Pope of Santa Ana, Calif., to become the third straight woman to sweep both boards. Pat McCormick of the USA did it twice—in 1952 and 1956.

Fraulein Kramer broke America's 40-year monopoly in the 3-meter springboard dive. The USA had won it eight straight times since it was placed on the Olympic program in 1920. The German girl's triumph in the 10-meter platform snapped an American streak of seven since 1924.

The United States and Britain's vastly improved team—its most successful since 1924—were the only two to gain at least one berth in each final. Even in the breaststroke, usually the weak spot of the Americans, where the US had two finalists in Anne Warner, sixth, and Patty Kempner, seventh.

There were 14 swimmers and three divers on the US squad and every one of them competed. The swimmers, ranging in age from 13-year-old Donna De Varona, of Lafayette, Calif., to 18-year-old Sylvia Ruuska, two-time Olympian from Berkeley, Calif., averaged 16½ years.

Other US multiple gold medal winners were Lynn Burke, in the backstroke and medley relay, and Carolyn Schuler, in the butterfly and medley relay.

The US girls had displayed their all-around strength in the Pan American Games in Chicago in 1959, the National AAU Championships in Indianapolis in July, and the Olympic Trials at Detroit, Aug. 2-5. The competition for berths was so fierce that backstroker Carin Cone and butterfly ace Nancy Ramey, Olympic silver medalists and world record holders, were among the many stars left behind. Because there were only two berths instead of three for the individual events.

A good share of the credit for the amazing progress of the team must go to the AAU Olympic age-group development program, head coach George Haines of the Santa Clara Swim Club, diving coach Dr. Sammy Lee, the two-time Olympic platform champion (1948, 1952), and manager-chaperone Betty Baldwin of Sharon, Pa.

"The over-all success of this squad is the result of the entire team's desire to win, team cooperation, and the superior condition of each individual swimmer over the other swimmers of the world," said coach Haines.

From the trials at Detroit the women's team finished training at the Renaissance Club in Roslyn, N. Y.

Here's a rundown of the Olympic events:

100-METER FREESTYLE — Dawn Fraser became the first woman to win the 100 twice. After Chris von Saltza brought the Olympic record down to 1:01.9 in the heats, Miss Fraser lowered it to 1:01.4 in the semi-finals, and cracked it once more in beating Chris by two meters in the finals in 1:01.2. The 23-year-old Aussie secretary eclipsed it again later with a record eligible time of 1:00.6 in the lead-off leg of the 400-meter freestyle relay final.

In the eight-girl final, Dawn shot away from Chris at the turn and lengthened her lead at the 75-meter mark. Chris was timed in 1:02.8 with Britain's 17-year-old Natalie Steward third in 1:03.1, a shade ahead of the 14-year-old Carolyn Wood of the USA, whose time was 1:03.4. Australia's whiz kid, Ilsa Konrads, was eliminated in the semi-finals.

400-METER FREESTYLE—Chris von Saltza amazed the swimming world by breaking Ilsa Konrad's world record with 4:44.5 in the Olympic Trials at Detroit. The 16-year-old then proved it was no fluke by winning the 400 gold medal in the Olympic record of 4:50.6, finishing four meters in front of Sweden's Jane Cederquist. Holland's Catherine Lagerberg surprised by taking third as Miss Konrads and Miss Fraser were fourth and fifth respectively. Six of the first eight finalists were under 5 minutes.

100-METER BACKSTROKE—America's world record holder, 17-year-old Lynn Burke, won easily in Olympic record time of 1:09.3. Britain's Natalie Steward was second in 1:10.8 and Japan's Sato Tanaka was third in 1:11.4. Miss Tanaka became Japan's first woman swim medalist since 1936. All eight finalists bettered the 1956 Olympic record of 1:12.9 set by Britain's Judy Grinham. Nina Harmer, 14, of Philadelphia, failed to qualify for the finals with 1:13.8.

100-METER BUTTERFLY — Carolyn Schuler streaked to a meter victory over Marianne Heemskerk of the Netherlands after Carolyn Wood, America's 14-year-old No. 1, swallowed water after the turn, couldn't catch her breath, and had to abandon the race.

The 17-year-old Miss Schuler of Orinda, Calif., did 1:09.5, breaking the Olympic mark of 1:09.8 she had set in pacing the qualifiers. Australia's Janice Andrews took the bronze.

200-METER BREASTSTROKE—Anita Lonsbrough, a 19-year-old Yorkshire clerk, overhauled Germany's Wiltrud Urselmann, the world record holder (2:50.2), in the last 50 meters to win by a foot. Her time of 2:49.5 not only was a world record but made her the first girl to break 2:50. Wiltrud, 18, was timed in 2:50.0. Germany's Barbara Goebel was third in 2:53.6. Anne Warner of the USA finished sixth in 2:55.4, and Patty Kempner was seventh in 2:55.5.

400-METER (4 x 100) MEDLEY RELAY—Nina Harmer, Anne Warner, Carolyn Wood and Joan Spillane did the qualifying job in 4:49.3. Then Lynn Burke, Patty Kempner, Carolyn Schuler and Chris von Saltza took over in the final and reeled off a world record time of 4:41.1 in defeating Australia by more than 7 meters. Miss Burke sent her own backstroke world record dipping to 1:09 for a good lead. Breaststroker Kempner (1:20.9) held most of it. Miss Schuler (1:08.9) stretched the margin to 5 meters and von Saltza (1:02.3) wrapped it up in a neat 7-meter package.

400-METER (4 x 100) FREESTYLE RELAY—This was the vindication race for Carolyn Wood, First Donna De Varona, Susan Doerr, Sylvia Ruuska and Molly Botkin qualified in 4:18.9. Then Joan Spillane (1:02.5), Shirley Stobs (1:03.5), Miss Wood (1:02.0) and Chris von Saltza (1:00.9) zipped to a world record 4:08.9 and a good 3-length victory over Australia's Dawn Fraser (1:00.6), Ilsa Konrads (1:03.2), Lorraine Crapp (1:04.7) and Alva Colquhoun (1:02.8), 4:11.3.

Miss Fraser broke her own Olympic record on the first leg for a 3-length lead and Miss Konrads stretched it a little further. Then Miss Wood blazed a terrific third leg to overhaul former Olympic champion Lorraine Crapp and give Miss von Saltza about a meter lead.

"I saw we were behind," said Carolyn. "I wanted to get a good lead for Chris, not that she needed it. I'm sure she would have won even if I hadn't caught up."

to 141.24 for Paula Jean Pope of Santa Ana, Calif., who started off poorly.

Miss Kramer closed out her big upset by scoring 19.44 points—highest for one dive in the competition—on her 10th and final plunge, a brilliant reverse 1½ somersault pike. Paula Jean, 25, and in her third Olympics, scored 18.00 on her last plunge. Britain's Elizabeth Ferris was third on 139.09 to provide her country with its first diving medal in 36 years. Pat Willard, 19, of Mesa, Ariz., finished fourth with 137.82.

10-METER PLATFORM DIVING—Ingrid Kramer made it a double slam by capturing the platform title with 91.28 points to Paula Jean Pope's 88.94. Russia's Ninel Krutova was third with 86.99 to give the Soviet its only medal of the aquatic program for both sexes. Juno Stover Irwin, 31-year-old mother of four and competing in her fourth Olympics, was fourth with 83.59.

Fraulein Kramer again took a good lead over Paula Jean, who once more fared poorly in the beginning of the 6-dive event. Mrs. Pope made up ground on her fifth plunge but Ingrid clinched her triumph on her last dive, a terrific 1½ forward somersault with double twist that earned her 18.48 points, the highest in this event.

of Ohio State, 17.00 to 167.08. The 6-foot Tobian clinched the 3-meter title with a 2½ back and 2½ reverse somersaults. It was the ninth straight victory for the USA on the low board. This ended four years of frustration for Tobian who lost the platform title in 1956 to Mexico's Joaquin Capilla by .03 of a point.

PLATFORM DIVING—It was well for Tobian that he won the springboard gold for he was nosed out for the platform title again, this time by teammate Bob Webster. Once more the difference was a split fraction—165.56 for Webster and 165.25 for Tobian. Britain's 16-year-old Brian Phelps was a stellar third on 157.13.

The 21-year-old Webster started the final round of three dives trailing Tobian and Phelps. He moved ahead of Phelps with a 3½ somersault in the eighth round, then passed Tobian in the ninth. He had 10 judges give an eye-catching double twisting forward 1½ somersault. In his final dive, the Michigan U, acrobat got off a nifty cutaway 2½ front somersault, which brought cheers from the crowd and 21.12 points from the judges.

Tobian, who followed Webster, waited about 30 seconds before he moved into action. He came through with a brilliant double twisting forward 1½ somersault that also wowed the crowd and officials. He received 21.32 points—more than Webster gained on his last—but not enough by a mere .31. This was the eighth US victory in the last nine Olympics off the tower.

Italian Team Popular Winner In Water Polo Tourney; Seventh Place Finish For U. S. A.

A SUPERBLY conditioned Italian water polo team, inspired by the cheering home crowds, swept to the championship without the loss of a game.

The United States, with an all-California squad of 11, finished seventh in the tournament field of 16. This was rated an even better performance than the fifth-place finish of the 1956 team because the Rome field was considered the best in Olympic history.

The difference between the USA, which won four games and lost three overall, and the top Europeans was the experience of regular, tough international competition. The Europeans had it; the US did not.

Urho Saari, head manager of the US team, who was the Olympic coach in 1952, pointed that out in his review of the tournament.

"A strong, well-conditioned and determined Italian team earned a very popular victory in Olympic water polo, dethroning the favored Hungarians who were relegated to third place by a surprising Russian team," wrote Saari.

"Most of the games between the top eight teams were very closely contested. There was very little to choose among the teams in speed, conditioning and ball-handling ability. But the Europeans, experienced in tough international competition, were more consistent, and this is where the American team seemed to be lacking.

"American water polo is rapidly improving and the biggest need still is international-type competition between the Olympic years."

Italy captured six straight games and then was held to a 3-3 tie by Hungary in the last game. By then the Italians already had clinched the gold medal. Russia took second with Hungary's defending champions third and Jugoslavia fourth.

The USA was represented by seven members of the Lynwood Swim Club, which won the Olympic Trials tournament at Los Angeles, July 1-4, and four from the other contending teams.

The squad, all from California, included the following:

From Lynwood — Marvin Burns, guard, 32, Fullerton; Ronald Crawford, guard, 20, Downey; Gordon Hall, goalie, 24, Downey; Jim Kelsey, forward, 22, Long Beach; Ronald Severa, center-forward, 24, La Puente; Fred Tisue, Jr., forward, 21, Downey, and Wally Wolf, center-back, 29, Manhattan Beach, who made his fourth Olympic team.

The others were Charles Bittick, 20, Los Angeles L. A. Swim Stadium; Robert Horn, 28, Fullerton, So. Calif. Water Polo Club; Charles McIlroy, 22, Manhattan Beach, El Segundo Swim Club, and Ronald Volmer, 24, Hermosa Beach, L. A. Swim Stadium.

Neill W. Kahlhase, coach of the Lynwood S. C., led the team for the second straight Olympics.

The tournament at Rome was restricted to the top 16 teams for the first time. The teams were divided into four pools of four teams each with the four seeded teams—Italy, Hungary, Russia and Jugoslavia — heading a group.

Then the first two in each group advanced to two semi-final groups of four teams. From the semi-finals the first four teams advanced to the championship round to determine first to fourth places, and the last eight played for fifth to eighth places.

counted in the final standings; that is, if they involved teams in the same pool. For instance, Italy's important 2-0 victory over Russia in the semi-finals counted in the final standings, as did the USA's 7-6 triumph over the Netherlands.

Italy beat the United Arab Republic 9-4, Japan 8-1, and Romania 4-3, in the preliminary round. Then the Italians whipped Germany 3-0, and Russia 2-0, in the semi-finals. In the final round, they edged Jugoslavia 2-1, and tied Hungary 3-3. In the final standings, with a victory counting two points and a tie one point, Italy had 2 wins and 1 tie for 5 points; Russia 1 win, 1 loss and 1 tie for 3 points; Hungary 2 ties and 1 defeat for 2 points, and Jugoslavia 1 victory, 2 losses for 2 points.

In the preliminary round, the USA lost to Hungary 7-2, and then defeated Belgium 5-2, and France 10-4. In the semi-finals, the USA was beaten 6-2 by Jugoslavia and then topped the Netherlands 7-6. In the finals, the USA lost to Romania 6-4, to Germany 4-3. The standings in this 5th to 8th pool wound up: Romania 2-0-1, 5 points; Germany 2-0-1, 5 Points; USA 1-2-0, 2 points, and the Netherlands 0-3-0, 0 points.

Tisue paced the Americans in scoring with 12 goals, 5 of them against France. Wolf and Crawford scored 5 each. Severa and Volmer tallied 4 apiece and Bittick was next with 3.

The Olympic tournament was conducted in the new Stadio Del Nuoto and the Piscina Delle Rose.

U. S. A. Weightlifters Bettered All 1956 Marks But Finished Second To Russian Strong Men

RUSSIA won five gold medals and a silver to dominate the seven-event weightlifting championships.

The United States bettered almost all of its marks made in 1956 but had to settle for one gold medal—by repeating bantamweight champion Chuck Vinci—four silvers and one bronze.

This was a letdown after the Americans' four victories in 1948, 1952 and 1956. Yet, if featherweight Isaac Berger and middleweight Tommy Kono had had just a shade of a break in the snatch, the US might have captured those two titles and overall superiority in the four-day tournament in the Palazzetto dello Sport.

The Russians' and Americans' complete domination of the bar bell world since the 1952 Games was broken by Poland's Ireneusz Palinski, who beat Jim George of Akron, Ohio, in the light heavyweight (181 pound) championship.

Palinski might have gotten a break when Kono, the two-time Olympian and a nine-time world champion, decided to compete as a middleweight. The 30-year-old Hawaiian, lightweight (148 pounds) victor in 1952 and the light heavyweight champion in 1956, elected to face Russian Alexander Kurynov because he heard the Russian was "a very tough opponent."

Kono said he weighed 185 pounds five months before the Games but decided to pare down his weight to take on Kurynov.

The 27-year-old Russian aviation engineer proved to be a tough opponent indeed. He broke the world record with a jerk of 374½ pounds for a world record total of 964¼ to Kono's 942. Kurynov's figures were 297½-292-374½—964½ to Kono's 308½-281-352½—942.

All four Olympic records — for press, snatch, jerk and total lifts— fell in the middleweight class. Olympic marks were bettered 52 times and world records eclipsed 12 times through the meet. At the finish, eight world records and 21 Olympic marks were officially posted. Several others were tied.

Russia won the "strongest man in the world" honors when Yuriy Vlasov smashed all four Olympic records set by the fabulous Paul Anderson of the United States in 1956, and also broke world records for the jerk (446 pounds) and total lift (1,184½). His press was 396¾ and snatch 341½.

So keen was the competition that Jim Bradford, the 1952 Olympian from Washington, D. C., also bettered Anderson's Olympic mark with 1,129½ pounds (equalling the old world mark) and Norbert Schemansky, another 1952 Olympian, tied Anderson's record of 1,102 pounds. Naturally, the Americans took second and third.

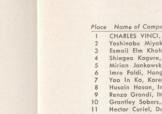

Vinci, a 27-year-old, 5-foot crane operator from Cleveland and 1956 champion, shattered the Olympic mark for snatch (231½) and his total of 760 bettered the Olympic mark and tied the world standard. Russia was not entered in this weight.

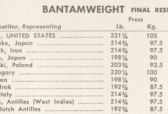

Russia's Evgeniy Minaev, second to the USA's Isaac Berger in 1956,

Best Showing In 28 Years By U. S. Wrestlers Supported By Three Free Style Championships

TURKEY put on an armlock of seven gold medals and two silvers in dominating the Olympic wrestling and the USA made its best showing in 28 years by capturing three free style gold medals.

The Turks, a perennial mat power, the United States, Russia and a husky German heavyweight—Wilfried Dietrich—were the stars of the competition.

The 336 free style and Greco-Roman wrestlers from 54 nations competed in an arena pitched beneath the impressive vaults of the Basilica of Maxentius (303-313 A.D.), situated by the side of the Roman Forum on the Via dei Fori Imperiali.

In this imposing setting, the Turks won four gold medals and two silvers in free style and three gold medals in Greco-Roman.

The United States, winless since 1952, had three free style champions from Oklahoma—lightweight Shelby Wilson and welterweight Douglas Blubaugh from Ponca City and bantamweight Terry McCann of Tulsa.

The USA also took a fourth, two fifths, an eighth and a ninth in the eight free style events. A seventh and two ninth places were the best the Americans could do in Greco-Roman but even in this seldom-used style the US matmen showed continued improvement. Greco-Roman wrestling is highly popular in Europe, Asia and the Middle East.

Russia, winner of six gold medals —five of them in Greco-Roman—in 1956, dropped to three at Rome. The Soviets collected a total of nine medals, three golds and two silvers in Greco-Roman, and two silvers and two bronzes in free style.

Seventeen nations gained at least one of the 48 medals but only six collected gold medals. Germany, on Dietrich's triumph won the only gold that escaped the US and Turkey in free style, and Romania and Bulgaria each gathered one of the other Greco-Roman championships. Turkey and Russia each had captured three in Greco-Roman.

Dietrich, who was second in Greco-Roman in 1956, earned another silver medal in that competition and also won the free style heavyweight title. The 26-year-old, 6-foot, 242-pound welder held defending champion Hanit Kaplan of Turkey to a draw in their thrilling final match to clinch the crown. In the Greco-Roman he took second to Ivan Bogdan although he battled the strong Russian to a draw.

Only two 1956 champions—both Turks—were able to score again. Mustafa Dogincanli, defending bantamweight champion, moved up a class and captured the featherweight free style title. Mithat Bayrak repeated in the Greco-Roman welterweight class.

Of the 16 champions, only six were able to win all of their matches. The all-victorious group included free stylists Blubaugh (7-0) and Wilson (5-0) from the USA, light heavyweight Ismet Atli (6-0) of Turkey (free style), bantamweight Oleg Karavaev (6-0) of Russia (free style), middleweight Dimitro Dobrev (5-0) of Bulgaria (free style), and light heavyweight Tevfikkis (5-0) of Turkey in Greco-Roman.

The other champions crowned at Rome were:

FREE STYLE—Flyweight Ahmet Bilek and middleweight Hasan Gungor of Turkey.

GRECO-ROMAN — Flyweight Dumitru Pirvulescu, Romania; featherweight Muzahir Sille, Turkey, and lightweight Avtandil Koridze, Russia.

Koridze's triumph was marred by a Japanese official's charge that Bulgarian Dimitro Stoyanov had deliberately thrown his fifth-round match with Koridze in order to permit the Russian to win the gold medal. Koridze and Stoyanov were wrestling evenly for about 11 minutes when the Russian suddenly threw Stoyanov. A draw would have eliminated both and given Jugoslavia's Branco Martinovic the championship. As a result of the fall triumph, Koridze met Martinovic in the final round and won the decision.

The International Amateur Wrestling Federation announced there was "a suspicion of collusion" between the Bulgarian and the Russian. But the IAWF ruled that "suspicion was not proof"—so the Russian kept his gold medal. Vice President Ichiro Hatta of the IAWF said, however, that the Bulgarian was disqualified and barred from further competition.

The American team was short on Olympic experience but long on determination. The three US winners participated in their first Olympics and Wilson had to be coaxed by friends to even enter the Olympic tryouts. Free Style heavyweight Bill Kerslake, a three-time Olympian from Cleveland, and Greco-Roman grapplers Lee Allen, featherweight from Portland, Ore., J. Richard Wilson, flyweight from Toledo, Ohio, Dale Lewis, heavyweight from Milwaukee, Wis., were the only members of the squad with previous Olympic experience.

McCann, a 26-year-old bookkeeper who beat the Russians consistently in the US-USSR meets, compiled a 6-1 record in taking the bantamweight (125.5 pounds, 57 kg.) title. He decisioned Edvin Westerby, Sweden; pinned Paul Hanne, Switzerland; decisioned Eduardo Campbell, Panama; was outpointed by Tauno Jaskari of Finland; pinned Mikhail Shakhov of Russia; decisioned Tadeusz Trojanowski of Poland, and then decisioned Neidet Zoler, the Bulgarian runnerup (4-1).

Shelby Wilson, 23, of Oklahoma State, scored five straight decisions, defeating, in order: Parkash Gian, India; Martti Peltoniemi, Finland; Abe Kazez, Japan; Vladimir Senyavsky of Russia, the runnerup with 4-1, and Mostaf Tojik of Iran.

Welterweight Blubaugh, 25, a soldier, and the Pan American champion, was sensational. Five of his victories were on falls and one by default. He pinned Kurt Boese, of Canada and Karl Bruggman of Switzerland, won by default over injured Juan Rolan of Argentina, pinned Axe Carlson of Sweden, pinned Emam Al Habibi of Iran, decisioned runnerup Ismael Ogan (6-1) of Turkey, and pinned Muhammad Bashir of Pakistan.

Edward De Witt, 26, a soldier from Pittsburgh U., came within one decision of taking the middleweight title. He won a 4-0 one three decisions and one fall but was pinned in his final match by Turkey's Hasan Gungor who won the title. A point victory would have been enough for DeWitt since Gungor had been held to one draw.

Elliott G. Simons, 21, of Norfolk, Va., finished fifth in the flyweight class on a 3-2 decision. He was pinned by champion Ahmet Bilek of Turkey and decisioned by runner-up Masayuki Matsubara of Japan.

Louis Giani, 26, of Huntington, N. Y., was 2-1 when he was injured and forced to withdraw. He finished ninth in the featherweight division on a fall victory and decision.

Daniel Brand, 25, a 6-foot-5 engineer from Bellevue, Nebr., finished fifth in the light heavyweight division, on a 2-2 record. He scored two wins on falls, lost one on a fall and one by decision to Russia's Anatoliy Albul.

Kerslake, 30, a 6-foot-3, 290-pound research engineer, was eighth among the heavyweights with a 1-1-2 record. He was decisioned by Hungary's Janos Reznak, pinned Ken Richmond of Britain, drew with Ustul Djiber of Bulgaria, and was decisioned by Turkey's Hanit Kaplan, the defending champion.

The US free stylers had an over-all record of 30 victories, nine defeats and one draw.

In the Greco-Roman tournament, the Americans had a record of four victories, 15 losses and two draws. A tough draw hampered some of them.

For instance, lightweight Ben Northrup, 24, of San Francisco, was eliminated in just two matches. He was decisioned by Kyosti Lehtonen of Finland, and Avtandil Koridze, Northrup was 19th.

Welterweight Fritz Fivian, 30, of Corvallis, Ore., was decisioned in his first match by Germany's Gunter Marttschingg, who took second. Then he was pinned by Bulgaria's Cyrille Todorov. Fivian finished 20th.

Flyweight Dick Wilson, 26, Toledo, Ohio, was outpointed by Dumitru Pirvulescu of Romania in his first match. Wilson then drew with Russia's Ivan Kochergin, pinned Franz Burkard of Switzerland and was then pinned by Japan's fourth-placer, Takoshi Hirata. Wilson was ninth.

Bantamweight Larry Lauchle, 20, of Pittsburgh U., was thrown in succession by Japan's Masamitsu Ichiguchi and Turkey's Yasar Yilmaz, finishing 25th.

Featherweight Lee Allen, 25, of Portland, Ore., took ninth on 2-2. He threw Portugal's Jose Gregorio, decisioned Driss Rahal of Morocco, was outpointed by Said Ebrahimian of Iran and Vojtech Toth of Czechoslovakia.

Lt. Anthony Camilleri, 23, of the Lincoln (Nebr.) AFB, finished seventh, highest of the Americans in Greco-Roman, with a 1-1-1 record. He drew with Yacous Romanos of Lebanon, threw Helmuth Langle of Austria, and was thrown by silver medalist Lothar Metz of Germany.

Light heavyweight Howard George, 26, a marine from Watertown,N. Y., was 1-4th on two decision losses to Russia's Givi Kartozia and Herbert Albrecht of Germany.

Yachting Gold Medal Won By U.S. A. In 5.5 Meter Class; American Entry Third In Stars

YACHTING's growing popularity and the spread of strength in the sport was clearly demonstrated in the Bay of Naples where 287 competitors from 46 nations sailed 138 yachts in the five classes—the 5.5 meter, Star, Dragon, Flying Dutchman and the one-man Finn Monotype.

The USA won the big 5.5 class with George O'Day's American-designed-and-built Minotaur and took a third in the Star class with Bill Parks at the helm of the Shrew II. Denmark, Russia, Norway and Greece scored the other victories as, for the first time since World War II, no country was able to win more than one gold medal. The 15 medals were divided among 11 nations.

Denmark was the leader with three medals, one gold and two silvers. Russia, with a gold and silver, and the USA with its gold and bronze, were the only other multiple winners.

For the Soviets, this was their first medal of any type in a sport that once was supposed to belong to the so-called wealthy and aristocratic class. Russia captured the Star championship with Timir Pinegin at the helm of the Tornado, which was built by Skip Etchells in Old Greenwich, Conn. Alexandr Chuchelov finished second in the Finn class to Paul B. Elvstrom, Denmark's wizard of the small boats, who collected a Finn gold for the third straight time and his fourth consecutive Olympic championship. He won in the Firefly class in 1948.

Crown Prince Constantine of Greece sailed his Nirefs to victory in the Dragon class, clinching Greece's first yachting gold medal ever by taking fourth in the seventh and final race. This gave the 20-year-old Prince 6,733 points to 5,715 for the Argentine Tonga and 5,704 for the Italian Venilia.

In the other four classes, the winners had virtually sealed their triumphs by the sixth of the seven races. The Prince had to do it the hard way. For this he was rewarded with the traditional dunking. Queen Frederika embraced her colleague on at the quayside and then, with a playful push, propelled him into the water while Paul and other members of the royal family roared with laughter.

Peder Lunde, the 19-year-old scion of a famous Norwegian sailing family, steered the Sirene to first place in the Flying Dutchman class. He scored 6,774 points.

As usual, the point scoring was based on the best six placings in seven races.

The other USA placings were 10th in the Dragon class with the Spirit VI, skippered by Eugene Walet and crewed by Claude Kohler and Allen McClure, all of New Orleans; 20th in the Flying Dutchman was the Vim III, skippered by Harry Sindle of Little Falls, N. J., and crewed by Robert Wood of Red Bank, N. J., and 11th by Pete Barrett, a non-yacht owner of Madison, Wis., in the Finn Monotype class. The host Italians supplied all of the Finn class craft.

O'Day, 37, from Dover, Mass., was ably aided by Jim Hunt, 24, and Dave Smith, 34, both of Marblehead, Mass., in the handling of the Minotaur.

The former Harvard football player who heads his own sailboat manufacturing firm, won the US Trials with his Wistful, designed by Sweden's

YACHTING

Einar Ohlson. Shortly after she had beaten the field, including Minotaur, in the Olympic Trials, off Marblehead, the Wistful was badly damaged in a collision with a runaway, 20-ton cruiser.

O'Day then purchased the Minotaur from John Mooney of Oyster Bay, N. Y. By coincidence, the Minotaur was designed by C. [illegible], father of O'Day's crew.

The Minotaur benefited considerably as the weather predicted [illegible] mostly true. O'Day scored 6,900 points with the following [illegible] placings:

OLYMPIC SCENES: 1—The Shrew II, US entry in Star Class, takes the lead at start of race. 2—Grand Prix des Nations jumping events at Stadio Olimpico. 3—Chris von Saltza in practice session. 4—US water polo team drills at Piscina delle Rose.

5—The Roman Forum where dramatic pageants were staged. 6—Palazetto dello Sport, with Stadio Flaminio in background. 7—Ancient riding areas at Basilica di Massenzio.

DISPUTED FINISH of the men's 100 meter free style final: 1—Australia's John Devitt, in lane 3, begins last stroke, while USA's Lance Larson, lane 4, finishes stroke under water. 2—Larson appears to be touching pool edge with left hand under water.

DIVING CHAMPIONS: Ingrid Kramer, Germany, (left), winner of both springboard and platform events for women; USA's Gary Tobian (right), men's springboard champion.

Stadio del Nuoto (swimming stadium) where Olympic competition was held.

Olympic Winter Games at Squaw Valley Ruled Great Success

From any viewpoint, the VIII Olympic Winter Games staged in Squaw Valley, Calif., Feb 18-28, 1960, must be ruled an unqualified success.

Competitively, they provided not only world record breaking performances but, with one exception, evidenced an equality of high caliber contention among the 30 participating nations. Setting aside speed skating where Russia amassed 84 of its total 146 points in the popular but admittedly unofficial (7-5-4-3-2-1) accounting system, the battle for medal honors and high placements was wide open with resulting thrills that came from such close competition.

Technically, the facilities in all sports won enthusiastic approval from world authorities. In no other set of Olympic Winter Games has the competitor been so fortunate in the overall arrangements made for his benefit. This was the basic aim of the Winter Games Organizing Committee in its planning and preparation months before. Its accomplishment is gratifying endorsement.

SMASH HIT!

Artistically, of course, the Games were terrific! Against the snowy backdrop of the high Sierras, the colorful pageantry of this international sports classic captured the fancy of the thousands who came to Squaw Valley, their original skepticism soon giving way to enthusiastic acceptance. Through excellent camera and production work, CBS-TV treated millions more in the United States to breathtaking and stimulating views of all events in the 10-day program.

Olympic-wise, the impact on the American public must have been great. It had been nearly three decades since both the Olympic Games and its winter counterpart had been held in this country, and probably few remembered. Now, with infinitely more interest and participation in winter sports, particularly skiing, and with the vast improvements in public communication, the Squaw Valley venture found ready acceptance.

Biggest impression, of course, was made by the tremendous triumph posted in ice hockey by the spirited American team. Beyond a doubt, this was something that stirred the collective heart of the nation. In many respects, this was the "big one," readily understood by a team sport conscious public. "We beat Russia and Canada" —was the prefacing statement made by thousands of Americans engaging in post-game discussions.

Encouraging also was the overall improvement in the United States' participation, the results in every phase of competition pointing up to the fact that the Americans are on the upgrade in sports where they have been low-rated internationally. While the number of gold medals won—three —is no record for the USA as far as all-time annals attest, still the total collection of nine medallists (including four silver and two bronze) is the best in post-war Olympic Games since 1948 when the USA took 10 (three golds, five silvers, and two bronze).

More important, however, is that in most cases, the USA athletes placed higher than ever before. Obviously that means the development program fostered by the U. S. Olympic Committee and national sports associations is beginning to make some headway. Certainly the training squad program of the USOC aided considerably but there must be continued progress not only in providing a wider base of competitive participation but in materially increasing the opportunities for international competition during the interim years.

* In official placings, only one medal is credited to a country in a team classification. For example, U. S. A. was awarded only the gold medal in Ice Hockey, however there were 17 players on the squad, each of whom received a gold medal. Relay teams in Cross Country Skiing are other similar examples, thus leading to a compilation of actual medals given.

Swedish Carpenter Best In Biathlon Tests Of Combined Skills In Skiing And Shooting

THE result of the shooting competition determined the first Biathlon championship of the Winter Olympics. Klas Lestander, a Swedish carpenter, hit all 20 of his targets and upset the favored Russians in the combination event that calls for cross country skiing and rifle marksmanship.

The Russians and the United States quartet of John Burritt (14th), Richard Mize (21st), Gustav Hanson (23rd) and Larry Damon (24th), fell down in their shooting.

World champion Vladimir Melanjin and his conqueror in Russia, Aleksandr Privalov, both had better times for the 20-kilometer (about 12½ miles) ski race than Lestander and silver medalist Antti Tyrvainen of Finland but had to settle for third and fourth places. Two other Russians took fifth and sixth.

Although the military-type event was comparatively new for the Americans, they had hoped for fairly high placings because of the victory by Damon over Lestander in the 1959 North American championship over the same McKinney Creek course in the Squaw Valley area.

The Biathlon calls for five rifle shots at each of four ranges on the course. At 6.5 kilometers, the distance is 200 meters; at 9.5 kilometers it is 250 meters; at 12.5 kilometers it is 150 meters, and at 15 kilometers it is 100.

For every miss a penalty of two minutes is added to the cross country time. The event is a test of speed, stamina and shooting ability under pressure. The competitors ski around the course with their rifles strapped to their backs.

The 5-foot-9 Lestander had all the essentials in the face of competition from the world's best. He was timed at 1:33:21.6 in the cross country, slower than 14 others in the field of 30, but his deadly firing proved the big difference.

Tyrvainen lost his chance of victory with one miss each at the first two ranges. His ski time was 1:29:57.7, but he was penalized four minutes for an adjusted time of 1:33:57.7.

Privalov, after hitting all five targets on the first three ranges, faltered on the last and missed three. He finished with an adjusted time of 1:34:

54.2 which included six penalty minutes.

Melanjin had a fast time of 1:27:42.4 but had four misses—one each on the first two ranges and two on

Great Performances By Carol Heiss, David Jenkins Extended U. S. A. Figure Skating Reign

CAROL HEISS, as graceful as an accomplished ballerina, and dynamic David Jenkins came through like champions do under pressure to maintain American supremacy in Olympic figure skating.

In winning the individual gold medals in the Blyth Arena, they provided two of the three Olympic championships won by the United States at Squaw Valley. And, by following up the victories of Tenley Albright and Hayes Alan Jenkins, David's brother, at Cortina, Italy, in 1956, they enabled the US to become the first nation to accomplish grand slams of both crowns in two Olympics in a row.

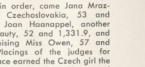

David Jenkin's come-from-behind triumph was the fourth straight for the USA in men's singles, equalling the record set by Sweden in sweeping the titles in 1908, 1920, 1924 and 1948. Dick Button started the American parade by winning in 1948 and 1952.

The victory of the incomparable Canadian team of Barbara Wagner and Bob Paul in the Pairs made it the first sweep of all three championships by North Americans. The beautifully synchronized Toronto tandem, three-times world champions, was the first non-European team ever to win the Olympic gold medal in this entertaining event, calling for unison, harmony and the spectacular for spice.

In addition to the two golds, the US team captured two bronze medals. Barbara Ann Roles took third behind Carol and the European champion, Sjoukje Dijkstra of the Netherlands in figure skating, and the husband-wife duo of Ronald and Nancy Ludington of Roxbury, Mass., finished third in the Pairs behind the Canadians and the German teen-age tandem of Marika Kilius and Hans Baumler.

Miss Heiss's victory was the first in the 1960 Games for the United States.

Fourteen of the 27 championships already had been decided when the 20-year-old co-ed from New York University sent the Stars and Stripes fluttering atop the victory pole with her near flawless free skating exhibition.

This performance clinched the gold medal that she had virtually wrapped up with her masterful display in the compulsory figures, which counts 60 per cent of the total. The honey-haired Carol led from the very first of the five compulsory figures with Miss Dijkstra second and Miss Roles third. At the finish, Miss Heiss received a perfect placing total of nine ordinals —first place by all nine judges—and 1,490.1 points. Miss Dijkstra, an 18-year-old blonde, had 20 ordinals and 1,424.8 points. Miss Roles, a blonde co-ed from Temple City, Calif., was third with 26 ordinals and 1,414.9 points.

Then, in order, came Jana Mrazkova of Czechoslovakia, 53 and 1,338.7; Joan Haanappel, another Dutch beauty, 52 and 1,331.9, and the promising Miss Owen, 57 and 1,343. Placings of the judges for fourth place earned the Czech girl the higher position over Miss Haanappel and fifth place was decided in a similar manner.

The victory for Miss Heiss climaxed 14 years of dedicated training and fulfilled a promise made in 1956 to her dying mother that she would win the Olympic gold medal. This she vowed after finishing second to Tenley Albright at Cortina by just 1.65 points—169.67 to 168.02.

Her magnificent exhibition in the free skating stirred the capacity crowd of 8,500 to tears and cheers. Clad in crimson costume, embellished with spangles and a tiara in her blonde hair, she bedazzled the judges, her opposition and the spectators with her sheer artistry. It was an enthralling four minutes for the crowd as Carol, to the accompaniment of a medley score from Tchaikovsky, Delides and Rossini, glided over the ice, spinning and leaping with feathery lightness. When she executed the double Axel and double Salchow, the crowd stood and cheered. When it was all over there were cries of "bravo" and "six, six six"—the perfect score. She didn't get six but she came mighty close. Even Japanese judge, Shotaro Kobayashi, who had been scoring very conservatively, awarded her 5.5 points for general impression and 5.6 for sporting merit. The other scores all ranged from 5.7 to 5.9.

Miss Roles was brilliant, too, in her free skating, and was second only to Carol. Carol earned 652.3 points for this phase and Miss Roles 642.0. Miss Dijkstra received 632.8 and Miss Owen 601.3.

In the compulsory figures, the scores were Miss Heiss, 837.8, Miss Dijkstra, 792.0, Miss Roles, 772.9 and Miss Owen, 731.7.

Seven of the 26 girls from 12 nations tumbled and two collapsed, gasping for breath, in the thin air of the high altitudes.

In the men's competition, David Jenkins, a 23-year-old medical student from Western Reserve, had to make up a 22-point deficit in the five-minute free skating at the end of the compulsory figures, Karol Divin, 23, of Czechoslovakia led with 797.7 points followed by Jenkins, 775.2, Alain Giletti of France, 762.7; Don Jackson of Canada, 751.4, Tim Brown, 748.9, and Bob Brewer, 724.6.

Now it was up to Jenkins, reigning and three-time world champion and considered the outstanding free skater of them all, to make it up in his specialty. And make it up he did, in an electrifying display of leaps and whirls and acrobatic twists. At times it looked like the lithe, 5-foot-6, 127-pounder was going to leap clear out of the arena. He displayed his triple Salchow and triple loops, and at one stage, when he leaped high and came into a sit-spin, the crowd was breathless, fearful he would tumble. But he didn't.

"I think it was the best I've done under pressure," he said afterwards.

A GREAT LOSS

When a giant Sabena Boeing jet airliner plunged to earth just outside Brussels, Belgium, on the morning of Feb. 15, 1961, killing all 72 persons aboard, it underscored a tragic turn of events which not only was appalling but which seemed almost unreal, for in that plane were 17 members of the U. S. figure skating team enroute to the world championships in Prague, light heartedly discussing their chances for victory. It was the worst disaster in American sports history.

Of the 17 youthful team members, five had represented the USA in the 1960 Olympic Winter Games at Squaw Valley—Laurence Owen in the women's singles, Maribel Owen and Dudley Richards, Ila Hadley and Roy Hadley, in the pairs. Two others, Bradley Lord and Stephanie Westerfield, had just missed a place on the U. S. Olympic team, placing fourth in their respective trials. With the team and part of the US contingent that numbered 33 persons in all were two well known Olympic figures. One was Maribel Vinson Owen, mother of Laurence and Maribel, and herself a nine-time American champion and three times an Olympian (1928-32-36). The other was 81-year-old Walter S. Powell, secretary of the U. S. Olympic Figure Skating Committee and long a respected figure skating official of international repute.

All members of the U. S. Olympic Committee are grief-stricken over this tragedy which took the lives of so many promising youths at the threshold of brilliant careers, not only in their chosen sport, but as useful and representative citizens of their country. Said President J. F. Kennedy, "Our country has sustained a great loss of talent and grace which had brought pleasure to people all over the world".

United States' Will-To-Win Vital Factor In Olympic Ice Hockey Championship Success

A UNITED STATES hockey team that was scarcely considered to have the slightest of chances to take the Olympic crown wrote a memorable chapter in the annals of the Winter Games by sweeping undefeated to the championship at Squaw Valley.

Rated decided underdogs to at least three teams — the defending champions from Soviet Russia, Canada's vengeance-minded world champions, and Czechoslovakia's more experienced sextet—the pickup USA group became a "Team of Destiny" in gaining America's first Olympic hockey title.

The key victory was a 2-1 heartstopper over the talented and experienced Canadians.

"It was the same as if they had beaten us in baseball or basketball," whooped the Americans as they went over this formidable hurdle.

"The success was predicated on condition, dedication and team effort," said Team Coach Jack Riley of the U. S. Military Academy.

Other important factors were the inspirational leadership of Riley and team captain Jack Kirrane, a fireman from Brookline, Mass., and the brilliant play—when it counted most—of goal-tender Jack McCartan and two brother acts—Billy and Bob Cleary and Roger and Billy Christian. McCartan, a 6-foot-1, 195-pounder, made one unbelievable save after another in repelling waves of attackers in the crucial contests with Canada and Russia. Riley, a one-time star at Dartmouth and a member of the 1948 Olympic team, summed it up in his report thusly:

"The pivotal win, of course, was the 2-1 conquest of Canada. The Canadians were, as usual, big strong, fast and rough. Beating them gave impetus to our cause, instilled new confidence in the squad, and set the stage for the sterling 3-2 victory over Russia. The win over Russia was historic in that it was the first for a US hockey team over the Soviets. It was truly inspiring and captured the imagination of all Americans.

"There can be no equivocation that this was truly a solid team effort. However, I would have to single out the superb play of several players in deference to their individual achievements.

"Jack McCartan was virtually unbeatable in the goal. John Mayasich was a potent factor defensively and his slap shot was a menace to most goalies. Billy and Bob Cleary of Boston and Roger and Billy Christian of Warroad, Minn., were not only the leading scorers, but also contributed memorable clutch performances.

"Roger Christian's four-goal effort in the climactic game with the Czechs is one of the most memorable feats in Olympic annals. The United States trailed, 4-3, after two periods when Roger came to the rescue with a "hat trick" (three goals) in the final period.

"Bill Christian's two goals against the Russians undoubtedly will be recalled as one of the most brilliant individual efforts ever by an American in Olympic competition.

"Undeniably, the four-week training period at West Point was the greatest single factor in the success of the squad. Conditions at West Point were ideal. There were no major distractions and ice facilities at Smith Rink were near-perfect. Constantly the squad was possibly the best conditioned in the tournament. Where the Canadians and Russians finished strong in previous Olympics, the US held the upper hand in the closing minutes of each game."

As Walter Brown, the chairman of the U. S. Olympic Ice Hockey Committee, pointed out, Riley's handling of the team and his selection of the players were major contributions to the history-making triumph.

"We made changes in the team right up until the deadline for the filing of entries, and I must say they proved to be all for the better," said Brown.

By the time the preliminary competition was ready to start on Feb. 17, Riley had his final squad of 17 in great condition.

Six of the team had previous Olympic experience, Kirrane was on the 1948 team while Billy Cleary, Mayasich, Meredith, Olson and Rodenheiser were on the 1956 team that beat Canada and lost to Russia in finishing second.

In the preliminary three-team round robin to determine two finalists, the USA rallied to whip Czechoslovakia, 7-5, and trounced Australia, 12-1. In the first game, Mayasich, with three solo goals including the winner, and one assist, led the offense. The Czechs held a 4-3 lead going into the last period. The USA erupted for four goals and it was all over. Johnson, on passes from Mayasich and McVey, tied the score, 4-4, at 1:58. Then Mayasich, a 6-foot, 180-pounder, golfed a shot from the blue line that got past the goalie for a 5-4 lead. Williams followed with his second goal of the game and Billy Cleary skated brilliantly through the Czech defense for a solo score.

Almost everyone got into the scoring act against the out-manned Australians, Mayasich and Meredith each scored twice. The other scorers were Olson, Johnson, Rodenheiser, Bob Cleary, Williams, Owen, Roger, Christian and Kirrane.

This put the US into the six-team championship round robin. They won in the following order: Feb. 22, 6-3 over Sweden; Feb. 24, 9-1 over Germany; Feb. 25, 2-1 over Canada; Feb. 27, 3-2 over Russia, and Feb. 28, 9-4 over Czechoslovakia.

Against the burly but injury-weakened Swedes, the US jumped off to a 4-0 lead in the first period, Roger Christian fired in the first goal and added one each in the next two periods for the "hat trick." Bob Cleary, McVey and Johnson scored the other goals. Billy Christian received three assists and Billy Cleary and Williams

1960 U. S. OLYMPIC ICE HOCKEY TRIALS

During the period of Nov. 1 to Dec. 1, 1959, sub-sectional tryouts were held throughout the nation to screen all promising Olympic talent. Later, Dec. 1 to 23, final sectional tryouts were held. Eastern candidates reporting at Boston and Western candidates at Minneapolis. From these trials, a squad of 22 players was selected and this group trained at West Point, N. Y., Dec. 27 to Jan. 15 before a final team complement of 17 players was selected.

Those reporting to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point were:

Larry Alm (Minnesota), Minneapolis, Minn.; Robert Dupuis (Boston U.) Peabody, Mass.; Thomas Harvey (U. S. Military Academy), Alexandria, Va.; John J. Kirrane, Brookline, Mass.; Robert E. Owen (Harvard), St. Louis Park, Minn.; Rodney Paavola (U. S. Army), Hancock, Mich., defense.

Herbert Brooks (Minnesota), St. Paul, Minn.; Richard Burg (Minnesota), Edina, Minn.; William Christian (Minnesota), Warroad, Minn.; Roger Christian, Warroad, Minn.; Eugene Grazia (Michigan State), West Springfield, Mass.; George Higginbotham (Harvard), Belmont, Mass.; Paul Johnson, West St. Paul, Minn.; Robert McVey (Harvard), Hamden, Conn.; Richard Meredith (Minnesota), Minneapolis, Minn.; Lt. James R. O'Connor (U. S. Military Academy), Wayland, Mass.; Weldon Olson (Michigan State), Marquette, Mich.; David R. Osterbridge (McGill U.), Princeton, N. J.; and Thomas Williams, Duluth, Minn., forwards.

Michael Korin (Middlebury), Clinton, N. Y.; Harry Batchelder (Brown U.), Peabody, Mass.; and Lawrence J. Palmer (U. S. Military Academy), Wakefield, Mass., goalie.

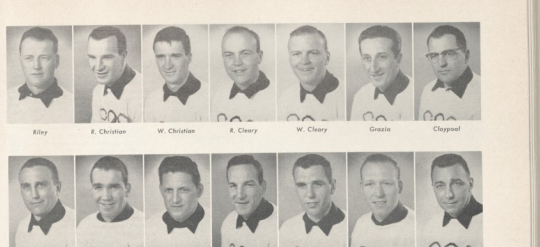

Later on, John W. McCartan (Minnesota), St. Paul, Minn. was added as goalie, while Robert Cleary (Harvard), Westwood, Mass. and William Cleary (Harvard), Cambridge, Mass. were placed on the squad as defense and forward players respectively.

Players replaced were Dupuis, Brooks, Batchelder, as the training tour began. By the time the tour was nearly completed, the final 17-player complement had been determined. Richard Rodenheiser, Malden, Mass., defense; and John Mayasich (Minnesota), Green Bay, Wis., center, were added while Burg, Harvey, Higginbotham, Korin, O'Connor, Osterbridge were dropped.

two apiece. McCartan fended off 36 drives, including 15 in the last period. Billy Cleary fired four goals, three of them solo dashes, in the 9-1 rout of Germany. The US closed with four goals in the final period. The scorers included Mayasich, with two, and Bob Cleary, Williams and Johnson with one each. McCartan had an easy night, making 23 saves.

Then came the big one with Canada. A howling standing-room-only crowd of 8,500 in Blyth Arena and millions of television viewers saw the scrapping, underdog Americans win, 2-1, as McCartan made one incredible save after another.

"All I could see were streaks of green Canadians," said Jack, who made 39 saves.

The USA took a 1-0 lead in the first period when Mayasich fired a slap shot from 20 feet out which bounced off the stick of Canadian goalie Don Head. Bob Cleary slammed it home at 12:47. The Canadians had a man in the penalty box at the time.

The lead grew to 2-0 at 14:00 of the second period when Johnson, a 6-foot, 170-pound Minnesota grad, intercepted a pass, skated down the left side and scored with a backhand slap shot from 35 feet out.

McCartan stopped 20 shots, some of them sizzlers, in that furious second period. The Canadians poured it on in the third period but couldn't break through until 13:38 when Jim Connelly converted on passes from Floyd Martin and Kenny Laufman in a scramble in front of the net.

The break of the draw gave the USA a day of rest before meeting the Russians on Saturday, Feb. 27. The Soviet skaters had been tied 2-2 by an aroused Swedish team and the Russians facing the USA and Canada on successive days, had to win to stay in the running.

A roaring crowd of 10,000 jammed the Blyth Arena, which seats 8,500, for the game. The fans and millions of TV viewers got one thrill after another in a hard-fought but cleanly waged match.

Bill Cleary sent the USA in front at 4:04 of the first period. He took a pass from brother Bob, darted down the right side and slammed the puck past acrobatic Nikolai Puchkov. The lead didn't last long.

Less than a minute later the Russians tied the score at 1-1 on a deft screen shot by Vaniamin Aleksandrov. Then, four and a half minutes later, the Russians zoomed in front. From 15 feet out, directly in front of the net, Mikhail Bychkov fired a bullet. The puck hit the iron bar of the cage, dropped to the ice and bounced in.

Midway in the second period, Billy Christian, the smallest player on the squad, grabbed a pass from his brother Roger, swooped down the left side and fired past the incoming goalie for the tying score.

The 5-foot-9, 145-pound Billy Christian foiled the acrabatic Puchkov again on 14:59 of the last period. Getting the puck on a play set up by his brother Roger and Williams, Billy outsmarted Puchkov again when the goalie came out to cut down the angle of the shot. The puck went in, and the USA players and the jubilant crowd jumped for joy.

That was it as McCartan and the stalwart defensemen fought off the Russians the rest of the way. McCartan had 27 saves to 31 for Puchkov.

Only Czechoslovakia now stood in the way of a USA gold medal. The schedule called for an 8:00 p.m. game on the next day. A US loss plus a Canadian victory over Russia might give the championship to the Canadians on a goal-spread basis. For two periods, it looked like the two big victories over Canada and Russia had taken the edge off the Americans' play. The Czechs were leading, 4-3, on a second-period score after each team had dented the nets for three goals in the first period.

Russia's captain and star defenseman Nikolai (Solly) Sologubov, who knew many of the American players for some time, came into their dressing room before the last period and suggested that they take some whiffs of oxygen to restore their pep. A great fuss was made over this friendly overture at the time. Some players did take the oxygen and some did not. Actually it was the Americans' flaming desire that proved the difference.

"It was that gold medal that spurred us on," said Roger Christian, the hero of the hour in the great six-goal, last-period comeback. Roger drove in three of the last-period goals for a total of four for the game.

Roger, a 5-foot-11, 180-pounder, fired the tying marker at 5:59 of the final period on a pass from brother Billy. Then Bob Cleary went to work. He converted a pass from Mayasich at 7:40 for what proved to be the winner. Within four minutes, he put icing on the cake by scoring on a power play with brother Billy and Kirrane. There was no holding the inspired team now. Roger Christian and Billy Cleary racked up goals within a 38-second period and then Roger closed out the scoring at 17:56 on a pass from brother Bill.

Burritt, a 25-year-old, 6-footer from Hotchkiss, Colo., had the third best skiing time of the USA four and the fewest penalties—five for 10 minutes—but finished 14th with an adjusted time of 1:46:36.8.

Mize lost 22 minutes on 11 misses for 21st place and an adjusted time of 1:55:56.2.

Hanson, 25, a soldier from Seattle, Wash., lost 18 minutes on nine misses and closed with 1:58:06.2 and 23rd place.

Damon, from Rutland, Vt., missed all five on the first range, had 13 misses in all, and finished 24th with 1:59:38.2.

The quartet all had displayed more accuracy in training and three trials previous to the Games.

They were coached by Hans Wagner, Army ski instructor from Colorado Springs, Colo. Col. Donald Hull of Washington, D. C., was the officer in charge.

FIGURE SKATING

"There was one crucial leap before that sit-spin. When I got past that, I felt the worst was over."

The crowd gave him a tumultuous ovation. Then came the scores. For general impression Jenkins received three of 5.9 and six of 5.8. For sporting merit he was awarded one 5.8, six of 5.9 and one 6—the only perfect score of the competition—by a Czech judge. It was all over.

Jenkins won with 10 ordinals—eight firsts from the judges and one second — and 1,440.2 points. He scored 665.0 in the free skating.

Divin, who had suffered a muscle injury a month earlier, scored only 616.6 points in his free skating for a second-place total of 1,414.3. Don Jackson, 19, of Canada, a protege of Pierre Brunet, Carol Heiss's coach, also gained ground in the free skating and took third place with 31 ordinals and 1,401.0 points. He collected 649.6 points in the free skating.

Brown, a long-time runner-up to his teammate, David Jenkins, was fifth on 52 ordinals and 1,374.1 points. He had 625.2 in the final exhibition. Brewer slipped to 595.7 points in his finals and wound up seventh with 1,320.3. He was hampered by a strained muscle.

In the Pairs, the Canadian Paul-Wagner team won with ease. The world champions from Toronto were named first by all seven judges for a score of 7 ordinals and 80.4 points.

Penny Pitou, Betsy Snite Paced All-Around Good Performance By U. S. Olympic Skiers

U. S. SKIERS blazed another trail upwards in a general climb in achievement in Winter Olympic competition at Squaw Valley in 1960.

Although no American champions were crowned the overall performance of the athletes in both the Alpine and Nordic events was the finest collective USA display in the history of the Winter Games.

Led by Penny Pitou, Betsy Snite and Tommy Corcoran, the Alpine team accounted for three silver medals (two by Penny and one by Betsy), two fourths (one by Betsy and the other by Corcoran), two ninth places, two 14ths, one 16th, one 17th, one 18th, two 21sts, and one 22nd.

Ansten Samuelstuen defeated the world champion and most of the world's elite by capturing seventh place in the Special Ski Jumping, and Mack Miller made the best showing ever by an American in cross country ski racing. The 28-year-old ace from Crested Butte, Colo., was 22nd in the 15 kilometers, 27th in the 30 kilometers, 17th in the 50 kilometers and also raced a good leg in the 40-kilometer relay.

The Alpine girls, benefiting from the international experience of Penny Pitou and Betsy Snite, were outstanding as expected. There was a measure of disappointment that the USA failed to win a gold medal but Penny came within a snowflake of one in the giant slalom and real close in the downhill. Betsy was right in the running with a second in the slalom and a fourth in the giant slalom.

In the giant slalom, Penny, despite a severe cold that hampered her breathing, finished one-tenth of a second behind Switzerland's Yvonne Ruegg. The Laconia (N. H.) girl lost her big chance in the downhill when she skidded and almost fell on a treacherous turn and finished one second behind the winner—Germany's Heidi Biebl.

Tommy Corcoran, a 28-year-old Dartmouth College product, came within six-tenths of a second of becoming the first USA male to win an Olympic skiing medal when he closed in fourth place in the giant slalom, behind Switzerland's Roger Staub and Pepi Stiegler and Ernst Hinterseer, both of Austria.

Watching this race at the bottom of KT-22 was Bud Werner, the daredevil racer who might have brought the United States one or more gold medals. Werner, who had been rated at least equal with Europe's topflight-ers, suffered a broken leg in December 1959, and was knocked out of the Games.

"Tommy was magnificent," said Werner. "He was the 24th man to start the race and if he had been in one of the earlier, favored positions, I'm sure he'd have won a medal."

The fourth-place finish equalled the American high in previous Alpine male competition. Brooks Dodge was fourth in the slalom at Cortina in 1956.

The American girls, with three medals, won more prizes than the entrants of any other nation in the Alpine women's skiing. Germany had two with Fraulein Biebl's downhill triumph and Barbi Henneberger's bronze medal for third in the slalom.

With Toni Sailer, the triple-gold medalist of 1956 no longer available, Austria's famed Alpine skiers suffered a sharp decline.

At Squaw Valley, the frustrated Austrians earned their only gold medal on the last event—the slalom—when two of their lesser lights, Ernst Hinterseer and Mathias Leitner, finished one-two.

Hinterseer, a ruddy-faced, 26-year-old farmer from Kitzbuhel, who finished third in the giant slalom, made up for the slump of the top-rated Karl Schranze and Andreas Molterer.

The Germans were the big surprises in the Nordic competition. They broke a Scandinavian monopoly by winning the Nordic Combined—jumping and cross country skiing—with Georg Thoma, a husky, 22-year-old mailman, and the Special Jumping with Helmut Recknagel, a 23-year-old East German mechanic.

Finland, Sweden and Norway, however, reasserted their supremacy in the men's cross country skiing by capturing the three individual races plus the 40-kilometer relay, ending Russia's short reign in the four-man relay.

The winners in the ski races were famed Scandinavian aces. Sixten Jernberg, Sweden's "King of the Skis," won the 30-kilometer race and was second in the 15 kilometers to Norway's Hakon Brusveen. The 50-kilometer marathon went to Finland's wiry Kalevi Hamalainen, straight struggle with his teammate Veikko Hakulinen.

The balding, 35-year-old Hakulinen, however, earned a gold medal in his third straight Olympics with one of the most stirring feats of the winter spectacle. The 5-foot-8, 140-pound forester, racing the anchor leg of 6⅛ miles (10 kilometers) in the 25-mile (40 kilometers) relay, made up 20 seconds and just lunged ahead of Norway's Hakon Brusveen to win by about three feet.

It was the old master's seventh Olympic medal. He won a gold in 1952, a gold and two silvers in 1956, and a gold, silver and bronze at Squaw Valley.

Russia's talented female ski runners, led by 29-year-old Maria Gusakova, swept the first four places in the 10-kilometer (6¼ mile) cross country but finished second to Sweden in the 15-kilometer (9.4 miles) cross country relay.

As usual, the United States did not have any entries in the women's cross country races, the US girls preferring the more glamorous Alpine events.

The excellent showing made by the United States was reflected by the intensive planning and preparation of the Olympic Men and Women's Skiing Committee, headed by Malcolm Mc. Lane of Concord, N. H., and the coaches and managers.

Training squads were chosen on the basis of meets in various parts of the country in the winter of 1958-59. The Olympic Ski Committee announced the selections in May 1959, thus notifying the athletes well enough in advance for them to make arrangements for the coming season.

The men and women members of the Alpine squad assembled at Aspen, Colo., Dec. 1. On Jan. 8, 1960, the team of eight men and six women was picked. Because of a lack of snow and foreign competition, a last-minute change was made in the training plans and the team was flown to Austria and Switzerland for a month of pre-Olympic competition and training.

This paid off handsomely. The girls made the best showing since Andrea Mead captured two gold medals in 1952. The overall performance was the best for the USA.

The Nordic squad had a training camp at Granby Winter Park, Colo., from mid-December to early January, 1960. There were training meets in the Colorado area to mid-January and final tryouts at Steamboat Springs, Colo., during the last week of January. The 14-man team, nine cross country runners and five Nordic Combined men, was selected on the basis of the best two out of three performances.

The Special Jumping training squad trained at Ishpeming, Mich., and Eau Claire, Wis., in late December and early January and competed at Eau Claire, Duluth and Chicago. The Jumping team tryouts were held at Ishpeming on Jan. 23-24. Eight men were selected on the basis of their best six out of nine jumps.

The eight-man team, subsequently cut to six by order of the International Olympic Committee, competed at Iron Mountain, Mich., Steamboat Springs, Colo., and Leavenworth, Wash., before reaching Squaw Valley with the other US teams, in mid-February.

In Alpine competition, the surprises in the women's racing started with the first event—the Downhill, on the 1⅞ mile KT-22 course. The decisive factor was a treacherous turn, 15 seconds from the finish, called "airplane corner." The turn, a wicked, 90 degree corner with two small humps in the center of it, claimed 14 victims. The turn had iced up overnight, making it faster and trickier than when the girls had practiced over it two days before.

Heidi Biebl, a 19-year-old fraulein from the Bavarian hamlet of Oberstaufend, was among those who had trouble there. But she kept her footing and went on to win in 1:37.6, a second faster than Penny Pitou, and 1.3 seconds faster than Traudl Hecher of Austria, who raced despite an ankle injury, and finished third.

Heidi cleared the gate "almost completely wrong and almost came to a standstill."

Penny lost the race at the gate, Betsy Snite was spilled there, and disqualified, and Joan Hannah and Linda Meyers lost their time also. Miss Pitou, faster than all of the others until she hit "airplane corner," staggered, slowed and almost fell. She felt she lost at least two seconds there. Miss Snite lost her right ski and was shaken out of the race. Hannah, Linda Meyers fell but got up and finished in 1:47.9, good for 21st in the field of 42. Miss Meyers also went through the corner but lost her balance in so doing and fell farther down. She finished in 1:53.2 for 29th place.

"I think only will power kept me up," said Miss Pitou. "If it had been anything but the Olympics I know I would have gone down."

The giant slalom down Papoose Peak proved to be even more of a heart-breaker for Penny Pitou and the Americans. Yvonne Ruegg, a fraulein from Chur who barely made the Swiss team, won the gold in 1:39.9 through the difficult, 53-gate course.

Penny, nursing a cold that hampered her breathing, was one-tenth of a second slower—1:40.0—in her journey through the gates. Italy's Guiliana Minuzzo Chenal was third in 1:40.2 and Betsy Snite fourth in 1:40.4—just two-tenths of a second away from a bronze medal.

Linda Meyers crashed into a gate high up on the course and suffered a broken right collar bone. Beverly Anderson fell near the top but got up and finished in 1:57.4, 36th in the field of 45.

Anne Heggtveit, a 21-year-old Canadian blonde who has been skiing since she was two, virtually clinched the slalom on the first of her two runs on different courses on Papoose Peak. The Ontario international-ist zipped through the 53 tightly placed gates in just 54 seconds, covered the second course with its 53 gates in :55.6 for an impressive winning total time of 1:49.6.

Betsy Snite, trailing with a :57.4 first run, swayed through the gates in the fastest second run of the field of 43 with a time of :55.5 for the silver medal on a total time of 1:52.9. Germany's Barbi Henneberger was third with 1:56.6 on runs of :57.4 and :59.2. Renie Cox beat some top Europeans in taking ninth with 1:59.2 on runs of :59.4 and :59.8. Beverly Anderson was 26th with 2:13.1 on runs of 1:13.1 and 1:00.0.

Penny Pitou, tied for ninth after her first run of :58.5, went "for broke" on her second run. The New Englander skied too fast through the tricky gates and fell one-third of the way down. She got up and finished in a dismaying 1:21.3 for a total of 2:19.8. Her 33rd position cost her the World Alpine combined title, which went to Miss Heggtveit.

Marianne Jahn, a 17-year-old Austrian, had the second fastest opening run, a :55.5. But like Penny, she shot the works on the final trip and spilled near the bottom. She didn't finish.

The scheduled opener of the Men's Alpine championships — the Downhill—was postponed three days by the inaugural day's 10-inch snowfall. This made the Giant Slalom the first of the men's races, and produced an upset.

Roger Staub, a tall, dark and handsome Swiss, who never had won an important race, zoomed down the 6,000-foot KT-22 course with its 56 gates in 1:48.3 to beat a field of 65. The 23-year-old sports shop owner from Arosa was the sixth man to go down the mountain, a highly favorable starting position. Austria's Josef (Pepi) Stieger, down third, was second in 1:48.7 and his countryman, Ernst Hinterseer, the No. 8 starter, took the bronze medal in 1:49.1.

in fourth place came America's Tommy Corcoran, the 24th starter, in 1:49.7.

"I just went like blazes," said Tommy the Cork, a true internationalist. He was born in Japan and educated at Dartmouth and Harvard. His parents now live in Rome and he calls Beaconsfield, Quebec, a suburb of Montreal, his home, but he's still an American citizen.

Corcoran topped some of Europe's mightiest, including the favored Austrian stars, Karl Schranze (7th) and Andreas Molterer (12th).

The Men's Downhill produced two sensations. Jean Vuarnet, a 27-year-old outsider, upset the field of 63 by plummeting the two miles down ice-topped Squaw Peak in 2:06.0.

His triumph was less of a sensation than his equipment. The French hotel manager became the first Olympic gold medalist to win with metal skis —and no wax.

The favored Austrians finally clicked in the last Alpine event—the two-run slalom through the 66-gate and 69-gate courses on KT-22. Ernst Hinterseer, after finishing fifth on the first trip in 1:10.7, went all out on the second run. His time of :58.2 was the best and he won with a total of 2:08.9. Teammate Mathias Leitner was second on runs of 1:11.1 and :59.2 for 2:10.3. Charles Bozon of France was third on 1:09.8 and 1:00.6 for 2:10.4. Willy Bogner, an 18-year-old German, got off a dazzling first run of 1:08.8. But with the gold medal virtually in his pocket, Willy fell halfway down the twisting run, and then spilled again almost at the bottom and didn't finish.

Corcoran made another impressive showing, taking ninth in the field of 63 with 2:14.7 on 1:12.5 and 1:02.2. Frank Brown was 37th on 1:58.2 — 1:02.1 for 3:01.3. Jim Barrier fell on his second run and didn't finish. Chuck Ferries put together runs of 1:16.1 and 1:02.1 for 2:18.2 which would have been good for 11th place if it stood up. But he was among a large group disqualified.

In the Nordic events, the favorites came through in the cross country ski races, but upset victors were two Germans, Helmut Recknagel in the Special Jumping and Georg Thoma in the Nordic Combined.

Sixten Jernberg, Sweden's "King of the Skis," captured the 30-kilometer (18¾ miles) cross country race in one hour, 51:03.9. The 42rd starter in the field of 45, the former blacksmith overhauled one racer after another and won easily on a time basis, while defending champion Veikko Hakulinen of Finland was sixth in 1:54:02.0.

Mack Miller topped the USA group with a creditable 2:03:05.4 and 27th place—the best effort ever by an American.

In the 50-kilometer (31 miles) grind, a frail-looking 28-year-old Finnish shop foreman, Kalevi Hamalainen, made every post a winning one. The first starter in the field of 31, he set a sizzling pace and led all the way in 2 hours, 59:06.3. Defending champion Sixten Jernberg of Sweden was fifth in 3:05:18.0, while USA's Mack Miller, a 5-foot-8, 140-pounder, was 17th in 3:17:23.2.

Old Hakulinen uncorked his spectacular effort in the anchor leg of the 4 x 10-kilometer (4 x 6 ¼ miles) relay to make up 20 seconds and lunge ahead of Brusveen of Norway by less than a ski length in 2:18:45.6. Norway's time was 2:18:46.4 with Russia's defending champions third in 2:21:21.6. The USA quartet of Mack Miller (37:04.0), Karl Bahlin (40:47.0), John Dendahl (39:11.0) and Pete Lahdenpera was 11th and last in 2:38: 01.8.

In the women's cross country races, in which the USA had no entries, Russia swept the first four places in the 10-kilometer (6 ¼ miles) individual race and finished second to Sweden in the 15 (3 x 5) kilometer (9.3 miles) relay race.

Marija Gusakova, a 29-year-old Leningrad dressmaker, won the 10 kilometers in 39:46.6 while Sweden's trio of Irma Johansson, Brit Strandberg and Sonja Ruthstrom won the relay in 1.04:21.4 with Russia second in 1.05.02.6.

Russia protested the victory, claiming Sweden's first skier, Irma Johansson, crossed over on a sharp turn and ran over Radia Eroshina's skis, spilling the Russian girl. Miss Eroshina then was involved in a pileup while the Swedish girl sped away to what proved to be the winning margin.

After viewing motion pictures clearing Miss Johansson, the Russians withdrew their protest.

In the men's Nordic Combined, which had been won six times previously by Norway and once by Finland, Georg Thoma of Germany scored a major upset by whipping a field of 33. The 22-year-old mailman from the Black Forest accumulated 457.952 points on a first in the jump- (221.5 points) and a fourth in the 15-kilometer (9.4 miles) cross country with a time of 59:23.8. This earned him 236.452 points. His three jumps were for 62, 69, and 67.5 meters (203, 226 and 221 feet).

Norway's Tormond Knutsen was second with 453 points and Russia's Nikolai Gusakov, husband of the women's cross country Olympic champion, third with 452.

The Americans finished far down in this event. The positions and performances were: 26, Alfred Vincelette, 191.5 for jumping (190, 185, 182 feet), and 204.774 for skiing (1:07:35.4), a total of 395.274; 27, Ted Farwell, 172.5 for jumping (147, 182, 180 feet), and 214.194 for skiing (1:05:09.4), a total of 386.694; 29, John Cress, 191.5 for jumping (175, 190, 203 feet), and 183.806 for skiing (1:12:59.7), a total of 375.306 points; and 30, Craig Lussi, 158.5 for jumping (172, 157, 168 feet), and 203.419 for skiing (1:07: 55.7), a total of 361.919.

Germany's Helmut Recknagel broke the Scandinavian monopoly in the Special Jumping with two spectacular flights, Norway had won this six straight times until Finland snapped the streak in 1956.

The 23-year-old mechanic from East Germany soared 93.5 meters (306 feet)—the longest jump in Olympic history—and 84.5 meters (277 feet) for a total of 227.2 points for distance and form. The approach to the second jump was shortened by one meter after it was learned that the first jump was too long for the course.

Finland's Niilo Halonen was second with 222.6 on leaps of 92.5 and 83.5 meters (303 and 273 feet) and Austria's Otto Leodolter third with 219.4 on jumps of 88.5 and 83.5 (290 and 273 feet).

Anten Samuelstuen, a 145-pounder, finished an excellent seventh in the field of 45 with 211.5 points on leaps of 90 and 79 meters (295 and 259 feet). The Norwegian-born Coloradoan defeated, among others, Finland's world champion, Juhani Karkinen, who had 211.4 points on leaps of 87.5 and 82 meters (287 and 268 feet).

The other Americans had the following placings: 28, Jon St. Andre, 192.3 points (81.5 and 78.5 meters —267 and 257 feet); 32, Robert Wedin, 187.1 (79 and 72 meters—259 and 236 feet), and 42, Gene Kotlarek, 165.1 (84 and 77 meters —275 and 252 feet). Kotlarek, one of America's leading hopes, fell on his second jump, ruining his chances for a high placing.

U. S. A. Speed Skating Performance Topped By Medalists Jeanne Ashworth, Bill Disney

UNITED STATES speed skaters made a creditable all-around showing in the Winter Games in gaining two medals, a silver and a bronze.

The medal winners were Bill Disney, who finished second in the 500 meters, and Jeanne Ashworth, a surprisingly versatile competitor who took third in the women's 500 and topped the American delegation in the 1,000, 1,500 and 3,000 as well. Both came within tiny fractions of a second of the champions in the 500.

The Games marked the debut of women's speed skating as an official part of the Olympic program. The Russians, with world record holders in all four of the women's events and in two of the four men's races, were expected to dominate the competition;

They did, too, winning six gold medals and earning a total of 12 medals. The Soviets were led by a pair of gold medalists, Eugeni Grishin in the 500 and 1,500 and Lidija Skoblikova in the 1,500 and 3,000.

The artificial course, rated extremely fast, lived up to expectations. Grishin tied his world mark of :40.2, set in winning the 1956 title, and would have broken the 40-second barrier by nearly two seconds if he had not stumbled and skidded on the final turn. Disney, a 27-year-old rug cleaner from Alhambra, Calif., was second in American record time of :40.3.

The 16-minute barrier was crashed through twice in a fantastic 10,000-meter final which saw the first five men shatter the world standard of 16:32.6, established by Hjalmar Andersen of Norway in 1952.

Knut Johannesen, a 26-year-old Norwegian carpenter, hammered the mark down to 15:46.6—46 seconds below the record—in winning the gold medal to go with a silver earned in the 5,000.

Both the men's 500 and 10,000 were raced under ideal weather conditions. But strong gusts, ranging up to 35 miles per hour on raw, blustery days, barred record performances in the 1,500 and 5,000. Grishin tied Norway's Roald Edgar Aas at 2:10.4 for the gold medal in the 1,500, thus duplicating his odd double at Cortina when he also won the 500 and tied for the gold in the 1,500.

Russia's Viktor Kosichkin, a 22-year-old Moscow engineer, was the only one to break eight minutes in the 5,000 as he won in 7:31.2. He also finished second in the 10,000 in 15:49.2.

Miss Skoblikova, a blue-eyed blonde, was the only woman to eclipse any of the remarkable world records set by the Russians on the fabulously fast oval at Alma Ata, high in the Urals. The 21-year-old physiology student from the Urals cracked the 1,500-meter mark with a time of 2:25.2, and came within a half secand of the world record in capturing the 3,000 in 5:14.3. She was only a half second away from another medal when she finished fourth in the 1,000 in 1:35.3.

The 1,000 was taken by her teammate, Klara Kuseva, a 21-year-old teacher, in world-record time of 1:34.1, with Germany's Helga Haase second in 1:34.3.

The 25-year-old East German housewife and mother had upset the favored Russians in winning the opening 500 meters with a brilliant :45.9 —three-tenths of a second slower than the world mark. The Soviet's Nataliya Donchenka was second in :46.0, and Miss Ashworth third in :46.1, two-tenths of a second behind the winner's time.

Miss Ashworth, from Wilmington, Mass., surprised by finishing eighth in both the 1,000 and 3,000 meters and 11th in the 1,500. This placed her among the world's speed elite, a remarkable feat considering her lack of experience in skating over a regulation 400-meter course and against the clock. In the United States the skaters race to beat the field, a different type of competition than the European method of racing against time only.

The 21-year-old Tufts College coed shattered the national records in the 500 (:46.1) and 1,000 (1:36.5). Jeanne Omelenchuk of Detroit also bettered the 1,000 mark with 1:39.8 in finishing 15th.

The American men eclipsed the national standards for all four distances in either the pre-Olympic trials or in the Olympics. In the 10,000 Arnold Uhrlass, a 28-year-old Yonkers (N. Y.) carpenter, who skated with Johannesen, broke the US mark first with 16:49.9. Then Ross Zucco, a 25-year-old plumber from Hollydale, Calif., who later in the year was to die in a car crash, lowered the record to 16:37.6, good for 10th place in the field of 30. Uhrlass took 15th.

Only one member of the squad that competed had had Olympic experience, and he had a heart-breaking accident. Bill Carow, a 35-year-old fireman from Madison, Wis., and the oldest competitor on the squad, hit a pop going into the first turn of the 500 about 20 yards from the start —and spilled. He slithered across the track and was finished in just a few seconds, ending four years of intensive training in but a few seconds. Carow had finished sixth in 1956.

Don McDermott, the only other Olympian and only previous medal winner on the squad, didn't even get to race. The 30-year-old speedster from Englewood Cliffs, N. J., who won a silver medal in 1952 was edged for the 500 by Disney, Carow, Dick McDermott and Eddie Rudolph. Dick McDermott, a big 19-year-old Olympian Tech student from Essexville, Mich., tied for seventh in :40.9 and Rudolph, a 17-year-old schoolboy from Northbrook, Ill., was 10th in :41.2. However, Don McDermott had the honor of carrying the USA flag in the opening ceremonies.

The other members of the final US team included Floyd Bedbury, 22, St. Paul, Minn.; Richard Hunt, 24, Los Angeles; Keith Meyer, 21, Glen Ellyn, Ill.; Beverly Buhr, 18, Northbrook, Ill.; Cornelia Harrington, 16, Wayne, N.J.; Barbara Lockhart, 18, Park Ridge, Ill.; and Kathleen Mulholland, 18, New York City.

Eddie Schroeder, former Olympian from Chicago, was the coach, and Al Zirkel of Milwaukee, a former President of the American Skating Union, was the manager. Both were assisted by Leo Freisinger, a former Olympian from Los Angeles.

The US training squad was picked on the basis of trials at Powderhorn Park, Minneapolis, Feb. 2-6, 1959, reporting to Squaw Valley on January 14, 1960. The final squad of 10 men and six women was selected just prior to the Olympic competition at Squaw Valley.

IN MEMORIAM

Ross B. Zucco, who set an American citizen record of 16:37.6 for the 10,000 meters speed skating event during the 1960 Olympic Winter Games, was killed in Los Angeles, Calif., Sept. 28, when another car crashed into his automobile.

3RD PAN AMERICAN GAMES

Chicago, Illinois, U.S.A.

August 27th to September 7th, 1959

PAN AMERICAN GAMES SUCCESS ENCOURAGED U. S. OLYMPIC PLANNING

Although the United States had been expected to dominate the Third Pan American Games at Chicago in 1959, the overwhelming degree of superiority revealed throughout the 12-day international sports festival indicated that USA preparations for the 1960 Olympic Games at Rome were both encouraging and productive.

United States athletes competing with those representing 23 other nations, rolled up a staggering total of 120 first places, out of a possible 163, 73 seconds, and 53 thirds in the events held for the 25 sports categories on the program. Virtually every Pan American record broken was the result of USA performance and, in 15 of the sports, the United States monopolized the honors, and shared them in five others. Only in baseball, tennis, women's volleyball, soccer football, and cycling were USA athletes overshadowed.

However, any true evaluation of the U. S. Olympic team potential arising from Pan American performance must take into consideration these factors:

ONE—The United States entered a full team in each of the 25 sports, placing into competition a total of 401 athletes, of which 317 were men and 84 were women. The official Pan American tally for all athletes showed 2,161 (1863 men, 298 women). Only Canada, Brazil, Mexico, Puerto Rico, Cuba, Argentine and Venezuela each had total entries that approximate half of the USA figure and, in many cases, these nations concentrated on their specialties. Entries of the other

* In official placings, only one medal is credited to a country in a team classification. For example, U.S.A. won gold medal in men's team basketball. There were 14 players on squad, each of whom received a gold medal. Relay teams in track and in swimming, crews in rowing, are other similar examples, thus leading to a compilation of "actual" medals given.

NOTE—Discrepancy in totals under official listings due to ties for first and second places and no awards of third places in some instances.

U. S. Pan American Team Achieved Virtual Monopoly in Games With 18 Championships

HAILED in advance by head coach Charles D. (Chick) Werner as "probably the greatest track and field team ever assembled," the forces of the United States made the prophecy look good in the Third Pan American Games at Chicago in 1959.

Led by the long-striding Ray Norton, a triple medalist in the sprints, the USA squad captured 18 of the 22 championships, swept 1-2-3 in seven of the events, and also harvested 16 silver and nine bronze medals.

In the first hemispheric competition at Buenos Aires, Argentina, in 1951, the USA won 14 of the 24 championships. In the second Games in the one-and-a-half-mile altitude at Mexico City in 1955, the Yanks annexed 16 of the 22 titles.

The first Games were held during the Argentine summer and the USA winter. The second Games were held in the late winter and early spring. The third Games, Aug. 27-Sept. 7 were the first in which the USA was able to have its top athletes compete for team places according to the Olympic tryout method.

The results showed it. On the brick red running strip and the emerald green infield of mammoth Soldier Field, the Americans accounted for 15 of the 17 Pan American records and tied another. The two other record-breaking performances were scored by the West Indies Federation's American-trained 1,600-meter relay quartet and Argentina's Osvaldo Suarez, who retained his 10,000-meter title.

The only Pan American standards to hold firm were the :10.3 in the 100 meters (tied by Ray Norton); the :14.0 in the 110-meter high hurdles (and only because a following wind barred a :13.6 feat) by Hayes Jones; the world record of :45.4 by Lou Jones in the 400 meters; the world record 54-foot 4-inch burst of Brazil's Adhemar da Silva in the hop, step and jump, and Roselyn Range's mighty 26-foot-4 ⅛ broad jump.

Norton, a 23-year-old halfback from San Jose State, was the individual standout with his victories in the 100 and 200 meter (world record equalling :20.6) sprints and his anchor leg on the record-shattering 400 meter relay team. But this was expected on the basis of his consistently outstanding efforts prior to the Games.

There were other heroes and several surprises to lend excitement to the track and field portion. George Kerr, an Illinois senior from Jamaica, B. W. I., spearheaded a non-USA sweep of the 400-meter run and the record triumph in the 1,600-meter relay.

Although the 400 and the 1,600 relay are among the Americans' pet events, the results were not shocking upsets. The US athletes made up for these two losses by scoring surprising triumphs in the marathon (John J. Kelley), the 5,000 meters (Bill Dellinger), and finishing 1-2-3 in the 1,500, led by Dyrol Burleson.

In addition to the metric mile, the USA swept the 110 and 400-meter hurdles, the shot put, discus, hammer and javelin.

The only other non-US winner, in addition to Kerr, Suarez and the West Indies relay team, was the perennial hop, step and jump master, 32-year-old da Silva of Brazil. The two-time Olympic champion, although hampered by leg cramps, won the Pan Am crown for the third time. He covered 52 feet 2 inches.

Kelley's runaway victory in the marathon was the first for the United States in either Olympic or Pan American competition since the 1908 Olympics when Johnny Hayes was declared the winner after Italy's Pietro Dorando was disqualified.

Kelley, a 28-year-old school teacher from Groton, Conn., won the 26-mile, 385-yard event by about three quarters of a mile in record time of 2:27:54.2. Boston AA teammate Jim Green, also a school teacher, was second, Gordan Dickson of Canada took third to prevent another US sweep but Al Confalone, a third member of the Boston AA, made it a memorable windup for the squad by finishing fourth in the field of 14. Eight of the starters went all the way.

Victory came to 5-foot 6-inch, 125-pound Kelley in his 13th marathon. "I guess it's my lucky number," he said.

ATHLETICS, MEN

Harold Connolly was first declared the hammer throw winner only to eventually finish second to Al Hall, a Cornell graduate. Connolly had been credited with a Games' record of 195 feet 11½ inches. Record feats, however, are re-measured by custom. On rechecking the throw, the officials found it measured a quarter-inch less. Since a quarter-inch doesn't count, Connolly's heave was cut to 195 feet 11 inches, tying him with Hall. Under international rules, Hall was declared the victor on the better second toss, 192 feet 4½ inches to Connolly's 191 feet 5 inches. They share the Pan American record at 195 feet 11 inches.

Here's how the other championships were decided:

100 METERS—Norton won in record-tying :10.3. Mike Agostini of the West Indies Federation was second (:10.4) and Cuba's Enrique Figuerola third (:10.5). Bob Poynter, San Jose State teammate from San [illegible] fourth in :10.5. Norton's [illegible] of :10.2 in the semi-finals was disallowed because of a [illegible] assisting wind.

MEN'S ATHLETICS

200 METERS—Norton broke the Games' record and tied the world mark for the race around one turn with a time of :20.6. He beat Les Carney of Ohio University by five yards. Mike Agostini of the West Indies was third and Vance Robinson of North Carolina College, fourth.

400 METERS—George Kerr, Illinois senior from Jamaica, scored by three yards over Basil Ince, Trinidad and Tufts, with Mal Spence, Jamaica and Arizona State, third. Kerr led the West Indies sweep with a time of :46.1. Mills, a Purdue sophomore, was fourth, Ivan Rodriguez of Puerto Rico fifth and Jack Yerman of California sixth. Eddie Southern of Texas was eliminated in the semi-final.

800 METERS—Tom Murphy of Manhattan College held off George Kerr's closing rush and won by inches in the record time of 1:49.4. Tony Seth, a Michigan student from British Guiana, rallied to take third from Mel Spence of WIF. Ernie Cunliffe of Stanford, the early pace-setter, was fifth. Californian Jerome Walters dropped out with 200 meters to go.

1,500 METERS—Dyrol Burleson, 19-year-old Oregon freshman, led Jim Grelle, another Oregonian, and Ed Moran of Penn State in record time of 3:49.1. Burleson, who did the last lap in 56 seconds, was a six-yard victor.

5,000 METERS—Bill Dellinger, an Air Force man from Grants Pass, Ore., ran a heady race to upset defender Osvaldo Suarez of Argentina. The 25-year-old Oregon graduate remained close to the Argentine and then outkicked the favorite in a blazing finish, winning by the depth of his chest in a record 14:28.4. Doug Kyle of Canada was third, Navy Ensign Lew Stieglitz of West Hartford, Conn., was 11th. Air Force Lieut. Max Truex of Southern California didn't finish.

10,000 METERS—Osvaldo Suarez of Argentina retained his crown by edging Canada's Doug Kyle in the record time of 30:17.2. Kyle was clocked in 30:18.0. Bob Soth of Drake and Long Beach, Calif., was third in 30:31.8. Alex Breckenridge, a Marine officer from Villanova, was seventh. Max Truex scratched.

110-METER HIGH HURDLES—Hayes Jones of Eastern Michigan made a head-long lunge at the tape to nip Olympic ing Lee Calhoun of North Carolina College in :13.6. This betered the record by four-tenths of a second but was not allowed because of a strong following wind. Elias Gilbert of Winston-Salem Teachers was third.

3,000-METER STEEPLECHASE—Phil Coleman, a 28-year-old professor of English at Illinois, came from behind to edge Deacon Jones of Iowa by a yard in record time of 8:56.4. Both had surged ahead of Mexico's Alfredo Tinoco who took third. George Young of Arizona U. was fifth.

DECATHLON—Dave Edstrom of Oregon, the No. 1 American in the absence of the injured Rafer Johnson, won or tied for first in eight of the 10 events to win with a record total of 7,254 points. Edstrom missed first only in the 1,500 and pole vault events, Phil Mulkey of Memphis State was second with 6,062 and Canada's George Stulac third with 5,989, Mike Herman of New York U. didn't compete because of an ankle injury.

POLE VAULT—Despite an infected heel caused by new street shoes, Don (Tarzan) Bragg of the U. S. Army and Villanova broke the pole vault mark with a leap of 15 feet 2½ inches. Jim Graham of Oklahoma State, Rosindo Cruz of Puerto Rico, and Ron Morris of Southern California finished second, third and fourth, respectively, each with best jumps of 14 feet 2 inches.

HIGH JUMP—Olympic champion Charlie Dumas of Southern California lifted the Games' record to 6 feet 10½ inches. Bob Gardner of the Marines and St. John's U., was second (6 feet 8¼ inches) with Ernie Haisley of the West Indies third (6 feet 7 inches). Errol Williams of San Jose State was fifth at 6 feet 4¾ inches.

BROAD JUMP—Irvin Roberson, a 24-year-old Cornell graduate, won easily with a leap of 26 feet 2 inches. Olympic champion Greg Bell of Indiana U. was second at 24 feet 11¼ inches. Lester Bird of the West Indies finished third on 24 feet 5⅜ inches. Joel Wiley of Los Angeles State was fourth with 24 feet 4½ inches.

HOP, STEP AND JUMP—Adhemar da Silva took his third Pan Am crown with 52 feet 2 inches. Herman Stokes, a 27-year-old Los Angeles postal clerk who had been coached by da Silva, was second with 50 feet 6 inches and Bill Sharpe, a Philadelphia policeman, was third with 50 feet 5½ inch. Ira Davis of La Salle was far below form and failed to qualify for the final at 47 feet 8½ inches.

DISCUS THROW—Olympic champion Al Oerter of the University of Kansas won with his best throw ever, 190 feet 8½ inches, to lead the USA sweep. Dick Cochran of Missouri was second with 178 feet 7 inches and shot-put king Parry O'Brien was third with 170 feet 1 inch.

SHOT PUT — Olympic champion Parry O'Brien of Southern California raised the Pan American record to 62 feet 5½ inches, Nineteen-year-old Dallas Long of Southern California was second with 60 feet 8½ inches and Dave Davis, USC senior, third on 55 feet 9½ inches.

JAVELIN THROW — Buster Quist, third-ranked of the US trio, surprised with a record throw of 231 feet 3½ inches. The New Mexico U. student upset Phil Conley of California Tech (229 feet 5½ inches), and favored Al Contello of the U. S. Marines, third with 229 feet ½ inch.

400-METER RELAY—Despite inferior baton handling, the USA quartet of Hayes Jones, Bob Poynter, Bill Woodhouse and Ray Norton won in record time of :40.0. The foursome also had broken the Games' mark in a heat with a time of :40.1. Venezuela was second in the final (:41.1) and the West Indies third (:41.6).

1,600-METER RELAY—The West Indies four-yard victory over the USA in the record time of 3:05.3 was one of the highlights of the Games. Mal Spence (:46.9) picked up three yards on Eddie Southern. Brother Mel Spence (:46.7) lost two yards back to Josh Culbreath. Basil Ince (:45.7) threw off Jack Yerman in a scorching leg. Then George Kerr (:46.0) broke it up, winning by four yards over Mills.

The team was picked on performance in the NAAU Meet at Boulder, Colo., June 19-20. The dual meet with Russia and foreign barnstorming trips kept most of the athletes in condition for the Games.

Coach Werner was assisted by Percy Beard of the U. of Florida, Bill Bowerman of Oregon U. and Edward Hurt of Morgan State, Ralph H. Colton of Massachusetts was the team manager, assisted by John T. Core of Richmond, Va., and Powell Moorhead of Indianapolis.

Pincus (Pinky) Sober, Chairman of the U. S. Olympic Men's Track and Field Committee, was another key factor in both the success of the team and the Games themselves.

Intensified Training Program for Women's Team Led to Eight Gold Medal Triumphs

THE most intensified training preparations for a United States' women's track and field team paid off handsomely at Chicago.

In this case the reward for coach Ed Temple's team was eight of the 10 championships, seven seconds and three thirds by the squad of 21, the finest showing by US women in the hemispheric competition.

Led by Lucinda Williams, a three-time victor, and double winner Mrs. Earlene Brown, the USA broke six of the seven records at Soldier Field.

The only Pan American marks to stand were the 11.5 for 100 meters, 161 feet 3 inches in the javelin, and 5 feet 6⅝ inches in the high jump. Into the discard went the standards in the 60 meter and 200-meter sprints, the 80-meter high hurdles, the 400-meter relay, the shot put, discus throw and broad jump.

For the first time, the conditions were favorable for the US in these Games. In the first Pan American carnival the women ran from Feb. 25 to March 8. The US sent only eight girls. Considering the circumstances, they did well to win two gold medals, earn three seconds and take two thirds out of the eight events.

Performances picked up in the second Games, March 12-26, when the women captured four of the seven events.

Coach Temple's Tennessee State University squad provided six of the champions, and Mrs. Frances T. Kassilov of Cleveland, Ohio, Chairman of the U. S. Olympic Women's Track and Field Committee, stressed the importance of the pre-Games preparation.

These included the 10-day Olympic track and field development clinic held in Cleveland after the first tryouts in that city, June 28, and the dual meet with the Russians at Philadelphia's Franklin Field, July 18-19. The tryouts had consisted of the AAU Track and Field championships.

"This was the first time that women's track had the type of competition and training that it has always needed," said Temple. "The performance of the women athletes in track and field in the Pan American Games should stimulate more interest in track and field on the high school and college level for women, as it proved that American women can be top performers in international competition."

Temple was ably assisted by field coach Francis G. Welch of Kansas State Teachers College. Unending duties as manager-chaperone were performed by Maralyn West of John Hay High School of Cleveland.

Mrs. Brown, a 24-year-old mother from Los Angeles, Calif., trimmed down to 200 pounds and broke the shot and discus records on every one of her throws. Her shot mark of 48 feet 2 inches was far over the old standard of 40 feet 10½ inches set by Argentina's Ingeborg Mello de Preiss in 1951. Her discus heave of 161 feet 9½ inches also erased the 141-foot 8¾-inch record set by the same girl.

In both events, Mrs. Brown led US sweeps of the three medals. The US also collected all the medals in the broad jump. These were taken by Tennessee Staters in the following order: Anne Smith, 18 feet 9½ inches; Margaret Matthews, 18 feet 9½ inches, and Willie B. White, 18 feet 8½ inches.

co-ed from Tennessee State, won the 100 meters by about three feet over Wilma Rudolph. Carlotta Gooden of Panama was third. The time for the race of a head wind was :12.1. Olympian Barbara Jones, the defending champion and record holder in :11.5, was injured and failed to finish her semi-final.

After breaking the 200-meter meet record of :25.3 with a :24.1 clocking in her semi-final, Lucinda breezed to a four-yard victory over Isabelle Daniels, another Tennessee State U. star, in :24.2. Canada's Sally McCallum was third and Louise Mead of New York finished fifth.

Lucinda earned her third gold medal on the all-Tennessee State U. record-breaking 400-meter relay team. The quartet of Miss Daniels, Wilma Rudolph, Mrs. Williams and Barbara Jones won by about 15 yards over Panama in :46.4, bettering the mark of :47.0 set by the USA in 1955.

Pamela Kurrell (138 feet 5 inches) of San Francisco, Calif., and Marjorie Larney (138 feet 4½ inches) of New York, trailed Mrs. Brown in the discus. In the shot put, Sharon Shepherd (44 feet 2¾ inches) of Mapleton, Ore., and Wanda Wejczgrowicz (43 feet) of St. Louis, Mo., also broke the record in earning their medals.

The 60-meter final was a tough one for the judges to decide. Isabelle Daniels was declared the winner although the first four finishers were timed in a :7.4 flat. Barbara Jones and Carlotta Gooden of Panama tied for second place with Martha Hudson, of Tennessee State U. fourth.

Ann Flynn of the German-American AC, a clerk from Irvington, N. J., won the high jump with a modest 5 feet 3½ inches. Alice Whitty of Canada and Renata Frederichs of Chile shared second at 4 feet 11 inches. Martha Rodriguez of Puerto Rico was fourth, also at 4 feet 11 inches, and Naomi Rogers of Roba, Ala., of Tuskegee Institute, seventh at 4 feet 9 inches.

Chile's Marlene Ahrens, second in the 1956 Olympics, captured the javelin throw with 148 feet 10½ inches. Marjorie Larney was second on 143 feet 2½ inches and Amelia Wood of River Edge, N. J., third at 140 feet 11½ inches.

Bertha Diaz, Cuba's outstanding competitor and defending champion, took the 80-meter hurdles in a record 11.2. This was the only event in which the USA failed to win a medal. Wanda Dos Santos of Brazil was second and Marion Munroe of Canada third. Barbara Mueller of Chicago was fourth and Shirley Crowder, the favorite from Tennessee State, finished sixth.

Here are the 1959 champions:

60 METERS—Isabelle Daniels, USA, :07.4 (record).
100 METERS—Lucinda Williams, USA, :12.1.
200 METERS—Lucinda Williams, :24.2

WOMEN'S TRACK AND FIELD

U. S. A. Nine Ranked Third In Pan American Baseball Tourney

BASEBALL may be the United States' national game but you can't prove it by performances in Pan American Games. Venezuela was the third country to emphasize the point in as many competitions.

The South Americans won the 1959 championship with Puerto Rico second and the USA third. In the first Games at Buenos Aires in 1951 the US was second to Cuba. Four years later at Mexico City, the US again was second, behind the tiny Dominican Republic.

Nine nations competed in the Games at Chicago's Comiskey Park and Wrigley Field. This forced a two-group tournament with the first two in each qualifying for a final round robin.

In the first group, the U. S., Venezuela and Mexico finished with 3-1 records with Costa Rica (1-3) fourth and Brazil (0-4) fifth, in the play-off for the two places, Venezuela drew a bye and the US beat Mexico, 7-5. Puerto Rico (3-0) and Cuba (2-1) qualified from the second group. The Dominican Republic (1-2) was third and Nicaragua (0-3) was fourth.

1959 Pan American Basketball Crown Won By U. S. Men's Team With Unbeaten Mark

THE US Men's basketball team was a team with a mission in 1959—to restore its prestige in the American-invented sport.

Earlier in 1959 at a world tournament in Santiago, Chile, a hastily-formed US Air Force team was defeated by Brazil and Russia.

Brazil was declared the winner when Russia withdrew from the tournament. Due to the regular schedule and post-season championships in the US, neither the colleges nor the Amateur Athletic Union could send a representative team to Chile.

At Chicago, the US team accomplished its mission handily, easily sweeping the seven-nation field. Led by the incomparable Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati, the 14-man squad won all six of its games by double-figure margins, including a windup 93-79 victory over Brazil. This 14-point spread was the closest contest the US squad had in the Games.

The USA victories, in order, were by the following scores: 93-73 over Canada; 89-47 over Puerto Rico; 114-46 over Cuba; 101-42 over El Salvador; 101-57 over Mexico, and 93-79 over Brazil.

Puerto Rico (4-2) was second followed by Brazil (4-2), Mexico (4-2), Canada (2-4), Cuba (1-5) and El Salvador (0-6). The 2-3-4 places were decided on point differential.

The victories were the most convincing scored by any US team in Pan American competition and clearly demonstrated the US's power on the court.

With the Pan American Games being held in the same competitive period as the Olympics, the U. S. Olympic Basketball Committee, headed by A. C. (Dutch) Lonberg of Kansas U., decided to use the 1956 Olympic tryout method of selecting the team.

Two all-star teams—one of college players picked by a special committee at the end of the NCAA championship tournament, and a service squad, chosen after the inter-service meet—plus the first two teams in the National AAU tournament, met in a three-night round robin. The College All-Stars topped the competition with a 3-0 record followed by Phillips 66ers (2-1), Wichita Vickers (1-2) and the Armed Forces (0-3). The two AAU teams had been augmented by top players from other teams in that tournament.

From this vast pool of talent, the following were selected for the Pan American team: Oscar Robertson, Cincinnati; Jerry West, West Virginia; Bob Boozer, Kansas State; Leo Byrd, Marshall College; Don Goldstein, Louisville U.; Jack Adams, U. S. Army (formerly Eastern Kentucky); Bob Jeangerard, Air Force (formerly Colorado U.); Adrian Smith, Army (formerly Kentucky); George BonSalle, Denver Truckers; Dick Boushka, Wichita Vickers; Bill Evans, Phillips 66ers; Burdette Haldorson, Phillips 66ers; Jerry Sunvold, Wichita Vickers, and Gary Thompson, Phillips 66ers.

coach who piloted the College All-Stars, was named head coach. He was assisted by Warren Womble of the Peoria Caterpillars, who coached the successful U. S. Olympic team in 1952. Dyre Dye of the U. of Washington was named manager.

The US broke its clash with Brazil wide open in the first four minutes by taking an 11-4 lead. After 10 minutes it was 27-11 and by half-time, 51-35. With Robertson setting the pace with 18 points, the US hit on 18 of 34 floor shots. The Big O, playing only about three-quarters of the game, topped the scorers with 29 points. BonSalle had 19 and West and Thompson 11 each.

The US clicked on 35 of 73 field goal tries and captured 43 rebounds. Brazil made 27 of 77 attempts and grabbed only 27 rebounds. High man for Brazil was Wlamir Marques, a fine jump shooter, with 23 points.

Robertson, the college's top scorer, led the US in the six games with 99 points. West was next with 68 followed by Swartz 61, BonSalle 52, Adams 51, and Haldorson 50.

The US team had the advantage of being together for 19 days before it opened competition on Aug. 28. The players assembled on Aug. 9 at the Glenview Naval Air Station, Ill., and practiced there until moving into the Pan American Village at Chicago on Aug. 17.

U. S. Women Cagers Started Slowly But Finished Strongly For Pan American Title

THE US women's basketball team got off to a shaky victory in its opening game against Brazil but went on to score a second straight sweep in Pan American competition.

Although the girls captured all eight of their games in the double round robin, just as they did in 1955, coach Harley J. Redin of Wayland Baptist College, Plainview, Texas, was not entirely satisfied.

Pointing out that competition from South America undoubtedly will be more rugged in the future, Redin suggested longer training periods and a change to international rules for future play.

"The athletes performed very well considering the short training period of 10 days and the heat of 90 degrees and up," said Redin. "Teamwork was not real good but it improved with each game."

"Three weeks should be a minimum amount of time to get a team ready. Also some actual outside competition would benefit the training program.

Redin's team from Wayland Baptist College, operating as the Hutcherson Flying Queens, furnished the nucleus of the squad of 14 selected on the basis of the National AAU championship.

The 14 selected were: from Wayland-Hutcherson, Joyce Kite, 5 feet 3 inches; Carla Lowry, 5 feet 8 inches; Carolyn Miller, 5 feet 11 inches; Patsy Neal, 5 feet 10 inches; Marsha Scoggin, 6 feet; Evelyn Searles, 5 feet 9 inches; Barbara Stewart, 5 feet 7 inches, and Katherine Washington, 5 feet 9 inches; from Nashville Business College, Joan Crawford, 6 feet, and Nera White, 6 feet (she did not report, however); from Iowa Wesleyan, Rita Horky, 5 feet 11 inches; Glenda Nicholson, 5 feet 11 inches; from Roy Smith Ford, Lucile Davidson, 5 feet 6½ inches, and from Clarendon J. C., Thelma Ivey, 5 feet 10 inches.

The girls operated on a "learn as you play" policy as far as the international rules were concerned in the Aug. 28-Sept. 6 tournament at Oak Park High School, Chicago. With each game they became more familiar with the rules and their margins of victory increased.

Against Brazil in the opening game, the US barely squeezed by, 45-43. The next time the US played Brazil five nights later, it was an easy 64-48 triumph. After the opener, the tightest game was the 53-39 conquest of Canada.

In order, the US won by the following scores: 45-43 over Brazil; 70-36 over Mexico; 55-38 over Chile; 53-39 over Canada; 64-48 over Brazil; 64-32 over Mexico; 66-41 over Chile, and 65-28 over Canada.

Against every team but Brazil, the American girls rolled up big margins in the first half and coasted to easy victories.

In the first game against Brazil the US led 20-19, at the half. The Brazilians went ahead in the second half and a strong rally in the closing minutes was required to gain the triumph. Joan Crawford, with 11 points, Joyce Kite with 10, and Carolyn Miller, with 8, were the high scorers for the US.

When the US faced Brazil again, it had a 27-23 lead at the half. Then Miss Crawford sparked a second half surge that broke the game open. Joan was high again with 15 points. Five others figured prominently in the victory, Miss Miller with 11, Katherine Washington with 9, and Rita Horky, Joyce Kite and Carla Lowry with 8 each.

Miss Horky of Blissfield, Mich., was the leading American scorer with 95 points in the eight games, Miss Crawford of Nashville, Tenn., was second with 91, followed by Miss Kite of St. Joseph, Mo., 59. Miss Lowry of New-

Four Gold Medals Best Showing Ever For U. S. A. In Pan American Boxing Competition

BOXING provided one of the closest competitions in the Pan American Games with the United States reaping a greater harvest of gold medals than ever before.

Led by Vince Shomo, a hard-hitting New York light welterweight, the US won four of the 10 championships and took two seconds and one third in the five-day tournament in Chicago's Northwest Armory. The favored Argentines proved as tough as usual, earning three gold medals and five silver.

BOXING

Brazil, Chile and Venezuela, also noted for their pugilistic prowess, fared well in the exciting tournament. Brazil captured two gold medals, one silver and three bronze prizes. Chile scored a first and two thirds. Venezuela came up with one runner-up and two third-placers.

There were 81 entries from 15 countries with the USA, Argentina and Brazil the only nations with full 10-man squads.

The US maintained its steady improvement in the third of the hemispheric Games. In the inaugural tournament at Buenos Aires, the Argentines swept eight championships. The best the USA could do was four bronze medals.

In 1955 at Mexico City, the US stepped up the pace, winning three of the 10 titles and earning two seconds and two thirds. Argentina, however, continued to dominate boxing by annexing four gold medals, two silvers and one bronze.

The pendulum finally swung over to the US in the last two fights of the program at Chicago. Victories over Argentina in the light heavyweight and heavyweight finals gave the Americans a three-to-one margin over the Argentines in the face-to-face combat in the finals. That was the decisive factor.

But for a controversial decision in the featherweight windup, coach Ed McGinn's team might have captured five titles to equal the record of the fabulous 1952 Olympic squad.

In that one, Charley Brawn, a 20-year-old marine from Cincinnati, piled up a good margin in the first two rounds, only to lose by split decision to Argentine's Carlos Aro in the 125-pound final. A storm of boos greeted the verdict.

"I don't know how they took it away from Brawn," said coach McGinn of Philadelphia.

The US winners were Shomo, a kayo conqueror in all of his bouts, in the 139-pound class; Wilbert McClure of Toledo University, in the 156-pound light middleweight division; light heavyweight (178 pounds) Amos Johnson, a marine from Stockton, Calif., and heavyweight Allen Hudson, a soldier from Glen Cove, N. Y.

Bobby Foster, an Airman 2/C from York, Pa., was outpointed by Abrao de Souza of Brazil in the middleweight (165 pound) final. Pete Spanakos of Brooklyn took third in the bantamweight division (119 pounds).

The other winners were flyweight (112 pounds) Miguel Botta of Argentina; bantamweight (119 pounds) Waldo Claudiano of Brazil; lightweight (132 pounds) Abel Laudonio of Argentina, and Alfredo Cornejo of Chile, in the welterweight (148 pounds) class.

Shomo completed his knockout parade by stopping Luis Aranda of Argentina in 2:38 of the first round. The ringside physician ordered the bout halted after the Argentine suffered a deep cut over his left eye.

McClure, a slender six-footer, relied on stiff jabs and fast combinations to outpoint stocky Jose Burgos of Venezuela in a close bout.

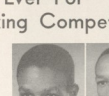

Johnson, a left-hander, led all the way to outpoint Argentina's Rafael Gargiulo in a lively scrap for the light heavyweight crown.

In the big windup of the two nights of championship finals, Hudson, a 6-foot-2, 183-pounder, clinched the heavyweight title with a slashing body attack in the final round against Argentina's 17-year-old Eduardo Corletti.

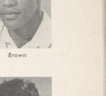

Flyweight Heiji Shimabakura of Honolulu and Idaho College finished fourth in the 112-pound division. He was forced to default the fight-off for third place because of medical reasons. Pete Spanakos took third in the bantamweight class when his opponent was unable to appear for similar reasons.

Lightweight Harry Campbell, a soldier from Detroit, drew a first-round bye and then was outpointed in the quarter-final by the eventual champion, Argentina's Abel Loudonio.

Welterweight Dean Harrison, an Airman 1/C from Aberdeen, Wash., also drew a first-round bye and then was stopped by Venezuela's Enrique Tovar, a stiff puncher, in 1:40 of the first round.

The team was picked on the basis of tryouts at the University of Wisconsin, April 28-30. The boxers assembled at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center on Aug. 1 for conditioning and workouts under McGinn and manager Charles Swift of the Air Force.

Victory In 4000 Meter Pursuit Race Provided U. S. A. With Its First Cycling Gold Medal

THE United States entered its largest team in the Pan American cycling championships and surprised the South Americans as well as the US by scoring its first victory.

Not only did the American riders capture the gold medal for the 4,000 meter team pursuit race but they took two silver medals for second in 1,000 meter events and lost another gold medal by disqualification.

It was a major achievement for the US which failed to gain any medals in 1951 and 1955 in this South American-dominated sport.

In 1951 the US sent only three riders to Buenos Aires and entered only four in 1955 at Mexico City. For 1959 the US had a rounded team of 16, gathered from a field of 92 in the trials at Chicago, July 29-Aug. 2.

In five events—three individual and two team affairs—the US earned the following positions:

4,000-METER TEAM PURSUIT—A first-place finish by the quartet of Richard Cortright, Charles Hewitt, Robert Plarr and James Rossi.

1,000-METER TIME TRIALS—A victory by Allen C. Bell which was disallowed following a Brazilian protest that he had been pushed illegally by the starter. Brazil's Anezio Argentoo was moved up to first and David Staub of Daly City, Calif., was advanced from third to second.

1,000-METER SPRINT MATCH SERIES—Jack Disney of Monravia, Calif., second to Argentina's Juan Canto.

114-MILE ROAD RACE—A fifth place by the trio of Bob Tetzlaff, Joseph Becker and George Van Meter, with Tetzlaff sixth in the good time of 4:33:45.0, Becker 12th at 4:35:00.3 and Van Meter 14th in 4:35:00.5. The individual title went to Argentina's Ricardo Senn, a last-minute substitute for ailing Antonio Alexandre. Senn also led the Argentines to the team victory (20 points on first, ninth and tenth places).

Senn was the star of the sport, earning two gold medals in the road race, a third in the team pursuit and a third in the 1,000-meter time trials.

In the road race, Senn and the next four finishers almost finished in a dead heat. Only 1.4 seconds separated the first five, and only fourtenths of a second split the first three. Francisco Lozano of Mexico was twotenths of a second behind the leader and Rene Zeceia of Uruguay trailed Lozano by another two-tenths of a second.

The first three averaged 24.70 miles an hour—a terrific speed for the gruelling test on the driveways of Lincoln Park.

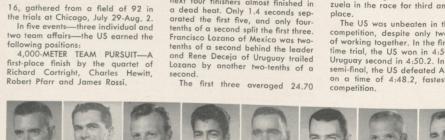

Argentina captured major honors with three firsts and three thirds. The US was next with a gold medal and two silvers.

In the 4,000, the US led for 12 laps with the heavily favored Uruguay quartet close behind. Then the US, paced by Jim Rossi of Chicago, spurted to a quarter-lap lead—the eventual margin of victory. The winning time was 4:52.6. Uruguay was clocked in 4:57.0. Argentina defeated Venezuela in the race for third and fourth places.

The US was unbeaten in this team competition, despite only two weeks of working together. In the first round time trial, the US won in 4:50.1 with Uruguay second in 4:50.2. In the first semi-final, the US defeated Argentina on a time of 4:48.2, fastest of the competition.

Becker Bell Cortright DeCollibus Disney Dodd Hartman Hewitt

Hiltner O'Rourke Pfarr Pfeifer Rossi Staub Tetzlaff Van Meter

In the 1,000 sprint, Disney, a 29-year-old veteran of the 1955 Games and 1956 Olympics, swept through three rounds to the final with Juan Canto. The Argentine edged Disney in straight heats in the two fastest rides of the series, :11.8 and :11.9. Another Argentine, Carlos Vasquez, won over Pat DeCollibus of Buffalo, N. Y., for the third-place medal in straight heats of :12.4 and :13.1.

DeCollibus, a 20-year-old, gave Canto, the eventual winner, a terrific battle in the semi-final. Pat took the first heat but Canto won the next two in :12.1 and :12.0. Disney whipped Vasquez in the other semi-final in straight heats, :12.3 and :12.2.

In the 1,000-meter time trials, Bell, a 1956 Olympian from Somerville, N. J., posted the fastest time of the field of 19—1:12.2. Anezio Argentaoo of Brazil was next in 1:12.3 and David Staub, a 19-year-old collegian, was third in 1:12.4. Ricardo Senn was fourth in 1:13.0.

Brazilian officials protested that Bell had been given an illegal push by the starter and the American was disqualified, e n a l i n g Argentaoo, Staub, and Senn to move up to the 1-2-3 positions.

Other members of the American squad included Bernard Dodd, Quincy, Mass.; Jack Hartman, Los Gatos, Ill.; Mike Hiltner, Palisades, Calif.; Tom O'Rourke, Detroit and Stephen Pfeifer, San Francisco.

Ernest H. McAdams of New York was the team manager and Frank Brilando, a two-time Olympian and Pan American competitor in 1951 from Niles, Ill., was the team coach. George L. Thorpe of San Francisco was the Chairman of the U. S. Olympic Cycling Committee.

Trish Galvin Is First Woman to Win Gold Medal In U. S. A. Dominated Equestrian Tests

INTENSIVE preparation paid off for the United States in the equestrian championships of the Pan American Games. For the first time the Americans dominated the competition and for the first time a woman won a gold medal.

The honor of being the first of her sex to earn a gold medal went to Trish Galvin, a 20-year-old international from Santa Barbara, Calif. Miss Galvin won the difficult Dressage event—another American first—and with two other women, Jessica Newberry of Croton-on-Hudson, N. Y., and Karen McIntosh of Bedford Village, N. Y., finished second in team Dressage to Chile's experienced cavalrymen.

In addition to the individual Dressage, the US won the first two medals in the individual Three-Day Event, took second place to Canada in the team Three-Day and captured the final championship of the Games, the Prix des Nations for jumping. Michael Page, a 20-year-old from Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., won the Three-Day with J. Michael Plumb of New York second.

Miss Galvin scored 1,070 points in the morning and 1,143 points in the afternoon for a winning total of 2,213 in the Dressage, finishing ahead of three Chilean cavalry officers. Miss Newberry, aboard Forscrat, scored 836 points and Miss McIntosh, aboard Scipio, scored 802 points, in the morning. Neither made the afternoon ride-off.

Only the first four qualified for the ride-off, Miss Galvin and the three Chileans. Capt. Jose Mela was second with 2,011 points followed by Maj. Cesar Mendoza, 1,870 and Maj. Jose Larrain, 1,870.

Chile won the team prize with 2,810 points with the US second with 2,708 and Venezuela third with 2,168.

Dressage is the most exacting of the equestrian events. The riders must put their horses through an intricate series of maneuvers without speaking any commands or visibly moving their body. Orders to the horses are communicated by subtle pressure. Usually only experienced riders and seasoned cavalrymen compete in this event.

The Three-Day Event consists of dressage, cross country and stadium jumping. Page, who had been training in Europe, won aboard Grasshopper with a three-day total of minus 27.8. Plumb, a 19-year-old six-footer aboard Markham, was second with minus 50.27 and Canada's Norman Elder, riding Prince Maple, was third on minus 80.27.

William Haggard of Nashville, Tenn., was ninth aboard Bold Minstrela with minus 275.42, while Olympian Walter Staley, of Mexico, Mo., was eliminated when his mount, Sebastian, became exhausted and failed to finish the cross country run.

The team championship is determined on the scores of the three best riders. Canada won with a total of minus 274.40 to minus 348.49 for the US. Haggard lost too many points in dressage to make up the difference when Sebastian failed.

EQUESTRIAN

With four experienced international-ists in the Prix des Nations, the US won easily with a low of 32 faults to 59 for Brazil and 80 for Chile.

The jumping took place in Soldier Field over a course of 700 yards, including 17 obstacles. The US quartet was comprised of Hugh Wiley of Towson, Md., aboard Nautical; Bill Steinkraus of Westport, Conn., aboard Riviera Wonder; George Morris of New Canaan, Conn., aboard Night Owl, and Frank Chapot of Wallpack, N. J., aboard Tally Ho.

After scoring 24 faults in the morning round, the US foursome closed with a brilliant exhibition and only zuela, the US lost to Puerto Rico, 9-5, but edged Cuba, 3-2, for the third place medals.

A tough break may have cost the US the game with Venezuela and possibly the championship. Leading 2-1 in the eighth inning, the US forfeited its advantage when center fielder Tyrone Cline of Clemson fell backwards after catching a towering fly hit by Bill Traconis with a runner on first.

The ball squirted out of Cline's glove and rolled to the fence. Traconis circled the bases behind Damaso Blanco. The US was handicapped by the loss of its hardest pitcher, Tom Orton of Valparaiso U., who suffered a sprained ankle in the fourth inning.

Puerto Rico beat the Americans, 9-5, in the next game on a ninth-inning grand slam homer by Reinaldo Vasquez.

The USA defeated Cuba, 3-2, on a 10th inning error by second baseman Pedro Carvajal. Carvajal's wild throw to first base permitted the tying and winning runs to score.

Venezuela beat Puerto Rico for the championship, 6-2, on the six-hit pitching of Luis Palaver.

The US team was picked by a selection committee after players from all sections of the country had been recommended to the committee. Because of the July deadline, 17 of the 18 players came from the colleges. John H. Kobs of Michigan State was the coach and J. Kyle Anderson of Chicago U. was the manager.

eight faults. Wiley had a perfect ride, drawing an ovation for his faultless performance. The other three Americans had only four faults each. Since only the top three counted, that made for an exceptional score of eight.

There was no individual championship otherwise Wiley would have earned an easy victory with just eight faults. Chapot and Steinkraus had eight each in the morning. Morris was eliminated in the morning for dismounting before leaving the arena.

Sharing the honors with the riders were Whitney Stone of New York, the general manager of the team; Bartalan de Nemethy of Greenwich, Conn., the jumping team coach; Erich Bubbel of Santa Barbara, the Three-Day team coach; Richard Collins of Pebble Beach, Calif., the Three-Day team manager; Andrew Montgomery of Uno, Va., the Dressage team coach, and veterinarian Joseph O'Dea of Avon, N. Y.

Complete Sweep of Men's Division Honors Accomplished By United States Fencers

ENTERING a full team in Pan American fencing competition for the first time, the United States virtually monopolized the duelling in the 1959 Games.

The squad of 21—18 men and three women—also benefitted from the experiences of the American team which was host for 1958 world championships at Philadelphia.

"The biggest lesson learned there," said Pan American Captain Ralph Goldstein, "was that while we were on a par technically with the Europeans, they surpassed us when it came to physical condition and stamina."

"The physical condition of the team was superb and was an important factor contributing to the impressive results."

Condition, as well as performances in the 1958 and 1959 National championships, determined the selection of the US team.

Talent plus condition resulted in a grand slam of all of the men's championships—individual and team, in the foil, epee and sabre. The men also captured the silver and bronze medals in epee and sabre.

The women's foil title, however, was won by Mexico's Maria Del Pilar Roldan. The senorita dethroned Mrs. Maxine Mitchell, a 42-year-old housewife from Los Angeles. The Mexican star defeated Mrs. Mitchell, 4-2, in the final match for the title. Each had a 5-1 record going into the decisive bout. Mrs. Mitchell and Stella Espino de Sauer of Panama each had 5-2 records but the American won the silver medal on fewest touches (15 to 18) against her. Vivienne Sokol of New York was fourth with 4-3. Harriet King of New York (2-6) was eliminated in the preliminary pool.

While Mrs. Mitchell lost her title, Harold Goldsmith of New York retained his with a 7-1 record and led the US to the team foil title. Albert Axelrod (6-2) of New York was second and Joseph Paletta (5-3) of New Rochelle, N. Y., was third.

In the final team round robin, the US closed with a 3-0 record. Venezuela (1-2) was second and Canada (1-2) third. Besides Goldsmith, Axelrod and Paletta, the foil gold medalists included Gene Glazer, New York; Edwin Richards, Boston, and Lawrence Silverman, Chicago.

FENCING

Roland Wammack, the NCAA champion from the Naval Academy, won the epee crown with a 6-1 record. Teammate Mike Dasaro (4-3) of New York was second on least touches es and Alberto Balestrini (4-3) of Argentina third. Wammack swept his first six bouts, taking the clinching sixth over Balestrini, 5-1, in just 33

PAN AM FENCING TRIALS

Selection of the 18 men and three women to be the Pan American fencing team was announced by the U. S. Olympic Fencing Committee meeting in Los Angeles, Calif., as national championships in Los Angeles, Calif., July 4. The tournament started June 27, 1959.

Selection of the fencers was based upon performance in both the 1958 and 1959 nationals, and the Pan Am Games trials.

The team included eight who have represented the USA in Olympic competition, as follows:

Albert Axelrod (1948-52-56); Abner Cohen (1956); Harold Goldsmith (1952-56); Allen Kwartler (1956); Joseph Paletta (1952-56); Mrs. Maxine Mitchell (1952-56); Tibor Nyiri (1940-52-56), and George Worth (1948-52-56). Worth and Nyiri also were on the 1951 and 1955 Pan American team, Krieger on the 1951 contingent, and all others on the 1955 unit.

Worth twice won silver medals in the Pan American Games. Nyiri was 1956 Olympic alternate, placed fifth in 1955. Axelrod was second in 1955, won the national title in 1952 second in 1956, third in 1948. Goldsmith, while Gold-smith performed similarly in the 1955 Games, was whipper placed sixth in both the 1956 and 1952 events in 1951. Cohen was fourth in the 1955 Games and Kwartler was fifth in the 1955 Games.

In 1955 team competition, the USA was the only entry, placed second in both the épée and the foils. The record was better in 1951, the USA winning both foils and sabre, placing second in the épée.

Chosen as alternates were: Foil—Byron L. Krieger, Detroit; Edwin Richard, Gerard J. Rispoli, San Francisco; Carl Wasmer's Foil—Sally Kay Goodrich, Lobo; épée—Harvey F. Angell, Berkeley; Calif.; Estes—Reinwald J. Friedl, Cleveland, Ohio.; Saber—Walter Fechter, Forest Hill, Pa. Alvron L. Bothell, Staten Islander.

* Retired.  James Mangeles, Teaneck, N. J. on team when replaced Alvron Blad.

 Later replaced Robert M. Stein, New York, N. Y. in final entry.

U. S. Gymnasts Win All But One of Twelve Men's Titles

AGAIN led by those veteran medal collectors, John Beckner and Abe Grossfeld, the United States once more made a grand harvest of the prizes in the gymnastics championships.

With Grossfeld winning seven medals and Beckner six, the US swept the team all-around championship and 10 of the 11 individual titles. In addition, the Americans gained seven seconds (not including a two-man tie for first in still ring), eight thirds and completed 1-2-3 grand slams of six events—parallel bars, horizontal bars, tumbling, trampoline, calisthenics, and individual all-around.

For the second straight time Mexico's Francisco Alvarez prevented the Americans from sweeping the program. Winner of the Indian clubs in 1955, Alvarez retained his crown by scoring 9.6 points. Another Mexican, Porfino Rivera, won a third award with 7.0. Ron Munn of Amarillo, Texas, was third with 6.90.

According to US manager-coach Paul Romeo of Syracuse University, Alvarez' exercise was excellently composed and fluently executed with many variations and difficult movements included.

Thirty-six athletes from eight nations competed in the three-day championships at the Navy Pier Gymnasium, Sept. 3-5. The United States, Argentina, Canada, Cuba and Mexico all entered full six-man teams. Venezuela had three entries, Brazil two and Uruguay one.

The nine-man US team was picked on the basis of tryouts at the U. S. Military Academy, Aug. 8-9, and assembled at Chicago on Aug. 18.

Every man on the squad won at least one gold medal, either in individual or team competition at Chicago.

The team included the following: Jamie Ashmore, all-around, US Army, Highland Falls, N. Y.; John Beckner, all-around, North Hollywood, Calif.; Abe Grossfeld, all-around, New York; Harold Holmes, tumbling, Urbana, Ill.; Ron Munn, trampoline, Amarillo, Texas; Garland O'Quinn, all-around, U. S. Military Academy; Garvin Smith, rope climb, Los Angeles; Donald Tarry, all-around, Brooklyn, and Gregor Weiss, all-around, Ridgefield, N. J.

In the all-around team championship, the US won handily with 564.70 points to Canada's 531.80 and Argentina's 517.25. Continued on page 272

Wommack got his second gold medal as a member of the epee team. The US and Cuba each tied with 5-1 records in the finals but the Americans earned the championship by having won more bouts—65 to 49. Argentina (4-2) was third. Wommack's teammates included Dasaro, Richard Berry, Royal Oak, Mich.; Howard Fried, Cleveland; Henry Kolowrat, New Haven, Conn., and Paul Levy, Yardley, Pa.

Olympian Allan S. Kwartler, a 42-year-old advertising executive from Yonkers, N. Y., won the sabre crown after a three-way fence-off with runner-up Wally Farber of New York and Teodore Golliardi of Uruguay. Each finished with 4-2 records in the finals.

In the fence-off, Kwartler defeated Farber, 5-0, and Golliardi, 5-3. Farber, a 25-year-old law student, beat the Uruguayan, 5-3, for the silver medal. George Worth, who doubled as team manager, was fifth on 3-3.

The 41-year-old Worth, a member of three Olympic teams and the 1955 Pan American squad, won a gold medal as a member of the unbeaten sabre team (5-0). The team included Worth, Kwartler, Farber, Dr. Tibor Nyilas, 45, New York, another veteran Olympian; Wm. Goering, Detroit and Alfonso Morales, Tucson, Ariz.

The Hungarian-born Worth had the honor of reciting the Pan American oath for the assembled athletes at the opening ceremonies. He did it twice—in English and Spanish.

U. S. Women Gymnasts Shared Title Honors With Canadians In Inaugural Event of Sport

WOMEN'S gymnastics finally made the official Pan American Games program but it was a close call. Although Canada was the only other nation to appear with a team, officials decided to make it a formal event and the Americans and Canadians received their medals.

Canada collected the major share of the gold medals, thanks to Ernestine Russell, a Michigan State co-ed from Windsor, Ont. Winner of the American AAU all-around title, she maintained her supremacy in the Sept. 3-4-5 Pan American meet at the Navy Pier. Ernestine won four of the five individual championships and finished second to American Theresa Montefusco in the calisthenics event.

The Canadian star also earned another silver medal—giving her four golds and two silvers—for her team's second place in the team all-around competition.

Miss Montefusco, an 18-year-old high school senior from Flint, Mich., was the star performer of the American team. The 4-foot-11, 100-pounder won the calisthenics gold medal with a spectacular performance, took second in the parallel bars, and collected a gold medal as part of the winning all-around team.

Another teenager, Betty Maycock of Parma, Ohio, earned four medals in all, one gold and three silver. The 16-year-old, 5-foot-2, 110-pounder was second in the horse vault, uneven balance beams and individual all-around, and was a member of the gold medal all-around team.

The other US individual medal winners included Cassie Callown, 19, of Naples, Fla., third in the uneven balance beam, and Sharon Phelps, 16, of Flint (Mich.) Jr. College and Indianapolis, third in the calisthenics.

The other gold medalists in the team all-around included Judith Klauser, 19, of Milwaukee, and Sharon Richardson, 16, of Urbana, Ill.

The only one of the seven-girl squad who did not compete in any of the events was 15-year-old Gail Santgerath of West Palm Beach, Fla.

The team was picked on the basis of the National AAU championships at Kent State University, Kent, Ohio, May 8-9, and a final tryout at West Palm Beach, Fla., July 4. Miss Russell won the nationals with 70.95 points.

In the final trials at West Palm Beach, Betty Maycock won with 35.365 points followed by Miss Montefusco, 35.065, Miss Callown, 33.998, Miss Klauser, 33.199. Miss Phelps, 32.915, Miss Richardson, 32.866, and Miss Santgerath, 32.399.

The US won the team all-around championship with 179.633 points to Canada's 175.967. In this event the scores of the best five individuals on each team counted. Miss Russell had the total, 38.467, and her teammate, Marie Claire Larsen, was third with 36.434. The US finished in the following order: 2, Betty Maycock, 37.400, 4, Theresa Montefusco, 36.300; 5, Cassie Callown, 35.633;

GYMNASTICS, WOMEN

6, Sharon Phelps, 35.467; 7, Judy Klauser, 34.833, and 10, Sharon Richardson, 33.667.

Miss Klauser suffered an injury to her foot on Friday and was unable to participate for individual awards on Saturday.

gentina's 514.15. Team members included Ashmore, Beckner, Grossfeld, O'Quinn, Tarry and Weiss.

Beckner won three individual titles (all-around, parallel bars and long horse), took second in the horizontal bars and tied with O'Quinn for third in the side horse. The 29-year-old, two-time Olympian won four individual crowns at Mexico City in 1955.

Grossfeld, 25, a member of the 1956 Olympic team and winner of the horizontal bar in 1955, won the horizontal bars and calisthenics, tied for first in the still rings, took second to Beckner in the all-around, and finished third in the trampoline and tumbling.

Ashmore, a 25-year-old soldier from Highland Falls, N. Y., demonstrated extreme fortitude in tying for first with Grossfeld in still rings, and finishing second in both tumbling and calisthenics.

The 5-foot-2, 120-pound Florida State U. graduate had suffered a badly sprained hand as a result of an injury 10 days before competition. He overturned while doing his double somersault dismount off the still rings and the injured hand swelled up to twice its size. Jamile washed dishes daily in the Burton-Judson Court kitchen as part of his treatment.

Weiss, an 18-year-old collegian from Penn State, won the side horse, took second in the parallel bars, and tied for second in the long horse with Canadian Richard Montpetit.

Holmes, an 18-year-old tumbling specialist from the U. of Illinois, won the tumbling crown and took second in the trampoline.

Munn, an 18-year-old, 165-pounder from the U. of Michigan, won the trampoline title and finished third in the Indian club swinging.

Smith, at 34 the oldest athlete on the squad, won the rope climb easily in 2 seconds flat. He is a playground director in Los Angeles.

O'Quinn, a 24-year-old West Pointer, tied for third in the side horse.

Tarry, a 23-year-old student at the U. of Illinois, picked up bronze medals in four events—parallel bars, horizontal bars, calisthenics and all-around.

In the individual all-around, which included the long horse, side horse, rings, free exercises, parallel bars and horizontal bars, the US captured the first six places.

Beckner won with 114.30 points followed by Grossfeld 112.95, Tarry 112.60, Weiss 111.45, O'Quinn 110.35 and Ashmore 109.90.

held the crowd of about 5,000 spellbound with her leaps and turns, performing like a ballerina. She won the gold medal with 19.100 points with Miss Russell second with 18.900, Sharon Phelps third with 18.733 and Betty Maycock fourth with 18.600.

In floor exercises won by Frederike Russell, the agile Canadian piled up a good lead in the qualifying phase.

Miss Russell won the individual horse vault with 19.367 points to Betty Maycock's 19.067. Miss Montefusco was fourth with 18.300. In the individual balance beam, Miss Russell outscored Miss Maycock, 19.533 to 18.800. Cassie Cullaway claimed the bronze medal with 18.533 points. Sharon Phelps was fifth with 17.734.

The individual uneven parallel bars was another close contest with Miss Russell edging Miss Montefusco, 18.533 to 18.367. Miss Maycock was fourth with 18.033 and Miss Cullaway fifth with 17.866.

Only optional routines were involved in the Pan American competition, making the coaching assignment a trifle easier for Janet Bachna of Canton, Ohio, who tripled in brass as coach, manager and chaperone.

U. S. A. Excelled In Modern Pentathlon Team Competition; Individual Honors to Brazilian

THE United States and Brazil shared the top honors in the modern pentathlon, probably the most gruelling sport of them all.

Lt. Wenceslau Malta, 25-year-old Brazilian army officer, piled up a huge margin in the fencing portion of the five-sport competition and defeated three Americans for the individual gold medal.

George Lambert of Sioux City, Iowa, Leslie Bleamaster, a 23-year-old soldier from Downey, Calif., and Robert K. Miller, the US champion from Seattle, Wash., finished 2-3-4 in the individual championship and helped score an easy victory for the US in the team championship.

Malta piling up 1,138 points in the fencing on a 24-4 record in the round-robin duelling, won the gold medal with 4,558 points. He added 1,000 points in riding, 1,138 in fencing, 860 in shooting, 770 in swimming and 790 points in cross country running, the final event of the five-day competition.

Lambert was second in the six-nation, 16-man field with 4,478 points. Bleamaster was third with 4,384 and Miller fourth with 4,318.

In the fencing, which saved decisive, Malta outscored Miller by 460

U. S. Oarsmen Captured Six Championships In Final Rowing Races On Cal-Sag Canal

OUTSTANDING crews, fine condition and the advantage of competing on home grounds all added up to the United States' finest hour in Pan American rowing competition.

The red, white and blue oarsmen swept six of the seven Pan American championships—losing only in the pair oars with coxswain—on the Cal-Sag Canal.

Uruguay won the pairs in a photo finish with Argentina, with the USA a trailing third in the only close race of the finals. Thus, for the first time in the eight-year history of the hemispheric Games, Argentina failed to score a victory.

Argentina swept all seven titles in the first competition at Buenos Aires in 1951 when the United States did not enter. In the 1955 Games on the weed-filled, 1,200-meter Xochimilco course outside of Mexico City, the Argentines captured four of the championships, two seconds and a third to three firsts and four seconds for Uncle Sam.

These Games were held in February and March, the climax of the season for the South Americans and an off-season for the US.

The tremendous advantages of racing in season, in your own shells and in your own country, were underlined by the results in the 1959 Games, Sept. 4-5-6.

The US crews were ripe after the normal college and club competition and the trials at Syracuse, N. Y., for the eights, on June 27, and the small boats at Detroit, Aug. 8-9.

The champions crowned in the 2,000-meter (about 1 ¼ miles) final and their times:

SINGLE SCULLS — Harry Parker, Vesper Boat Club, 7:46.9.

DOUBLE SCULLS — John B. Kelly, Jr., bow, and William J. Knecht, stroke, Vesper Boat Club, 7:15.2.

PAIR OARS WITHOUT COXSWAIN —Robert P. Rogers, bow, and Ted Frost, stroke, Lake Washington R.C., 7:36.4.

PAIR OARS WITH COXSWAIN— Uruguay, Gustavo Perez and Luis Aguiar, and Raul Torrieri, coxswain, 7:51.1.

FOUR OARS WITHOUT COXSWAIN —Lake Washington R.C., Ted A. Nash, bow, Jay L. Hall, No. 2, Richard D. Wailes, No. 3, John A. Sayre, stroke, 6:54.0.

FOUR OARS WITH COXSWAIN— Lake Washington R.C., Charles A. Holtz, bow, LeRoy Jones, No. 2, Michael Yonker, No. 3, Roy Rubin, stroke, and Ray Walker, coxswain, 7:09.4.

EIGHT OARS WITH COXSWAIN— Syracuse University, James Edmonds, bow, Robert Schoel, No. 2, Thomas Rouen, No. 3, Michael Larsen, No. 4, Edward Montesi, No. 5, Nelson Miller, No. 6, James Kries, No. 7, Charles Mills, stroke, and Jerry Winkelstein, coxswain.

The four-crew finals were run off on Sunday, Sept. 6, under a broiling sun and with the temperature in the 90s, some 20 miles from Chicago. The site looked like man's idea of Mars as white dust clouds blow over from an adjacent quarry. Water wagons wetted down some of the dust to help ease things for the oarsmen, officials, reporters and spectators. Rowing conditions, however, were ideal on the straight, currentless course.

The United States went into the finals with all seven crews and with five out of five victories in the qualifying heats. Since there were only four entries each in the pairs with cox and the premier eights, no heats were required for these events.

Here's how the finals went:

FOURS WITH COXSWAIN—Argentina took an early lead and held it up to the 1,000-meter mark. At this halfway point, Lake Washington, stroked by Roy Rubin, raised its beat to 33 and caught the Argentines. From there on the US moved steadily ahead, winning by three lengths in 6:54.0. Argentina was second in 7:18.3, followed by Brazil, 7:25.9, and Canada, 7:34.7.

PAIR OARS WITHOUT COXSWAIN —This was a runaway all the way for Bob Rogers and Ted Frost. They won by seven lengths over Brazil in 7:36.4. Brazil was timed in 7:49.2, with Argentina third, 7:59.7, and Peru fourth, 8:07.6.

SINGLE SCULLS—Navy Lt. (jg) Parker succeeded Jack Kelly, Jr., as champion with the greatest of ease, getting off to the lead with a 36 stroke and pulling away to a length margin over Canada's Tony Biernacki at 400 meters. At 600 meters, Parker was three lengths in front and at 1,300 he was five lengths ahead. He coasted home to a four-length victory over Biernacki in 7:46.9. Biernacki was second in 7:59.2. Uruguay's Paulo Carvalho was third in 8:10.4 and Brazil's Alvaro da Silva fourth in 8:14.3.

PAIR OARS WITH COXSWAIN — The US entry from the Detroit Boat Club of stroke Alan Pierrot, bowman Jim McIntosh and coxswain Harvey Kroll, Jr., took the early lead only to be overtaken by Argentina. Uruguay overhauled Argentina at 1,000 meters and the two South American teams battled it out to the wire in a photo finish. Uruguay's Gustavo Perez, Luis Aguior and coxswain Raul Torrieri were declared the winners in 7:51.1 with the Argentine trio a tenth of a second behind. The USA was another three lengths astern in 7:58.7 with Peru fourth in 8:47.7.

FOURS WITHOUT COXSWAIN — This was another front-rowing victory for Lake Washington's fine quartet. The Seattle crew led Argentina by a half length at 1,000 meters, stretched the margin to a full length at 1,100, to two lengths at 1,500, and to three at the finish. The Chilean and Peruvian crews were never in the race. The winners, stroked by John Sayre, were timed in 6:54.0, Argentina in 7:03.6, Chile in 7:25.7, and Peru in 7:41.6.

DOUBLE SCULLS—Jack Kelly, Jr., the singles sculls champion in 1955, teamed with Bill Knecht for another triumph. The US and Canada shared the early lead, but at the 500-meter mark the Kelly-Knecht tandem had asserted its superiority. At 700 meters the US held a length-and-a-half lead over Uruguay, which had passed the Canadians. At 1,000 meters the margin was two and a half lengths and at the finish it was five lengths. The times were USA 7:15.2, Uruguay 7:29.5, Peru 7:33.9, and Canada 7:35.8.

EIGHTS — Syracuse, stroked by Chuck Mills, led Canada's British Columbia boatload all the way. The New Yorkers took the lead with a fine start. Then, going to a steady, 36-stroke beat, Syracuse pulled to a three-quarter length advantage at 600 meters, a length at 1,200 a length-and-a-half at 1,500 and two lengths at the wire in 6:24.4. Canada was second in 6:32.6, Argentina third in 6:37.2, and Brazil in 6:48.8.

School was assisted by Stan Pocock, who handled the Lake Washington crews, John Sulger of the New York AC took over as manager when illness forced Perry Manning of the Detroit Boat Club to step aside. As usual, Clifford (Tip) Goes, Chairman of the U. S. Olympic Rowing Committee, performed invaluable service. His advice and direction was particularly effective in solving a serious regatta problem for the Chicago officials.

Shells were furnished by Princeton University, Navy, Vesper Boat Club, Fairmount R.A., New York A.C., Syracuse University, Schuylkill Navy, Detroit B.C., Ecorse B.C. and Lincoln Park R.C.

The crews were housed at North Central College in Naperville and were brought by bus twice daily to the rowing course.

In praising the crews and staffs, head coach School singled out George S. Cointe of Cornell University for his work as trainer for the entire rowing encampment of Naperville.

"He not only ministered to the team but to all of the South American teams as well," said School.

School also lauded Chairman Earl Margeson of the U. S. Olympic work as boatman on the crews at Cal-Sag race course.

Lt. Daniel Puckel's Harvest Of 12 Medals Paced U. S. A. Sweep of Shooting Laurels

LT. Daniel Puckel of Fort Benning, Ga., collected an amazing total of 12 medals—nine gold and three silver—in leading a superb United States shooting team to an overwhelming victory.

It was an all-time high of prizes in either Pan American or Olympic history, and probably never will be equalled.

The 27-year-old Puckel, who began his firing career by blasting tin cans at the age of 11, smashed three world rifle records in the process of setting a world record for medal collections.

The University of Tennessee graduate's magnificent marksmanship paced the US to eight of the nine individual rifle titles and five of the six team championships.

The American pistol shooters were equally good in winning all five titles, two for team and three for individuals. The US skeet shooters divided two championships, winning the team prize but finishing only fourth in the individual although producing the highest scorer in Maj. Oliver Davis. The army officer from Springfield, Va., blasted 199 of 200 targets but unfortunately had not been named for the individual competition. The gold medal went to Chile's Gilberto Navarro with 197.

Puckel broke the three world records in the 300-meter free rifle event in pacing the US to the team title. He fired 1,147 out of 1,200 from the three positions for a world record, scoring 394 prone, 388 kneeling and 365 standing. The scores from prone and kneeling positions also were world records. The sharpshooter from Marion, Ind., naturally won four individual gold medals and one for team in that category.

In small bore rifle shooting, the US again paced by Puckel, won the team championship for kneeling, standing and over-all. Puckel also won the over-all individual crown for a total of four gold medals. He won his silver medals with individual seconds in kneeling and standing—both won by teammate Lt. James Carter of Columbus, Ga.—and a second in team prone position.

The US quartet in the free rifle also included Lt Tommy Paul of Columbus, Ga., Lt. Verle Wright of Fort Benning, Ga., and PFC Gary Anderson of Axtell, Nebr. The small bore quartet included Puckel, Wright, Anderson and Carter. Pool also earned three individual seconds and a third.

SHOOTING

Canada's Gerald Ouellette won the small bore prone position and Canada took the team gold medals for that category.

Arthur Cook, 1948 Olympic champion from Adelphi, Md., won the English Match Rifle crown with a 582 score although Martin Gunnarsson of Sedalia, Colo., scored 583. Gunnarsson, a Sp/5 in the army, was a member of the winning US team in that event but had not been designated for the individual competition.

The same situation occurred in the skeet shooting as well as in the pistol.

The US outscored Venezuela in the skeets, 779 to 770, with a quartet of Maj. Oliver Davis (199), Kenneth Pendergras (195) of Jacksonville, Fla., Chesley Cirtes (193) of Detroit and Edwin Calhoun (192) of Salisbury, Md. Pendergras, the high man among those named for the individual firing, finished fourth.

The pistol champions included SFC Nelson Lincoln of Columbus, Ga., in free (slow) shooting, with 547; Lt. David Cartes of Columbus, Ga., in rapid fire, with 584, and SFC Aubrey Smith of Columbus, Ga., in center fire pistol. Smith and Oscar Servo of Argentina tied with 569 each but the American won the shoot-off, 289 to 268.

Team titles were won by the US for free pistol and center fire pistol. The free pistol team, in addition to Lincoln, included M/Sgt. Roy Sutherland, Columbus, Ga., 536; SFC Lloyd Burchett, Columbus, Ga., 524, and CWO-2 Victor Maass, Columbus, Ga., 522.

The center fire quartet, in addition to Smith (569), included Cartes (567), M/Sgt. Richard Stineman, Fort Benning, Ga., (585), and M/Sgt. Sutherland (545).

Third Place Rating For U. S. Soccer Team Fine Record

THE United States made a fine debut in Pan American soccer competition by finishing third behind Argentina and Brazil, perennial powers in the sport. It was the first time the US earned medals in the sport in either Pan American or Olympic competition.

It was an excellent showing especially since the 4-2 record in the round-robin tournament among seven nations included an astonishing 5-3 victory over Brazil, which produced headlines in South America.

The Pan American performance was particularly impressive considering that it was an all-star team composed of players from all over the nation. They didn't assemble until 11 days before the Games.

Argentina won the championship for the third straight time with a (5-0-1) record, followed by Brazil (4-1-1), USA (4-2), Haiti (3-3), Costa Rica (2-3-1), Mexico (1-4-1) and Cuba (0-6).

In the Pan American tourney, Zerhusen, a 28-year-old cabinet maker, tied Brazil's Jose da Silva for scoring honors with 10 goals. Edward Murphy, a 29-year-old mailman and a member of the 1956 Olympic squad, was third high with eight.

The US was forced to meet Argentina in the first game and bowed, 4-1. An injury sidelined John Traina in the first six minutes, curbing the team's effectiveness.

Undismayed by the opening defeats, the US rebounded to whip Haiti, 7-2, with Zerhusen scoring four goals, Bill Looby two and Gene Grabowski one.

Then came Brazil and the big upset. The US played its best game, holding the Brazilians 2-2 in the first half, before outscoring them, 3-1, in the second half for the 5-3 triumph. Murphy booted three goals and Zerhusen two.

Cuba proved to be the weakest team in the field and the US triumphed, 5-0. Zerhusen and Looby got two goals each and Murphy one.

The 4-3 loss to Costa Rica that followed was particularly tough to take. Alex Ely was unable to play and Costa Rica had a 4-2 lead at halftime. The US dominated play in the second half, although scoring only once. Many shots, however, hit the cross-bar and goal posts. Zerhusen, Murphy and Looby each scored once.

In the final game with Mexico, the US took a 2-1 lead at the half-time and kept the same advantage in the second half for a 4-2 victory. Murphy scored twice and Zerhusen and Looby once each.

The US team of 18, and six alternates, was chosen on the basis of selections and trials in the East, Midwest and Far West in March, and the two-game final trials at St. Louis on April 19.

The team included the following: George C. Brown, fullback, U. S. Army and Greenwich, Conn.; Alexander Ely, halfback, Philadelphia Ukranians; Ralf I. Granger, fullback, Los Angeles Kickers; Eugene A. Grabowski, forward, Hakoah S.C., Kearny, N. J.; Jury Kulichenko, forward, Philadelphia Ukranians; William E. Looby, forward, Kutis S.C., St. Louis; Ronald P. Maierhofer, forward, Buffalo S.C.;

Championship U. S. Men's Swimming Team Broke All Records At Portage Park Pool

PERHAPS the best all-around team ever to represent us in international competition."

This statement was made by Charles McCaffree, the head coach of the US Men's Swimming and Diving team, as he watched his talented squad romp off with one medal after another in the 1959 Games in Chicago's new Portage Park pool.

It was almost an embarrassment of riches for McCaffree. His swimmers and divers won nine of the 10 titles —losing only the platform dive to Mexico's Alvaro Gaxiola—and took eight seconds and five thirds. In the process, the USA stars broke every Pan American record and two world marks.

The aquatic aces made a grand slam of five events— the 100, 400 and 1,500 meter freestyle, the 100-meter backstroke and the springboard dive. They accomplished small slams of first and second in two other events —the 200-meter breaststroke, in an upset, and the 200-meter butterfly.

Latin Americans took the four other individual medals. Cuba's Manuel Sanguily, the favorite, was third in the breaststroke. Eulalio Rios of Mexico earned the bronze medal for third in the butterfly, and Mexico's Gaxiola and Juan Botella captured first and third in the platform dive.

"This was a tremendous team," said McCaffree of Michigan State. "It had balance and depth. We had the advantage, too, of competing at home under ideal conditions while the athletes of many other countries were competing in their off-seasons.

"We reached the games at our peak, after our own championships and trials.

"A big factor in the success of the team, I feel, was that few of our men qualified for more than one event. And almost to a man each swam about as well or better in the Games than he had ever swum in his career.

"We went out and did our best. I know our neighbors understood. They would be the first to protest if we didn't go all out."

As an example of the fine spirit of the squad, the coach pointed to the 800-meter freestyle relay team composed of Dick Blick of North Central (Ill.) College and Bakersfield, Calif.; John Rounsevelle and Frank (Tom) Winters of the Los Angeles A.C., and Pete Sintz of the Indianapolis A.C., competing in international competition for the first time, and in the last event of the swimming program, each turned in his best time ever to win in world record time of 8:22.7.

The other world record was made by David Gillanders of Michigan and the Detroit A.C. in the 200-meter butterfly final. The NCAA champion surged ahead in the final strokes to edge Mike Troy of the Indianapolis A.C. and the U. of Indiana in 2:18.0. There were the winners and their record times.

100-METER FREESTYLE — Jeff Farrell, Yale Naval ROTC and Wichita, Kans., :56.3.

400-METER FREESTYLE — George Breen, Indianapolis A.C., 4:31.4.

1,500-METER FREESTYLE — Alan Somers, Indianapolis A.C., 17:53.2.

100-METER BACKSTROKE — Frank McKinney, Indianapolis A.C., 1:03.6 (he set record of 1:03.2 in heat).

200-METER BREASTSTROKE — Bill Mulliken, Miami U. (Ohio), and Champaign, Ill., 2:43.1.

200-METER BUTTERFLY—David Gillanders, Detroit A.C., and Royal Oak, Mich., 2:18.0.

SWIMMING, MEN

800-METER FREESTYLE RELAY — Dick Blick, John Rounsevelle, Frank Winters, and Pete Sintz, 8:22.7.

Under the supervision of McCaffree, diving coach Hobart Billingsley of Ohio State University, manager Paul Hartlaub and Ray Daughters of Washington A.C., Chairman of the U. S. Olympic Men's Swimming Committee, the team of 28 was kept virtually intact after the tryouts.

The trials were held at Michigan State University, East Lansing, Mich., from Aug. 4-11. The team continued training at Michigan State until Aug. 17, when it left for Chicago.

The squad members started breaking Pan American records in the first heat. Olympian Bill Woolsey of Hawaii churned the initial heat of the 100-meter freestyle in :57.4, erasing the 1955 record of :57.7 set by Clarke Scholes of Michigan State. The parade was on.

Here's how the championships were won:

100-METER FREESTYLE—Farrell got out in front quickly and pulled away from Follett of Yale and Woolsey to win easily in :56.3. Follett was second in :57.2 and Woolsey third in :57.6.

400-METER FREESTYLE—Breen, the brawny Olympian, raced off in front of George Harrison of Stanford and Gene Lenz of California Poly and piled on the pace. Harrison finally challenged in the last 50 meters but it was too late as Breen won by a touch in 4:31.4, his fastest time ever. Harrison was timed in 4:31.8. Lenz took third in 4:34.9.

1,500-METER FREESTYLE—Somers, a tall high school graduate, and Breen, teammates from the Indianapolis A.C., raced shoulder to shoulder for most of the first 1,200 meters. Then Somers, who had been bothered by stomach cramps from the 400-meter mark on, pulled slightly ahead. He increased his margin at each turn and won by about three yards in 17:53.2. Breen was timed in 17:55. Gary Heinrich of San Leandro, Calif. finished third in 18:30.6. Gary was hampered by a stomach pain after 500 meters but he continued in pursuit of the bronze medal.

100-METER BACKSTROKE—McKinney, the defending champion who had set the record of 1:03.2 in his trials, came from behind in the final to beat Charley Bittick of Southern California in the last 10 strokes in 1:03.6. Bittick took second in 1:04.2 with 18-year-old Louis Schaefer of the Cleveland S.C. third in 1:05.3.

200-METER BREASTSTROKE—Mulliken, a 6-foot-3, 185-pounder, finished strong to win one of the top thrillers and score a big upset. He overtook Ken Nakasone of Hawaii in the last two strokes and won by a touch in 2:43.1. Nakasone was timed in 2:43.2 as he beat Cuba's favored Manuel Sanguily for the silver medal. Sanguily's time was 2:44.3. Nakasone set a fast pace for the first 100, apparently killing off the Cuban.

200-METER BUTTERFLY—Gillanders took this in another pulse-thumper. Mike Troy and Tony Tashnick, the NCAA champion from Michigan, vied for the lead for the first 100 with Gillanders always in contention. In the final sprint, Gillanders surged ahead of Troy and won by a touch in 2:18.0. Troy's time was 2:18.3. Tashnick, meanwhile, faded under the sizzling pace, and last third place to the rallying Eulalio Rios of Mexico. Rios' time was 2:22.5.

400-METER MEDLEY RELAY — The USA combination of McKinney, Nakasone, Troy and Farrell won by nearly nine seconds over Canada with Mexico third. McKinney turned in a backstroke leg of 1:03.4, nearly his best. Nakasone followed with a 1:14.9 for the breaststroke, his best time for 100. Troy kept it going with a fine 1:00.7 for the butterfly and Farrell wound it up with a scorching :55.9 in the freestyle for a time of 4:14.9.

800-METER FREESTYLE RELAY — Dick Blick (2:06), John Rounsevelle (2:03.9), Tom Winters (2:06.5) and Pete Sintz (2:06.2) swam their fastest 200s ever to make the world record clocking of 8:22.7 and a romp over Mexico (8:56.4) and Canada (9:00.4).

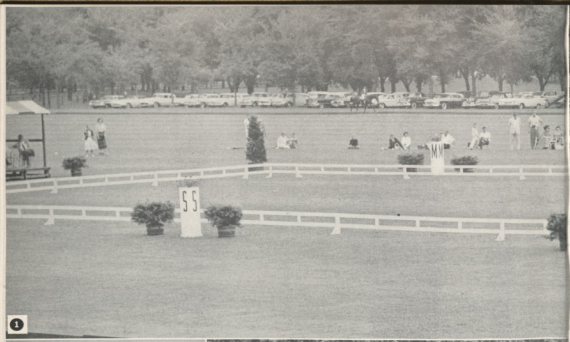

SPRINGBOARD DIVE—With Mexico's Joaquin Capilla, winner of both dives in 1951 and 1955 retired, the USA finally broke into the victory column with a vengeance. Olympian Gary Tobian of Southern California took this with a spectacular last dive to nose out favored Sam Hall, the NCAA and AAU champion from Ohio State. Tobian finished with 161.44 points to Hall's 160.88. Bob Webster, a Sammy Lee protege from Santa Ana, Calif., and Michigan, was third with 148.90.

PLATFORM DIVE—Mexico's Alvaro Gaxiola, a Michigan junior, surprised the favored US off the tower, thus bringing the title to his country for the third straight time. Gaxiola led at the completion of the compulsory dives and maintained his margin in the free dives for a winning total of 168.77. Olympian Don Harper of Ohio State and the Coca Cola S.C. was second with 164.44 and Mexico's Juan Botella third with 162.71. Dick Conner of Pasadena, Calif. was fourth with 161.66 and Tobian a disappointing sixth in his specialty with 158.23.

Chris von Saltza's Five Golds Highlighted Record Medal Collection by U. S. Women

THE United States Women's Swimming and Diving team will be long remembered as one of the greatest squads in the annals of sport.

Led by the fabulous Chris Von Saltza, a 15-year-old California schoolgirl, the remarkable teenage-dominated team of 20 swept all of the 10 championships, captured all but one of the medals that a team could win, and broke all of the eight Games' records.

The Americans missed their only medal in the 100-meter backstroke. In this event, won by Olympian Carin Stobs to a world record 4:44.6 in the 400-meter freestyle, bettering the mark of 4:51.5 set by a Dutch foursome three months earlier.

Olympian Nancy Ramey of Mercer Island, Wash., and the Washington A.C., eclipsed her own world standard of 1:09.6 in the 100-meter butterfly with a 1:09.1 clocking in her qualifying heat. The 19-year-old, however, was beaten by a foot in the final by 15-year-old Becky Collins of Indianapolis in 1:09.5.

Here are the 1959 champions and their times:

100-METER FREESTYLE—Chris Von Saltza, 1:03.8.

200-METER FREESTYLE—Chris Von Saltza, 2:18.5.

400-METER FREESTYLE—Chris Von Saltza, 4:55.9.

100-METER BACKSTROKE — Carin Cone, 1:12.2.

100-METER BUTTERFLY—Becky Collins, 1:09.5 (record of 1:09.1 set by Nancy Ramey in heat).

200-METER BREASTSTROKE — Ann Warner, 2:56.8.

400-METER FREESTYLE RELAY — USA (Mary Ann Batkin, Joan Spillane, Shirley Anne Stobs, Chris Von Saltza), 4:17.5.

400-METER MEDLEY RELAY — USA (Carin Cone, Anne Bancroft, Becky Collins, Chris Von Saltza), 4:44.6.

SPRINGBOARD DIVING—Mrs. Paula Jean Pope, 139.23 points.

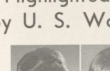

PLATFORM DIVE—Mrs. Paula Jean Pope, 97.13 points.

The girls, probably the youngest international team ever, collected 10 gold, seven silver and eight bronze medals for their treasure chests.

With two 14-year-old gold medalists in Ann Warner and Anne Bancroft, the squad of 20, including divers, averaged a shade under 18 years. Counting the 15 swimmers only, the average was a trifle under 16½ years. Jane Stover Irwin, the Glendale

Cone of Ridgewood, N. J., and the U. of Houston, Canada's Sora Barber earned second place with Christine Muter of Solon, Ohio, third and Lynn Burke of New York and the Multnomah A.C. fourth.

Otherwise it was a 1-2-3 parade to the victory platform at the Portage Park pool.

Miss Von Saltza, a tall blonde from Saratoga, Calif., and the Santa Clara S.C., collected five gold medals, an unprecedented feat for a swimmer in Pan American and Olympic competition. She breezed to victory in the 100, 200 and 400-meter freestyle, and anchored the victorious 400-meter freestyle and medley relay teams. In each event, Chris won as she pleased, and in record time.

Every mark was shattered repeatedly in the qualifying races and two world records fell. Miss Von Saltza led a quartet that included Molly Batkin, Joan Spillane and Shirley Anne (Calif.) matron and three-time Olympian, was the oldest at 30.

There were many other multiple medal winners in addition to Miss Von Saltza and Paula Jean Pope, who succeeded the great Patricia McCormick as queen of the low and high boards.

Molly Botkin, a versatile 15-year-old from Shermon Oaks, Calif., and the Los Angeles A.C., collected three medals, a gold for the freestyle relay, a silver for second in the 100-meter freestyle, and a bronze for third in the 100-meter butterfly.

Joan Spillane, a tall 16-year-old from Houston, Texas, also won three medals, a gold for the freestyle relay and two bronzes for third in the 100 and 200-meter freestyle.

Carin Cone and Becky Collins each received two gold souvenirs. The 19-year-old Carin and the 15-year-old Becky from Indianapolis' Riviera Club won golds with the medley quartet in addition to their individual titles.

Anne Bancroft and Shirley Stobs also picked up two medals apiece. Anne, a tireless 14-year-old from Berkeley, Calif., added a third place bronze in the backstroke to her gold in the medley relay. Miss Stobs, a 17-year-old Floridian from Miami, won a silver for second in the 200 freestyle to go along with her gold in the freestyle relay.

The girls entered the competition in tremendous condition, observed by the trials at Michigan State University, East Lansing, Mich., Aug. 4-11, and four days of training at the Indianapolis A.C. and Broad Ripple pool. From Indianapolis, the team left for Chicago for its final preparations under the supervision of head coach Kris Kristenson of North Hollywood, Calif., diving coach Bob Rambo of the University of Pennsylvania; manager-chaperone Patty Reel of Indianapolis, and Ben York, Chairman of the U. S. Olympic Women's Swimming Committee.

The sweep of the championships marked the continued improvement of the US girls in Pan American competition. In 1951, 10 girls were picked on the basis of performance in tryouts, and they won six of the 10 championships at Buenos Aires as well as five silvers and two bronzes.

For the 1955 Games at Mexico City, 18 made the team. They harvested six of the 10 championships, seven seconds and four thirds.

The outstanding ability of Chris Von Saltza was, naturally, the dominant note of the Games. But the coaches and committee officials also were highly pleased at the fine showings of the young breaststroker Ann Warner, Patty Kengner and Anne Bancroft.

Mrs. Pope, the 24-year-old successor to Pat McCormick, was superb both off the springboard and platform. She won easily in both events, scoring 139.23 points in the springboard and 97.13 in the platform. Joel Dina Lenzi, a 16-year-old Floridian from Ft. Lauderdale and Coral Gables, was second in the springboard with 137.62 points with Barbara Gilders Dudeck of Detroit third with 131.21.

In the platform, Mrs. Juno Stover Irwin gathered another second place silver medal for her children with 90.64 points. Tahlea Mae Sparling, a 20-year-old Californian from Bradbury and Los Angeles, was third off the tower with 87.86 points.

points, Lambert by 368 and Bleamaster by 230.

Miller, a 30-year-old schoolteacher who was the main hope for the US, suffered a letdown in fencing and never could overhaul the pace-setting Brazilian. Rated the best of the US fencers, he did no better than 14-14 in the round robin. That proved to be too much of a hurdle to overcome although he had pulled up to second place after four events.

At the conclusion of the riding, fencing, shooting and swimming, Mallo had 3,768 points to 3,621 for Miller, 3,547 for Lambert and 3,426 for Bleamaster. Miller had to beat Mallo by a minute in running to win. In a desperate effort to do just that, he ran himself out and finished sixth in 16:41 as Mallo took third behind Bleamaster and Lambert.

The United States led all the way for the team title, scoring 13,175 points to Brazil's 11,512. Mexico was third with 10,733 and Chile fourth with 7,850.

The team was picked on the basis of tryouts at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, July 25-29. Lt. Col. John W. Russell was the head coach, assisted by Maj. Jack W. Bernheim. Maj. Gen. William C. Rose, USA (Ret.) headed the US Olympic Modern Pentathlon Committee.

First U. S. Gold Medal In Women's Tennis Credited To Althea Gibson; Mexico Top Team

THE United States made its best showing ever in Pan American tennis but still had to settle for second place behind Mexico's net stars.

Althea Gibson, the former US and Wimbledon queen, came out of a "temporary" retirement to win the singles title—the first ever for the USA in the Pan American women's tournament.

In addition, the US took one silver medal and four bronzes.

Mexico, however, swept all three doubles championships, and added three seconds and one third in the five classes. Luis Ayala of Chile won the men's singles title.

Unfortunately, the USA was unable to put its best possible team in the tournament. This time the top male stars were unable to appear because the US Davis Cup matches against Australia were being contested at the same time as the Pan American Games. Several of the leading women passed up the Games because the US Nationals were scheduled to start on Sept. 4, the day after the Pan Am tennis ended.

The Nationals are played on grass courts while the Pan American tourney was played on composition courts. The transition could be disastrous to a player's game.

In addition to Miss Gibson, the women's team included Karol Fageros of Cocoanut Grove, Fla., Mimi Arnold of Redwood City, Calif., and Mrs. Dorothy Knode of Panama City, Panama. The men's squad included Jon Douglas of Stanford, Myron Franks of Los Angeles, Grant Golden of Evanston, Ill., and Mike Green of Los Angeles.

Miss Gibson collected three medals, a gold, silver and bronze. She took second in women's doubles with Miss Fageros and third in mixed doubles with Golden. Douglas was third in men's singles and Mrs. Knode third in women's singles. Golden and Franks were third in men's doubles.

Here are the champions crowned and how other medals were won:

MEN'S SINGLES—Luis Ayala, Chile, defeated Bob Bedard, Canada, 6-4, 6-1, 6-3. Jon Douglas, USA, defeated Francisco Contreras, Mexico, for third, 7-5, 6-1, 6-4.

WOMEN'S SINGLES—Althea Gibson, USA, defeated Yolanda Ramirez, Mexico, 6-4, 7-5. Mrs. Dorothy Knode, USA, defeated Mimi Arnold, USA, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5, for third.

MEN'S DOUBLES — Antonio and Gustavo Palafox, Mexico, defeated Mario Llamas and Francisco Contreras, Mexico, 3-6, 9-7, 6-3, 6-2. Grant Golden and Myron Franks, USA, won third over Jon Douglas and Michael Green, USA, by flip of a coin.

WOMEN'S DOUBLES — Yolanda Ramirez and Rosa Reyes, Mexico, defeated Althea Gibson and Karol Fageros, USA, 6-8, 7-5, 6-1. Maria Hernandez and Imelda Ramirez, Mexico, defeated Mrs. Dorothy Knode and Mimi Arnold, USA, 6-1, 6-2, for third.

MIXED DOUBLES—Yolanda Ramirez and Gustavo Palafox, Mexico, defeated Rosa Reyes and Francisco Contreras, Mexico, 6-1, 6-2. Althea Gibson and Grant Golden, USA, won third place over Karol Fageros and Myron Franks, USA, by a flip of a coin.

Miss Gibson had too much power for Yolanda Ramirez in the women's final on the windswept courts at Lincoln Park. In the second set, the 32-year-old New Yorker rallied from a 2-5 deficit to sweep the next five games. She had difficulty getting her hard drives in bounds. She settled down, however, and broke her opponent's service several times, the last two with the loss of only one point.

Ayala, a demon on composition courts, was just too steady and powerful for Bedard in the men's singles final.

Men's Volleyball Title Won By Strong U. S. Team; Women Runnerup In Their Division

THE strongest team ever put together by the United States for international competition in volleyball retained the Pan American championship by sweeping all its matches with the loss of only one game.

The squad, which won six matches in preliminary and final play in the nine-nation tournament, was composed of six players from the National championship Hollywood YMCA Stars, and two players each from the teams which finished second, third and fourth — the Westside Jewish Community Center of Los Angeles, the U. S. Armed Forces All-Stars, and the Stockton (Calif.) YMCA.

Harry E. Wilson, coach of the Hollywood champions, was the Pan American team head coach. In calling it the strongest team ever for the USA, Wilso also noted:

"Many of the players had played together in international competition before so there were only about three players that had no international training and experience. The international rules were somewhat different so of course this presented a few problems in adjustment.

"We were most fortunate in being able to train in Los Angeles prior to our departure for Chicago and in reaching Chicago in sufficient time to have the team in top competitive condition at the time of the start of our event. The players had reported in very fine physical condition and it was a question of regaining timing and coordinating of systems and personnel. The time lapse from the end of the Nationals (at Des Moinés, Iowa, May 7-8-9) to the start of training for the Pan American Games was approximately three and a half months.

"Training in Southern California presented the additional advantage of being able to compete against some outside players from the concentration of the strongest teams in the USA. Also the squad was so well balanced that regardless of how the players were divided it was possible to have a practically even match almost every time regardless of how the personnel was divided."

The 12-man team had plenty of height, averaging 6 feet ½ inch.

The team included the following: Arthur J. Alper, spiker, 6 feet 5, Hollywood YMCA; Neil Eldredge, setup, 5 feet 5, U. S. Air Force, and Honolulu; Rolf Engen, setup, 5 feet 8, Hollywood YMCA; James Montague, spiker, 5 feet 10, Westside JCC; Charles Nelson, spiker, 6 feet 4, U. S. Air Force, Fairfield, Calif.; Michael O'Haro, spiker, 6 feet 4, Hollywood YMCA; William Olsson, spiker, 6 feet 5, Hollywood YMCA; Walter Schiller, setup, 6 feet 1, Hollywood YMCA; Eugene Selznick, spiker, 6 feet 2, Westside JCC; Alika Smith, spiker, 5 feet 11, Stockton YMCA; Marcin Wigley, spiker, 6 feet 2, Stockton YMCA; Edward Williams, spiker, 6 feet 2, Hollywood YMCA.

They were picked from the field of 31 teams that competed in the grueling, three-day double-elimination tourney of the new Des Moines North High School.

In the Pan American tournament, Aug. 28-Sept. 6, the United States defeated Cuba, 15-3, 15-5, 15-8; Puerto Rico 15-4, 15-9, 15-9, 15-7, and favored Brazil, 15-6, 15-7, 13-15, and 15-9. Both the US (3-0) and Brazil (2-1) qualified for the four-team final round robin. Eliminated were Cuba (1-2) and Puerto Rico (0-3).

In the final round second pool, the qualifiers were Mexico (4-0) and the Dominican Republic (3-1). Eliminated from the final were Canada (2-2), Venezuela (1-3) and Haiti (0-4).

The US swept through the finals in the following fashion: Dominican Republic, 15-2, 15-0, 15-8; Mexico, 15-5, 15-6, 15-6; Brazil, 15-7, 15-13, 13-15.

In the preliminary round, the US lost its only game to Brazil. The US played the match volleyball while Brazil used many tricks and fake plays.

The major difference in the teams was the outstanding defense of the Americans and their greater spiking power.

The championship round once more found the US and Brazil matched with unbeaten records. This time Brazil put up a much stronger battle although it didn't win a game, even though all of them were very close.

In all, the winners played 19 games, capturing 18 and losing one. The tournament was held at Proviso High School, Maywood, Ill. The facilities were excellent and afforded the spectators a fine viewpoint.

Kenneth Adler of Detroit was the team manager and Emil W. Breitkreutz of San Marino, Calif., was Chairman of the Volleyball Committee.

U. S. Women's Team Lost Only to Brazil Champions

THE United States Women's Volleyball team made a fine over-all showing in the Games, finishing second to Brazil and losing only to the favored South Americans. In 1955 at Mexico City, the US finished second to Mexico.

With only four nations entered, the teams competed in a double round robin on the excellent facilities provided by Proviso High School, Maywood, Ill., Aug. 29-Sept. 6. The US lost twice to Brazil and beat Peru and Mexico twice each for a 4-2 record. Brazil swept through, 6-0. Peru (2-4) was third and Puerto Rico (0-4) fourth.

The team, composed mainly of the national champion Mariners of Santa Monica, Calif., gave the Brazilians a stiff battle each time. In the first round, the Americans were forced to meet strong Brazil first, bowing 15-6, 14-16, 13-10, 15-9. It was close in the second round, Brazil winning 15-7, 15-10, 9-15, 15-11.

In between the US beat Peru twice, 3-15, 15-6, 15-3, 15-6, and 15-3, 15-5. Puerto Rico provided no difficulty, bowing 15-9, 15-8, 15-8, and 15-3, 15-2, 15-1.

The American team of 12 was chosen on the basis of the national championship tournament at Des Moines, Iowa, May 7-8-9. The nineteam tourney was won by the Mariners of Santa Monica, Calif., with the Long Beach Challengers second, the North YMCA Clippers of Long Beach, Calif., third and the Dallas YMCA fourth.

The team included:

Mrs. Edith Conrad, set, 5 feet 5, Santa Monica Mariners; Cecelia Dennehy, set, 5 feet 8, Dallas YWCA; Jean Gaertner, kill, 5 feet 9, Santa Monica Mariners; Lois Haraughty, set, 5 feet 6, Santa Monica Mariners; Margaret Herwig, hitter, 5 feet 11, Santa Monica Mariners; Beverly LaShaun, spiker, 5 feet 7, Santa Monica Mari-

THE chain reaction of one victory after another caught up with the American water polo team in the Pan American Games. The USA not only won its first international tournament in the sport but swept all six of its contests in ending Argentina's domination of the hemispheric championship.

Coached by Sam Greller of the Illinois A.C. and spearheaded by seven of Greller's Illinois A.C. players, the US whipped all four of its rivals in the preliminary round robin and then repeated its triumphs over Argentina and Brazil in the final three-team round robin.

Argentina won the titles in 1951 and 1955 with the US second and Brazil third at Buenos Aires. Brazil was second and then US third at Mexico City. This time Argentina took second after a play-off with Brazil.

To prepare for the 1959 Games at Chicago, the U. S. Olympic Water Polo Committee set up a tournament at Chicago with seven teams competing. The Illinois A.C. beat the Lynwood (Calif.) S.C., 6-5, in a battle of unbeatens in the final game. Others in the tournament were the Olympic Club, New York A.C., El Segundo S.C., Missouri A.C. and the Illinois A.C. "B" team.

The alternates were Ronald Crawford and Ronald Severa of the Lynwood S.C., and Edward Jaworski, 33, a member of the 1952 Olympic team, from the New York A.C.

Bill Kooistra, a 32-year-old insurance broker and a member of the 1952, and 1956 Olympic teams and 1955 Pan American team, and goalie Frank Connor were prominent in the American sweep. Kooistra led all scorers with 14 goals (his brother Sam had 12), and Connor was spectacular with his saves, especially in the key games with Argentina.

In the qualifying round robin, the US beat the following in order: Mexico, 5-2; Brazil, 8-2; the West Indies, 17-4, and Argentina, 5-3. In the final round, the US topped Argentina again, 5-3, and closed out with a 6-3 conquest of Brazil. In the play-off for the silver medals, Argentina edged Brazil, 6-5.

The first time the US met Argentina, Bill Kooistra scored three goals and Crawford two. At the half, the score in the foul-packed game was 2-2. The US tallied twice with men out on fouls. Goalie Connor made many sensational saves.

The final round game with Argentina also was tied 2-2 at the half. Ron Crawford, a 19-year-old collegian, broke the deadlock on a penalty throw early in the second half. Sam Kooistra then followed with his third goal which proved to be the winner.

WATER POLO

Connor kept the Argentines from scoring again until the final minute.

Against Brazil in the windup, Good, left-hander, scored twice and set up several other goals. The US broke a 2-2 half-time tie with a four-goal splurge in the second half at the Portage Park Pool.

Manuel Saenz of the Hollywood YMCA was the coach and the team manager was Ida Linschauer of the North Long Beach Clippers.

Coach Saenz praised the play of his team. For the future he suggested that players be more thoroughly instructed in the international rules and should become accustomed to playing under such rules. He noted that it was necessary to utilize much of the practice time in adapting the players to the differences between US and international rules.

Six Gold Medals, One Silver Highlighted Record Onslaught By U. S. Weightlifters

AMERICAN weightmen lifted everything but the Chicago Vocational High School building itself in carrying off six of the seven gold medals, one silver medal and 17 of the 18 records on Aug. 29, 31 and Sept. 1.

The only non-American to break through the US cordon was lightweight Juan Torres of Cuba, who edged Paul Goldberg of Newark, N. J., 766.5 pounds to 760.5.

The American winners included two 1955 champions, bantamweight Charles Vinci of Cleveland and the much-bemedaled Tommy Kono of Honolulu, who lifted in the middleweight class this time after previously capturing light heavyweight honors at Mexico City.

The other US champions were featherweight Isaac Berger of Hollywood, Calif., and Brooklyn; light heavyweight Jim George of Akron, Ohio; middle heavyweight Clyde Emrich of Chicago, and heavyweight Dave Ashman of Santa Monica, Calif. Ashman tied Argentina's Humberto Selvetti with a total of 1,047 pounds on a record jerk of 430 pounds. Ashman was declared the winner because he was lighter than the veteran Argentina—a mere tot at 267 to Selvetti's 332.

All four records — for press, snatch, jerk and total lifts—were broken in the bantamweight, featherweight and middle heavyweight classes. Three were smashed in the middleweight division, two by the heavyweights and one by the lightweights.

The four records in the light heavyweight class held firm. These were established in 1955 by Kono, who goes up and down in the weight scale from year to year.

Vinci, a 26-year-old shipping clerk with muscles heaped on muscles, broke the world standard with a press of 243 pounds. He snatched 209.5 pounds, jerked 264.5 and had a total of 717 pounds. In the press he bettered Joe De Pietro's 1951 mark of 220½, in the snatch he eclipsed the 203.93 record set in 1955 by Ignacio Suarez of Cuba and his total surpassed his own standard of 661.39 set in 1955. Hector Curiel of the Netherlands Antilles jerked 275.5, topping the 1955 figure of 259.05 established by Angel Famoglietti of Panama.

Berger, 22, a 5-foot-2, Israel-born featherweight, smashed all four records with a press of 347, snatch of 242.5, jerk of 303 and total of 782.5. His lifts eclipsed three records set by champion Carlos Chavez of Panama in 1955 (press 231.49, snatch 225.98 and total 773.03), and the jerk record of 286½ established by Rodney Wilkes of Trinidad in 1951.

Torres and Goldberg each pressed 237 pounds to surpass American Joe Pitman's mark of 231.49 made in 1955. Torres' winning figures were 237, 220.5, 309, 766.5. He outscored Goldberg (237, 231.5, 292, 760.5) by 17 pounds in the jerk to capture the gold medal.

Kono, the 29-year-old, two-time Olympic champion, eclipsed Pete Georgiy's 1955 records in the department but the snatch. Kono pressed 281 pounds (record 264.56), snatched 264.5 (failing to beat George's 281.09), and jerked 352.75 (record 347.23) for a total of 898.25, compared to the old record of 892.86.

George, a 24-year-old Olympian from Akron, Ohio, didn't come close to any of Kono's light heavyweight records but he won handily over Venezuela's Enrique Guilttens with a total of 887 pounds on marks of 286.5, 270 and 330.5.

Emrich, a 28-year-old railroad clerk from Chicago, shattered all four records in the middle heavyweight group. He pressed 297.75 pounds, snatched 281, jerked 374.75 and totalled 953.5. These figures broke American Dave Shepard's 1955 standards of 281.09 for the press, 264.56 for the snatch, Brazilian Bruno Barabani's 347.23 for the jerk, and Shepard's total of 876.33.

Ashman, a 26-year-old, 267-pounder from Santa Monica, Calif., broke Ivan Davis' 1955 record of 396 for the jerk with a whopping 430 to come from behind and tie Argentine Humberto Selvetti with a total of 1,047. Ashman was declared the winner because he was lighter than the 332-pound Selvetti. Selvetti, who also was runner-up to American Norbert Schemansky in 1955, had the consolation of breaking his own record of 352.74 for the press with a mark of 374.5.

The US forces entered the Pan American tournament in excellent condition. They had competed for team berths in the National AAU Weightlifting Championships at York, Pa., July 31-Aug. 1. They remained at York for an Olympic clinic, Aug. 2-18, and then moved on to Chicago.

Thus they had continuity in training. Because of the heat, head coach Joseph Raymond of Cleveland and manager F. O. Ferguson of Columbus, Ohio, had a lifting platform and a lifting set placed outdoors right next to the team's living quarters. It was a perfect set-up and saved travelling time. Other teams were permitted to use the facilities, too, making for good neighbor relations.

Unprecedented Grand Slam of All Eight Wrestling Championships Made by U. S. A.

IT SEEMS doubtful if any other Pan American or Olympic wrestling team ever will duplicate the overwhelming and unprecedented grand slam of the American wrestling squad at Chicago in 1959.

For the first time in Pan American history one nation won all eight of the championships. And, even more impressive, the US completed its sweep without losing a match. The record for the eight classes was 29 victories and one draw. Fifteen of the triumphs were made by pins.

The eight victories equalled the US total for both 1951 and 1955. In the 1951 Games, the Americans and Argentina each won four titles. In 1955, the US won four, Argentina three and Venezuela one.

The US representatives, picked on the basis of tryouts at Michigan State University, July 30-Aug. 1, and subsequent training sessions, were:

Richard Wilson, Toledo University, flyweight (114.5 pounds); David Auble, New York A.C., bantamweight (125.5 pounds); Louis Giani, New York A.C., featherweight (136.5 pounds); James Burke, Colorado U., lightweight (147.5 pounds); Douglas Blubaugh, U. S. Army and Oklahoma State, welterweight (160.5 pounds); James Ferguson, Michigan State and Lansing Recreation, middleweight (174.5 pounds); Frank Rosenmayr, San Francisco Olympic Club, light heavyweight (191 pounds); Dale Lewis, Oklahoma University, heavyweight.

Lewis, a 25-year-old, 6-foot-1, 190-pounder from Milwaukee, swept to the title in just 13:52 minutes on three straight pins. He pinned Jose Gamas of Mexico in 3:00; Rudolfo Padron of Venezuela in 2:22 and Keith Maltman of Canada in 8:30. Maltman was second and Padron third.

Here's how the others won:

FLYWEIGHT—Wilson, 25, pinned Eduador Coral, Ecuador, in 1:52; pinned Harold Evans, Canada, in 1:45; and decisioned Jorge Rosado, Mexico, and Manuel Varela, Argentina. Rosado was second and Varela third.

BANTAMWEIGHT—Auble, 21, from Ithaca, N. Y., won decisions from Eduardo Campbell, Panama; Hector Valencia, Mexico, and Hector Maldonado, Argentina and pinned Hector Iriarte, Guatemala, in 2:57. Campbell was second and Iriarte third.

FEATHERWEIGHT—Giana, 24, from Huntington, N. Y., pinned Miguel Rodrigues, Panama, in 7:32 then decisioned Roberto Vellejo, Mexico, and Ralph Casperson, Canada. Vallejo was second and Casperson third.

opportunities to make large amounts of money from their tryouts but with few exceptions they do raise substantial amounts for their teams. The winter sport groups did a fine job with skiing leading the group. Sepp Rusch of Stowe, Vermont was chairman of the drive for the National Ski Association and raised the grand total of $70,224.52. Ice hockey was next with $42,986. Robert B. Ridder of Minneapolis was fund raising chairman of that Committee. The Figure Skating Fund Committee headed by Harry Radix of Chicago accounted for $17,641.87 and speed skating under Lemar E. Olsen of St. Louis raised $16,941.85.

The Men's Gymnastic Committee of which George Gulack of New York was Chairman raised $11,795.49 and the Women's Committee with Pat Yeager, Naples, Fla., as Chairman accounted for $8,072.

The Wrestling Committee, of which Clay Roberts of Tulsa, Okla. was fund raising Chairman, raised a total of $15,189.30. The remainder of the committees deserve special mention also but space does not permit listing all of them.

Among the city committees the leader was New York assisted by nearby communities. Col. Harry Henschel was Chairman of this Committee and Mayor Robert Wagner, who took an intense interest in the campaign, was Honorary Chairman. A large number of New York business leaders served on the Committee which accounted for a total of $206,070.72. A group in Westchester County requested permission to raise funds and organized a Committee, with Stephen Acunto of Mount Vernon, New York, chairman, and Mrs. William Murtaugh of Ardsley, New York, treasurer. They raised $15,288 which was included in the New York City total.

The Philadelphia Committee, under the leadership of Arthur Kaufmann, had a variety of promotions in the interest of the fund and accounted for about $15,000. Mr. Edgar L. Hoag, Jr. conducted a nationwide campaign for the rowing fund from Philadelphia, the results of which are not included in the Philadelphia total.

In Philadelphia the Children's Olympic Fund again as in 1956 carried the story and the spirit of the Olympic Games to the school children in the Delaware Valley.

With the support of Dr. Allen Wetter, Superintendent of Public Schools of Philadelphia, Dr. Anthanly Catribone, Superintendent of Schools of Camden and Msgr. Edward M. Reilly, J.C.D., Superintendent of the Parochial Schools and other school officials, the collections for support of the Olympic Team took place in the public, parochial and private schools in the Philadelphia and Camden area.

The schools cooperated with special classroom discussions, school assemblies and athletic exhibitions and this effort was climaxed by a parade and an Olympic Torch ceremony at Independence Hall and an Olympic Day in the recreation centers and city playgrounds.

The idea of the Children's Olympic Fund was originated by Margaret Duff Colette, former Olympic gymnast, who is the co-chairman with Frank Strawbridge, Jr., Malcolm Meyer, President of Certain-Teed Products Corporation, Ardmore, Pa., has been most helpful with this program and has volunteered to help promote it on a national basis for future campaigns.

The campaign which netted over $6,000 asked only a nickel from each school child and has as its objectives in addition to the support of the Olympic Team the desire to acquaint all children with the spirit of the Olympics and to have the school children feel they play a part in this great endeavor. In this way children will learn the principles of fair play, good sportsmanship, physical fitness, and get started in the mata of the Children's Olympic Fund "The important thing in the Olympic Games is not winning but taking part."

It is the intention of the Children's Olympic Fund to undertake this program on a national basis to help build stronger and healthier boys and girls into better citizens.

Pittsburgh had a fine Committee whose chairman was Max Rogal and the treasurer was Carl Olson. They accounted for $12,000 in a city which has had little activity in previous campaigns.

Other areas which deserve special mention are Indiana with approximately $9,000, where the leaders were W. R. Krafft and Frank E. Mc-Kinney of Indianapolis, New Jersey led by Irwin Weiss raised $13,407 and collaborated on additional amounts with other organizations. Norwalk, Conn. led by Betty Philcox, deserves special mention for its good work. An entire week of activities was staged and received a great deal of newspaper support.

An outstanding fund raising plan was organized in Southern California under the leadership of Daken K. Broadhead of Hollywood, Roy J. Cochran, Lawrence Houston, William Nicholas and W. R. Schroeder, all of Los Angeles. A service clubs council was formed late in the summer of 1957 in Los Angeles to spearhead the Service Clubs of Southern California and if possible throughout the nation to raise funds for the Pan American and Olympic teams. They adopted the name "Meadow Loercks" using the first letters of Lions, Optimists, Exchange, Rotary, Civitan, Kiwanis and Sertoma Clubs. This group soon became the focal point of the Olympic Fund drive in that area and accounted for about $65,000. One of their projects was having the Texaco dealers in Southern California contribute one cent per gallon on each gallon of gasoline purchased during a two-day period. The idea of the Service Clubs combined Olympic Drive is something that could be duplicated all over the United States in future campaigns. The USOC is indebted to William R. "Bill" Schroeder for his fine work in the Southern California area.

Johnson & Johnson of New Brunswick, N. J., voluntarily mailed 4,000 Olympic collection containers to drugstores throughout the United States. The container was a part of a counter display of a few Johnson & Johnson products. The containers were of such design that they could be mailed direct to the U. S. Olympic office and the plan had the approval of postal authorities. The returns have been slow in coming in but the total should be substantial.

General Mills of Minneapolis in cooperation with its Wheaties Sports Federation agreed to market a "Future Champion of America" T-shirt with all the profit going to the Olympic Fund. A notice of this offer was placed in 65,000,000 boxes of their products. At the last report in excess of 50,000 "T" shirts had been ordered and the program was just getting started.

The Olympic Committee prides itself on conducting its financial campaign with a minimum of expense. To do this as much co-operation as possible must be obtained from media which can focus public attention on the fund drive. The USOC was very fortunate during the recent campaign in having a plan which deserves a detailed explanation.

During our 1952 campaign the Ruthrauff & Ryan Advertising Agency conceived the idea of sending specially prepared postcards from Helsinki to contributors of $1.00 in order to arouse a more general interest in the Olympic Fund drive. The idea was so successful that this firm, now Erwin, Wasey, Ruthrauff & Ryan, was requested to revive this program for the 1960 campaign.

Functionally this plan offered a means of subsidizing a nationwide Olympic Fund advertising campaign in magazines, newspapers, and over radio and television stations. It was felt that the impact of public announcements would benefit other channels of the Olympic Committee efforts. The program was to be self-sustaining; defray the costs of a broad national campaign and contribute a balance to the fund.

A vast number of suppliers and communications media contributed their facilities and space and time in support of the Olympic movement. The agency developed a total of 15 magazine and newspaper advertisements, a wide assortment of spot announcements and a radio transcription and a one minute television film with Jack Brickhouse as the narrator. Preparation costs of the material donated by Chicago companies represented a total contribution of approximately $30,000. The following companies participated, to whom we extend our thanks and appreciation:

J. M. Bundsche, Inc.
Doolittle & Co., Inc.
Gaw-O'Hara Envelope Co.
Hayes-Lochner, Inc.
Kieffer-Nolde Engraving Co.
Knox Printing Co.
National Electrotype Co.
Partridge & Anderson Co.
Promotional Arts, Inc.
Rapid Copy Service, Inc.
Rogers Engraving Co.
Sarno, Inc.
Schreiner-Bennett, Inc.
Stephens-Biondi-DiCicco, Inc.
Universal Recording Corp.
Westlake Press, Inc.

In addition to public messages, the agency developed special mailing kits for newspapers, radio stations and television stations. Approximately 3,500 kits were mailed during the first week of June, 1959 to the publishers and owners of the communication media.

To coincide with the mailings, the Agency prevailed upon the communications trade press to help support the venture.

The publishers of ADVERTISING AGE, EDITOR & PUBLISHER, PRINTERS' INK and BROADCASTING each contributed a full page advertisement urging the owners of communications to support the U. S. Olympic Fund.

The response was very enthusiastic. A total combination of $11 media answered the appeal and pledged support via their facilities. The breakdown follows:

Magazines	48	Cir.	30,940,681
Newspapers	166	Cir.	5,224,333
Radio stations	206	Cir.	96,660,583
Television stations	91	Cir.	142,972,057
Total	511		275,798,654

It is estimated that the total monetary value of print and electronic media support exceeded $300,000.

On file with the U. S. Olympic Committee is an 83-page report of the various media, their circulation, amount of space contributed, the value of the space and a list of all radio and television stations by states showing the number of people reached weekly. The USOC regrets that space will not permit including the entire report here but extends its sincere thanks and appreciation for their fine support. Unquestionably this vast coverage played a large part in the success of the campaign and at a very low cost.

The actual number of post cards mailed from Rome was only about 37,000 which provided a return of $40,000 but the overall benefits derived from the publicity were tremendous.

The foregoing is a brief account of the fund raising activities. The chief regret is that it is not possible here to give each college, each AAU association, each sports governing body, each member of the armed forces, each city and all the rest special mention because they all did a wonderful job. Everyone serves without compensation and no one receives a commission on the funds raised. Expenses are kept to a minimum so all in all we have a right to be proud of the results accomplished.

At one time Olympic competitions were held in literature, art, music, painting and sculpture but these presented so many problems that the competition was discontinued. Now they are held on an exhibition basis only. Photography has been added and was part of the program at Rome. The U. S. Olympic Committee sent 10 black and white and 9 color photographs of sports events for the exhibit through the cooperation of the Society of Magazine Photographers and Sports Illustrated Magazine. The works shown compared favorably with the best of them.

No report on the activities of the last four years would be complete without a word about Olympic House. Golf House, the home of the U. S. Golf Association, provided the inspiration for the U. S. Olympic Association to acquire a similar permanent home. After searching for many months and looking at more than 30 properties the USOA purchased the six-story (25-foot frontage) building at 57 Park Avenue originally constructed for J. Pierpont Morgan. The deal was closed on June 15, 1959 and occupancy was taken on May 20, 1960. Alterations were under the direction of a special building committee of which Clifford "Tip" Goes was chairman.

The latch string always is out for friends of the Olympic movement. Eventually there will be an Olympic Museum and trophy room, a library of Olympic books and information. Anyone wishing to perpetuate Olympic items are invited to do so. The entire cost of the building including alterations was paid for out of the profits on investments.

PAN AMERICAN REVIEW

TWO — South American nations were handicapped by competing in what is their "off" season, a big factor in minimizing their preparation for the Games. Training and conditioning periods were quite limited, particularly in the outdoor sports, because of the winter temperatures prevailing on their continent.

THREE—For the first time, the United States Pan American team was selected in a manner similar to that used to determine Olympic entries. Games committees were given a chance to review their respective Pan American preparations and use them as a basis when finalizing their planning for Rome. In effect, the Pan American Games served as a testing ground for U. S. Olympic hopefuls.

FOUR—There was a great "accent on youth" in the U. S. Pan American Team. For instance, half of the 28-member men's swimming team were teenagers, while 16 of the 20 girl swimmers still were in their teens. A crew of high school graduates (June 1959) won a gold medal in rowing and, in track and field, a number of youthful newcomers showed great promise. Fencing and gymnastics were other sports where youth was served.

WEIGHTLIFTING

edged the American for the featherweight (132) title, 821 to 798 ½. The Russian surpassed the four Olympic marks with 264 ½-242 ½-314—821 and his total tied Berger's world record. Berger also beat the Olympic marks.

Russia's Viktor Bushuev won the lightweight (148) title with 275 ½-270-330 ½—876, eclipsing the Olympic press, snatch and total lift records, and breaking the world record. He also tied the world press record. Singapore's Tan Howe Liang, who was second, beat the Olympic jerk mark with 341 ½. The US had no entry in this class.

Poland's Ireneusz Paliński received another big assist in the light heavyweight class when Russia's favored Rudolph Plykutelder had to withdraw because of illness. The Pole won on his Olympic and world record jerk of 396 ¾ for a total of 975 ½ to George's 947 ¾.

Russia sent both Olympic champion Arkakiy Vorobiev and national champion Trofim Lomakin into the middle heavyweight contest and between the two of them they erased every Olympic mark but the jerk and Vorobiev tied that (391 ¼) to win with a world record total of 1,041 ¼. Lomakin's press of 347 was a world record. John Pulskamp, a 23-year-old Ohio State student who was handicapped by a bad back, was fourth.

The Russians won every division in which they had a man entered.

and the U. of Oklahoma, also went down in two straight matches for 11th place. He was decisioned by Istvan Kozma of Hungary and thrown by Adelmo Bulgarello of Italy.

This was the USA's third experience in Olympic Greco-Roman wrestling which permits holds only above the waist.

The elimination rules are the same in both types of competition. Six "bad" points eliminates a competitor. Four "bad" points are assessed for a loss by a fall, three for a decision defeat, two for a draw and one for a decision victory. A victory by a fall counts no points.

The teams were picked on the basis of qualifying tryouts, the final tryouts at Iowa State University, Ames, Iowa, April 28, 29, 30 for Free Style, and May 2-3 for Greco-Roman, with showings made at the training camp at the University of Oklahoma, Norman, Okla.

By majority vote of the U. S. Olympic Wrestling Committee, three outstanding wrestlers, prevented by medical reasons from participating in the tryouts, were added to the squad.

They were McCann and Simons, and lightweight James Burke, who did not earn a berth.

The three were listed as No. 4 in their respective weight classes. The training camp method of elimination bouts to determine the standard-bearers at Rome was the No. 4 man had to defeat No. 3 and No. 2 before challenging the No. 1 winner of the tryouts at Ames. The challenger had to defeat the No. 1 man twice in order to qualify for the trip to Rome. The No. 1 man had only to defeat the challenger once.

The wrestling committee was headed by Raymond Swartz of the U. S. Naval Academy. Port Robertson of the U. of Oklahoma was the free style coach and Briggs Hunt of UCLA was the Greco-Roman coach. John C. Mandel of New York was the team manager.

ings (eliminate the worst): 2-4-1-3-1-7-1 in the field of 19. Denmark's Mark II was second with 5,678 and Switzerland's Ballerina IV third with 5,122. The Webb II was designed by Ohlson.

In the Star class, the Russian Tornado had 7,619 points on 1-2-1-1-3-5-5; the Portuguese Ma'Lindo 6,665 on 3-3-8-2-5-1-3, and the American Shrew II 6,269 on 9-7-4-3-2-4-1.

Parks, 38, an engineer from Chicago, had Robert Halpern, 32, a former Notre Dame football player from Chicago as his crewman.

The multiple responsibilities of the US team were handled expertly, as usual, by Julian K. Roosevelt, a former Olympic champion and a member of the yachting team since 1948. The Oyster Bay, N. Y. veteran was assisted by Ferdinand Capellie, Jr., of Haverford, Pa., and Charles Kober, of Long Beach, Calif. All three were alternates on the squad.

The Olympic Trials to determine the 11 regular and three alternate berths drew a record field of 454 entries involving 685 individuals. In 1956 there were 199 entries involving 341 individuals. For the first time, the yachting team was entirely financed for its trip and stay in Naples.

In his report on the financing, James M. Trenary of New York, Chairman of the U. S. Olympic Yachting Committee said:

"This was accomplished through a newly formed United States International Sailing Association which carried on a campaign to raise money to further international yachting and monies which were paid to the United States Olympic Committee. We are grateful to Commodore Henry S. Morgan for his leadership in making this possible and to generous yachtsmen throughout the country who answered the contribution call."

Final trials were held in the Finn and 5.5 classes by the Boston, Corinthian and Eastern Yacht Clubs of Marblehead, Mass.; in the Dragons by the Southern Yacht Club of New Orleans; in the Flying Dutchman by the Clearwater Yacht Club of Clearwater, Fla., and in the Stars by the Atlantic Highlands (N. J.) Yacht Club.

LIGHTWEIGHT—Burke, 23, from Boulder, Colo., pinned Jose Yanez, Cuba, in 5:42, and Miguel Silvera, Venezuela, in 7:39, and drew with Maria Tovar, Mexico. Tovar was second and Yanez third.

WELTERWEIGHT — Blubaugh, 24, from Ft. Sam Houston, Texas, pinned Julian Cabos, Argentina, in 8:22, decisioned Bruno Ochman, Canada, and pinned Paride Pancirolli, Venezuela, in 2:09. Doug won his final match by default because of a knee injury suffered by Antonio Rosado in a previous match. Ochman finished second and Rosado third.

YACHTING became a full scale part of the Pan American Games in 1959 with 42 entries from 15 nations in the seven classes. Competition was held in the five Olympic classes—5.5 Meters, Finn Monotype, Flying Dutchman, Dragon and Star—plus the popular Lightnings and Snipers.

The United States, the only nation to enter all seven classes, won championships in the 5.5 Meters (George O'Day) and Flying Dutchman (Harry Sindle), took second in the Dragon, and third in each of the other four events.

Brazil and the Bahamas made excellent showings, each winning two titles. The Brazilians, entered in only three classes, captured titles in the Lightning and Sniper classes. The Bahamas, entered in four classes, won the Finn Monotype and Star titles. The Dragon class championship was won by Argentina.

Going into the last race in the seven-race series in all classes, the US had two championships for certain, an even chance for two more and a good opportunity to take a fifth. But, as manager Paul Smart pointed out, "the ball did not bounce right in any of them and we ended with only the two firsts already tucked away, one second and four thirds. Competition by and large was of exceptionally high and close character," he added.

Boats for the visitors were loaned by US owners and the invaders did exceptionally well in the borrowed craft.

The entry list included the following:

United States (7), Argentina (5), Canada (5), Bahamas (4), Brazil (3), West Indies Federation (3), Ecuador (3), Bermuda (2), Cuba (2), Peru (2), Uruguay (2), British Guiana (1), Guatemala (1), Chile (1), and Mexico (1).

More than 2,000 sailors participated in the trials to determine the makeup of the first US yachting team in Pan American competition. The Dragon, Lightning, Flying Dutchman and Sniper representatives were chosen on the basis of district eliminations and national championships. The North American championship regatta determined the Star class and special area and final trials were used for the Finn Monotypes. The 5.5 Meter officials voted to select George O'Day, a 1956 Olympic entry, because of his fine record.

The team included the following: 5.5 METER—skipper George O'Day, Dover, Mass.; crew, Victor Sheronas, Villanova, Pa., and Frank Scully; FINN MONOTYPE—skipper, William MacLean; FLYING DUTCHMAN—skipper, Harry Sindle, crew, Robert Wood; LIGHTNING—skipper, Herman Nichols, crew, David Nickels; DRAGON—skipper, Walter Swindeman, crew, Richard Kraus, and James Stevens; STAR—skipper, Gary Comer, crew, William Hackel; SNIPE—skipper, Richard Tillman, crew, John Tillman.

In two classes, the competition was so close that an involved Olympic scoring system was used to break ties for first. In the Dragon class, American Walter Swindeman and Argentina's Jorge Salas each finished with 4,771 points and three victories apiece but the Argentine was declared the winner.

Durwood Knowles of the Bahamas and Alvaro de Cardenas of Cuba each accumulated 4,769 points and three victories in the Star class. Knowles was declared the winner. Gary Comer of the US would have been the winner if he had captured the last race instead of losing it by six inches. He finished third with 4,519 points.

Here's how the other championships were determined:

5.5 METER—O'Day won easily, taking five of the races and second in the two others for 3,167 points. Canada's Melville Gould took second in the three-boat race with two firsts and five seconds for 2,264 points. Ecuador's Emilio Estrada had 606 points, but, being the only other entry, received a bronze medal.

FINN MONOTYPE—Kenneth Albury of the Bahamas won only one race but finished second five times and fourth once for a top total of 2,713 points. Argentina's Esteban Berisso had three firsts and 2,662 points. Bill MacLean of the US had two first but only 2,537 points for third. Canada's David Johnson was fourth with 1,708.

*USA disqualified for fouling Canada and had 125 points deducted from accumulative score while Canada was given extra 125 points.

SNIPE CLASS — Brazil's Antonio Moraes was an easy winner, capturing six of the seven races and finishing seventh in the 7th race to get 3,184 points. Cuba's Saul Dias had good placings in six races to get 3,996 points and second place. Bill Tillman of the US won the last race to grab third with 3,184 points.

Schmidt won this six-nation series with 3,198 points and one victory. Ecuador's Enrique Plaza was second with 3,116 points and Herman Nickels of the US third with 2,894. Argentina was fourth, Peru fifth and Uruguay sixth. A disqualification in the first race and a sixth-place finish in the sixth race ruined Nickels' chances.

Three individuals associated with the Navy, and not included in the above totals, also accompanied the US Olympic Team to Rome in the following capacities:

Mr. Louis G. Lindsey, US Naval Academy—coach of the US Olympic eight-oared shell; Mr. Bill Schenck, US Naval Academy—boatman/rigger of US Olympic eight-oared shell; Mr. Andre Deladrier, US Naval Academy—coach of US Olympic fencing team.

REPORT OF U. S .MARINE CORPS
Maj. James K. McCreight

THE basic prerequisites necessary to become an Olympic champion closely parallel those required of a successful military leader. The same abilities are encouraged and developed, i.e., leadership, loyalty, courage, physical fitness, teamwork, the ability to think clearly and quickly come to a decision and last, but far from least, discipline.

Fully recognizing that the Olympic Games represent the epitome of athletic competition and realizing that organizing and supporting the United States Olympic Games Teams is an "all hands" job, the Marine Corps has put forth every reasonable effort to fulfill its share of responsibility in supporting the United States Olympic effort.

Active athletic programs offering an unlimited variety of events are conducted at each separate command throughout the Marine Corps. Competition progresses from the intramural level to organized league play with other Armed Services teams and culminates in the world wide Marine Corps athletic championship program. This program, which is continuously available to every Marine, regardless of where he may be stationed, readily lended itself to an extensive Olympic development program and provided every Marine with the opportunity to train for possible Olympic competition.

Extensive as this program might seem, separate specialized training programs were developed to provide training for those athletes participating in sports not widely popular in the United States. Under the supervision and leadership of Colonel L. N. Holdzkom, Head, Special Services Branch, Headquarters, U. S. Marine Corps, responsibility for planning, developing and coordinating the vast program and for the close liaison with the various Olympic committees and the Marine Corps was assigned to Maj. J. K. McCreight, who also served in the capacity of official Marine Corps representative to both the 1959 Pan American and the 1960 Olympic Summer Games.

Through participation in the All-Marine Corps athletic championship program and the specialized training program, more than 80 outstanding Marine athletes participated in Pan American Game Trials competition. Of this number, five Marines were ultimately selected as members of the US team to compete in the 1959 Pan American Games in Chicago and four Marines were selected to serve in the capacity of alternate members. Comprising prestige and honor to the United States were Private First Class Amos Johnson, a gold medal winner in boxing, First Lieutenant Robert Gardner, a silver medal winner in track and field, and First Lieutenant Albert Cantello, a bronze medal winner in track and field. Assisting on the boxing training staff was Marine Master Sergeant Frederick Lenn.

In preparation for the 1960 Winter Olympic Games five Marines supplied for special training and were afforded an opportunity to compete for selection to the ice hockey team. However, none had the experience and ability to qualify for a place on the squad.

However, invaluable Marine support was rendered during the 1960 Olympic Winter Games at Squaw Valley when troops specially trained for mountain warfare assisted in the preparation of facilities.

The number of participants in the 1960 All-Marine Corps athletic championship program notably increased and a high caliber of performance became evident from the start. As the Summer Games neared, some 90 athletes submitted applications requesting special training in sports not normally emphasized in the Corps. Fifty individuals were provided with special training and coaching and competed in Olympic Trials events.

Of this number, 12 Marines were selected as members or alternate members of the US team; Marines representing the United States in Olympic competition at Rome were: Lance Corporal Percy J. Price, in boxing; First Lieutenant Albert Cantello and Alexander Breckenridge and Second Lieutenant Peter Close, in track and field; Second Lieutenant Warren Sweetser, in rowing; Sergeant Howard George; in wrestling, and Captain William McMillon, Jr., and Gunnery Sergeant James Hill, in pistol and rifle shooting. Bringing the first gold medal for the United States in rapid fire pistol event was Captain William McMillan, Jr. A silver medal was also won by Gunnery Sergeant James Hill in the small bore rifle event. At the colorful closing ceremonies for the 1960 Olympic Summer Games Captain McMillan was given the honor as flag-bearer for the United States.

In addition to the efforts of Marine Corps competitors, invaluable administrative and logistic support included utilization of the facilities and services at Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Virginia, site of the Armed Forces Olympic Track and Field Trials, and Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune, North Carolina, and Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, California for their boxing training facilities.

POWERFUL "CATS" like these were provided by the Army to patrol the Winter Games areas at Squaw Valley and to transport medical staff members.

All-Time U. S. Olympic Team Personnel

THE FOLLOWING PAGES contain the names of all athletes who were selected to represent the United States in modern Olympic competition, starting with the 1896 team and carrying through the 1960 unit. Wherever possible, the names of coaches, managers, trainers, and the administrative personnel also are included. Pan American team personnel for the 1951, 1955, and 1959 Games also is included.

The athletes and others are listed alphabetically under their respective sports classifications and, in most cases, the record of his performance in actual Olympic competition is given. Official U. S. Olympic Committee reports, official National Olympic reports from nations who were hosts to the Games, and all available information files, were used as reference.

Because reports during the early years are not complete in detail, there are instances where first names or evidence of actual participation are missing. However, it is the earnest hope of the editors that these lists later can be improved both in detail and accuracy for perpetuation in the U. S. Olympic Association historical files. Your cooperation in forwarding corrections or additional information will be welcomed.

PERSONNEL OF THEORETICAL 1940 UNITED STATES OLYMPIC TEAM FOR GAMES OF XIIth OLYMPIAD

The Games of the XIIth Olympiad, scheduled for Helsinki, Finland, July 20 to August 4, 1940, and the VIth Winter Olympic Games, scheduled for Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, February 2 to 11, 1940, were not celebrated because of World War II. However, tryouts were held to determine the membership of the theoretical 1940 American Olympic Team in seven sports—Canoeing, Equestrian, Fencing, Marathon, Rowing, Women's Swimming, and Weightlifting—and all athletes named received certificates of their selection. Eight tryouts also were held in Canoeing, and place-winners hailed to equal minimum standards established for Olympic competition. In addition, five winter sports teams were selected before the Games officially were called off.

AR—Also ran	U. S. A., 1951)
TNA—Time not available	DNS—Did not start, scratched

#While both Hall and Connolly tied for best mark and share Pan American awards, first and second place rankings were decided by the rules which call for comparison of second best performances. In this instance Hall's second best throw was 192' 4½" while Connolly's was 191' 5".

Kirby Plaza . . . Mount Kisco's New Doorway

THE railway station at Mount Kisco, N. Y., is no longer merely a place where a man comes to take a train for somewhere else. It is no longer merely a place for where commuters, returning from the city, hasten from the train to their cars.

For the station area today is a green and growing place, alive with beauty and meaning, and it is known as Kirby Plaza . . . the doorway to Mount Kisco.

The trees that were planted there in 1958 keep green the memory of Gustavus Town Kirby, a man internationally known and respected as a leader, notably in the world of sports. For 75 of his 82 years, Gustavus Kirby made the community of Mount Kisco his home although he belonged to the world. But despite the demands made upon him by national and international organizations, he always was ready to help in community affairs, to correct a wrong, or find the solution to a civic problem.

The Kirby Plaza was made possible by a group of Mount Kisco citizens and was dedicated June 15, 1958, nearly two years after Kirby's death.

To Olympians everywhere, Gustavus Town Kirby was a familiar name. During his lifetime, he served as president of the Amateur Athletic Union, the U. S. Olympic Committee, the ICAAAA, and many other organizations. From 1900 until his death he attended all Olympic and Pan American Games held during that period, as a representative of the United States. He saw the 1896 Games as a spectator.
